GYMNASIUM PAGEANT THE BEST EVER SEEN
"The best amateur performance I have ever seen, with no tiresome waits," was the way Manager Goldning of the Imperial Theatre, St. John, N.B., characterized the big gymnasium pageant of the Y.W.C.A., put on by Miss C. Littlefield, while in that city, and which will be repeated by some four hundred of the members of the local Y.W.C.A. from tiny tots to senior members, at the Grand Opera House here on April 26th and 27th.
Trained to arrive and depart on a fixed schedule, the numbers to be given in this big pageant include fancy gymnastics, club, dumb-bell, wand and reed work, and national, interpretive and classical dancing. A dazzling array of over 300 colorful costumes is being prepared for the stagin gof this event, which promises to be bright, snappy and vigorous, and a revelation to those present of the city who are not acquainted with the work carried on at the local Y.W.C.A.

DANCED FIFTY HOURS USED UP 7 PARTNERS
NEW YORK, April 10.—(Canadian Press).—With a Texas whoop, Miss Alma Cummings shook her worn slippers from her feet last night and did a barefooted pircuatte on the floor of an uptown jazz castle, and thus was created normally a new world's record for dance-as-dance-can Terpsichore.
Miss Cummings is a San Antonio girl who resented the breaking of her world's record for continuous dancing last week by a pair who went six more hours than her 27 by starting off on a new attempt at 7.10 last Saturday evening. At 9.10 last night she finished her stepping, having gone 50 continuous hours.
She said she was hungry but not tired. She used up the energy of two orchestras and seven men dancing partners, and two phonographs, and took an occasional allotment of food, grapefruit, tomato soup and peanuts.

CONCLUDING CASE IN COUNTY COURT

Brother Withdrew Suit on Family's Request

The last case on the list in the County Court was John L. Crowe vs. David Crowe and when the case was called Mr. Joseph Wearing created a surprise when he announced that since coming into Court, his client had informed him that owing to the fact that his aged mother and other members of the family had urged him not to go on with the case against his eldest brother, he had decided that being the youngest member of the family he should defer to their wishes and would forego his rights by dropping the case. His Honour therefore made a formal order of dismissal. Mr. J. A. O'Brien represented David Crowe.

PROPOSES A TAXATION ON BRITISH BETTING
LONDON, April 10.—(Canadian Press)—Stanley Baldwin, chancellor of Exchequer, has proposed a taxation on betting as an integral means of raising revenue under the forthcoming budget according to the Post's political correspondent, his levy, possibility of which has long been discussed here, is subject to approval of the cabinet. It has become very apparent that such a proposal will meet with strong opposition but advocates of the measure contend that a large revenue could be raised at comparatively small cost.

KIWANIS CLUB

Alex. Kay, speaking in the interests of this new baseball organization which has been created for the benefit of the younger boys of the city, said that according to press reports he was scheduled to umpire baseball games in Belleville, Oshawa and many other places throughout the district. "Gentlemen I may be there," said Mr. Kay, "but my first duty will be to the boys. At every game in which these boys appear we want a member of the Kiwanis Club to be on the bench with the boys. Championships are merely an incident in the development of a baseball team."
Dr. A. W. McPherson gave an address on the subject of sport and its value to the nation. The position of sports overseas during the world war is one that took no second place. Canada is the greatest country in the world for sport. The Peterborough Amateur Athletic Association recognizes that fact. Our aim is not to win championships, but to build girls and boys and train them in the art of healthy outdoor sport. One remedy for the unrest of the present age is sport which will take up their time and return them dividends in the form of good health. Unless the citizens of Peterborough gets behind the P.A.A.A., it will go down, said the speaker. Some say they don't want the P.A.A.A. It is up to the Kiwanians and other organizations throughout the city to say whether they want the P.A.A.A. or not. The element of professionalism has entered into sport throughout the country. Some tell us we have got to do as others do and fight with the same weapons. This is wrong and false in principal. Boys who are looking for money out of sport often grow up to be loafers and seldom seek employment on their own merits. They are called upon to make false statements in signing certificates and in many other ways it is a bad influence. If you think our past record andaims are worthy of support we ask you to support us, said Dr. McPherson in conclusion.
In moving a vote of thanks to the speaker, Kiwanian J. Wearing paid a justly earned tribute to the ability of Mrs. Mabelle Howe Mable and Mr. Cameron McLean and also asserted that the Kiwanis Club were behind the P.A.A.A. in its efforts to provide clean sport of all kinds for the city. Kiwanian Frank Whitehouse seconded the resolution and declared that the P.A.A.A. must not go down. Only by the help of such an organization can clean, healthy sport be promoted.

Capture of Eamonn de Valera Has Not Been Confirmed

DE VALERA IS IN HANDS OF FREE STATERS

Phanton Rebel Chief of Irish Malcontents Reported Captured This Morning Near Clonmel

CONFIRMED BY FLASH

MONTREAL, April 11. (Flash by United Press.) — The capture of DeValera is confirmed.

DUBLIN, April 11. (United Press) —Eamonn de Valera, former president of the Irish Republic, is a prisoner of the Free State.

The "phantom" rebel, who eluded capture and kept up an incessant warfare against the Free State government since its establishment, was taken this morning near Clonmel.

National troops, who broke up an insurgent meeting yester ay at the southern village and captured Liam Lynch, who died later of wounds, pursued De Valera and Dan Breen, another irregular chief throughout the night; both were captured.

The Final Blow.

Dublin dispatches earlier reported that Free State troops were close on the trail of the former President of the Irish Republic, who was nearly a prisoner at Clonmel yesterday.

Countess Marcowitz, outside De Valera the most powerful rebel leader, was reported to be with the former President, in Dublin dispatches.

The capture of De Valera would be the final blow against the rebellion which has been steadily crumbling this spring until fewer than 2,500 insurgents remain under arms.

The Central News dispatch asserts than Dan Breen was with De Valera when Free State troops made them prisoners near Clonmel this morning.

Was a Figurehead.

DUBLIN, April 11.— (Canadian Press.) — "The capture of Liam Lynch by soldiers of the Free State," says the Irish Times to-day, "inflicts a heavy blow on the forces in arms against it. During the recent months he has been the real leader of the Republican extremists. De Valera was the figurehead, but Lynch was the brains that kept the South Ireland in its present sorry condition of disorder and alarm.

"A strong fighter with a good grasp of guerilla tactics, he more than any other man kindled the temper of revolt and prolonged the resistance to the peoples' will." The Times adds that the rank and file of the rebels are weary of their "barren conflict," and that it can only have one end.

REPORT CONTRADICTED

DUBLIN, April 11. Canadian Press —Te Free State Army headquarters this afternoon officially contradicted the report that Eamon De Valera had been captured.

LONDON, April 11. Canadian Press. — A Belfast despatch to the Evening News says that the Free State troops are so hot on the trail of DeValera, the Countess Markievich, Dan Breen and other rebel leaders that their capture is hourly expected. They are being pursued in Knockmealdown mountains in County Tipperary.

LOOKS LIKE TRUTH.

LONDON, April 11. (4 p.m.) (By United Press.) — The Exchange Telegraph's Dublin Correspondent says the official headquarters there state the report of Eamonn De Valera's capture is false.

The Dublin despatch however announcing De Valera's capture came through London at 3.40 p.m., a few minutes before the above cable.

SIX EXECUTED.

DUBLIN, April 11. Canadian Press —Six men were executed this morning at Tuam, County Galway, says a Press Association despatch from that town.

Requests King to Cancel Projected Visit to Vatican

LONDON, April 11.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—Ten thousand attended a meeting at the Albert Hall to-day to protest against the proposed visit of the King to the Pope.

A telegram was sent to the King expressing loyal greetings and humbly praying that he might forego his projected visit.

The telegram also stated that a visit to the Poep would be the cause of sorrow to millions of His Majesty's subjects.

The gathering also passed a resolution calling upon the Government to withdraw the Vatican envoy.

COMPLICATIONS ARE EXPECTED

..ritain Will Resent Patriarch Tikhon Being Placed by Soviets Before Firing Squad.

(By Rapps Turner, United Press Staff Correspondent).

LONDON, April 11.—Grave international complications impend if Communist Russia places Patriarch Tikhon, head of the Greek Orthodox Church in Russia, before a firing squad, as was done in the case of Vicar-General Constantine Budkevich, of the Roman Catholic Church, according to information given out by the British Foreign Office.

Great Britain, it was made clear, regards the charges against Patriarch Tikhon as "trumped up and flimsy," and in case he is convicted, may recall the British representative to Moscow and expel the Russian trade delegation at London, which is headed by M. Rothstein.

Tikhon, as far as can be learned from the meagre reports seeping out of Russia, is charged with opposing the decree of the Government providing for the confiscation of church properties, and may, if convicted, be sentenced to death.

The Russian censorship, apparently, was lifted long enough on Tuesday for the information to trickle through that Tikhon's trial has been postponed from Wednesday until April 17.

The British Government is interested in the Tikhon trial to a greater extent than it was in the trial of Budkevich, because a portion of the evidence against the former, it is understood, is based on his communications with the Archbishop of Canterbury.

The Foreign Office received a full summary of the evidence against Budkevich, and officials generally agree that the evidence is "flimsy."

CANADA INDEPENDENT OF HER COAL SUPPLY

OTTAWA, April 11. — (Canadian Press).—Methods of making Canada more independent of United States anthracite were urged before the Commons Committee on Canada's Coal Supply this morning by F. L. Wanklyn, of Montreal, a member of the Federal Advisory Fuel Committee. Mr. Wanklyn recommended encouraging the consumers to use screened Canadian bituminous coal, the development of the peat areas, installation of central heating plants where cheaper grades of coal could be used advantageously, the use of metallurgical coke for house heating, encouraging the importation of the best grades of anthracite from Wales, a study of the economic possibility of bringing forth Western coal into the Eastern districts and instructing of consumers in the most economical methods of firing house furnaces and in the prevention of fires.

THE KINGSTON BOARD FAVOR LOCAL SCHEME

To Form an Association Similar to the Trent Waterway Development Association.

L. FRASER THERE

KINGSTON, April H.—(Canadian Press).—The Kingston Board of Trade enthusiastically passed a resolution to form "The Rideau Lakes Development Association" at a meeting held last night, which was attended by representatives from Frontenac County, Peterborough, Smith's Falls, Jones' Falls and Elgin. Elmer Davis, president of the Board of Trade, occupied the chair and introduced S. K. Carruthers, secretary of the Ottawa Board of Trade, and Leon Fraser, secretary of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce, and secretary of the Trent Waterways Development Association, who gave most interesting addresses on the subject of the tourist routes and publicity. The other speakers were: Judge Lavelle, Kingston; Mr. Brownlee, of the Ontario Hotels Committee; J. A. Kenny, Elgin; W. T. Shannon and J. E. Burns, Smith's Falls; J. M. Campbell, Kingston, and T. M. Asselstine, president of the Kingstone Automobile Club. Mr. Carruthers dealt with the possibilities of tourist traffic in Eastern Ontario, showing how the highways were connected up with those of the United States. The Board endorsed the proposal to form "The Rideau Lakes Development Association," and the matter of appointing representatives was referred to the Council for action. Mr. T. M. Asselstine told of the Ontario tour of the Michigan Pike Association. Fifty automobiles will cross into Ontario at Sault Ste Marie and come east to Ottawa. The party will return by way of Prescott and Kingston, re-entering Michigan at Detroit.

Eager to Join.

Mr. Brownlee, of the Ontario Hotels Committee, said he visited thirty-two municipalities in Frontenac and on the Rideau system and found all eager to join and do everything to promote the tourist traffic. He held a meeting at Perth recently and the representatives present endorsed the proposal. In his experience little good came to a locality by isolated effort. Last year Cobourg spent $400 in publicity, but the visitors never went outside of Cobourg. He said: "There is a great need for advertising the beauties of North Frontenac. There are more than five hundred lakes in Frontenac, and some parts of the county have never been surveyed. You can have return trips through Frontenac, both by water and auto. After viewing Ontario we were convinced that there was nothing to be found like Frontenac County anywhere. It is the intention of the Ontario Government to help with publicity any districts that organize.

Trent Waterway.

Mr. Fraser spoke on the Trent Waterways Development Association and showed what had been accomplished in attracting motor boat cruisers during the past three years. The Association provides information for tourists all along the route and they are met and given advice and assistance which is greatly appreciated. Store-keepers are notified to be on the look-out for visitors and asked to give good service and not overcharge them. Maps are provided freely through the Chamber of Commerce. The police give all tourists a card containing a welcome from the Mayor. The municipalities included in the Association are: Trenton, Campbellford, Keene, Lindsay, Fenelon Falls, Midland, Beaverton, Barrie, Orillia, Port Severn, Penetang and Peterborough. All have a representative in the directorate, and pay for the space they desire in the pamphlet and furnish the information. The subscription from Peterborough comes from the Chamber of Commerce and the City Council. Camping sites are available for the motor boat cruisers at all lock-house grounds, and here they obtain eggs, butter, hot and cold water. The Board of Trade also passed a resolution asking a deputation from the Board of Trade wait upon the City Council and request that a by-law be submitted to the ratepayers for their approval of a grant of $9,000 to the Kingston Fair.

Meeting To-Day.

The members of the newly formed Rideau Lakes Development Association got down to business this morning at a meeting of the Board of Trade rooms. J. M. Campbell, Elmer Davis, H. C. Nickle and T. A. Kidd, of Kingston, were appointed to the Board of Directors by the Council of the Board of Trade, and they had a conference with the representatives from Smith's Falls, Jones' Falls, Elgin, Frontenac County and Mr. Fraser of Peterborough; Mr. Carruthers, of Ottawa, and Mr. Brownlee, of the Ontario Hotels Committee. The matter of selection of districts to be illustrated on the road maps for guide books is under consideration.

Denies Suggestion of Discrimination Against Shippers

OTTAWA, April 11.—(Canadian Press.)—"I do not say that we are perfect, but I do say that it is unfair to suggest that we, deliberately and with malice aforethought, helped one shipper and discriminated against another."

This statement was made before the Lake Grain Rate Commission this morning by Isaac Pitblado, K.C., counsel for the Standard Shipping Company, in reply to charges of discrimination against that corporation.

FISH AND GAME BOOTH AT SHOW

The Executive of the Fish and Game Protective Association will have a specially attractive booth in the Motor Show this year. Preparations are well under way, and the result will be one of the big attractions of Motor Show week.

Action is being taken by the Association to protect the fish in local waters during spawning season. With this object the people resident along the waterways are being educated to the fact that the killing of fish during the spawning season destroys many thousands uselessly. A card has been sent out, to be posted in conspicuous places, bearing this warning:

> Fish spawn only once each year. One fish killed in spawning time means thousands lost. You cannot take fish in closed season and have your sport catching them in the open season.
> Scarcity of fish means fewer tourists consequently less money in circulation. Protect your own interests by helping us to protect the fish.
>
> Peterboro Hunting, Fish and Game Protective Association.

The local association appreciates very much the work done so afr by T. Tooms, M.L.A., in furthering the Association's plans for a fish hatchery at Fowler's Corners.

Mr. Tooms is a member of the Fish and Game Committee in Toronto, and is strongly advocating this project.

THE WEATHER.

While sleighing is completely done in this section, an occasional farmer from the north still makes his appearance on runners. In Peterboro we have had 101 days of fair to good sleighing this winter. The spring is late. I was told to-day that April 10th is an average date for the agriculturist to get on his land, and that in very favorable seasons he is at work the last week in March. Under the most favorable conditions it will likely be at least ten days yet before he can do anything.—W. P.

TAXI DRIVERS MUST HELP ENFORCE LAWS

FORT WILLIAM, April 11.—(Canadian Press.) — "Taxi drivers here must co-operate with the police in keeping down vice and abolishing the bootlegger, or lose his license, according to a letter sent by Alex. McNaughton, City Clerk, to cab men yesterday, following a recent meeting of Police Commission, which dealt with complaints of forty householders that vice reigned in the north end of the city.

DESIRES PEACE, BUT PREPARES FOR WAR

Soviet Russia Strengthening Her Army, Navy and Air Forces Ready for Armed Conflict.

(By John Graudens, United Press Staff Correspondent).

MOSCOW, April 11.—Russia, desiring peace as much as any nation, is strengthening her army, navy and air force against the eventuality of a new war, according to Leon Trotsky, War Minister.

Replying to a question in an Assembly meeting regarding the possibility of such new war, Trotsky said;

"We avoid war as much as possible."

"Proof of that fact is that we have called for a disarmament conference, and decreased the size of our army." However, the possibility of war was not excluded, and one of our four first tasks at present is to strengthen our army and navy and air forces."

AN ACTION FOR POSSESSION OF HOUSE IN CITY

PLAINTIFF IS AGED

Judgment in the action of Israel Payne against his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Hester Payne, for possession of the dwelling at 174 Aylmer street was reserved by Judge Huycke after hearing the case in the County Court. Mr. A. E. Dixon represented the plaintiff, with Mr. Joseph Wearing as counsel, and Mr. J. A. O'Brien appeared for the defendant.

By the death of his wife and daughter, Priscilla A. Payne claimed title to the property under his wife's will for the rest of his life. After his wife's death the defendant and her daughter, Gertrude Payne, came from California to Peterborough and lived for a time with the defendant, who alleged that he had to leave the premises and reside elsewhere because of disagreements. Mr. Payne said that since that time Mrs. Payne had continued to occupy the house and refused to surrender possession of it.

Mrs. Payne replied that she had given up a lucrative business as dressmaker and ladies' tailor at the request of the plaintiff and upon the representation that she and her daughter would be provided by him with a home and the necessities of life. She contended that Mr. Payne had left voluntarily, and under the influence of relatives. She said she had kept house for him, nursed him in his illness and until April 4th, 1921, had given the plaintiff the same care and attention as would have been extended by a daughter.

Plaintiff, who is 80 years old said he had owned a house on Albert street, and also a farm. He sold the farm and moved into the city and bought the house at No. 174 Aylmer street. He then had $3,500 left, and with it he bought ten acres of land with a house on it on Lock street and Braidwood avenue.

"We lived there for eight years and then moved back to Aylmer street. We repaired this house, had a kitchen built, the cellar cemented, a new furnace put in, hardwood floors down stairs and general redecorations. We had the outside brick painted and a new roof put on, costing about $1,500. I think this money for repairs belonged to my wife, and she wanted the houses deeded in her name, so I deeded it to her.

"Our folks thought they would rather live where there were not so many trains, and the smell from the incinerator was not pleasant, so my wife sold the Aylmer street house and got $1,000 paid on it. I bought a lot on London street with my money and deeded it in my wife's name, and we gave a contract for a house on this lot."

The woman who had bought the Aylmer street house said her husband had taken a paralytic stroke and she was given back her cheque for $1,000.

"We had to go on with the London street house. The price of the Aylmer street house was to help build it, my wife intending to have one house in her name, the London street house. My wife often talked about having this business done, and giving me back my deed for the Aylmer street house, but she was delicate and it was neglected until too late.

"After Priscilla passed away my nephew offered me a home with them on Dufferin street, I went over to live with them. I persuaded him to buy the London street house as I wanted to live with him, and be where it was home to me. He bought my house, and I bought his house, also his garden lot. While I was at Dufferin street I wrote to tell Mrs. Hester Payne about Priscilla's death. She wrote right back to say she would come and do anything she could for me. I did not think of letting them come, until she wrote this letter to me. I had never seen Gertrude, and had only seen George's wife once, so I wrote and asked if she sold her household goods would she have money enough to pay their fare here, but I would leave it with her. She wrote back to say she had no money and if she came would need a trunk and said the fare would be

Peterborough Shows Increase In Number of New Occupied Houses

Important Sign of Progress That Shows Falsehood in Rumour of Local Stagnation—Gain Not Large But is an Actual Gain

Instead of helping to spread the false and vicious rumours of an exodus from Peterborough, with consequent vacancy of houses here, citizens should first of all make some effort to obtain the facts before they lend themselves to a thoughtless and injurious campaign.

Street gossip tells of vacant houses in almost fabulous numbers, and no one denies that this city has, in common with many other cities in this province, a certain number of houses that are for the time being idle. This temporary condition, however, should not be regarded as a sign of retrogression or even of standing still.

Enquiry at the City Hall shows that there are more houses occupied in Peterborough now than there were two years ago. In other words there has been a steady gain in the number of dwellings which the rumour-mongers entirely ignore. The improvement may not be impressive enough to boast about, but the salient feature that should be emphasized at this time is that there has been a positive gain, and not a decline as the lugubrious, long-faced glooms would have their enterprising hopeful fellow citizens believe.

By actual count there are sixty-five more houses occupied now in Peterborough than there were in 1921, and if we do not feel like shouting that pleasant fact from the housetops, at least it might be brought to the attention of the reckless recruits of the blue-ruin brigade.

Some families and more young men have left Peterborough this year, but others have moved in. Even had there been an actual loss it would be but a similar experience to most communities in Ontario that are being drained of young men who are attracted by the unusual conditions that have developed in the United States, largely as a result of the American policy of restricted immigration.

If you simply won't be a booster for Peterborough, at least don't repeat untruthful and hurtful knocks.

MUST SUPPORT WIFE AND CHILD

Pleading guilty to a charge of neglecting to provide for his wife and child, Charles Wesley Weaver, Burleigh township, was to-day released by Magistrate O. A. Langley on suspended sentence on his promise to obtain work and remain with and support his wife and child. He must also pay the expenses incurred in bringing him back from Rochester, and must report monthly to Provincial Constable Cookman.

According to Weaver's story, he got a job driving a street car in Rochester and wrote for his wife to go there and make a home. She requested Chief Newhall to withdraw the charge against her husband.

When Mrs. Weaver attempted to cross the border, however, she found that the immigration authorities on the United States' side would not permit her to enter that country.

Weaver received no wages for the first sixteen days he worked for the Street Car Company, and at the end of the period he had not learned the name of the streets and was discharged. He then obtained other employment, but had only been working two days when he was arrested. He has spent seven weeks in jail. Weaver says that he intended to send money to his wife, but owing to the circumstances he could not make enough to pay his board. He has now lost his job in Rochester and cannot return for a year under penalty of arrest. He has, however, prospect of work at Burleigh.

THE FAMILY OF CHILDREN'S AID GROWING FAST

MONTHLY MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of the Children's Aid Society took place yesterday afternoon, with the President, B. F. Ackerman, in the chair, and the following members present: Mesdames Fanning, Welsh, Darcey, Kimberley, Hill and Hodgson, Messrs. Parsons, Edgar, Powell, Stocker, Cummer, F. H. Dobbin and Dr R. C. Blagrave.

The session struggled with several difficult matters yesterday, including a situation composed of the elements of a full Shelter, a Matron asking for further help in her work on account of this condition, or an inercase in salary to allow her to get assistance, and, on the other hand, the immediate necessity of adding at least seven children to the Shelter's overflowing family.

Milk Pasteurized or Otherwise.

J. Edgar Secretary, read the minutes of the previous meeting, followed by correspondence. A communication from O. A. Gillespie to the society requesting that the milk going into the Shelter be purchased from the Peterborough Milk Products resulted in considerable discussion for and against the principle of pasteurizing milk. Mr. Edgar, on receipt of the first communication from Mr. Gillespie, asked the writer for a further communication, setting forth the reasons why pasteurized milk should be supplied to the wards of the society, and read the explanation from Mr. Gillespie, who claimed that the prevalence of tuberculosis in cattle made the pasteurization of milk an absolute necessity. This disease had become so prevalent, it was asserted, that farmers themselves admitted that, if tests were made, over seventy-five per cent. of the herds would show a tubercular taint, and it was also asserted that the majority of the members of the medical profession claimed that bovine tubercle was transmitted to children from infected cattle whose milk was not pasteurized. The letter also referred to the example of Toronto and Hamilton during the past ten years, in making pasteurization of milk compulsory, to the cities of Guelph, London and Brantford, which have followed this example in the past year, and to the consideration being given the question by Belleville and Kitchener at the present time.

Varying opinions were expressed by different members of the board. Opinions against pasteurization included the experience of some of the members of the board in trying to make children at the Shelter drink pasteurized milk, the children refusing to take it, and forcing a return to the raw product, had a peculiar color, and did not seem to be as fresh. It was also that the medical profession was divided on the question as to whether tubercular infection was transmitted through milk, and one member said that pasteurization changed the character of the milk. Advocates of the method of pasteurization declared it the only safe way of preventing the spread of infection in milk, and considered pasteurized milk as an absolute necessity for young children.

A motion to transfer the milk business of the Shelter, also a portion of the butter purchases, resulted in a tie vote, and the matter was left in the hands of the purchasing committee for further action. Mr. B. F. Ackerman, as a member of the board of the Milk Products Company, refrained from voting.

REVIEWED WORK MISS CRAWFORD

Poetess Passed Much of Her Early Life in Peterborough and Vicinity.

The final evening in the course of study in Canadian literature held by the Art and Literature Study Club section of the Women's Art Association during the winter months, took place last night at the home of the convenor, Mrs. L. J. Pettit, 551 Aylmer street.

Some of the Ontario poets were considered during an enjoyable session, Miss Katherine E. Wallis gave a very interesting review of the life and work of Miss Isabella Valancy Crawford, much of whose early life was passed in Peterboro and its vicinity. Born in Dublin, Ireland, in 1850, the poetess' family removed some time later to Canada living at Gore's Landing, Lakefield and then in Peterboro, where they occupied the end house in the red brick terrace of houses on Rubidg street, just above Charlotte street.

It was suggested and approved at last night' meeting that the Women's Art Association place a small tablet on this house commemorating the residence there of a poet whose work was unnoticed in life, but is just now becoming recognized as one of the most versatile of early Canadian writers. Miss Valancy Crawford is now considered to have been much in advance of the thought of the age in which she lived. Miss Wallis gave several quotations from Miss Crawford's poetical works.

Mrs. F. C. Neal gave a splendid talk on Jean Blewett, a life-long friend of Mrs. Neal, and one of Canada's writers who has endeared herself to her public by her "homely and gracious qualities of heart and mind, as manifested in her works. Mrs. Blewett, whose latest volume of poetry has just been published, never allowed her lofty spirit to be crushed by the ordinary and uninspiring circumstances of her daily life and her excellent qualities of wifehood and her motherhood are reflected in her writings.

Miss S. A. Tompkins spoke on Charles Sangster, born in Kingston in 1822, and one of the most out-

THE FAMILY

Shelter, wrote asking for help in looking after the younger children, or an increase of salary sufficient to enable her to procure additional help, saying that the number of small children constantly being added to the Shelter family made it impossible for her to look after them as they should be cared for. In the discussion which ensued, the different attitude of the masculine and feminine members, seated facing each other across the table, was plainly evident. Several of the former were of the opinion that the Matron's salary of $1,000 per year, with free rent, heat and food, practically everything supplied for herself and husband with the exception of their clothing, was sufficient to put her in a position to procure all the help she needed out of her own salary. The ladies, on the other hand, contended that the care of twenty-two or more children, with facilities at the Shelter in the unenviable condition they are in at present with regard to washing, etc., was a job that taxed all the patience and industry and ingenuity of one woman to carry through in the successful manner that characterized Mrs. Rogers' efforts. "Mrs. Rogers never gets a spare minute," declared one woman. "When I met her one Sunday going to church she had seven of the children with her." The excellent character of the Matron was declared also as an invaluable asset in the training of young children.

The President, Secretary and Mrs. W. H. Darcey, representing the ladies, were appointed a committee to meet Mr. and Mrs. Rogers and discuss the situation with them.

A further development of the situation, however, transpired after a report of one of the members that the Shelter will be virtually responsible after tomorrow for the care of seven small children. The case, a pitiful one, arose out of the death of a mother yesterday, whose family of eight children, ranging in age from nine years to a few weeks old infant, will be left to the care of the father, a man who has only lately started to work after non-employment of many months. Although it was said that the man had made a determined effort to keep his rent paid up, a month's rent was in arrears, and the landlord had given notice to the family to vacate the premises by tomorrow. The Shelter will look after these seven children, temporarily at least, the infant being cared for by a relative of the family. A motion was passed to empower the Agent to receive them into the Shelter, and the Purchasing Committee was given authority to purchase the necessary beds for their use.

On account of this extra and immediate enlargement of her work, it was decided to appoint Mesdames Darcey and Fanning as a committee to secure temporary help for Mrs. Rogers, the Board of Management of the Children's Aid Society to pay the salary of such a helper. A final shot for the cause of the Matron was fired by a lady member in pointing out the very small bill for supplies for the Shelter last month, when 24 children were in residence, the food account, exclusive of milk, butter and bread, amounting to only $15.

Mr. Powell explained the inability to find homes for the children of the Shelter on the grounds of their youth, the farmers hesitating during hard times to take children who were required to go to school, preferring those who would work.

A suggestion that desperate cases such as the one cited where immediate relief was necessary might be looked after from the city's reserve fund of $6,000, met with a response that it was impossible to "make them acknowledge our cheques for emergency funds on that account."

The Matron's report showed 24 children in the Shelter during March, seven brought in and two sent out, with five children whose tonsils were removed during the month.

Mr. Powell reported 6 applications for children received; 6 children (not wards) brought in, and children returned to parents (not wards) 1.

Donations for the month were: St. Luke's Church, cake; Dr. and Mrs. King, goose and ice cream; Mr. Odgens (Turnbull Company, clothes; Ladies' Council, cake; Mrs. McKone, doll, Accounts reported by Mrs. J. S. Fanning were: R. Neill, $7.73; Nicholls Hospital, X-ray, $3.50; Canadian Packing Co., $25.50; S. Kemp, $1.25; H. B. Taylor & Son, $17.50; Allison's Grocery, $15.28; T. Gilgour & Son, $12.92; J. M. Heard, $17.90; telephones, $5.33; G. W. Powell, $8.20—total, $115.11.

The two pigs that formed the occupants of the pig-pen at the Sheker last summer, have, since their decease, been the subject of many admiring comments from board members. It appears that the result of last summer's intensive feeding and care have supplied the Shelter table through the winter months up to the present time, and greatly lessened meat bills, so much so that another couple of small porkers will be presently purchased and looked after in the same fashion and for the same purpose during the summer months. Evidently the war slogan, "Keep a pig," would receive a recommendation from any member of the board after this year's experience.

OPPORTUNITY FOR TRADE IN EMPIRE NOW

The British Government Favors Effort to Break Away From Dependence in Foreign Countries For Raw Material.

COTTON TRADE.

LONDON, April 11. Canadian Press. — Sir Philip Lloyd Greame, President of the Board of Trade, speaking in the House of Commons yesterday to a motion for fostering trade with the British Dominions, pointed out that British traders had a great opportunity to trade with Canada as against the United States owing to the economic conditions prevailing. The United States was bound to discover that it was impossible to adopt a policy of absolutely exclusive protection and at the same time do a great export trade; and if in addition to a high tariff the United States was a fortunate recipient of gold through debt payments there was no possible doubt that such a country was in the worst possible position to do a large export trade.

Therefore the Minister contended it was a vital moment for merchants to seek a way into markets in which there had been United States competition. The fact that Great Britain was paying her debt to the United States, enjoined that she should draw to the utmost her raw materials from within the Empire and as little as possible from the United States.

Sir Philip especially emphasized that the present position of dependence on the United States for cotton supplies could not be allowed to continue. Great Britain had ready to hand in the Empire soil on which cotton could be grown, and he referred to the coming bill to promote cotton growing within the Empire by means of a levy on trade, and laid stress on the additional necessity of developing transport, irrigation and all resources and factors required in the growing of cotton.

The general spirit of the government speculators in the debate was that the matter was a subject for discussion at the Imperial Conference next October, and that the government while wholly in sympathy with the aims of the conference did not desire to go in advance of that conference. Sir Philip said that the government's whole policy was to co-operate with the dominions in schemes which would accelerate development, give openings for emigration and lead to a general development of inter-imperial trade, with the help of British credit.

The debate also revealed an aim on the part of the government to make strong efforts to develop the crown colonies and to interest private enterprise in such development presumably with the assistance of British credit.

William G. Ormesby-Gore, Under-Secretary of the Colonial Department, announced the intention of the government to appoint a committee to explore how far it might be possible to interest private enterprise in the development and cultivation of the raw materials the empire mostly needed, such as flax and cotton.

The strongest criticism came from the Labor benches and was directed against the idea that the unemployment problem could be remedied by emigration and complaining that the government policy in India and the Near East tended to destroy these markets for British commodities.

Where you started isn't as important as where you are, which isn't as important as where you are going.

BUDGET DEBATE MAY CLOSE TODAY OR MAY GO ON INDEFINITELY

Mix Up on Whose Turn It Was to Speak May Cause the Whole Debate to Be Opened Again.

W. HAY SPOKE.

TORONTO, April 11.—(Canadian Press)— With Wellington Hay, Liberal leader, having made his speech yesterday it was thought that the budget debate in the Legislature would conclude to-day with Hon. G. Howard Ferguson and Premier Drury speaking. But a hitch occurred at the conclusion of Mr. Hay's speech that may prolong the debate for some days. Andrew Hicks, U.F.O. whip had adjourned the debate but Mr. Hay went on in his place Monday apparently on the understanding that Mr. Hicks had decided not to speak on the budget. To the surprise of the Liberal leader, Hon. Manning Doherty who was leading the House yesterday adjourned the debate on the conclusion of Mr. Hay's speech for Mr. Hicks. There was immediate protest from the Liberals. They pointed out that the custom had always been that the three leaders wound up the debate. Mr. Ferguson said that the arrangement with Premier Drury had been that the three leaders should close the debate to-day, Liberals claimed that if Mr. Hicks spoke the debate would again be opened and several said they intended to speak if the U.F.O. whip did so. Everything now depends on Mr. Hicks' decision If he refrains from speaking the debate closes to-day. If he speaks it will go on indefinitely.

To Stay Liberals

Mr. Hay was quite critical of the government. He took occasion at the outset to deny certain allegations made by Conservative speakers at meetings that the Liberal group was a stool-pigeon for the government. "We intend to carry on as Liberals and return to power as Liberals" said Mr. Hay who denied also that he was taking any dictation from Ottawa. While there was no danger of a calamity in provincial finance Mr. Hay said it would require the best business brains of Parliament to re-establish the province of a sound basis. He advocated the appointment of a financial comptroller for Ontario, and said that no man would be too big for the job. To-day he said the Premier would open the chest and state the government attitude on redistribution. He thought that at the same time Mr. Ferguson might tell a waiting public the attitude of the Conservative party on another great question the O.T.A.

Financial Matters

The Liberal party he promised would operate with other parties in an endeavor to frame a real good redistribution bill. He was of the the impression that the number of representatives should be down instead of upwards, Mr. Hay said that in the matter public accounts there should be only one set of estimates and that supplementary estimates in such form should be abolished. He did not tink anyone could contend that there was a surplus this year. As a matter of fact there was a deficit. There were many items in capital account which should be put in ordinary expenditure. One of these items was for vocational training amounting to $831,766 which was now in capital and had no right there. Ontario should have had a sinking fund to look after its debt fifteen years ago. The interest debt alone of the province to-day was eleven millions. He criticised the government for asking payment of a big succession duty before it was due so that a surplus could be shown. He also criticised as not right taking in revenue for a longer period that the fiscal year and at the same time stopping pay ments. Illustrating the growing debt he pointed out that in 1904 the per capita debt in Ontario was $2.60; in 1919, $36.70 and in 1922, $81.57. He had no objection to the Chippawa although he thought the government might have recast the hydro commission in which it apparently had no confidence. Municipalities should have more representation on the commission. The Liberal party was right behind public ownership he said. He thought that the government might well consider the immediate construction of branch lines on the T and N. O. railway even if the extension to James Bay was not built just now.

Banking and Insurance

The Ontario Government he said should never have embarked in the banking business. Instead of getting its money at 4 per cent as paid depositors the government was really paying more for such money than it could have got it as a straight loan. In the banking also the government he declared should dissociate itself from insurance business. He contended that in a five million dollar sale 95 3 and were quoted a few days later at 101. Toronto city had one better with its bonds.

In conclusion, Mr. Hay appealed for a greater confidence of class to other classes. Confidence he said was badly needed at the present time One of the greatest influences against Ontario at present was the discrimination against this province in freight rates. Export trade was being burdened and the advantage going to United States. "We want a reduction in freight rates even if it weakens the earnings of the National Railway," said Mr. Hay.

Doherty Speaks

Hon. Manning Doherty, Minister of Agriculture, before the orders of the day, rose to make a few remarks regarding Lord Beaverbrook and the lifting of the cattle embargo in view of the criticisms by Hon. G. Howard Ferguson. Mr. Ferguson had stated that there was a peculiar coincidence in the abandonment of the Ontario Government cement manufacture projection with the advent of the cattle embargo removal campaign insinuating that the cement project was neglected because Lord Beaverbrook as a former Canadian cement king, had disapproved of a public owned competing scheme. Mr. Doherty took occasion to deny that there had ever been any such arrangement and that the campaign for the removal of the cattle embargo started long before the Ontario government had ever considered a campaign for the removal of the embargo.

The House adjourned at 6 o'clock until to-day at 3 o'clock.

REBEL LEADER WAS WOUNDED AND CAPTURED

BROKE HIS PAROLE.

DUBLIN, April 11. — Canadian Press. — The capture of Liam Lynch is regarded here as heralding the final collapse of the irregulars.

Lynch is "the Chief of Staff" of the irregular military organization, and a dominant figure in its councils. He has a powerful influence over Eamon De Valera, with whom he worked in concert. Both men signed all important decisions and virtually constituted the republican directorate.

When gaps were caused by the capture of his men, Lynch always was able to promptly fill their places

His assistant was Liam Deasy who after he was arrested some time ago and the death sentence imposed upon him, issued an appeal for peace.

Deasy's place was filled by Con. Moloney, who since has been captured. Lynch then found another man of his own temper to take Moloney's place and both Lynch and this man voted on the recent army meeting against the peace proposals of the Most Rev. John Harty, Archbishop of Cashel.

In the fighting against the British, Lynch and Deasy were chief assistants and close friends of the late Michael Collins. Later, however, Collins was unable to persuade them to accept the Anglo-Irish Treaty.

Lynch was captured during the fighting at the Four Courts Building in Dublin in June of last year, but was released, it is alleged, on parole, which he broke.

Yesterday afternoon an additional batch of captured Republican correspondence was made public by the Free State Army Publicity Bureau.

Among the communications was a letter from Eamon De Valera, complaining that Lynch was not sending him reports, and that "his silence is ominous." In the letter, De Valera defined his own attitude as a rejection of the truce offer, no matter what the consequences.

Among the letters published is also one from the "Republican Officer Commanding in Great Britain," describing the organization there as pretty hard hit by the arrest of Republicans there.

A TERRIFIC STORM AT TEMISKAMING

UNO PARK, Ont., April 11. Canadian Press. — While congratulating themselves at having escaped the heavy snowfall which struck the North Bay-Sudbury end of Northern Ontario a week ago, the residents of Temiskaming were treated to a heavy rain which later chilled, and turned to the heaviest snowfall of the winter. About 12 inches was the estimated depth on the level but the exact amount can only be guessed at as the gale which followed piled the snow into immense drifts. Frequent trips of the T. and O. snow plow however have kept the trains moving on the railway but the country roads are completely devoid of traffic.

The few pedestrians who ventured forth last Sunday did so on snowshoes. Plans for seeding which usually start in Temiskaming in the month of April are still far from the farmers' minds.

"I Was a Fright!"

"Nothing I Could Take Made Me Any Fatter."

"Up to the time I was seventeen years old, I believe that I was the most miserable and unhappy girl that ever lived. Honestly, I was a sight. I was the most ungainly looking creature you ever saw. I was thin and scrawny—straight up and down. My height was five feet nine inches and I weighed exactly ninety-one and three quarter pounds. No matter what kind of clothes I put on I looked like a fright. I was clumsy and awkward. I used to stand before the glass and study my features. I found I had a good nose, good eyes and a good mouth, but my cheeks were sunken and my face looked like a skull with a piece of parchment stretched over it. But nothing I could do or take made me any fatter. Men rarely even glanced at me. When they did, they merely gave me a casual, amused or pitying look,—an expression which I am sure meant, 'why is a being like that allowed at large?' I used to lie awake at night for hours at a time wondering why there were so many beautiful girls in the world and I was so hideous. I met a friend of mine one day, Elsie W. and I hardly knew her. While she had never been as thin as I was, a year or more ago she ran me a close second, but when I met her she had taken on flesh and had developed into a fine handsome girl with one of the prettiest figures I had ever seen I asked her what had caused the big change. She said Carnol. She told me she had been taking it regularly for the last three months and that from the first week of taking it she had begun to put on flesh. I was so encouraged by what she said that I couldn't get to the druggist fast enough. I bought a bottle and since then I have been taking it regularly. It has made the greatest change in me you ever saw. I now weigh 165 pounds and all my friends tell me what a wonderful figure I have and I know that I am admired".

Carnol is sold by your druggist, and if you can conscientiously say, after you have tried it, that it hasn't done you any good, return the empty bottle to him and he will refund your money.

BONAR LAW'S GOVERNMENT MET DEFEAT IN HOUSE OF COMMONS ON SNAP VOTE BY SMALL MAJORITY

Ministers Not Determined What Attitude to Take But May Resign--Cabinet Sitting Last Night.

GREAT EXCITEMENT.

LONDON, April 11 (Canadian Press). — The Government sustained a surprise defeat in the House of Commons last night by a small majority, seven in a thin house, on a mere technical point. This, in ordinary circumstances, the Government might ignore, but in view of the fact that once before during its life the Ministry had a narrow escape in the House in attition to several bad reverses in by-elections, it is impossible to say at the present time what attitude the Ministers will take with regard to this defeat.

The debate on Imperial trade has ended, and a question arose concerning the salaries paid to former service men entering the Civil Service. The Labour leaders were displeased at the Government's stand on this question, and as a protest opposed the motion that the Speaker leave the chair to enable a discussion of the estimates.

This motion, usually carried as a matter of course, was, to everybody's surprise, defeated, 145 to 138.

Most of the Ministers were absent. When the excitement subsided, J. Ramsay Macdonald, the Labour leader, asked what the Government proposed to do, and suggested that the proceedings should be adjusted.

Neville Chamberlain, President of the Ministry of Health, thereupon moved the adjournment of the House, which was greeted amid derisive Opposition cheers and the renewal of the scenes which greeted the original announcement. The members streamed into the lobbies, excitedly discussing the prospects of the resignation of the Government.

According to some Liberal members an adverse vote on this particular question is unprecedented, and must be fatal to the Government.

This opinion was expressed in the House by William M. Pringle, on the motion to adjourn, he insisting that it was a vote of non-confidence and that the row of "extinct" volcanoes on the Treasury benches must disappear."

The Cabinet was sitting late last night to discuss the situation. Even some of the supporters of the Government admitted that a very awkward situation has been created by the defeat, but they declared it was largely due to a blunder on the part of the Government whips, who told their men there would be no division.

The general opinion on the Government side is that the Speaker may make a decision which will provide an issue from the difficulty for the Government, but it is felt that, because of Mr. Bonar Law's health and the general difficult position facing the Government, anything may happen.

The defeat of the Government leaves a curious situation. By refusing to move the Speaker from the chair to discuss the estimates, the House has practically refused supplies, and, according to parliamentary rules, a motion to move the Speaker cannot be put again in the same session.

The Ministers therefore are confronted with the duty of terminating the present session and proceeding to a new session with a formal Speech from the Throne, and other formalities, unless the Speaker can extricate them from the dilemma by over-riding the existing regulations.

According to latest reports, the Speaker, after consultation with the Ministers, is prepared to accept another motion on Thursday, and thus the resignation of the Government may be avoided.

Arrests May Follow Perambulator Race

LONDON, April 11.— (Canadian Press Cable.)—The hand of the law is coming down on freak competitions of which there is something of an orgy at present.

The national society for the prevention of cruelty to children is considering the question of prosecuting those half-dozen mothers who trundled babies in perambulators from London to Brigthon, a distance of 50 miles last week. The society warned the competitors before the start and now awaits a report from the Brighton inspector who examined the children on arrival .The reports received from intermediate points during the journey indicate that the mothers themselves were the greater sufferers.

A Sunderland magistrate, when asked to issue a dancing license for the largest hall in the town to hold a 24-hour non-stop dancing event, characterized it as an idiotic exhibition verging on lunacy.

Canadian Press. — A resolution to place the Alma Mater society of Queen's University on record as being in favor of abolishing initiations altogether for next year, was lost at the meeting of the society last night. The vote was easily five or six to one against the motion. Only two girls were at the meeting and they voted for the resolution.

No Cause for Anxiety In Health of Premier

LONDON, April 11.— (Canadian Press.)—The Pall Mall Gazette yesterday said it learned authoritatively that "although the general health of Prime Minister Bonar Law gives no cause for anxiety, the specialists who have been called in, hold out little hope for early improvement of the stubborn throat trouble from which he is suffering."

"He has been advised," the newspaper adds, "to give his throat a complete rest, and although he hopes to be able to answer important questions which may be addressed to him in the House of Commons, he will be unable for the present to take part in the debates."

LEAGUE OF NATIONS UPHELD BY SPEAKER

MONTREAL, April 11.—(Canadian Press)—That war has taught that all civilized humanity was one economic unity, that there was no division between us and disaster in one country would be felt all over the world, was the declaration of Lord Robert Cecil, speaking in support of the League of Nations here last night. The remedy for war was to deal with things in an international way, and the League had brought that home to any one who had seen it at work.

MAY BE A DEATH BLOW TO IRISH REVOLUTION.

DUBLIN, April 11. — (Canadian Press).—Liam Lynch, chief of staff, who was wounded and captured by Free State troops yesterday, died last night. A party of troops operating in the mountains near Newcastle, south of Clonmel, engaged a number of armed rebels, and after a brief engagement the insurgents took to flight. Lynch was badly wounded and left behind. News of his capture created a sensation in Dublin, where the view was freely expressed that the revolution had received its death blow.

QUEBEC HIT BY DEPOPULATION OF HER FARMS

GOOD DAIRY MARKET

OTTAWA, April 11.— (Canadian Press.)—That the province of Quebec in common with other Canadian provinces was suffering from depopulation, was asserted at the afternoon session of the parliamentary committee enquiring into agricultural conditions by Professor G. Toupin, of the Agricultural College at Oka, Que. Low wages paid by farmers had always been the cause of a movement citywards and to-day that movement was still more marked.

He quoted Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture, as stating that Great Britain had a sure market for dairy products, only limited by their quality .It was therefore essential that farmers in Quebec adopt these methods which would assure a high output. Under present conditions, he said, many of them were yearly showing net labor losses.

Thomas Sales of Salt Coats, thought it would be well to compile figures showing the hours actually spent by the farmers in their work. It would thus be possible to decide whether it was possible to pay a decent wage on the farm as compared with wages paid in the cities.

Melville Cumming, of Truro, N.S., gave evidence as to difficulties encountered by farmers in his province. He claimed that apple growers in Annapolis Valley last season were operating at a loss of about 25 cents a barrel. He believed that transportation charges constituted a real grievance. The levying of the sales tax on barrels and spraying material was also regarded as a hardship which should be removed.

Frost proof storage for apples at Halifax was a real need, he claimed.

It took five years to bore a tunnel under the Catskills. The next biggest bore is the man who wants to borrow a dollar.

THE MOTOR SHOW.

Friends of the Peterborough Health Association who realize the work carried on by that body and understand how much depends upon the financial success of the Motor Show are hoping for fine weather next week when the annual event, already postponed once this season, will be held.

The support of the community generally is urged on behalf of this enterprise.

The automobile dealers and other firms and a large number of local organizations are co-operating in insuring an attractive exhibition and a programme of a more than usually interesting nature.

About the show itself there need be no misgiving. It promises to surpass all previous events of the same kind.

But after all the success or otherwise of the undertaking depends upon the people.

Upon the citizens themselves is the responsibility of seeing that attendance records are broken and that the financial results of the show are such as to enable the Health Association to carry on its full activities during the coming year.

Peterborough needs the association, needs the services of the district nurse, needs the work for crippled children, needs the benefits of the summer camp at Jackson Park, needs the campaign on behalf of the White Plague sufferers to be continued.

Those who understand just how big a part is played by the Health Association will cheerfully rally to the support of the Motor Show and make next week's event the biggest thing of its kind that Peterborough has known.

ONE OUT OF FOUR IS DEAD—WHY?

Out of ninety-six babies born in Peterborough in the past three months, one-quarter have already died.

That is a statement that should bring the people of the city up with a sharp turn.

Twenty-four babies under three months old have died in Peterborough since the beginning of the year.

Surely a child mortality rate of 25 per cent. is beyond all reason.

Where is the blame to be laid?

Who are responsible for the conditions that have killed two dozen infants in three months?

Are we as a community falling down in this most vital matter?

These are questions that demand an answer.

We have our doctors, we have our hospitals, our Board of Health, our voluntary organizations such as the Health Association and the Well Babies' Clinic.

With all this machinery for taking care of the health of our community one out of every four babies born here since New Year's is dead.

There is a weakness somewhere.

It is high time it was discovered.

The greatest asset we have are our babies.

We cannot afford to lose twenty-five per cent. of them in three months without a determined effort to find out where we are deficient in taking care of the expectant mother and of the child after it arrives.

A SIGNIFICANT STATEMENT.

The Federal Government, through the Premier and the Minister of Labour, has made its position clear in regard to unemployment.

It is the view of the Ottawa administration that except in times of national emergency this problem is a Provincial one.

The buck is passed to the Provincial Governments, and it is to be fancied that they in turn will shift as much of the burden as possible unto the shoulders of the municipalities.

With that course not much fault will be found, nor is the problem in normal times likely to be a serious one, unless the unusual assistance given immediately after the war has had a demoralizing influence upon those in receipt of such aid.

It is well to have the fact thoroughly established that little in the way of unemployment doles are to be expected in the future.

The Federal Government has left no doubt as to where it stands, and similar declarations by Provincial and municipal authorities will serve as definite notice that the days of getting something for nothing have passed.

Those who have been dependent upon such assistance will then know that it will be their duty to endeavour to prepare for rainy days in the future by taking advantage of the opportunities for employment that may offer themselves—something that some of them have not been too keen about during the last couple of years.

THE PREMIER'S POSITION.

The London Advertiser does not believe the Examiner justified in pronouncing Premier Drury an autocrat for refusing to hear a deputation in regard to elective police commissions.

Says the Advertiser:

"The Peterborough Examiner believes Premier Drury is becoming somewhat of an autocrat because he advised municipalities not to send deputations to see him about an elective police commission. The Government had apparently gone fully into the matter and knew what it was going to do.

"Therefore, it would be a waste of time and energy to send deputations to present other views on the matter.

"It is easy enough to build up a case where the term 'autocratic' might be applied to such action.

"But there is another side to the matter. People in Ontario have complained that there are too many commissions appointed by the Government; They point out that a Government should have a policy, and by it stand or fall; that it ought to have a mind of its own.

"Well, here's a case. The Government heard all the points brought out in the MacBride Bill, and it decided in advance what it was going to do. In other words, it formulated a policy, and told the country that it would abide by that policy. It had decided against an elective police commission, and said so bluntly.

"Autocratic is hardly the right word. It means decision, and governing bodies have not been famous of late for any extra share of that good quality.

"It is much better at times for a Government to say what it has in mind than to invite deputations from all over the country and then spoon-feed them with that old milk and water diet of serious consideration."

While agreeing with our contemporary that a Government should have a mind of its own and not hesitate to express it, the Examiner nevertheless feels that when deputations representing large numbers of Ontario people desire to put their views before the head of the Government they are entitled at least to the courtesy of a hearing.

The Premier's views on the matter of an elective police commission were exactly those held by the Examiner.

At the same time it is recognized that citizens of the Province have a right to be heard even when their opinions are different from those held by the Government.

There would be no need to spoon-feed deputations, and the Premier would be quite right in telling them when their views are not acceptable, but at least common courtesy demands that they have a hearing.

THE MOSCOW MARTYRS.

The terrible story we printed on Saturday from the pen of Francis McCullagh describing the tragic travesty of a trial at Moscow that ended in death sentences on Archbishop Zepliak and Vicar-General Butchkavitch, was the most damning arraignment of Bolshevik methods and morals which has shocked humanity for many a day. These Roman Catholic priests were sentenced to death—in the last analysis—for daring to be Christians. That was their whole crime. And the fact that it is a crime under Bolshevik law to teach religion—religion of any sort—to persons under eighteen years of age ,is quite sufficient in itself to convict and condemn Bolshevism in the eyes of the entire world.

The Archbishop was spared the immediate execution of his sentence under the united pressure of a horrified Christendom. He was given instead a prison term under brutal Bolshevik control that it is all too likely he will not survive—a dubious boon. But his gallant Vicar-General was taken, so the record runs, to a squalid cellar in the basement of his prison and shot down like a dog!

* * * *

It will be a long day before the Soviet Government of Russia expiates this crime. As the ghost of Edith Cavell dogged the cruel and blundering Germans from the moment of her murder until defeat had hurled their armies back in disaster, so the ghost of this Christian priest who stoutly refused to deny his religion will haunt the footsteps of the madmen of Moscow until justice has its relentless way with them.

Mr. McCullagh's vivid account of the trial shows that all the priests, young and old, who stood at bay before that ignorant and prejudiced tribunal, were of the stuff of heroes and martyrs. They never flinched. They easily cleared their skirts of all loose charges of conspiring with the enemies of the nation; but they made no effort to placate their persecutors by weakening in the smallest degree their determination to live and labor and serve as Catholic priests as long as life should be spared them. They would not stoop to buy pardon at the price of a poltroon apostacy.

The repercussion of this tragedy upon the fate of the Soviet Government must be enormous. The judicial murder of an earnest Christian prelate is a flaming fact that will pierce through all the fogs of debate and conjecture that have hitherto kept the world at large from reaching settled opinions as to the rights and wrongs of the Russian situation. The news that came out of Moscow has been so contradictory—the attitudes of civilized Governments toward the Soviet leaders have been so changing—the need for Russian trade has clashed so insistently with the rejection of Russian philosophy—that the multitude have often not known what to think.

But they will know what to think of this sudden eruption of the Soviet spirit. There is no use telling even the proletariat that a Government stands for freedom which murders a priest for teaching his religion. That is the "freedom" that Pagan Rome gave the Christian martyrs. The Soviet leaders will now find that world opinion against them has greatly hardened. Something has happened at last that the masses can fully understand. It is no longer a puzzling discussion as to how far Communism would keep citizens from paying their honest debts to credulous outsiders, or a clash over the logic and ethics of Marxism. A priest has been shot for teaching religion, and an aged Archbishop lies in a Moscow prison for the same heinous offence.

Clearly some of the Moscow fanatics sensed the folly of their course. They tried to keep the trial secret. They have let no press accounts come out. Mr. McCullagh had to flee the country before he could tell his story. This shows that they knew to some extent what they were doing. But they did it. That is the discouraging side of the situation, looking at it with a view to discovering some hope of Russian restoration. They seem to be getting worse instead of better. They defy the world.—Montreal Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The Motor Show opens a week from today. Keep the date in mind.

The epidemic of typhoid fever at Cochrane shows what Peterborough might have encountered had it been content to leave its water supply unprotected. Conditions were ripe here for a similar outbreak had the filtration plant not been built.

Only 26 members were in the Legislature when the House opened on Monday. How about docking the absent members if they can't attend to the business for which they were elected?

Victoria Park is to be saved from the trail-makers who take short cuts across the soft lawns by being closed to traffic for a week or two. An ounce of prevention, etc.

That sport tends to inspire confidence in those who participate in it is shown by the fact that since the Softball League started many a well-known citizen has learned to strike out for himself.

Senator Pepper of Pennsylvania believes that the United States should join the League of Nations. Evidently there is one American politician who is in touch with world opinion.

Montreal people are going to have daylight saving, although the City Council, which does not believe in any kind of saving, is not in favour of the scheme.

Why People Become Nervous and Run-down

Prominent Health Official Explains

By G. M. Lipinski, M. D.
Former Member of Philadelphia, U. S. A. Health Department

"The reason why persons who are weak, anaemic, nervous and run-down have gotten into that condition is because they are so constituted that they use up their vital energy and nerve force quicker than their bodies can replace it."

"Their systems fail to extract from the food they eat and retain in sufficient quantity those mineral elements without which the body is absolutely unable to create vital energy and nerve force. And so they go on expending, day by day, their vital energy without adequately replenishing the supply until their systems become completely run-down, their blood gets impoverished and their nerves are unstrung. The mineral elements which are essential in the creation of vital power are particularly calcium, potassium, sodium, phosphorus and iron. And these elements must be administered to those patients whose systems do not extract them in sufficient quantity in the natural way from their food. That is why I always recommend Wincarnis for weak, anaemic, nervous and run-down patients. For Wincarnis contains all of these vitally necessary elements in a form that enables the system to readily assimilate them and which is acceptable to the most delicate stomach."

SPECIAL REPORT AS TO FALL WHEAT

Little Injury Has Been Done Either By Weather or Insects.

The acreage of Fall Wheat sown in 1922 is estimated to be slightly less than that of the previous year, which was placed at 813,135 acres. The seed caught well, and the young crop entered the Winter with a good top and in vigorous condition generally, as but little injury has been done by the weather or insect pests. The covering of snow was practically unbroken from December until well into March, and a fresh snow fall the last two days of the latter month gave added protection to the crop.

Following are special reports from Representatives as to the condition of fall wheat on the 4th of April, in the order of the acreages reported for each County for the last crop:

Kent, 89,816 acres: Some of the wheat on low lying land has been killed by water and ice lying on it. However, the large percentage of the Fall Wheat looked to be in excellent condition until this last severely cold spell. The wheat on the Ridge land seems to be suffering worse than that in the heavy clay land, since it was farther on and growth had commenced before the last cold spell came on.

Lambton, 72,781: No visible damage has been done to Fall Wheat so far. The continued steady snowy weather has been an advantage compared with the freezing and thawing usual this time of year.

Middlesex, 68,916: Fall Wheat has wintered well, although there was some injury from ice on low spots. The thawing and dry winds the latter part of April will be the most trying time.

Simcoe, 66,377: North Simcoe—The crop is practically free from injury up to the present time. South Simcoe—Fall Wheat so far has shown no sign of heaving, and is in good condition, as there has been no ice forming.

York, 34,430: The crop has been much injured, especially on flat land, and more particularly in the Western part of the County, which may reduce the yield about one-half.

Bruce, 33,587: Fall Wheat has had a heavy blanket of snow since December, and has kept well so far.

Oxford, 31,433: The crop is considerably browned at the present time, due to lack of covering of snow during the recent cold weather, yet may not be much injured by the frost.

Perth, 28,728: The general opinion is that the wheat will come out in fair shape.

Haldimand, 24,449: Wheat came from under the snow in March in good condition, but with cold weather the bare fields changed color. However, there has been little heaving so far.

Waterloo, 23,093: There has been no serious injury to Fall Wheat so far, as there has been practically freedom from ice.

Brant, 17,186: Fall wheat appears to be fairly safe, yet, although slightly heaved on flat heavy soils, and somewhat browned on the higher exposed fields.

Peel, 10,750: Fall Wheat has sufficient protection of snow and is in a satisfactory condition, generally speaking.

Durham, 8,719: The general condition of Fall Wheat is good; no injury reported.

Dufferin, 5,637: The fields have been well covered, and no particular damage is observable so far.

Prince Edward, 4,407: Fall Wheat has been well protected by snow, and has been so far uninjured.

CAPACITY AUDIENCE ENDORSED COMEDY

"Dr. Conovers' Ward" Made Big Hit at Apsley—Excellent Cast.

APSLEY, April 10.—The heavy rainstorm of Thursday adversely affected the financial side of the success attending the first presentation of the three act comedy drama "Dr. Conover's Ward" at St George's Parish Room, the attendance being confined to those residing in the immediate neighborhood, travelling a distance in the steady downpour being out of the question. The enthusiasm with which the play was received by those present justified a repetition, and on Saturday night it was again performed—this time before a capacity audience that thoroughly enjoyed the entertainment. It would hardly be fair to discriminate between the performers, all of the players acquitting themselves most creditably. Mrs. Staples as Aunt Ann, a comedy part made quite a hit and could hardly have done better to her difficult role. Harry Tanner, as the old Earl, and Frank Tanner as his scapegrace nephew filled their roles excellently, as also did Miss Phyllis Spence as the maid and Ned Tanner, the Earl's "Shotfinier" Miss Marjorie Spence as Patricia Pendleton, the dainty ward of Dr. Conover, captivated the audience at once, an held them to the final drop of the curtain. The scenery, the work of Mrs. Spence, made a fitting accompaniment to an enjoyable evening, entertainment and the next production of this company will be awaited with interest. Between the second and third acts, Sanford Whitney, a twelve year old boy rendered a "monkey dance" with great skill which brought down the house.

Altogether the sum of $36 was netted which will be applied to the reduction of the debt on the parsonage and institute.

MOOSE JAW TO THE FARMERS

Incomplete Returns Give Progressives Increasoe Majority in By-Electind

MOOSE JAW, April 11. Canadian Press. — With returns incomplete the Progressives hold Moosejaw, probably by an increased majority.

At midnight, E. N. Hopkins, the Progressive candidate, had wiped out the substantial majority of 1156 secured by Hon. W. E. Knowles, the Liberal candidate, in the city of Moose Jaw, and the rural polls were steadily increasing his lead.

Edward Nicholas Hopkins, Progressive, whose election is almost certain, is a native of Brownsville, Ontario ,wheer he was born 68 years ago. He is a retired farmer and manufacturer. The election was caused by the unseating of R. M. Johnson, Progressive. Thirty polls are still to be heard from, with Mr. Hopkins leading W. E. Knowles, Liberal, by 1,291 votes. The Liberals, however, still refuse to concede the election of Mr. Hopkins, claiming that south country polls will give them a majority and may decide the election of Knowles. Less than half of the qualified voters of the city made the pilgrimage to the polls, while the country vote was heavy.

Responding to protests which have poured in to the state department from all over the United States, Secretary of State Hughes has ordered the visa of the Russian woman cancelled.

The presence of Madame Kalinin in this country is rendered wholly undesirable by the deep feeling which has been aroused by the execution of Vicar-General Butchkavitch.

The action of the department is taken especially in protest against this execution says an official statement issued yesterday.

SEYMOUR FARMERS TO ADOPT CONTRACT PLAN

Speaker Explains Contract System of Marketing Hogs.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 11.—The members of the Farmers' Club at a special meeting last night, unanimously decided to adopt the contract system in the marketing of hogs. The motion to this effect was made by Deputy Reeve Nelson of Seymour and seconded by Councillor Milne of the same township. It carried unanimously.

The action was taken following a two hour address by C. E. Merkley of Morrisburg, on the advantage to the farmers of cooperative marketing. Mr. Merkley does not believe in doing anything to antagonize the so-called vested interests. His claim is that the farmers have as good a right organize as any other class and that there sole aim should be to put themselves in a position to do busines, on business principles.

Cooperative buying has saved the farmers of Canada thousands of dollars. Under this system the farmer last year secured his binder twine and his wire fence for at least four cents a pound less than which it would have cost him otherwise. The cooperative company in Toronto has given for next year the largest order fr binder twine ever heard of in Canada so that for the harvest of 1923 twine is likely to be still cheaper than it was in 1922.

The cooperative company, said the speaker, is by no means dead. It has in Toronto the largest creamery to be found in Canada, and this institution practically set the price of cream for Ontario last year.

A wrong impression exists as to the functions of the co-operative company. No business can exist without organization. The farmers have as good a right to club together as have the bootblacks, the teachers preachers, commercial travellers, the manufacturers and the retail merchants. No class require self protection so much as do the farmers for the prices of their produce always the last to use and the first to fall.

When the farmers has no money to spend no one has. Every business man knows this. All the latter fear concerning the co-operative movement is that the farmers are going to demoralize the merchants' system of doing business and then quit.

Growth of Movement.

Since its organization in 1919 the cooperative company, up to January of this year, has done over thirty-six million dollars worth of business and yet not one-quarter of the farmers have given it one-quater of their business. It as raised the price of live stock, no matter to whom sold, $1.50 per hundred pounds. It bought 27 per cent of the live stock sold on the open market in 1921 and 28 per cent last year so that its busines in this line is gradually increasing.

After describing what cooperation had done for the farmers of Denmark, Mr. Merkley said that Government told the people that the money to pay the nation's debt had to come from the first six inches of the soil. That being the case the farmers should see to it that they got a fair price for digging it out.

Some Prices

An all-leather pair of shoes, said the speaker, will cost $15 and for the hide out of which they are made the farmer gets $2.50. In order to buy a $40 suit of clothes the farmer would be required to keep a flock of 40 sheep at the present price of wool, 10 cents a pound.

Explains Central System

Mr. Merkley explained the contract system of marketing. Suppose twenty farmers sign contracts and agree to ship a carload of hogs, each of the parties to the agreement to furnish a certain number. If one or more of the men fail to keep faith and the car goes to its destination short of the number required to fill it the delinquents must pay their share of the cost as the railway company will charge for a full carload.

Call Another Meeting

President Ira Loucks, who occupied the chai, stated that another special meeting will be called for the appointing of canvassers to work among the farmers in the district in an effort to secure their signatures to contracts.

Sam Armstsong Speaks

Sam Armstrong of Keene, one of the largest shippers, and one of the most active advocates of cooperation in the district made a short address. The three great essentials in business, he said, were volume, quality and delivery, and all of these could best be obtained by co-operation. This is a pure business proposition, not a class movement of farmers.

Swift's leading buyer in a recent letter to the press advocating the careful handling of livt stock on the way to market, had said that a kick administered upon the ham of a live hog lowered the value of that part of the carcass by at least 75 cents. By means of chart, Mr. Armstrong showed the excellent shipping facilities of Keene, where the live stock is unloaded, weighed and placed on the cars without being abused. The railway company have at its own expense, built convenient yards, upon ground that was donated by the farmers.

The easiest way to run across your friends is to need a shave so badly you try to dodge them.

Ralph Myles Will Face Third Trial.

HALIFAX, N.S., April 11 (Canadian Press). — The second trial of Ralph Myles, charged with the murder here on 2nd June, of Florence Myles, ended without a verdic last evening, when Dr. W. F. Forrest pronounced one of the jurors "not in a fit condition to render a verdict," and the jury was discharged by Mr. Justice Chisholm.

A third trial will be necessary

The foreman of the jury volunteered the information that after being closeted for almost four hours, and after four ballots had been taken, he saw no indication of an agreement on a verdict.

Ralph Myles was found on 2nd June, 1922, in a little wood in the south-end of the city, shot and unconscious beside the dead body of Florence Myles, a girl with whom he had been intimately acquainted. The girl had also been shot.

A PARLOR SOCIAL AT CAMPBELLFORD

Featured by Large Attendance and Entertaining Programme -- Epworth League Met.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 11. — The members of the Womens' Christian Temperance Union held a most successful parlour social yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. W. Turner, when there was a large attendance of members and visitors present. The meeting was opened by the singing of a well known hymn followed by prayer and scripture reading, and Corinthians, chapter 13, by Mrs. Robert Moore. The usual routine business was discussed, after which a pleasing programme was rendered with the president, Mrs. R. C. Weston, presiding:

Reading—Miss A. Arnold.

Vocal duet—Mrs. C. W. Turner and Miss Cherrie Turner.

Reading—Mrs. Hart.

Vocal solo—Mrs. Robert Ballantyne.

The constitution was read and a brief outline of the great work carried on was given by the president, Mrs. Weston.

The next regular meeting in May, when there will be the annual election of officers, will be held at the home of Mrs. Robert Moore.

An abundance of very dainty refreshments were served and a very pleasant social hour was spent.

Rehearsed Operetta.

A rehearsal of the operetta, "Princess Chrysanthemum," which is to be given under the auspices of the Bemersyde Chapter of the Daughters of the Emipre on Thursday and Friday evenings of this week, was held last evening in Cole's Opera House. All those taking part were present and the results were highly complimentary to Mr. and Mrs. Cowell, who are spending no time or pains to insure the success of the operetta. The costumes are varied and charming, and the stage is gay with flowers, sprites and Japanese girls. There are catchy drills, choruses, etc., a vertiable Japanese land. Without doubt this entertainment promises to be the best yet. A final rehearsal will be held in the hall to-night.

Epworth League.

A very profitable and interesting meeting of the Epworth League, in charge of Mr. Thomas Craighead, 2nd vice-president, was held. An excellent address was given by Mr. Craighead, his subject being 'Now,' basing his remarks on 2nd Corinthians, chapter 6 ,and part of verse 2, 'Behold now is the accepted time, now is the day of salvation.'

Vocal solos, which were much appreciated, were then given by Mrs. A. L. Malcolm and Mr. Harry Boyd ,and a well rendered cornet solo by Mr. Walter Lowe. Following the regular league service the Canadian Girls in Training met, an interesting feature of the programme being a contest on three well known hymns, 'Onward Christian Sodiers,' 'Just As I Am,' and 'Jesus is Tenderly Calling For Thee.' Miss Rose Hallanby secured the prize, a pocket testament ,having secured sixty out of a possible sixty.

Plays Repeated.

The two plays, "Emblaming Ebenezer" and "Wanted, a Confidential Clerk," were repeated by the young men of Christ church in the parish hall last night before a large audience. The members of the cast showed that they had gained confidence by the hearty reception that had been given them on the preceding evening and their performance showed a marked improvement.

Personals.

Mrs. Gardner of Peterborough, formerly of Campbellford, was the guest of Mrs. C. W. Turner a few days this week.

Mr. H. K. Clifton, of Peterborough, district electrical inspector, was in town on Tuesday.

Friends of Mrs. L. F. Gould, Sebastapol street, will regret to learn that she is quite ill and wish her a speedy recovery.

RUHR RIOT VICTIMS IN WAR CEMETERY

Krupp Plant Closed During Funeral of Employees Killed in Clash With the French.

ESSEN, April 11. — (Canadian Press).—Workmen of the Ruhr, 7,000 of them, formed a lane of honor nearly five miles long, yesterday, for the funeral procession of the German employees of the Krupp Works who were killed on March 31, in a clash with French troops. The entire roadway leading from the Krupp plant, where the first services were held, to the cemetery, was lind on both sides by Krupp employees, miners and factory workers of Bochum, Recklinghausen, Dortmund and other industrial centres, who came to participate in the funeral ceremonies.

All Essen was closed for the day and the streets were crowded with spectators from the centre of the town to the burial place, which was laid out during the war for Germans who died in the service of their country.

From early in the morning thousands of the curious took their stand along the route, members of the trade unions wearing white brassards and maintaining order. At 9.30 the bodies were removed from the chapel and placed on the hearses decorated with pine branches. Forty trade union delegations headed the cortege, while the families of the victims and the Krupp directors brought up the rear. Only these families were admitted to the cemetery in addition to the acting officials, and several addresses were delivered.

Changes Suggested in Printing Gazette.

OTTAWA, April 11 (Canadian Press). — That the Canada Gazette be printed more in conformity with modern ideas of simplicity and conciseness was suggested in the evening by J. S. Woodsworth, of Winnipeg Centre.

Mr. Woodsworth condemned the present ceremonious and elaborate Governmental forms in which the Gazette notices were couched. He characterised them as absurd in a democratic country.

The item of $45,000 covering the Gazette as also $30,000 for printing bureau plant repairs and renewals, —and $45,000 for new plant in the printing bureau were approved.

Mr. Woodsworth wanted to know whether with the installation of the new plant it would be possible to print the Labour Gazette in the printing bureau.

In reply, the Minister of Labour said the matter was having attention. It had hitherto, however, been wise to print the Labour Gazette outside in order that it might carry a union label.

North Bay Will Have Many New Buildings.

NORTH BAY, April 11 (Canadian Press). — An extensive programme of building, which will add a number of important buildings to North Bay, is predicted for the coming summer. Preparations are under way for erecting a large addition to the present headquarters of the T. and N. O. Commission, while the largest building project will probably be a $40,000 arena for which stock is now being sold throughout the town.

St. John's Anglican Church is contemplating the erection of a $20,000 parish hall, and a $65,000 issue of debentures has just been sold for the erection of a six-room addition to the Collegiate Institute.

There will also be a number of residences, ranging in value from $5,000 to $12,000.

At present the Roman Catholic Cathedral, built in 1905, is being redecorated at a cost of $20,000.

GERMANS FIRE ON A FRENCH PATROL.

DUESSELDORF, April 11. Canadian Press. — A French patrol at Feilendorf was fired at yesterday, and the leader wounded. No arrests were made, but penalties were enforced.

A French cavalryman going off duty at Waltropp was examining his revolver when the weapon was suddenly discharged, killing a girl at a window. The soldier is reported to have become demented through distress.

The French commander sent messages of regret and condolence to the German authorities and the girl's family.

The people of Waltropp are said to be on good terms with the French

LADY ASTOR'S BILL MEETS OPPOSITION

The Amendment However Was Defeated in Committee By a Vote of 27 to 19.

LONDON, April 11. Canadian Press. — Considerable opposition to Lady Astor's bill to prohibit the sale of intoxicants to persons under 18, developed yesterday, when amid lively scenes the measure was again considered by the Standing Committee of the House of Commons.

Walter Greaves-Lord, Conservative, moved an amendment exempting beer and cider from the operations of the bill. Lady Astor opposed this vigorously, saying that the amendment was intended to wreck the bill.

All the amendments, she went on, seemed to be wrecking amendments, except those in the name of J. R. Remer, Conservative, who, she asserted, "seemed to be the village donkey."

On being called to order for this remark, she withdrew it.

Sir George Hamilton, Conservative, protested against the continual reference to those opposing the bill, as being interested in the trade. He said Lady Astor's own organization was so rich and powerful that it had influenced the sending of hundreds of letters to the Members of the House, virtually threatening that if they did not vote for her bill, the writers would not again vote for them.

In spite of the strength of the opposition, Lady Astor won the tilt, the amendment being rejected by a vote of 27 to 19.

AUSTRALIA NOT TO HAVE U. S. MINISTER.

LONDON, April 11. — (Canadian Press).—Premier Bruce, of the Australian Commonwealth, has announced that he does not intend to appoint a resident Minister at Washington, considering it preferable to have Australia's diplomatic relations made through Great Britain, said an Exchange Telegraph despatch from Melbourne yesterday.

The Government, adds the message, will shortly appoint a trade commissioner at New York, but the appointment of a political representative is not contemplated.

NEW HIGH RECORD FOR SUGAR PRICES.

NEW YORK, April 11 (Canadian Press). — New high records for the season and since the year 1920 were established in the local raw sugar market early yesterday. Growing apprehension of a shortage in supplies, and a much better inquiry for refined, have led to increased buying of raws, by both domestic and foreign buyers, and Cubas sold at 5.7-8c cost and freight, equal to 7.66 for centrifugal.

The sales amounted to about 115,000 bags of Cubas and 40,000 bags of Porto Ricos.

Raw sugar futures were higher, reflecting the advance in the spot market, with prices at midday 4 to 10 points higher on covering and renewed buying for trade and commission houses.

Raw sugar futures were higher, and with prices at midday 4 to 10 points higher on covering and renewed buying for trade and commission houses.

The market for refined was firmer and unchanged to 5 points higher, with fine granulated now quoted at 9.20 to 9.25, and a continued good inquiry reported.

Refined futures were nominal.

BOOTS, TEA AND WHISKEY.

The Orillia Packet notes the discovery of an account for various provisions purchased in 1867—the year of confederation. They included a pair of boots at 75c, a pound of tea at $1.00, and a half-pound of tea at 45c.

That a pound of tea should cost more than a pair of boots seems rather strange to us at the present time, but it is doubtless explained by the difficulties of transportation during that period. Boots were a home product.

More than half a century earlier, in the Gazette and Oracle of 1799, advertisements appear which quote the price of tea in Toronto at 19s. per lb. for Hyson, 14s. for Souchong, and 8s. for Bohea. Even if the New York shilling of sevenpence half-penny was meant, these prices would range from $1.20 up to $2.85 per lb.

But beverages were not all priced accordingly. Even in the Orillia account of 1867, there was itemized a half-gallon of whiskey at 60c. It was sold as a matter of course along with "other groceries." Times have changed when the price of Whiskey at a Government Dispensary is today $4.25 per quart.

In the "good old days" 75c would buy a pair of boots, three-quarters of a pound of tea, or five pints of whiskey. No doubt it lay between the boots and the whiskey as to which gave the most "kick" for the money.

MALE VOICE CHOIR CONCERT

(By Jeannette.)

The third annual concert of the Peterborough Male Voice Choir was accounted for last evening before an audience which, while it did little more than half fill the Grand Opera House was an intensely appreciative gathering. Evidently the accusation so often levelled of late at Peterborough as a place incapable of appreciating the highest forms of art is not an idle one, but the music-lovers of the city who gathered at the Grand last night were rewarded by a feast of music which could hardly be surpassed in metropolitan circles.

The Male Voice Choir itself was at its best in a varied programme which brought an enthusiastic response and exhibited to the utmost the ability and ease with which this group of some forty vocalists renders delightful music.

Peterborough itself, and Mr. J. H. Renwick, the conductor of the Male Voice Choir, has every reason to be proud of such an organisation. Their progress since last year has made immeasurable strides, the volume and quality of their splendid voices last night eliciting many admiring comments and much applause.

As for the assisting baritone, Cameron McLean, of Detroit, it is a difficult matter to describe the instant, spontaneous appeal he made to his audience, and the effect he achieved with a magnificent voice, a magnetic personality, and a power of interpretation seldom witnessed. With mobile features and a mobile technique that delineates every phase of his diverse offerings, Mr. McLean has the unique gift of weaving a melodic background to suit the character of his music. To an audience that seemed to be one huge listening one, intent, silent, and watchful while he sang, then bursting into whirlwind applause and lapsing once more into attentive silence, he created an Italian atmosphere in his three short songs of the sunny South. It was not necessary to understand the words. Just to watch the singer and hear the sonorous richness of the voice that throbbed like the G string of a violin, sank to 'cello-like depths or soared to almost tenor sweetness, was enough, as he chatted of the "bambino" in "Che Fiero Costume," and soared in liquid syllables over the smooth vowels of "Lungi dal Caro Bene," and the "Invocazione Di Orfeo."

The encore to the Italian group was (by special request) the extraordinary "Song of the Flea," a song used for political purposes in Russia to discredit the Monk Rasputin, the "flea" of the score. Here was an ominous note, the sinister menace of a rising mob in the derisive satire of the echoing staccato laughter, the histrionic abilities of the singer, and his outstanding quality of vocal control combining to produce a unique effect on the listeners.

Three Salt Water Ballads were among the most pleasing of the offerings of this versatile singer. Here was the tang of the salt water and the longing of the old tar in "Port o' Many Ships," the creak of the sail and the croon of the mellow breeze in "Trade Winds," and the menace and fear of the sea in "Mother Carey," "with the sharks' teeth 'round her neck." But the atmosphere of nautical ways and men that surrounded these songs of the salt water disappeared instantaneously when the singer, whose response to applause was generous, turned to the velvet, emotional warmth of "Annie Laurie."

Those who listened to the next group were transported in turn from pathos to rollicking Gaelic humour, from tragedy back again to the roguishness of a bit of fun from Old Erin, and they rocked the house with their applause for the beautiful music. Mr. McLean's vigorous, sonorous tones rang out in rich, full, powerful cadences in the homesick longing of "Hame," the cry of the exile for his "ain countree," he scored a big success in the rollicking humour of "Leezie Lindsay," and her bold lover, "Ronald McDonald." His listeners saw the bloody battle and heard the harsh skirl of the pipes in "The Pipes o' Gordon's Men." But a moment later, they peeped over an Irish hedge with the roguish singer in "A Ballynure Ballad," sung with the real dialect of the old sod. And, for an encore, a "little touch of sentiment," the cry of the mother for the little boy that used to be, in the moving sweetness of "Laddie."

Back for a double encore came the singer after his final group, composed of two love songs, "Where My Dear Lady Sleeps," and "That Night," a negro spiritual, sung in darkey fashion, "The Gospel Train," and a selection with the strident note of the wind in its clear, blustery rendition, "Blow, Ye March Winds." Then he sang "Mother Machree" (by request, "from a friend"), and responded to further appeals for "Mary of Argyle," with a lovely rendition of the old favourite song.

To an artiste whose arresting type of vocalisation would make many demands on an accompanist, the artistic appreciation of the nuances of tone and interpretation which was accorded the singer by Mrs. Mabelle Howe Mable, at the piano, made a splendid complement to his music. Mrs. Mable, a striking figure in glittering silver draperies, seemed to be in perfect sympathy with Mr. McLean's varied work, her accompaniment providing a last touch of perfection to an eminently satisfying programme.

The Male Voice Choir distinguished itself last night. With selections grave and gay, in rapid and measured tempo, the record of their season's work was very gratifying. Their tonal quality is rounded, full, and even, their attack and release instantaneous, their attention to phrasing exceptionally good. In the unaccompanied numbers, they were one single voice, without a discordant note, and their choice of selections was accorded repeated applause.

The "Soldiers' Chorus" from "Faust" was a bright and restful opening number, followed by the lovely "Barcarolle" from "The Tales of Hoffmann," sung with soft, swelling, graceful effect, the tenor solo taken by A. Fenton. Beethoven's "Creation's Hymn" was sung "a capella," a deep-toned, majestic number, in perfect time and rhythm.

"Spartan Heroes" was another dignified selection, with martial undertones increasing in volume in the loud outcry of the battlefield. Applause followed this number, in which the tenor solo was sung by E. Jones.

"A Musical Muddle" was also sung without music, a difficult, tricky thing of rapid transitions in rhythm and style, sung with ease, and followed by "Come, Merry Comrades All," a bright, rippling piece with staccato intervals, sung with excellent control and power of sustained melody. The applause which followed brought "Po' Little Lamb," a splendid rendition of a sweet, hushed darkey lullaby.

The always welcome "Blue Danube Waltz," a high thread of melody glancing across the deep background of its gliding measures, met with much appreciation, and the Choir closed its programme with the solemn, majestic strains of "The Crusaders," Protheroe's interpretation of the song of the Knights of the Grail, withe tenor solo by J. Anderson.

The soloists did full justice to their numbers, and the choir owes much of its success to the work of its able and proficient accompanist, Miss Ida G. Sanderson, who received a beautiful bouquet of roses.

J. H. Renwick, the conductor, whose persevering training and musical ability have brought the Male Voice Choir in a short time up to its present pitch of excellence, thanked the audience for their presence and appreciation, in his own name and that of Mr. McLean.

Just before a flashlight of the assembled musicians was taken, while the theatre was emptying, Mr. McLean was asked to address the choir. Complimenting them and their director heartily on their ability, he remarked on the well-balanced programme offered by the Choir last night, and on the volume and the quality of tone manifested in their music. Commenting on the selections, he said, "I liked your music in 'Po' Little Lamb' the best of all. You know, any fool can bellow, but it takes an artiste to sing softly." He said when asked recently why he did not go in for grand opera, he had replied that in grand opera he would be only one man all evening, while he might be fourteen different men during the course of a concert programme, a remark illuminating to anyone who watched the extraordinary versatility and resilience of his methods last evening. "Each person is a radio, tuned to different vibrations. Try to give out vibrations from yourself which will create like vibrations in others. Elbert Hubbard said, "It is in giving that we get," and if you sing fully, from the heart, as simply and as naturally as possible, you are bound to succeed."

"It is l-o-v-e that keeps me at my work, and it is love for your music, for your conductor, and for your audience that brings success," summed up a little speech that brought from the Choir three cheres and a tiger, and that probably explains one of the reasons why this artiste has made a particular appeal for his audiences.

$195. I think I sent a draft for $250.

"When they came I took them to William's home, and we were all there a month. While there I said to her one day I would do the same with her as I did with auntie and Priscilla if we could get along together. I asked the people in the Lock street house to vacate it, and we cleaned it up.

"It was my intention she would go on with her business as a dressmaker as she had been doing, only that I could save them paying rent and board. I thought if she would work for their clothing and spending money we could get along together, but she said she didn't come here to work. I couldn't do anything with them. Gertrude would not go to school after Christmas. Mrs. Payne wanted me to send Gertrude to a ladies' college. I could not do that. I hadn't enough to keep them. Every week or so there would be a quarrel over different things. She wanted to do the business, and said I was not capable to do it, and also wanted to settle something on her for her own. But I decided I would keep my business in my own hands as long as I needed it.

"I spent nearly all my working hours in the cellar the winter before, coming away in April. I also asked her if she would do knitting if I bought a knitting machine. She said she would. I bought the machine and paid $75 for it, and she said she could not be bothered."

standing of the pre-confederation poets. Although handicapped by lack of education and limited reading, his later work shows evidence of artistic finish and fine rythm. Examples were given, including 'Brock' "Wolfe", "A Song for Canada", and "The Rapid".

Mrs. H. E. Connelly gave a review of the life and work of Archibald Lampman, a Western Ontario poet, born in 1861, who spent much of his time at Gore's Landing and Cobourg, and received his education at Trinity College School, Port Hope and Trinity College, Toronto. Hampered by a delicate constitution and the necessity of making a living by working in the Civil Service at Ottawa, he wrote many beautiful poems, principally on nature topics. "What do Poets Want with Gold?", "Abu Midjan" and a sonnet, "The Woodcutter's Hut," were read.

Owing to lack of time only a limited review of the life of Pauline Johnson was given by Mrs. Pettit Pauline Johnson the Indian girl born on the Brantford reservation, of Chief George Johnson and an English mother, became very popular as a poet and reader throughout Canada and the British Isles, dying finally and being buried in Vancouver. One of the most notable of Canadian writers, her Indian poems are probably the best examples of her genius. Bernard McAvoy said of her: "A poet has arisen to cast over the shadows of our great mountains, our trail threaded forests, our tide swept waters, our hurrying streams the graceful mantle of romance. Pauline Johnson has linked the virile present with the immortal past."

A poem by Wilfred Campbell, "Beyond the Hills of Dreams", and a selection from the work of Ethelwyn Wetherald, were also read by Mrs. Pettit.

STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE

Sift one pint of flour, four teaspoons of baking powder, one half tsp., salt and two tsps. of sugar together. Cut into the flour four tablespoons of butter or three tablespoons of lard and moisten to a soft dough with about two thirds of a cup of milk. Take onto a floured board and roll to one-half inch in thickness. Cut with a biscuit cutter place in a buttered pan and bake 15 minutes in a hot oven. Split, butter and fill with strawberries sweetened and slightly smashed. Place on top a spoonful of beaten cream.

The dough may also be divided and baked in a round pan. Have both pieces baked in the same pan, one being placed on the other, the lower piece well buttered.

BLACK AND WHITE

Black taffeta is frequently combined with white batiste or white lace in the spring frocks. Aprons, tunics, guimps and overblouses of white relieve the plainness of the dark silk and add to the smartness.

A WOUND IS AN OPEN DOOR

Absorbine Jr. enables you to shut the door quickly.

The skin is Nature's own protection against germs. When it is bruised, broken or cut, that protection is withdrawn. The door is open. As quickly as possible Nature closes it by forming what we call a scab and renders you comparatively safe against infection. But this scab sometimes takes days to form and until it has fully sealed the wound, even until the wound has thoroughly healed again you must furnish the required protection yourself.

A few drops of Absorbine Jr. in the water will give you an antiseptic wash that will kill all possibility of infection and help nature to heal the wound. As well as being a very powerful germicide, Absorbine Jr. will draw out the inflammation and bring instant relief.

Absorbine Jr. is antiseptic, germicide and liniment in one container—handy to keep always in the house; easy to carry around if you travel.

Keene, Ont., April 11.

On Tuesday evening in the town hall a good crowd (considering the conditions of the roads) gathered to witness the play "Martha Made Over", put on under the auspices of the Women's Auxiliary of the Methodist church, and which proved to be very successful. The cast for the various characters were as follows:

RUM-RUNNING WILL BE MORE DIFFICULT

The Dominion Government Will Back Up B. C. in Efforts to Control the Liquor Export Trade.

VICTORIA, B. C., April 11. — (Canadian Press.)— The easy days of rum-running from Vancouver, Victoria and other British Columbia ports have come to an end.

Attorney-General M. A. Manson yesterday announced that the Dominion Government has decided to back up the Provincial Government in its efforts to control the liquor trade and that from now on collectors along the British Columbia Coast will refuse to grant clearance to "deep sea" vessels carrying liquor cargoes. The announcement of the Dominion's decision came to Mr. Manson in a telegram yesterday from Ottawa.

"The practice has prevailed for some time past of giving clearances to rum-runners from coast ports to the deep sea and from coast ports to points along the coast where no Dominion officials are established, with the result that it has been impossible to trace liquor cargoes to their destinations," the attorney-general said.

The matter has had the attention of the attorney-general for some time since it was brought to his attention by officials of the liquor board. As a result he took it up with the Hon. Jacques Bureau, Minister of Customs at Ottawa, with the result as announced yesterday.

DOUBTS THAT LEGACY OF TWO MILLION DOLLARS

STRATFORD, April 10 (Canadian Press). — In a statement issued to the press to-day, Joseph Creighton, the young man who recently received a telegram stating that he was heir to two million dollars left him by an uncle in Indianapolis affirms that he is now certain in his conviction that a mistake has been made. He states that the air of impenetrable mystery with which he is alleged to have surrounded himself was not of his own choice. "I have allowed nothing to disturb the even tenor of my ways," he concluded.

ARGUMENT AS TO WHO FIXED SHIPPING RATES

OTTAWA, April 10.— (Canadian Press.)— "Caricature of the Standard Shipping Company," is the description applied by Isaac Pitland, K.C., counsel for that company, to a statement of the case regarding that concern by Crown Counsel H. J. Symington, K.C., before the Lakes' Grain Rate Commission. Mr. Pitland in his argument paid high tribute to "the vigor and ability" of Mr. Symington, but maintained that these very qualities had carried him away, and he had described as "suspicious" acts which were really "innocuous and innocent."

"It is like judging the Bible by one text," remarked Mr. Pitblado Mr. Symington had taken few telegrams out of thousands and had argued from them that the Standard Shipping Company was a rate maker, but one at least of those, telegrams showed a view contrary to that argument. Moreover, sworn evidence of both Lee Wolvin and of Enderby was that Enderby, operating manager of Canada Steamships, fixed the rates.

One telegram referred to by Mr. Pitblado was dated October 27, "at time of high rates," and was from Enderby to Lee Wolvin. It said, "Norcoss anxious to get your view as to whether rates will hold allowing us to cover open tonnage."

This telegram, Mr. Pitblado asserted, made it clear that all that Mr. Enderby asked from Lee Wolvin was advice. Mr. Enderby fixed rates, Mr. Wolvin merely quoted them.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 11. — The members of the Board of Education evidently intend to proceed at once with the construction of a new High School, as they have an advertisement running in a Toronto paper calling for tenders, these to be is the hands of the architect by April 23. The plans have been revised to bring the cost down to within $65,000, the remainder of the $75,000 which was voted to the Board by the Town Council in 1920. The Board claim that there were no strings attached to this vote, and that the Council must raise the money by a debenture issue. When the Council deceived a few weeks ago a resolution from the Board, asking for the money, the answer returned was that the matter had been tabled until such time as the Board was willing to take it up again with the Council. That time now seems to loom up in the immediate future.

It speaks well for the credit of Campbellford that leading financial houses throughout the country are afready writing here to ask if the High School debentures have as yet been put on the market.

Donates Use of Lot.

R. S. Southworth offers to donate the use of his vacant lot at the corner of Bridge and Rear Streets to the town on condition that the Council fix the property up as a parking place for automobiles. The location is admirable for the purpose, as it is close to the business centre of the town. The necessity for such a convenience for auto owners coming to town on business has long been felt here. The lot is now used as a storing place for second-hand implements, and the owner of these has been asked to remove them. The ground could be levelled and prepared for parking purposes at a small cost.

Latest reports are to the effect that the doctor was showing signs of improvement.

FOUND WONDERFUL RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION BY USING MILBURN'S LAXA-LIVER PILLS

Constipation is one of the most prevalent troubles the human race is subject to, and is the greatest cause of many of our ailments, for if the bowels cease to perform their proper functions all the other organs will become deranged.

Keep your bowels working gently and naturally by the use of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, and thus do away with the constipation and all other troubles caused by it.

Mrs. A. R. Spence, Springhill, N S., writes:—"I have suffered for some time from constipation, and was advised by a friend to try Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills. After taking a vial of them I have found wonderful relief, and would advise all those who are constipated to give them a trial, for I feel sure they will also receive the same benefit I did."

MAY RE-ORGANIZE

MOSCOW, April 11.—(Canadian Press)—The fight of the Russian Church to save itself from total extinction in the communist-directed campaign, against Orthodox worship and organized religion of all kinds, will centre at Moscow on April 15, when the first all-Russian church conclave since the Bolsheviki revolution is scheduled to meet. The higher clergy, who believe it possible for religion to exist side-by-side with a non-religious communist government have called the assembly, with consent and support of the government, in the hope of finding a way out of the difficulty that hedge the church as a whole.

The chief aim of the conclave is to reorganize the church in conformity with new conditions in Russia.

"Hatching Out Chickens"

(By J. ABRAHAM)

The problem now is hatching out the eggs which will provide our next winter's layers also our prize cockerels and pullets for the Winter Show. Most poultry men agree that March and April is the best time for hatching. I agree with that but it is essential that all the birds should have time to settle down and become used to their surroundings before hatching.

It is a recognized fact that a two year old hen should be mated with a cockerel of an approved laying strain, or, in the case of show birds, to the best blood, one whose mother has been trap nested in order to find out her actual record, whilst pullets should be mated to a mature cock bird. While no hard and fast rule can be laid down as to the number of birds in a breeding pen, to get the best results, especially early in the season, six hens are sufficient increasing to ten as the Spring advances. Where fertile eggs are looked for it is inadvisable to give many hens to the "bird."

Of course there are two methods of hatching eggs; under hens—the natural way, and by use of incubators—the artificial way. I have used both methods and propose to deal with the natural way first. Eggs selected for setting should always be of average and uniform size. Do not use extraordinary sized eggs, as I have known some poultry breeders to do, or little undersized ones. The eggs should also be clean, nicely shaped, and, if possible, not more than four days old. It is essential for the hen to be in a quiet spot as nothing makes for ill luck more surely than to keep disturbing a setting hen. A point on which you will all agree is that it is essential to set the hen at night for she will settle down much better. Of course the number of eggs set depends on the size of the hen and the season of the year. I consider in the early Winter or late Autumn, nine eggs are sufficient for any size of a hen as the cold nights and mornings demand them to be well covered but between April and August thirteen to fifteen eggs may be put down. Some large hens can cover even seventeen eggs but I consider it best to be on the safe side.

Now as to the nest itself, there is no doubt that the best nest is that which is made on the floor of a shed with a few inches of earth and clean bruised straw, taking care to hollow it out. Most people, however, make the nest in an ordinary wooden box lined with broken hay or straw, hollowed out to prevent the eggs from rolling about. I strongly recommend the placing of a few inches of earth in the bottom of the box and in warm or dry weather that the earth near the nest box be watered so as to supply the necessary moisture. This I consider better than damping the eggs as some poultrymen do. Before the hen is set it is a good plan to dust the hen and nest with insect powder. It is a matter of great importance to keep down these pests.

Now a setting hen requires but one good meal a day and I recommend a feed of maise. Of course that is optional. She should be coaxed off the nest for a short time every day to be fed and have her dust bath and clean fresh water should be at hand for her use. Some hens will act awkward and show no signs of returning to the nest. She should be picked up and placed gently on the nest again. Now at the seventh day the eggs should be tested and the unfertile ones taken away. When the eggs are well on the way towards natching and begin to chip the hen should at all times, be kept setting tight to the nest and not be disturbed too often. Even when the eggs are hatched and the chicks have made their appearance it is as well to leave her and the chicks alone for say twenty-four hours as some hens resent interference. She can be taken off and given a feed. Attention to detail is as necessary in poultry raising as in the bigger operations of agriculture if success if desired.

Now a word as to those who prefer to use incubators to hatch out their eggs. Of course by this method many more eggs can be dealt with than by the old-fashioned way and incubators are daily growing in favour. In using the incubator it should be placed in a room or building where the temperature is fairly even and where there is suitable ventilation and where the floor is not subject to any undue vibration. Be sure that the machine is quite level. The best way—just becore putting your eggs in, is to light your lamp or if hot air, let it run for twenty-four hours at an even temperature of 100 degrees Fahrenheit and then when ready put all your eggs in of about the same age, if possible, as I found very fresh eggs of four or five days old, will hatch at the twentieth day. On the other hand I have known poultrymen who have put in eggs very stale that have taken twenty-five or twenty-six days to age. It stands to reason that the fresher the eggs the better the results. The eggs should be placed in the drawer so that the small end points to the middle. After the eggs are in, unless it is a person who has thorough experience, the drawer should not be opened for forty-eight hours. After that every morning and evening until the eggs begin to chip, the drawer should be opened and the eggs turned over gently and exposed to fresh air. The time for airing should vary from one minute to two on the third day, and on the fourth day to five minutes till the end of the week then fifteen minutes or so by the seventeenth day. When the eggs begin to chip the drawer must not be opened more frequently than once in twenty-four hours.

As to heating, I think the safest plan is 103 degrees Fahrenheit to 103½ degrees for the first ten days. 103½ to 104 for the remainder of the hatching period. In one class of incubator the dry chicks should be lifted out once in twenty-four hours and put in the drying box. The remaining eggs should be carefully and very gently moved with the chipped side upwards. With the hot air type of incubator, which has the nursery below the hatching box, chicks need not be taken out until all are hatched and dry. The chicks may well remain in the incubator after hatching for thirty-six to forty-eight hours. The brooder or foster mother should be ready for them some hours before they are hatched and from the first days in March to early May the inner or sleeping chamber should be kept at a temperature of 90 degrees Fahrenheit so as to play safe.

Now the eggs should be tested in a dark room with the help of a testing lamp on the evenings of the sixth and seventh days. With a large lamp it is best to make two testings on consecutive evenings or the drawers may be kept open too long and the eggs are liable to become unduly chilled. Each egg put back as fertile should be duly marked. The stale eggs may need retesting on the 14th day (evening), but this is not necessary if all the eggs are of the same or nearly the same degree of freshness when put in. As far as possible the room in which the machine is running should be kept at even temperature. Fresh air is necessary if you want chicks to hatch out strong.

Incubator-hatched chicks can be reared by a hen satisfactorily, providing care is taken to see that the hen is thoroughly broody and that all chicks put under one hen are given to her on the same evening late and that the chicks are not chilled when carried out. There is nothing, however, like practical experience to teach one to use the incubator. I believe that poultry keepers could pick up some useful hints by attending the monthly meetings of the poultry association.

HEALTH FOR WORKING WOMEN

Let Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Help You to Become Well.

Thousands of girls have to work in homes, offices, stores, mills or factories who are physically unfit for work, with often an aged or invalid father or mother dependent upon them for support. Standing all day week in and week out, or sitting in cramped positions a girl often contracts some deranged condition of her organic system which calls a halt to her progress and demands restoration to health before she can be of use to herself or any one else.

For these distressing weaknesses and derangements these girls have found health to do their work in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Toronto, Ont.—"My work is to run a power-machine which is very heavy, and I had a pain in my left side and a weakness caused by getting my feet wet. It was only a few days later when I saw your advertisement in the paper and began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and used the Sanative Wash. The pain left my side and the weakness disappeared after I took the first bottle of Vegetable Compound, but I took five in all and used two of the Wash. I didn't have a physician and I didn't take any other medicine. If this letter will help you you may use it."—Mrs. KATY KELLY, 21 Sullivan St., Toronto, Ont.

Nova Scotia Woman Helped

Scotsburn, N. S.—"I have been bothered for over three years with a weak side caused by female illness. At times it has bothered me so that my side ached so I could feel it way to my toes. I took two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and found it helped me considerably, and I intend taking more as I know the results will be good. I saw the medicine advertised in the newspapers, and before I had finished the first bottle of it, noticed a difference in my health. I hope every woman who has female troubles will try it."—Mrs. JOHN R. MCLEOD, R.R. 1, Scotsburn, N. S.

Pains In Side

Portreeve, Sask.—"My sides would get so sore and pain so that I would be unable to move around. I felt just as if there was a weight bearing the abdomen down. I learned about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound from a neighbor who took it, and that soreness has left me. I live on a farm and have housework to do. If this letter will help any woman who suffers from female troubles you can use it. I know of no better medicine than the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. W. C. MATTICE, Portreeve, Sask.

Use Only Our Pasteurized Milk

Why? Because the city of Toronto, by compelling all milk to be pasteurized, has in ten years reduced the infant mortality death rate from the highest to the lowest on the continent.

The cities of London, Brantford and Guelph have passed a bylaw compelling all milk sold in their cities to be pasteurized. Why? Because 75 per cent. of the herds tested have been shown to be tubercular.

Consequently milk from tubercular cows should be pasteurized to be safe.

What about your children? We can protect them. Are you helping?

Want Ad Tips

A NOVEL SELLING PLAN.
(By John T. Bartlett)

"These houses I have built are good, honest houses, and the prices are right, but they are not particularly different from small homes other builders offer right along. I want some way, some method, which will cause my Want Ads on small homes for workingmen to 'stick out' from others, so, wherever else they look, inquirers will be sure to come to me, too. It seems to me there ought to be methods open to me, in Want Ad experience. M. L. H."

There are, M.L.H.—plenty of them. One of the things you can do is adopt a novel selling plan.

Since your houses are not different, make your offer of them different. A plan which has been used with success is based on the large number of people who own automobiles. A great many families with small bank accounts nevertheless own flivvers or other small cars. You can arrange, undoubtedly, to sell on the basis of a down payment equal to the value of an average used flivver. Having put yourself in this position, do not require a cash payment of buyers. Instead, offer to take the buyer's used car as first payment. The cars you can arrange to convert into cash through a used car dealer.

Your houses are probably so priced that you can allow a very reasonable, perhaps liberal, sum, for cars you take in trade.

When you get up your Want Ad on this plan, put the novel selling angle into the first line. A headline would be good, say "Trade Us Your Old Car," followed by, "We'll take it as first payment on some of our just-finished four room cottage homes," etc.

One reason this plan works is because it finds a lot of people in a thrifty mood. The automobile temporarily impresses them as chiefly an expense. When the opportunity come to trade it in on a home, they seize the chance.

Used for any service or article, a novel selling plan makes a Want Ad interesting, easy to read and to remember. If the plan is well adapted to conditions, like the one above, it is sure to be successful.

WASTED LIVES?
(By Berton Braley)

(Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, flying ace, says that the lives lost in the World War were lost in vain.)

Not quite in vain—the seas that used to be Full of a lurking death we could not see
Are clear again. And that blood-drenched expanse
Of fighting front that seared the face of France
Is growing green once more. The world is free
Of that black blight of Prussian mastery
Which threatened all that we hold good and fair
They died, who fell to save us from despair,
Not quite in vain!

Old jealousies and hates again may flare
Into a sudden fury here and there,
And diplomats may fence and disagree,
But they who fought and died so splendidly
Died in that mighty conflict "Over There,"
Not quite in vain!

A GRAND OLD MAN IS NEARING NINETY

Chauncey M. Depew Writes on Nine Biggest Events of His Life.

NEW YORK, April 11.—Chauncey M. Depew will enter upon his 90th year April 23.

The grand old man of American politics has seen four wars— and their aftermaths. He has been a friend of Gladstone, the statesman, and of Joe Jefferson, the actor.

He has made speeches in the halls of congress and before the motley crowds of the Bowery.

Since he became connected with the New York Central Railroad it has grown from a length of 128 miles to a length of 5,600 miles, and he has seen the railroads of the United States grow from 3,600 miles to 300,000 miles since he entered the railway service.

He has survived cults and fads and still retains the simple faith his mother taught him.

What are the nine biggest events that Chauncey Depew has seen in the nine decades in which he has lived? He tells of them here, in his own story.

By Chauncey M. Depew.

The first big event that I remember was the Mexican War. I was 14 years old then and it stirred me with tremendous notions of chivalry. However I could not include the Mexican War as being one of the nine big events which I have witnessed. Neither could I include the development of the railroads as that development has covered too long a period of time to be designated as an "event."

Here, then, are the nine big events which I have seen in my lifetime. I consider them big because of their far-reaching effects on the human race.

ONE: The election of Abraham Lincoln to the presidency. This was important not only because of Lincoln's association with the Civil War but also because of the influence which the character of Lincoln has had on the whole world.

TWO: The proclamation freeing the slaves. This was the first great blow at property which had heretofore been held in profound respect. It was the forerunner of the present day agitation over the rights of property. But it took slavery out of the present institutions and made the Declaration of Independence the vital idea of the United States.

THREE: The World War. This was important because by its very horror it has paved the way for peace. The governments which instigated the World War have been overthrown. Future rulers will not be so anxious to rush into war when they reflect that they are likely to lose their jobs in consequence.

FOUR: The publication of Darwin's theory of evolution. It liberalized thought; it helped to break down the narrow dogmas of a personal devil and a brimstone hell! it showed that all things are in a continual process of evolution.

FIVE: The giving to the world of Pasteur's discoveries. I consider that he has done more than any other individual to benefit the human race.

SIX: The preaching of Emil Coue of the powers of auto-suggestion. Coue did not discover auto-suggestion but he is showing men and women how they may improve themselves with it. The United States is built upon the development of the individual. Around that development hinges its whole future.

SEVEN: The invention of the telephone. When the first telephone company was formed I took a sixth interest at $10,000 and kept it for about a week. Then I took somebody's advice and got out. If I had kept that interest I would to-day have been worth hundreds of millions of dollars. But I wouldn't be here to enjoy it. The ease and the fine dinners would have killed me long ago.

NINE: The discovery of radio. It opens up a field of development as limitless as the air itself.

ILLITERACY IN THE U.S.

CHICAGO (United Press)—Figures showing the comparative illiterarcy between city and rural populations emphasize the need for better school facilities in the country, according to J. N. Manley of Memphis, Tenn.

"A national survey," said Manley, speaking at a meeting of book publishers here, "shows that in 1920 the United States had a native-born population of about 69,000,000 in an estimated total population of 110,000,000. The urban native-born population numbered 33,750,000 and the rural 35,250,000. Of the urban population 613,000 were illiterate or 1.82 per cent and of the rural 2,471,000 were illiterate or 7.1 per cent.

GOOD MANNERS.

A note of condolence or a brief visit to a family which has lost a member by death is a necessary social duty, but anything in the nature of intrusion upon such grief is unkind and inconsiderate, not to mention bad form. During at least the conventional mourning period the family unquestionably will appreciate solitude, except as to

LABOR ESTIMATES PASSED BY THE FEDERAL HOUSE

Labor Member for Winnipeg Wants Investigation Into the British Empire Steel Corporation.

OTTAWA, April 11.—(Canadian Press.)—Remaining labor estimates went through the House last night. J. S. Woodsworth, Labor member for Centre Winnipeg, was anxious to know if the Government would not, in connection with the Cape Breton troubles, hold a thorough investigation into the British Empire Steel Corporation. Hon. James Murdock, Minister of Labor, could not see how the Labor Department could step in. If employers and Labor went around with a chip on their shoulders and refused to discuss a settlement, the Department could do nothing.

On the waste paper contract, Mr. Meighen twitted Mr. Murdock over his part in the Moose Jaw election. "While we are talking about waste," dryly remarked Mr. Meighen, as the House laughed, "will the Minister explain how he came to waste time going to the Moose Jaw election and came back without being allowed to speak?"

"I took my holidays out there instead of going to Atlantic City," Mr. Murdock retorted, and the House laughed again.

Mr. Murdock subsequently explained that he had come back from Moose Jaw without speaking because his estimates were due to come up in the House."

Industrial Disputes

The vote of $231,735 for salaries and $40,500 for contingencies in the Department of Labor was carried last night.

The committee then took up an item of $35,000 for the Industrial Disputes Investigation Act.

J. S. Woodsworth (Labor, Center Winnipeg) suggested broadening the scope of the act so as to include certain municipal organization which now did not come under the act.

Hon. James Murdock said that he was informed that the British North America Act precluded the application of the industrial disputes act to such municipal organizations.

Mr. Woodsworth then asked if it was not possible to apply the act, or amend it so that it could be applied to the situation in the Cape Breton coal and steel district. Relations between the British Empire Steel Corporation an its employees were becoming strained. The responsibility of initiating legislation which would prevent violence in this field rested with the federal authorities. The situation in Cape Breton was unique because one large corporation controlled the field, and there was no neutral body of opinion. The employees were being forced to direct action.

Mr. Woodsworth quoted from a letter in which the name of Roy Wolvin was mentioned.

Captain J. T. Shaw asked if the Mr. Roy Wolvin referred to was the same gentleman who had been spoken of as connected with the Canada Steamship lines in the investigation into lake freight rates.

Mr. Woodsworth replied that he understood it was the same man.

PUBLIC SPEAKING CLASS IN DEBATE

Take Sides on Political Situation in Province of Ontario.

The Class on Public Speaking, which has met at the Y.M.C.A. during the winter, under the direction and tutulage of Mr. Jos. Wearing, finished up the exercises of the season with a debate, on Monday evening of this week. It was felt that the agility acquired during the sessions should have some opportunity to show results, which were suprisingly good.

A debate was arranged, and the subject to be threshed out was comprised in the resolution, "That the Drury Government should be returned to power at the next election." Sides had been chosen, five on each and speeches and arguments limited to five minutes, with a few extra to the leafers.

Mr. Wearing presided. For the affirmative, B. W. Rosebrough, P. Johnston and Dr. J. J. Craig came prepared to take a hand, but two of those selected to participate, defaulted. For the negative Wm. Tinker, F. A. Preston, H. B. Matthews and E. W. Jones presented themselves, that side lacking one of its polemical gladiators. However a few missing did not matter for those speaking found so much to say that every available minute was used.

It is regretted that some official whip from the House could not be present to hear all the excellent things that were said and maintained on behalf of the Government. These statements, many of them quite right and proper, showed that the people as a whole would be perfectly dense and unappreciative should the Government fail to register again. Space will not permit even an excerpt or two from the arguments.

Speaking alternately, both sides affirmed. The negative pitched in and blamed the Government for almost everything in the line of being extravagant, reckless, careless, deaf to advice, inexperience and several other bad things. No such aggregation should be permitted to control the Hall of Wisdom again. Inferences were adduced, startling and conclusive, if true, to be denied, if almost fictitious. The negative told all about timber limits, supporting Hydro recklessness, motor trucks bought at fancy prices for Good Roads, denounced the building of roads in wrong places, criticized the public debt, scoffed at Government House and claimed one colossal extravagance in around and about the Government and its supporters in the House. My, it was simply appalling the nefarious clique that was handling our Provincial affairs.

After the negative had cooled down, having blown off considerable steam, the affirmative settled down to demolish the arguments and were making a fairly good fist of it when time was called. Dr. Craig had brought along a list of the good things the Drury Government had done, intended to do and would do if returned and was making a fairly convincing address when he was cut off. Having just gotten his second wind and being in good fettle he was dealing out refutals and sprinkling affirmations but retired at the call of the referee.

Mr. Wearing summed up. Pointed out things in the manner of the debate, suggested certain improvements in speech, manner an enunciation and the Judge, or arbitrator or Official Guardian, as the case may be, decided that on the whole the Drury Government must go. And with a vote of thanks to Mr. Wearing for his tutorship during the winter evenings went off to find other diversion.

GEORGE SISLER IS OUT OF THE GAME

Will Not Play This Year and May Never Play Again—Eyes Affected.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 11 (Canadian Press). — George Sisler, adjudged the best all-round player in the American League, will undergo an operation for infected sinus condition, probably on Friday, it was learned yesterday.

The sinus condition has affected in some degree the star's vision, but the exact nature of the eye trouble has never been disclosed.

NEW ORLEANS, La., April 11 (Canadian Press). — George Sisler, first baseman of th St. Louis American League Club, is lost to the club for this season, if not for all time, the New Orleans Daily States yesterday declared Lee Fohl, manager of the Browns, told close friends here last night before the team left for Memphis.

The newspaper declares a severe attack of influenza left Sisler's eye seriously affected, and that hope gradually is waning that he will ever play another game.

Sisler, according to the story, is said to be afflicted with double vision as a result of the illness.

RUTH A TARGET FOR SLOW BALL

McGraw Thinks He Knows the Weakness of the Big Bambino.

NEW YORK, April 11. Canadian Press. — Is Babe Ruth to be fed on a diet of slow-ball pitchers by the American League twirlers this year?

Manager John McGraw of New York Giants is positive that Ruth is a sucker for slow ball pitching if it is properly controlled. In the last two world series between the Giants and the Yankees McGraw has proved the wisdom of such a theory

In 1921 Ruth failed to hit up to form. A badly infected arm was an alibi that saved him. Last year in perfect condition Ruth batted only .118 against the Giants' pitchers.

Throughout the series, McGraw's pitchers resorted almost entirely to a slow ball. Ruth loves speed, but he saw very little of it. In the game Scott pitched Ruth had a chance to hit at more fast balls than in the other four games, even then he failed.

A slow ball well controlled, an equally slow curve, and an occasional fast one to throw Ruth of his balance was the programme that was religiously followed by McGraw's hurlers. It was most successful.

In the American League last season Prudett, the sensational young left hander of the St. Louis Browns, adopted such a system against Ruth with great success. During the season he struck out Ruth something like 10 times in 15 trials. Urban Shocker of the Browns was equally successful against Ruth by mixing them up.

Ruth's failure in the big series last year will be a much discussed training camp topic. It looks very much as if the big fellow will be the target for a slow ball campaign by all the American League twirlers.

BILL BRENNAN WILL QUIT SQUARED CIRCLE

NEW YORK, April 11 (Canadian Press). — Bill Brennan, heavyweight pugilist, long known as a trial horse for fighters aspiring to a bout with Champion Jack Dempsey, is through with the ring game, his lawyer, Joseph J. Jacobs, announced yesterday.

The announcement was made when Mr. Jacobs was being interviewed about a summons against the Mail and Express Company, publishers of the New York Evening Mail, filed on behalf of Brennan.

Mr. Jacobs said Brennan was suing the Evening Mail for publication of an article charging he "laid down" in his recent bout with Luis Angel Firpo, of Argentina.

Brennan will devote his time in the future to the real estate business, his lawyer said.

EDDIE FOSTER MAY PLAY THIRD SACK

Old-Timer May Land a Berth on the Browns—In the Majors Since 1907.

The length of a major league career is not decided by the age of the individual. For while gray hairs may grow around the ears and the ankles squeak there remains something up there in the top story which carries them on.

Here is Eddie Foster, born Feb. 13, 1888, who was a member of the Philadelphia Athletics back in 1907, regarded by Lee Fohl as a candidate for the third cushion in the Browns' lineup this spring.

When Fohl was asked to map out his plans on the 1923 team he placed Eddie Foster in the competition with Frank Ellerbe and the recruits.

EDDIE FOSTER

"And why not Foster?" says Fohl. "Of course he is 35 years of age, but he's younger than Cobb, Speaker, Collins and other players.

"Foster played a prominent part in landing us a game away from the Yankees last season. Ellerbe was a cripple with a bad knee, Austin could not stand the strain more than three days and the youngsters were not experienced enough.

"Foster had a batting average on the season of .265, but I believe he hit at least .350 while he was with the Browns.

"Comes through in the pinch? Seldom misses. Still the best in the league on the hit-and-run play and you never have to shout from the bench to tell him what to do with the ball."

With Sisler for first, McManus for second, Gerber for short and Williams, Jacobson and Tobin in the outfield, third base is the only position where there will be any competition with the Browns this spring.

Football

At a recent meeting of the directors and executive of the Peterboro and District Football Association it was decided that, in accordance with the wishes of the O.F.A., an exhibition game will be played between the Canadian Woollens and the Comrades. This game, which will be the first of the season will be played at King Edward Park on Saturday afternoon. Kick off at 3 o'clock sharp. The proceeds of this game will be used to help defray the expenses of the O.F.A. officials.

Five teams have been entered in under the P. & D.F.A. for this season from the following organizations: Quaker Oats, "Comrades, Thistles, Canadian Packing Company and Canadian Woollens. The schedule is now being drawn up and will commence on April 21.

Minister Denies Fig Grant of Gold Lands.

MONTREAL, April 11.— (Canadian Press.)— An emphatic denial was issued yesterday by Hon. J. E. Perrault, Minister of Colonization, Mines and Fisheries to a report that the M. J. O'Brien Limited, had been given concession of 1,400 acres of claims in the Temiscamingeau and Abitibi counties, the new gold fields of the province. He added, however, that it was impossible for the government to prevent prospectors from transferring their claims to large firms as there were no restrictions in that sense and the minister had not jurisdiction to interfere. In fact he suggested that such procedure might even turn to be advantageous for the development of mines in this province as long as theer were no abuses. "The name of the firm of O'Brien mentioned in dispatches as having been granted extensive concessions of claims in the Temiscamingeau region does not appear on our record," he said, "but it is possible that prospectors may have transferred some of their claims to that firm or, others. We have nothing to do with this."

NON-SPORTING EVENTS ARE ELIMINATED FROM THE OLYMPIC PROGRAM

Changes and Revisions in the 1924 Schedule Were Announced Yesterday.

COURT OF HONOR.

ROME, April 11 (Canadian Press) —Only athletics in which the element of sport predominates, will make up the 1924 Olympic Games which are to be held in the Colombes Stadium, in the suburbs of Paris.

Many of the events of non-sporting character have been eliminated from the official programme, which was published yesterday.

The programme gives the competitive events as winter sports, football, polo, fencing, field and track competition, boxing, wrestling, rowing, the Pentathon, tennis, swimming, shooting, gymnastics, cycling, yachting and equestrian games.

Colonel Kentish, the British representative on the International Olympic Committee, said that every effort had been made to keep the events of the Games within the realm of athletics. He was sorry hockey did not appear on the programme, but this sport had been eliminated after the Lausanne meeting.

(There was nothing in the cable to indicate whether this applied to ice hockey, but it is presumed that this sport comes under the general heading of "winter sports.")

After a long discussion over the definition of an amatuer, the committee approved a resolution that the status of what constitutes an amateur should be left to each country. It was decided, however, that it was the principle of the committee that the payment of money to any athlete competing in Olympic Games, could not be permitted.

In an effort to insist on clean sport, a resolution was approved by the committee, creating a jury of honour, which is to sit in judgment on all alleged unsportsmanlike actions during Olympic Games. This jury will have complete power, even to the extent of barring for ever from Olympic Games in any country, persons guilty of unsportsmanlike practices during the holding of Olympic Games.

The resolution provided that the Executive Committee ofthe Olympic Games will automatically become the jury of honour during games.

To-day the International Committee will be received by Pope Pius.

At this afternoon's session of the Committee, discussion will be begun on the question of admitting nationals of former enemy countries to participation in the 1924 Games.

Colonel Kentish, who commanded a British brigade during the war, said he was of the opinion that all the ex-soldiers now were agreed that the Germans and Austrians should be re-admitted to participation. He added that there was a strong feeling among the Committeemen for approving enemy participation in the 1924 events.

LAKEFIELD RINK IS A DRAWING CARD

Annual Meeting Indicates a Successful Year—Lakefield News of Interest.

LAKEFIELD, April 11.— At a meeting of the Lakefield Rink Company the business of the past year was discussed and plans were made for the future.

These officers weer elected for the coming yeart President, E. W. Bailey ;Sec.-Treas., G. J. Elmsley; Directors, W. J. Charlton, J. F. Lillicrap, Theo Crawford and G. J. Elmsley; Executive Committee, A. W. Mackenzie, R. Jory, Theo. Crawford.

The gross receipts during the past season amounted to $1,857, which was very gratifiying.

The rink, or as it is popularly called, Lakefield's playhouse, has filled a long felt want in Lakefield and has become a real community centre. The chief of police, Robt. Webster, says: If you want to find anyone "go to the rink." All ages congregate there and many happy evenings are spent by young and old in skating, curling, etc., to say nothing of the hockey matches which draw very large crowds and the mighty roar of Lakefield's united voice cheers the home team on the victory. Politics and creed are buried there and the spirit shown is invariably that of citizenship. What could be better testimonial for a local institution.

City Baseball League Will Meet Tonight

The meeting of the City Baseball League scheduled for this evening promises to be a well attended affair. The partial disappearance of the snow has proved sufficient encouragement to the fans and players to star the teams re-organizing for the season. Entries are springing up in all classes from Midget to Intermediate and it looks as if Peterboro is in for another very successful baseball season.

Entries of the various teams will be received this evening and the plans outlined for the coming season. Play will get under way just as soon as the weather permits.

RESIDENCE RULE HITS PORT HOPE

Port Hope may feel the effect of the new January 1st residence rule more than any other club in the Central League, and there is a possibility that the Lake Ontario town may drop out entirely. At least this was the feeling in Port Hope a few weeks ago.

Port Hope has been one of the mainstays of the League from the inception of the C.O.B.L. Sandy Lockington was its first president. However ,with the enforcing of the January 1 residence rule Port Hope is left without a battery. There as in other towns the winter months are not active months industrially and sporting organizations depend on the summer months for placing players at work. If there is no work to be had, then players become scarce. If work can be secured, players can be secured as well. Larger centres such as Peterborough, Oshawa, etc. ,have not this handicap to contend with.—Lindsay Post.

LACROSSE

The lacrosse squad are impatiently waiting for the parks to dry up for the first workout. Nobody seems to know definitely what material is available for this year, and so far the only reports from the intermediate section are the loss of several men who were counted upon for this season. Fred Goodfellow has hied himself across the border, and 'Pete' King has a job at the Durant factory and will play with Leaside. So that makes two holes to be plugged.

Around Hastings there is plenty of optimism behind the prospect of three teams, intermediate, junior and juvenile. Several new men are said to have landed in the village from Bracebridge to work in the tannery, and it was expected that the intermediates would also have Andy Magee last year with St. Simon's seniors and Alex. Weir, who is coming home to Norwood for a while. Neither of these lads have their home in Norwood, but they were claimed by Hastings as being the nearest town in which the O.A.L.A. would be represented .

Last night's Toronto papers intimate that Magee has signed up with Weston, and it is possible that Weir will not play this summer. He was with Cornwall last season, and in his own village is regarded as even better than Magee.

Haveock are reported to be quietly getting ready with Bowers back in town and McKenzie also in line. Powers played goal two years in the memorable games with Campbellford..

Campbellford is credited with being fairly well supplied, but baseball has received so much attention since Charlie Davidson started to boom it, that lacrosse is said to Be forced into a second position in the preliminary gossip. Charlie Holmes will probably handle the youngsters, from all accounts, and with the hosts of good boys that have been developed in Campbellford theer should be first rate juvenile and juniors down there.

The executive of the local club held a little meeting last night, at which some business was laid out in preparation for a general meeting of the club which President Vic Hamilton will probably call next week.

First attention will be devoted to the consideration of O.A.L.A. teams, and after that a city league for novices will probably be organized. Quite a number of youngsters around fourteen and fifteen who were introduced to lacrosse last year are enquiring about this season's programme, and this interest is the surest sign that the game is returning for certain in Peterborough.

Dr. Sutton snatched a few minutes last night to drop in on the executive to hear what was doing, and incidentally to promise whatever help he could give.

BOWLING

Lawn Bowlers and De Laval will meet this evening at the Water street alleys for the ten-pin championship of the city. The game will start at 8 o'clock and is expected to be a close one.

MANUSH WANTED TO BE PLUMBER

He Stuck At It For a Year and Then Became a Big Leaguer Instead.

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 11.— Learning the plumbing trade was once the fondest desire of Henry Manush, crack recruit of the Detroit Tigers. And it wasn't over a couple of years ago that Henry cherished such an ambition.

Henry Manush is the youngest brother of the Manush family, which gave something like five boys to professional baseball.

While attending a military school at Pulaski, Tenn., Henry suddenly decided that learning the plumbing trade was far more profitable than absorbing the advantages of a higher education.

HENRY MANUSH

Packing his grip he departed for Burlington, Ia., where one of his older brothers was located. A year at the plumbing trade cause Manush to change his viewpoint. Always a good ball player, he decided that cavorting on the diamond was far softer than juggling pipes and radiators.

We next see him playing semi-professional ball at Omaha, Neb. His sandlot clouting early won the attention of the owners of the Western League club in that city. He was signed to a contract for 1922.

All he did in his first year of professional baseball was to bat .376 for Omaha, making 245 hits, of which 44 were doubles, 20 triples and 20 home runs. That was enough for the Detroit management, always in the field for hard-hitting outfielders.

The moment Cobb saw Manush in action he realized the rookie could hit. He is one of the few recruits who have not received suggestions from the Tiger leader as to how they might improve their batting. He didn't appear to have a fault. Realizing Manush had a natural swing, Ty decided to leave well enough alone.

In fielding Cobb has already made a number of changes that have helped the big fellow in his judgment of distance and his manner of handling the ball.

Likewise, Cobb has changed his style of running so that Manush is using his speed to much better advantage.

PROVINCIAL ELECTIONS IN FALL, SAYS BIGGS

OTTAWA, April 10. Canadian Press. — That he expected to see the provincial general elections this fall, and that his only hope was that the next Minister of Public Works would have the same direct interest in the public highways as he held, was the statement of Hon. F. C. Biggs, the Ontario Minister of Public Works, in the course of a short address before the otary Club here last night.

On Friday evening the Mission Band of the Methodist church entertained the boys of the Trail Rangers group in the Tuxis boys hall. The evening was very enjoyably spent in games and contests. Prizes were awarded for the latter. Lunch was served by the girls and about thirty took part in the fun.

Board of Trade Objects to Carvell's Statement.

VANCOUVER, B.C., April 11.— (Canadian Press.) —Characterizing recent statements of Hon. F. B. Carvell, chief commissioner of railways, regarding the attitude of the province of British Columbia toward the freight rates question as showing disregard for the ethics of the position, the Vancouver Board of Trade has sent a letter of protest to Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King, Prime Minister.

The letter concludes by stating that in the opinion of the board and its conception of the duties of the Board of Railway Commissioners, "Mr. Carvell has, in the letter written by him to Mr. Starkey of Nelson, disclosed a policy on the part of the commissioners which is so contrary to its traditions that we fear if such a policy is allowed to continue the confidence of the public organizations, such as our own, will be immeasurably shaken."

GOLFERS WILL COMPETE IN THE BRITISH GAMES

NEW YORK, April 11. Canadian Press. — Three and probably four United States professional golf stars will sail from New York on May 3rd to compete in the British open championship to be held at Troon, Scotland, June 11 to 15.

Gene Sarazen, United States open champion, announced yesterday that he would leave on that date, accompanied by Walter Hagen, present holder of the British open title, and Charles Hoffner of Philadelphia.

At the same time it was reported that Jim Barnes, Pelham Manor pro., and former United States National open champion, would join the invaders, but Barnes declared he had not yet reached a definite decision.

Can Blowouts Be Prevented?

Practically, yes! You rarely experience or even hear of a blowout with Firestone Cords.

Firestone blending of the different varieties of rubber assures the combination best adapted to tread, sidewall and the other elements of the tire.

Tempering, as carried on by Firestone, has an effect on the crude rubber comparable to the heat treating of steel.

Firestone air bag cure provides equal tension on the cords by placing them in smooth parallel lines and accurately drawing them into a position where they are vulcanized into a permanently balanced tire mechanism.

These are the tested methods that in Canada's newest and most modern tire plant are giving car owners a product whose value is a challenge to quality tire builders everywhere.

Each month this year has marked a steadily increasing demand for Firestone Cords that has already necessitated manufacturing in double shifts.

YANKS CAN WIN IF THEY FIGHT

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, April 11.—(United Press)—With the help of a singular break, the New York Yanks fell staggering across the finish line in October last year and won the pennant race from the St. Louis Browns by a slim margin of one game.

George Sisler pulled over too far off first base for a low throw in one of the late games of the year and that over-stretch virtually gave the Yanks the victory. The great St. Louis star severely wrenched his shoulder and had to be taken out of the game, Bill Jacobson, an outfielder, taking his place.

Aided by that stroke of fate, the Yankees won.

In the opinion of many who like to look over the figures and dope winners, the American League champions will need another similar help from Lady Luck to stem the tide that may rush on them from several different angles next season.

Since the Detroit Tigers and the Chicago White Sox have been materially strengthened during the off season and since the Yanks barely escaped with their scalps last year, it seems that the chances of the Yanks in the coming race depend largely upon what improvement Miller Huggins has worked in his club since that time.

The showing of the Yankees in the the world's series, when the Giants made them look like a second-place club in the Katy League, indicated that the greatest needs of the American League champions were a fighting heart, a brain, cohesion and hustle.

Physically, the team may have been improved with the addition of Herb Pennock, the former Boston southpaw. Joe Dugan's presence for an entire season also should help, but there can be no means of knowing that the club has had implated a heart a brain, or a hustling spirit. Those virtues are hard to cultivate in any athlete who does not possess them naturally.

Miller Huggins is of the school who believes that the strength of a club lies in its pitching. If this theory is sound, the Yankees should win the pennant, because Huggins has not only plenty of star pitchers but, in the opinion of many baseball men, he is overladen with so many stars that he will be unable to give any of them the regular work that is so essential to keep pitchers in top form.

It may be granted that the Yanks have the worst outfield in baseball, a misfit infield with two star third basemen playing third and second and a dearth of good reserve material, but against that they have the greates pitching staff in the major leagues—Mays, Shawkey, Bush, Hoyt, Jones and Pennock.

Even if several players are forced to hold down positions that they are not fitted for, and even if they need urging "from the corner" to help them out of a place that is not covered by the book, the Yanks have a wealth of fine material and, as in the case of the St Louis Cardinals, much depends on what the management is able to get out of it.

With the exception of Wally Schang, Wally Pipp and Joe Dugan, and Ruth perhaps, Huggins will have to make his players get some hustle in them. The realization of the task ahead of them and the lure of the $10,000 that no doubt will be the winner's share of a series in the huge new Yankee stadium may get the results without the use of an iron bat.

Babe Ruth, no doubt, is the one player upon whom a resuscitation of the Yanks rest, for it is an axiom that: "As Ruth goes, so goes the Yanks." If the Big Bam starts out mauling the ball, the Yanks will maul with him.

If the collapse of Ruth was due to mental and physical troubles last season, the Swat King ought to go big this year, because he has not given himself mental troubles by the financial losses his life last winter led him into and he is reported by competent judges to be in fine shape. But if the slump of the Babe was due, as the Giants maintain to the discovery of his long-sought-for batting weakness, he has little chance to come back.

As far as Ruth is concerned then, it looks like Huggins should have little worry from him. Promising of improvement also was the way Bob Meusel went about his spring training. The languid California boy seems at last to have decided to take his baseball seriously and nothing but the desire to do it has prevented him from being one of baseball's greatest stars. Huggins may use him in centerfield and, if he gets going good, the Yanks can work out a good outfield.

It seems, after all, that the chances of the Yanks in the pennant race depend largely on how interested they are in winning the championship and how much effort they put forth to accomplish that purpose.

The PRIDE of PALOMAR

By Peter B. Kyne

I was tempted last night. You should have closed then. I have changed my mind. Your offer—whatever it may be—is declined.

"I also approve," Kay murmured, and in the swift glance she exchanged with Don Miguel he read something that caused his heart to beat happily. Mrs. Parker took the paper from her daughter's hand and read it also.

"Very well, Ajax, I think we all think a great deal more of you for defying the lightning," was her sole comment.

Despite his calm, John Parker was irritated to the point of fury. He felt that he had been imposed upon by Don Mike; his great god, business, had been scandalously flouted.

"I am at a loss to understand, Mr. Farrel," he said, coldly, "why you have subjected me to the incivility of requesting from me an offer in writing and then refusing to read it when I comply with your request. Why subject me to that annoyance when you knew you intended to refuse any offer I might make you? I do not relish your flippancy at my expense, sir."

"Do you not think, sir, that I can afford a modicum of flippancy when I pay such a fearfully high price for it?" Don Mike countered smilingly. "I'll bet a new hat my pleasantry cost me not less than four hundred thousand dollars. I think I'll make certain," and he opened Parker's envelope and read what was contained therein. "Hum-m! Three hundred and twenty-five thousand?"

Parker extended his hand. "I would be obliged to you for the return of that letter," he began, but paused, confused, at Farrel's cheerful, mocking grin.

"All's fair in love and war," he quoted, gaily. "I wanted a document to prove to some banker or pawnbroker that I have an equity in this ranch and it is worth three hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars, in the opinion of the astute financier who holds a first mortgage on it. Really, I think I'd be foolish to give away this evidence," and he tucked it carefully back in his pocket.

"I wonder," Kay spoke up demurely, "which ancestor from which side of the family tree put that idea in his head, father?"

Don Mike pretended not to have heard her. He turned kindly to John Parker and laid a friendly hand upon the latter's arm.

"I think Bill Conway will drift by about ten o'clock or ten-thirty, Mr. Parker. I know he will not cause you any more inconvenience than he finds absolutely necessary, sir. He's tricky, but he isn't mean."

Parker did not reply. He did not know whether to laugh or fly into a rage, to offer Don Mike his hand or his fist. The latter must have guessed Parker's feelings, for he favored his guests with a Latin shrug and a deprecatory little smile, begged to be excused and departed for the barn. A quarter of an hour later Kay saw him and Pablo ride out of the yard and over the hills toward the west; she observed that Farrel was riding his father's horse, wherefore she knew that he had left Panchito behind for her.

Farrel found Don Nicolas Sandoval, the sheriff, by riding straight to a column of smoke he saw rising from a grove of oaks on a flat hilltop.

"What do you mean by camping out here, Don Nicolas?" Farrel demanded as he rode up. "Since when has it become the fashion to await a formal invitation to the hospitality of the Rancho Palomar?"

"I started to ride down to the hacienda at sunset last night," Don Nicolas replied, "but a man on foot and carrying a rifle and a blanket came over the hills to the south. I watched him through my binoculars. He came down into the wash of the San Gregorio—and I did not see him come out. So I knew he was camped for the night in the willow thickets of the river bed; that he was a stranger in the country, else he would have gone up to your hacienda for the night; that his visit spelled danger to you, else why did he carry a rifle?

"I went supperless, watching from the hillside to see if this stranger would light a fire.

"He did not?" Farrel queried.

"Had he made a camp-fire, my boy, I would have accorded myself the pleasure of an informal visit, incidentally ascertaining who he was and what he wanted. I am very suspicious of strangers who make cold camps in the San Gregorio. At daylight this morning I rode down the wash and searched for his camp. I found where he had slept in the grass—also this," and he drew from his pocket a single rifle cartridge. "Thirty-fwo-forty caliber, Miguel," he continued, "with a soft-nose bullet. I do not know of one in this country who shoots such a heavy rifle. In the old days we used the .44 caliber, but nowasays, we prefer nothing heavier than a .30 and many use a .25 caliber for deer."

A BIG SEASON IN PROSPECT FOR LACROSSE

Reports From All Over the Dominion Show Great Strides Forward in Canada's National Game.

THE MANN CUP.

(Written for the Canadian Press by Len. Smith)

TORONTO, April 11.—Canada's National Game, lacrosse, should enjoy its greatest season during 1923 since the fled Skin of the early days handed down the gutted stick to his pale faced successor. From all parts of the Dominion have been received reports that the grand old game is booming once again, added to which is the fact that the interests in the East, West and Centre are getting together for the common good of co-operation, one with the other and which can only result in a better understanding between all concerned.

During the past few months correspondence has been carried on between Toronto and Winnipeg in an endeavor to disentangle the mix-up caused some years ago in connection with the Mann Gold Cup, emblematic of the amateur championship of the Dominion of Canada. This trophy was won last season from Victoria by a team from Vancouver, hand-picked by Con. Jones, who in previous seasons had devoted his interests in fostering professional lacrosse, and it is stated on good authority that the cup is now available for the purpose for which it was originally devoted by Sir Donald Mann. The present proposal is to have the winners of the East journey to Winnipeg sometime prior to September 1, where they will meet the Manitoba champions, the winners to then journey to the Coast to play the British Columbia winners for the amateur championship of the Dominion. In 1924 it is proposed to reverse this order and have the B. C. winner visit Winnipeg, with the finals played in the East. Abbey Coo has been working faithfully the past few months endeavoring to revive the Canadian Amateur Lacrosse Association, to whom the Mann trophy has been turned over, and under whose jurisdiction the games above referred to would be staged, hence he deserves the commendation of all those interested in the game for the manner in which he had brought the warring factions to a common level.

With conditions back to normal at the Coast, Vancouver, Victoria and New Westminster should place amateur lacrosse on a higher plane than it has formerly enjoyed, as during the past couple of seasons the fly in the ointment has been the Mann Cup mix-up, which has now been satisfactorily adjusted.

AEROPLANE TAKES FUEL ON THE WING AT SPEED

An airplane manned by Lawrence B. Sperry takes aboard a fresh supply of fuel, without stopping, while flying 65 miles an hour. It reminds you of the express train picking up mail bags as it roars through small towns.

Items like this reveal that the development of the airplane is going ahead swiftly. Sperry's plane weighs less than 800 pounds. Compare that with your auto. The flying flivver—cheap, safe, will come.

THEATRES

BOY VIOLINIST AT THE CAPITOL

Lovers of music will have the opportunity of hearing the Boy Wonder Violinist at the Capitol Theatre, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Natan Natanson is just thirteen years old, and has at that early age created a reputation which would be appreciated by a great number of music lovers.

"ONE WEEK OF LOVE" AT THE CAPITOL

It is a strictly up-to-date story that is unfolded in "One Week of Love" the Selznick production that will be seen at the Capitol Theatre for three days beginning Thursday. The heroine is a modern girl—brave resourceful and quick-witted—a regular fighting flapper. Miss Elaine Hammerstein, star of "One Week of Love," says that the role of Beth Wynn is one of the most interesting and certainly the most exciting she ever has played.

As for the hero, he is not 100 per cent perfect American manhood. Women movie fans don't like the Model Hero any more. And so the leading man, played by Conway Tearle in "One Week of Love," is a Bad Man. In fact, he is a Cave Man. Naturally, in the final fade-out, he wins the girl.

Of course, 'One Week of Love" has plenty of action because it depicts a clash of two strong wills. The melodrama has its beginning in an unusual situation. Beth Wynn decides to add one more adventure she wagers one of her many suitors that she can beat him in an aeroplane race. But, as she is flying over the Western desert she loses control of her plane. The plane crashes through the roof of a mining shack. Inside, are three men, desperate gamblers. One of them is a white man but lower in his brutality than either of the half-breeds. The Beast he is called, wins Beth at cards. The story of his remarkable wooing and the struggle to gain back his soul forms the basis of the rest of the plot of this absorbing story.

AT THE GRAND.

Captain M .W. Plunkett's new "Dumbells" overseas revue, "Carry On," will be the attraction at the Grand for two days starting April 13-14.

This engagement will mark the fourth annual visit of Captain Plunkett's soldier organization to the Grand and it is interesting to note that they have followed practically the same route season after season, always coming to this city the same time of the year.

The new vehicle, "Carry On", is said to contain more surprises than any of its predecessors. Several changes have been made in the line-up of the organization and cast and chorus have been greatly augumented to a strength of 32. Then there is a new overseas orchestra of nine pieces, under the direction of Capt. Plunkett who makes his first stage appearance in Canada this season. The Captain opens the second half of the entertainment with his orchestra grouped on the stage. He sings one of his own songs entitled, "Come Back Old Pal," then works a school days number with his two brothers, Al and Morley, and proves himself to be a singer and actor as well as a producer.

Ross Hamilton, the famous "Marjorie", has never had more congenial songs than have been provided for him in "Carry On."

New Relations Between Russians and Koreans.

Russian soviet fears trouble this spring when it pools and divides the land in its Far East district. There most of the peasants are landowners, with 50 to 250 acres apiece. They farm this out to Koreans "on shares," while the owners hunt, fish and work in nearby forests.

The soviet will put the Koreans on an equal basis with the Russian peasant. All comers will get land, as much as they will work personall—but not more. This is an important movement, for the seat of wars and most other economic problems is in land ownership.

Anything can happen now. In London, an Englishman laughed himself to death at an American movie.

To-Day's Quotations and Opinions and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, N.Y., April 11.—(Special.)— Further cuts in Crude Oil, which were predicted from the action on the Pacific Coast, came to-day when the Pennsylvania crude was reduced 25 cents a barrel.

The result was that the market was unsettled by selling of oil shares after a fair opening. Judging from the pessimism prevailing in the speculative community at Tuesday's close, the decline in the market during the day might have been thought severe.

But the industrial average showed a recession of only one-fourth of a point and Rails were off only one-tenth.

This resistance to profession attacks encouraged interests operating on the side of the advance and the general list displayed an improved tone in to-day's dealings.

Persistent demand for General Motors at the year's best led to the belief that some important developments were in prospect. Dupont, which has large holdings of General Motors stock, advanced to 122, up 1-8. Recent success in depressing oil shares encouraged big operators to concentrate selling on this group in the first hour and further substantial recessions were forced in Cosden, Marland, Phillips and Producers to refiners.

California Petroleum was especially weak, dropping to 93 3-8 against Tuesday's high of 97 1-2 some time ago when heaviness appeared in California Petroleum. The argument was advanced that over-production in crude oil in California was the cause.

Prices would go lower as the oil is too far away for markets east of the Rockies. Tuesday the argument was reversed. Oil stocks in general were depressed on the argument that low priced oil would invade the east and force a reduction in prices.

COURT MARTIAL DIRECTORS OF KRUPP WORKS

RESISTANCE PLAN

ESSEN, April 12. — (Canadian Press).—German workers and factory directors at Krupp's had worked out a complete plan of resistance to the French attempts to requisition private property, directors of the plant where fourteen men were killed by machine gun fire testified at a court-martial today.

The Krupp directors were charged with inciting the workers to threaten the French patrol which went to the factory to requisition automobiles. Sirens sounded as the patrols approached and the French believed their lives were threatened, opening fire and killing thirteen outright, while another worker died later.

The directors said everything had been carried out on a pre-arranged schedule, denied the French troops were in any danger, and said that in any event the employees were equally as culpable as the directors.

CANDIDATE FOR MAYOR WAS ABUSIVE IN COURT

LINDSAY, April 12.—J. B. Chamberlain, who was a candidate last January for the mayoralty, created quite a scene in the police court here yesterday morning, and, together with his wife, had to be ejected from the court. He had brought a charge against a citizen for abusive language in connection with a dispute over a line fence. The offence was alleged to have taken place on December 15. When asked by the Magistrate regarding the delay in laying the information, Mr. Chamberlain said he was like Jobe—patient and long suffering.

When the case was dismissed with costs on the complainant, Mr. Chamberlain got very angry and threatened to shoot the officer who dared collect the costs. Chief of Police then laid hands on him, but he broke away. Then Provincial Officer Storey came to his rescue and took charge of Mr. Chamberlain while the Chief escorted Mrs. Chamberlain from the court room.

Sixteen cars left the tracks, eleven of which are piled in a ditch.

The train crew escaped injured.

Three hundred feet of the track and roadbed have been torn up, and damage to the track and merchandise is estimated at more than $100,000.

Meeting of the Peterboro Dental Society at Noon Today—Officers Elected

The annual meeting of the Peterboro Dental Society was held at noon to-day in the Empress Hotel. Dr. J. Craig, retiring president, presided. The annual reports were read and the following officers elected, President, Dr. C. H. Fulford, secretary-treasurer, Dr. Jethro Graham. An extended discussion followed concerning the question of closing the local offices on Thursday or Saturday afternoon of each week. On a vote of the meeting the majority decided in favour of closing the offices on Saturday afternoon of each week during the months of June, July, August and September. After that date the dentists will revert to the regular schedule of Thursday afternoon closing.

There was a large attendance at the meeting and the annual reports indicated a year of progress for the Society. Dr. J. C. Green, whose appointment as dental officer for the public schools was made recently by the Board of Education, addressed the meeting and asked for an opinion on the advisability of first making an inspection of all the pupils in the public schools before attempting any work. This plan was approved by the meeting.

PREMIER LAW MAY PROPOSE CONCESSIONS

Thought He'll Seek Refuge in Appointment of Committee on Question of Salaries.

VETERANS AFFECTED

LONDON, April 12, (Special.)—The British government in the House of Commons to-day capitulated to the demands of the combined opposition that the programme for aid to the ex-service men be modified.

The session at which the government gave way was quiet and marked by no such disturbances as occurred last night.

It was on its proposal for aid to ex-service men that the government met defeat Tuesday night. Combined votes of the Asquithians, Lloyd Georgians and the Labor groups rejected the resolution introduced by Stanley Baldwin.

After a Cabinet meeting to-day it was decided to capitulate to the Commons opposition, and such move was announced in the House this afternoon, amid cheers from the Labor benches.

Labor Insistent

LONDON, April 12.—(Canadian Press)—Report had it this morning that upon re-assembling of Parliament this afternoon Premier Bonar Law would seek refuge in the appointment of a committee to examine the question of salaries paid to war veterans of civl service. This step would be taken as a concession to bitter opposition in the House of Commons. It was the insistence of Laborites, supported by many of other parties, on a definite statement as to what the government intended to do for veterans, that formed the cloud from which developed the present storm.

Government Rebuked

Neither the Government nor the Opposition is likely to derive much satisfaction from commentaries on yesterday's scene in the House of Commons, printed in to-day's newspapers. The governme nt is told that it has blundered and been slack while the Opposition is informed that it has brought upon itself that denunciation customary when any party in the House lets violence run away with reason.

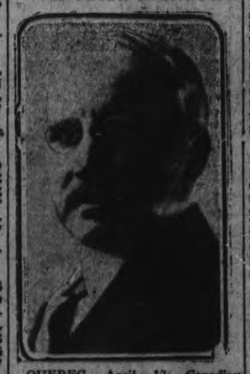
The Times, which gives general support to the government, rebukes it for not showing a more accommodating attitude towards the Opposition, but condemns the latter's "violent temper."

Liberal newspapers charge the Government with shiftlessness and incapacity. The Chronicle, looks for an early election and the Westminster Gazette states the Government has lost the unquestioning loyalty of its followers. None of the newspapers, has anything to say in defence of the action of Labor extremists.

STRIKE OF PRINTERS

LONDON, April 12. — (United Press) — Things are not like they used to be before the British Labour Party became so powerful. The Gazette, official organ of the British Government, has failed, for the first time in 288 years, to appear on time, because of a strike of workers in the Government printing office. The publication, a day late, was being run off the presses late Wednesday night with armed guards around to prevent strikers from throwing monkey wrenches into the machinery.

John H. Roberts is Released From Jail



QUEBEC, April 12. Canadian Press. — John H. Roberts, editor of the Axe, was this morning released from the Quebec jail after serving 3½ months of a year's sentence imposed on him by the Quebec Legislature.

Roberts' articles in the Axe on the Garneau murder case, resulted in his arest at the instance of the Quebec Legislature.

PREMIER WILL RECOMMEND AN EARLY APPEAL

Provincial Election May Be Held the Last Week in June--Redistribution Bill.

CAUCUS TOMORROW

TORONTO, April 12.—(Canadian Press.)— Premier Drury announced in a statement given to the Press this afternoon, that he would recommend to the House this afternoon that the Ontario Legislature close its session on May the fourth and a general provincial election be held the last week in June.

Premier Drury will also introduce his proposed redistribution and electoral reform bill this afternoon and hopes to have it developed and adopted before the Parliament prorogues. It will contain some system of proportional representation and is understood to also make provision for single transferable vote. He will also this afternoon appoint a committee to report on the bill. It will be composed of eleven government supporters, five Liberals, five Conservatives and one Independent. There will thus be an even break between the members sitting on the right of the Speaker and the members sitting on the left.

Another government caucus is planned for to-morrow and it should settle finally the question of an immeditae election or no immediate election. Farmer members expressing their own opinions seem to think that politically they would do better with an immediate election than by waiting. However, the necessity of redistribution is admitted by government supporters.

All idea of deserting the U. F. O. was repudiated by the members of the government side of the House who yesterday joined with W. H. Casselman in attacking the administration of Premier Drury, charging him with a betrayal of the party. All, interviewed by the Examiner, declared that in the next election they would be found in the U.F.O. line-up if they receive nominations. Mr. Casselman was the only one of the malcontents who voted against the government when the division was taken.

W. H. Casselman, who moved that want of confidence motion in the government, declared that the action of Mr. Hicks and himself was taken of their own volition and that the Conservatives had nothing to do with it. "Do you think that you represent the feeling of your constituents?"

"Yes," replied Mr. Casselman. "This thing has been smouldering not for months but for years."

"It does not mean that you are leaving the party and going back to your old allegiance, the Conservative party?"

Stand For U. F. O.

"Not at all," replied Mr. Casselman. "We stand where we always stood, for U.F.O. principles. We believe that they have been repudiated by Mr. Drury. He said, that rather than allow any other element to get into power he would form an allegiance with the Liberal party."

"Mr. Drury denies that he said that."

"He can say what he likes. So long as I am in the House I am not going to let him put it over me."

"Is your objection to Mr. Drury or does it include the other members of the government?"

"I think that the majority of the members of the government are all right, but they have gone back on the U.F.O. principles. If I had been a member of that government I would have resigned."

"What do you think the party should do now?"

"I'll tell you what ought to be done. I would like to see elected eight or ten farmers or more who will come here and fight for their own interests. There were about 45 farmers elected and 12 Labor men. The Labor men came here and they advanced legislation for their own interests. Did anybody tell them they were advancing class legislation? No, and when you found fault for not having a more aggressive farm policy we were met with the reply, 'Oh, we must have unity in the Cabinet.' Can you tell me one thing that this government has done for the farmers that they have felt?"

Good Roads Policy.

Mr. Casselman laughed at the good roads policy as being of no account. "Rural credits are an unsound business proposition, and I don't believe in them," he replied. "We are told that we have a sound banking system and the bank have treated the farmers fairly. They have got credit from them when others couldn't."

"Are you going to get the nomination in Dundas again?"

"I believe that I will and that it will be unanimous. I told them that if it was not unanimous I did not want it."

"What will you run as in the next election?" Mr. Hicks was asked by the Examiner.

"I don't know whether I will run or not, I do not know whether the people will want me."

"Will you run as a U.F.O.?" "If I am nominated."

"Your action yesterday afternoon, then, does not mean that you are deserting the party?" "No, if I run

HARDY CLAIMS LETTER PRIVATE

Senator Did Not Think Currie Would Deal With It the Way He Has.

OTTAWA, April 12.—(Canadian Press.)—"I might say the letter was marked 'private and confidential,' but of course knowing that it had gone into Mr. Currie's hands, I had not expected anything else but that he would deal with it in the way he has," declared Senator Hardy this afternoon, when he referred to a letter read in the Ontario Legislature by J. A. Currie last night.

The letter, said Senator Hardy, was merely along the lines of public discussion in the Eastern Ontario Liberal Association at Ottawa, when both sides expressed themselves with a certain amount of freedom. "I suppose what discussion there was," he added, "was based on newspaper reports that we have seen for a good many months past."

"I have expressed the same opinion to more than one of my friends in the Liberal party, not leaders. I have not even the honor of personal acquaintance with Premier Drury and have never had any communication or relations with him, directly or indirectly. As to my discussion with J. W. Currie, it took place in the presence of several others."

Senator Hardy's Letter.

The letter, which was read by Mr. Currie from a photographed copy, read as follows, as nearly as it could be taken down in the turmoil of the House:

"Dear Mr. Currie: The association meeting here last week has caused quite a bit of talk in connection with the matter we discussed, that is, the Drury combination. I am still of the same opinion that I gave to you, that, a linking up is advisable, and the only way out.

"I have had within the last couple of days another in connection with names I will not mention for the time being whereby exactly the opposite course would be taken. By this we would go through the elections on our own and fight everybody else with the probability of Ferguson coming back with the largest group, and perhaps a majority. The mere fact that the farmers would have to sit in opposition with us would do more to bring the two parties together than anything else that could happen, and I understand this plan is rather favored, as it would practically re-unite the old-time Liberal party in just the way we want. The ground thy friends built their theory on is that Drury cannot deliver the goods anyway, and that he himself knows this.

"I give you the above for what it is worth. Personally, when I think of politics to-day I just get tired—that, perhaps is the influence of the Senate. You might let me know what you think of the plan, because if it is taken up we must get ready to fight immediately and have a definite plan and policy to work on.

"With kind regards,
"Faithfully yours,
(Sgd.) "A. C. Hardy."

LABOR DEMAND EXCEEDING THE LABOR SUPPLY

WAGES IN U. S. A.

"We have ten vacancies for every applicant," said Mr. Hugh Robertson of the Ontario Employment Bureau on Charlotte Street, in speaking of the present demand for farm labour.

"None of the immigrants who are reported to have come to this country recently have reached Peterborough, and there is no local surplus of unemployed to draw from."

Mr. Robertson said that quite a number of farmers had recently been inquiring for men to help them start the spring ploughing and seeding and to work at least until after the harvest is in.

A few men have been available, but the supply is far below the demand from the country.

The Adam Hall Foundry on Simcoe Street is now employing more moulders than since the boom in the metal trades early in the war. This company is making castings for the De Laval Company that were formerly turned out in Oshawa, and the change has provided brisk employment for many of Peterborough's moulders.

Mr. Robertson received notice a few days ago that bricklayers were wanted for the new Ford factory at Windsor at a wage of $1.15 an hour. Toronto is also facing a busy building season although the weather has been unfavourable and has tended to delay the general construction movement, which will get under way with the warm weather.

The building tradesmen are now in a class with the best paid railway men, if not on a higher wage scale.

Montreal reports that nearly 300 bricklayers have left that city since January to work in New York and other large cities.

Follows a wage sheet of one of the Montreal bricklayers now in New York: Eight hours a day at $1.25 an hour (the rate paid by his firm), and one hour overtime at time and a half for five days; four hours on Saturday mornings straight time; five hours on Saturday afternoon at time and a half, Saturday afternoon counting as overtime; nine hours on Sunday double time, plus transportation allowance; total wages at the end of the week, $103.00.

The wage for bricklayers in Detroit after 1st May will be $1.75 and $2.00 an hour, which will likely boost the weekly cheques to around $150.00.

Plasterers are paid almost at the same rate in most of the larger cities across the border, and it is the building expansion, with consequent soaring prices, that draw tradesmen not only from Canada, but from the British Isles, too.

INVITE TEACHERS IMPART COURTESY

Minnie Mountain Horse, a dusky Indian maiden in a Western Indian school, was given the word "courtesy" in the regular spelling lesson. She couldn't spell it, but she wrote down "kindness." She had learned a great deal more than the spelling of a word, for the whole meaning of courtesy is just kindness. It is not learned from books on etiquette. Courtesy is a practical application of the Golden Rule. It is a subject that might be included in the school curriculum, and in the meantime it would be a courtesy for the teachers to co-operate with Kiwanis in putting the drive over with the young people.

All children have dreams of greatness. They should be taught that the man is never obscure who is courteous, for he lives in the minds of many.

Courtesy smoothes the road of life and never did the tough places seem harder to travel than in this age. The cry of the day is for co-operation. What is courtesy — mutual courtesy — but co-operation on the highest plane?

Men who think only of themselves — of making money, of finding pleasure, of finding a field for their pride—are not the type of men who are given to courteous treatment of others. They are not the type of men who are loved during the course of their miserable lives or mourned at their death. Such men do not contribute much to the world's progress, nor do they get much out of life. Train the children in the ideal of courtesy, and tell them "courtesy pays."

German Workers Ask That French Occupy 2 Towns

LONDON, April 12 (Canadian Press). — A despatch to the Daily Mail from Dusseldorf says that two thousand Communists from Elberfeld, which is in unoccupied territory, and two miles outside the French Customs cordon, marched to the Vohwinkel frontier post to-day, and sent a delegation to request the French commander to occupy Elberfeld and Barmen.

This extraordinary action was inspired by the refusal of the Elberfeld authorities to provide relief work for the unemployed.

DEPOSIT FISH LOCAL WATERS

Application Made to the Department—Sir Henry Thornton to Look into Ferry Service.

The organization of the "Eastern Ontario Tourists' Association" embracing 32 municipalities is proceeding on the plans which the Trent Waterways Association has found successful. Arrangements have been made to publish a twelve page illustrated folder similar to the booklet which advertises the local Association's work so well. This information was given the Examiner to-day by Leon Frazer, Secretary of the local Association, on his return from Kingston. Mr. Frazer went to Kingston to assist in the organization of the new Association at the invitation of the Government and with the permission of the local Chamber of Commerce.

Fears have been expressed that the development of the Rideau waterway will detract from the traffic enjoyed by the Trent Waterway, but it is not anticipated that this will be so. The Trent Waterway has been advertised for three years, and is established, as is evidenced by the fact that large numbers of enquiries arrive at the secretary's office daily. The feeling in the city is that if Ontario forms three Associations to advertise the beauties of the province, all three waterways will have their share of the tourist traffic. The possibilities of the traffic cannot be estimated when it is considered that there are 22,950,000 passenger automobiles in the five adjoining States— New York, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Michigan and Ohio. The local Association is big enough to realize that there is enough traffic to be developed to keep all the waterways busy. Mr. Frazer definitely stated that the Trent Association does not expect to lose tourist traffic through the development of the Rideau system, for two reasons. The Trent Waterway has been extensively advertised for three years and is now receiving free advertising in the United States which the new project cannot expect for some time. Another point in favor of the Trent system is that a stretch of water 250 miles in length can be navigated with only the same number of locks as must be passed in the Rideau system, which is 125 miles long.

Peterborough's appropriation for advertising in the Trent Waterways scheme of publicity for this year is only $400, whereas Kingston, with out having seen any results in the plan undertaken by it, has set aside $3000 or more for the first year's publicity.

Automobile Ferry Considered

G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., advised the Chamber of Commerce that Sir Henry W. Thornton, K.V.E. had intimated that the question of a convenient automobile ferry service from Cobourg to Charlotte would be investigated immediately.

Fish Deposits in Kawartha

A communication has been received at the Chamber of Commerce stating that the application for 100,000 bass fingerlings, 100,000 pickerel fry and 50,000 speckled trout for deposit in Kawartha Lakes had been endorsed by Thomas Tooms, M.P.P. and has been filed for consideration when distributions are being made in spring.

Robert D. Stuart Coming

Robert D. Stuart of the Quaker Oats Co., intends making a trip in his cruiser from Milwaukee to New York via the Trent Waterway this summer. He is well known in Peterborough.

Kingston Will Have Motor Camp

Kingston is contemplating a motor camp site which will be equipped at an expenditure of $12,000 for equipment. This makes a total of thirty municipalities with established sites for motor tourists in Ontario.

AGREE OPINION OF ENGINEERS NOT FEASIBLE

Utilities Commission Did Not Fall in Line With Suggestions Re Sub-Station Enlargement.

PLANS DISCUSSED

At the regular meeting of the Peterborough Utilities Commission, held yesterday afternoon, the contract for switch boards was not let as tenders were not all in. The Commission had a heavy session, two deputations being heard and considerable routine business being transacted.

A communication was read from the Packard Company thanking the Utilities Commission for the order for transformers for the new substation and assuring them of the good quality of the transformers.

A resolution was adopted as follows: That the council of the City of Peterborough be requested to pass a by-law for borrowing by the issue of debentures for $25,000, and also to pass a by-law to reduce the rate of interest on the debentures to be issued under By-law No. 1906 to 5 1-2 per cent. per annum

A deputation was heard in connection with Workmen's Compensation and public liability insurance, and figures were taken for consideration.

Friendly Advice.

A committee from the Peterborough branch of the Engineering Institute, consisting of P. P. Westbye, E. R. Shirley, C. R. Langley and A. C. Baries waited on the Commission with suggestions regarding the Sherbrooke street sub-station. They stated that their object was to give friendly advice as ratepayers and citizens, feeling it their duty to do so. A report had been prepared, and was read by Mr. Langley. In part, it was as follows:

"This committee from a study of the available data in connection with the new transformer sub-station feels that the Peterborough Utilities Commission should carefully consider the advisability and economy of continuing to purchase power at 6,600 volts rather than change to 44,000 volts. The 44 K.V. line is subject to the usual ills of a long transmission line—principally sleet and wind storm troubles—also lightning and surge troubles. It is obvious that the short low 6,600 volt lines from Nassau would be comparatively free from these troubles, and in addition the 6,600 volt lines could be placed underground if future conditions demanded. The installation of a 44 K.V. station would make it practically out of the question for the city to cut loose from the Hydro Electric Power Commission at a later date—should such a procedure become desirable.

Conservative Estimate.

A conservative estimate of what might be termed 'local power' available at a minmum river flow from generator stations in the vicinity of Peterborough would be 7,000 to 8,000 H.P. This figure includes Auburn, Dams 4 and 5, and Burleigh and Lakefield. In addition it may at times be possible to obtain surplus power from the Quaker Oats Company and the Canadian General Electric Company Nassau plant. We believe the present maximum city load is approximately 5,000 H.P. and that the initial capacity of the proposed sub-station is 4,500 KVA.

This indicates the possibility that even with a decided increase in Peterborough power requirements these could be eventually supplied by local generating stations, with at worst a very small proportion stepped down from the 44 KV line at Auburn. The conclusion we draw from this is that it is a strong point in favor of a 6,600 volt power supply, inasmuc has a failure of the 44 KV line would still leave the locally genertaed power available, and even though this were not quite sufficient for the maximum demand it would be much better than none at all.

HON. D. D. M'KENZIE APPOINTED JUDGE

Served For Nineteen Years in House of Commons—House Leader of Liberals After Death of Laurier.

OTTAWA, April 12. — (Canadian Press). — Hon. D. D. McKenzie, Solicitor-General, has been formally appointed a puisne judge of the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia.

The appointment of Mr. McKenzie, forecasted frequently within the past few months, comes after nineteen years in the House of Commons. He was first elected to the House in 1904 and was re-elected at the general elections of 1908, 1911, 1917 and 1921. Following the death of Sir Wilfrid Laurier in 1919, Mr. McKenzie became House leader of the Liberal Opposition and acted in that capacity till the end of the extra session of that year when the Liberal leadership was formally taken over by Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, the present Prime Minister.

On the advent of the present administration following the general election of 1921, Mr. McKenzie became Solicitor-General, a position he held until his present appointment to the Bench. Mr. McKenzie, during his political life, had the good fortune never to be defeated in an election.

His appointment will entail a by-election in North Cape Breton, Nova Scotia.

Premier Drury Talks of Going to the Country at Early Date

WILD SCENES PREVAIL IN HOUSE OF COMMONS OVER DEFEAT OF GOVT.

Speaker Unable to Obtain a Division, Declared the Motion of Closure Carried and Adjourned the House.

LABOR LEADS ATTACK

LONDON, April 12.— (Canadian Press.)— Perhaps never since the days of Parnellite obstruction has such a scene of violent uproar been witnessed in the House of Commons as that which yesterday transformed the ordinarily placid and dignified Chamber into an absolute bedlam.

The disorders arose primarily out of the defeat sustained by the Government by a small majority on a mere technical point Tuesday night.

Yesterday Stanley Baldwin, Chancellor of the Exchequer, introduced a motion framed to counteract this defeat, only to meet with a storm unexampled in present-day parliament annals, in the face of which the Speaker, powerless to obtain a division, declared the motion carried under closure and the House adjourned until to-day.

Amid the general uproar from the Labor benches was heard the singing of "The Red Flag." It was the first time the Chamber of "The Mother of Parliaments" ever echoed with its familiar words and tune; consequently it was a somewhat startling innovation, but nobody seemed to attach special significance to it, as the song has bcome familiarized throughout the country by repetition at countless meetings and demonstrations, and is recognized as Labors' "National Anthem."

While the bulk of the members of the Labor Party were contributing, each in his own way to increasing the hubbub, a solitary member started "The Red Flag." This evidently came as a welcome suggestion, for it was taken up quickly and within a few moments all the Laborites except the front bench leaders, joined in the song .Twice during the evening this happened.

None of the London papers refer to the singing of "The Red Flag" as having any special significance and the Laborite Herald gives it no more prominence than the others.

The Laborites clearly felt that they had a big stick to wield against the Government in the interests of ex-service men, which was the question originally before the House. In this attitude the Labor members are likely to receive the support of the whole Laborite electorate.

Wild Excitement.

All sort of epithets and threatening gestures against the Treasury bench came from the Laborites, especially from the small extreme group, including the Scottish members led by Jonn Joseph Jones and George Lansbury. The House, in striking contrast with Tuesday's session was crowded, and the two front benches were uncomfortably so. Excitement was at fever heat and the Speaker from time to time vainly appealed to the better feeling of the members but was unable to stem the disorder. Jones vehemently expounded the grievances of the former service men and was repeatedly called to order by the Speaker, who declared that the question could not be debated until to-day.

All the Speaker's efforts to pacify the recalcitrants only appeared to inflame them still further. The Speaker protested that if would be a very bad thing if the members should force an adjournment on account of grave disorder, and begged them to refrain. All to no purpose—"We demand an answer," was shouted on every hand by the angry Laborites.

Chancellor Baldwin's motion was that the House to-day resolve itself into a Committee of Supply, so that the difficulty in which the Government had found itself could be adjusted, but the Opposition declined to take part in a division, when closure was moved, leading finally to the Speaker declaring both the closure and the Chancellor's motion carried.

Abandon Debate.

The Government constrained to bow before the storm, had to abandon the important agricultural debate set down for yesterday and also so the expected statement from the Minister of Agriculture concerning the Government policy on the recent recommendations of the Agricultural Tribunal.

Mr. Lloyd George had only just previously asked the Government to grant a special day for discussion of the important agricultural problem, only to meet with Chancellor Baldwin's regretful rejoinder that he could see no possibility of giving a day in the future and the declaration that it is most important that the Minister of Agriculture should make his statement.

Two Views of Situation.

Two views prevailed last night over the exciting events. On the Government side, although some of the members admit that Mr. Baldwin

CONTROVERSY WITH U.S. OVER SALE OF SHIPS

Two Small Ships Purchased From United States Refused Registry By Canadian Government.

NOTES EXCHANGED.

WASHINGTON, April 12. Canadian Press. — Shipping complications of an extended character between the United States and Great Britain and her dominions are regarded here as not improbable as a result of a controversy between the Washington and Ottawa Government over two small vessels on the Great Lakes. The ships were purchased from the Shipping Board under contracts which stipulated that they should not be used in any manner which would violate the laws of the United States, and for that reason they were refused registry by the Canadian government. The particular language contained in the contracts and held objectionable by the Canadian government, apparently with the backing of London, was drafted by the Department of Justice to prevent any purchaser of Shiping Board vessels from using them as rum-runners. The Canadian authorities notified Secretary Hughes that they could not admit ships to Canadian registry which were subject to domestic laws of the United States.

In answer to the Canadian note, handed to Sir Auckland Gedes, for transmission to the Ottawa Government, contains a defence of the language employed by the Shipping Board and clearly states that the restrictions imposed upon operators of craft bought from the Board are legal and enforceable from the United States point of view.

Secretary Hughes' reply was based on opinions obtained by him from the Department of Justice, from Secretary Hoover of the Commerce Department and from other officials of the State Department. It was said to represent the unanimous belief of the three departments in the right of the Shipping Board to continue with the sale of vessels, either to United States or foreign citizens under the form of contract now being used.

While officials of the British Embassy declined to comment there were indications last night that the Canadian Government would be equaly firm in its determination not to admit any ship to Canadian registry that had been bought from the Shipping Board under the present terms of contract; at the same time it was learned that the whole subject is under consideration at the Londo.. Foreign Office, and that a position similar to that of Canada may be announced by the British government.

Such a development, in effect extending to all the British Dominions the prohibition already laid down by Canada, would bar the Shipping Board from disposing of its surplus tonnage to any British subject and if the example were copied by other nations might wipe out entirely the foreign market for United States ships. That contingency however officials will not discuss in the present stage of the negotiations.

HICKS BRINGS GRAVE POLITICAL CHARGES AGAINST THE PREMIER

HINTS DISSOLUTION

TORONTO, April 12—(Canadian Press) — Division which ended long drawn out Budget debate in Legislature, came about early this morning when amendment by W. H. Casselman, U.F.O. member for Dundas to formal motion to go into committee of supply was defeated by 29 to 62.

The amendment was as follows: "That in the opinion of this house in view of the fact that the first plank of U.F.O. platform was to cut down all expenditure not absolutely essential, and further that Farmer member of this house were elected for the purpose of securing legislation that would have as its object amelioration of disabilities under which agriculture in Ontario has labored, we regret the failure of this government to live up to ideals which brought Farmers' Government into being and placed it in power."

Following the resignation of Andrew Hicks, Government whip, and sensational charges by that Lieutenant involving loyalty of Premier Drury to United Farmers of Ontario, Premier announced probable immediate dissolution of house and prompt appeal to electorate.

In his budget speech which followed the afternoon of sensations, and, indeed preceded an evening of an even more tense atmosphere Premier Drury made two declarations neither of which was explicit of Government's intentions. He did not clarify uncertainty in replying to personal notes, to him from the press gallery after his address. Speaking of disaffection of Mr. Hicks which inferentially took with it W. H. Casselman, U.F.O. member for Dundas, and possibly F. L. W. Oke, U.F.O. member for Lambton, and M. C. Fox, U.F.O. member for South Essex, the Premier said: "Recent happenings make it doubtful whether present government ought to bring in a redistribution headed by me. The serious charges were made in house this afternoon and, if it be true that I am false to my own followers, I take it I ought not to be trusted with the carrying out of redistribution in the country. Constitutional practice perhaps dictates that I should say at once, we will pass estimates and such measures as are necessary and non-contentious and go immediately to the country."

TORONTO, April 12.—(Canadian Press).—Andrew Hicks, U. F. O. member for South Huron who yesterday sent in his resignation as government whip, made a statement before the house yesterday afternoon giving the reasons for his actions.

Mr. Hicks paid a high tribute to the other party whips for having made his position easy. He said he had always been treated with the utmost courtesy and fairness by all members and officials. The government followers had all been faithful and willing at times to do what they knew sometimes would injure them in political life.

As for the cabinet the "major portion" of them met with Mr. Hicks' approval. "But here I am forced to make a declaration on the floor of this house. I am forced to do so because of a series of observations and from facts that have have come to light. The declaration is this that I now find it impossible to honorably follow my esteemed leader, Hon. E. C. Drury, Premier of Ontario, any further. No man in this House realizes the extreme seriousness of such declaration more than I. I have considered this matter from every angle and feel that this was the only honorable course I could pursue. To give the reasons it is necessary to review the political history of the past four years." He said that thousands in 1919, dissatisfied with the old parties, voted and put the Farmers in power. Mr. Drury was selected leader and so loyal were the members that several offered to resign, including Mr. Hicks himself, to give him a seat. No. U. F. O. member ever sought preferment in the choice of cabinet. As the government got under way, feeling of temerity gave way to confidence. But a doubt began to grow, said Mr. Hicks, and people began to ask if the leader was drifting from U. F. O. principles. "I then had faith in my leader and thought he would remain true to U. F. O. principles. But certain things happened during the last recess and this session that have so changed the political attitude of the Prime Minister that there no longer exists on this side of the House that confidence between leader and members which is absolutely essential to stable government. The reason for this is nothing more or less than the fact that Premier Drury has had under advisement certain definite plans for a fusion of the U. F. O. party with a portion of the Liberal party. Conferences have been held at different times between Premier Drury and Liberal politicians, and the Premier chose to carry on these negotiations without the consent or knowledge of his followers. Therefore, I say to the private members on this side of the House, you have not in this connection violated any pledge of honor, as you have not been a party to such negotiations. To the Prime Minister, let me say, the position you find yourself in today is that. You are in the open market. You cannot determine till after the coming election whether you are a buyer or a seller, but you have become so enamored with the idea of holding office, at any cost, that you will not hesitate to take either course when that time comes. I accept the tremendous responsibility for these statements and I am prepared to abide by the consequences."

Why Violate Trust?

Mr. Hicks said he admired the ability of Mr. Drury who had been worthy of the loyal support and faithful following he had once enjoyed. "Why a public man, gifted with ten talents, should do violate that sacred trust reposed in him, is simply beyond my apprehension. The strongest thread in political fabric is that element of human trust and confidence that exists between man and man and between party and leader and when that thread is broken it is irreparable. And when the Premier condescended to even consider the question of fusion, or premeditate such in the future, it brings me to this decision, that I cannot honorably follow him as my leader. I must, therefore, declare myself now, as on the day when I was elected, that I am a U. F. O. member, adhering to U. F. O. principles and absolutely clear cut from entanglements of any kind. To the private members around me let me say that you owe a duty to yourselves and to your constituents. You have nothing to conceal. But you must clearly define your position in the present situation. The proper place and time is on the floor of the House before this Parliament dissolves. You have as private members sat quietly in your seats and with humiliation listened to the taunts which have been cast across the floor of this House. You have heard your leader, with his political adroitness and in jesting retort, advise members not to take their views too seriously.

"Why, Mr. Prime Minister, did you allow such a situation to develop? Why did you let your personal lust for office supercede the noble office you were selected to fill? Why would you dare to jeopardize this great movement, backed as it is by the good-thinking electors of Ontario and especially fostered by the, industrious, thrifty, and serious farmers, their wives and families? Why, Mr. Prime Minister, would not the heroic course have been to give the electors the assurance they demanded beyond the shadow of a doubt, that you would appeal to the country on your record and exactly on the same terms as in 1919? You, Mr. Premier, should be willing to offer yourself, if necessary, as a sacrifice for this great movement which made you Prime Minister. Permit me to say that the great U. F. O. movement will be represented by members in this House long after those present today have passed from public life. I must, for the course I have taken, be prepared to accept the condemnation in its severest form from many sources. But, if in doing so, I may be able to preserve for rural Ontario her identity in the administration of the business of the province and maintain for rural Ontario her proper status in forming the future policy of this province, I have accomplished the purpose of my effort."

Circular Letter

Mr. Hicks read from a circular letter issued asking electors their opinion on joining of the U. F. O. and Liberal forces. Asked who it was signed by he said Mr. McCreath. Liberal Leader Hay laughed at the statement that the letter was sent out by the Liberal organization.

Mr. Oke said he believed Mr. Hicks was absolutely sincere in his stating his position. "I must confess," he said, "that in regard to those charges it has been said there has been some smoke and where there is smoke one usually looks for fire." Mr. Oke said he ran as

BRITAIN WILL AID STOPPING RUM RUNNERS

DIFFICULT TO ACT.

LONDON, April 12.—(Canadian Press)—The British Government is giving due deliberation to representations made by the United States Government concerning the smuggling of liquor to the United States mainland from Nassau and other West Indian ports, the House of Commons was informed to-night by Ronald McNeill, Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs.

The question came before the House when members asked whether attention had been called to the participation in the traffic of ships flying the British flag, and whether steps were being taken to prevent "this action against the law of a friendly power."

Mr. McNeill, in confirming that representations had been made by the United States, said that the liquor appeared to be introduced subsequently into the United States by small craft from the United States coast mained by United States citizens.

"It is very difficult for His Majesty's Government to interfere with the legitimate export of any articles from British territory, especially as action by the British Government alone would merely drive the trade into other channels.

"The Government, would however, deplore any complicity of British subjects in the infringement of the law of the United State, and is considering, in consultation with the other departments concerned whether any action can be taken in the sense desired by the United States Government."

Emanuel Shinwell, Laborite, asked whether the Under-Secretary was not aware that vessels were leaving ports of the United Kingdom manned by British seamen, who were handed revolvers at the commencement of the voyage, and offered fairly high wages as an inducement to undertake what was regarded as a risk in conveying liquor from these shores to United States ports.

John Hope Simpson, Liberal, asked if Mr. McNeill was aware of the rising indignation in the United States on the subject, and to this the Under-Secretary replied: "I am aware of that indignation and think my answer shows that the British Government appreciates this and is trying to take action accordingly."

He declined to answer a supplementary question whether he would obtain information from the British Embassy in Washington in regard to a reported attack on the Yarmouth, N.S., schooner Eddie James off the New Jersey coast, recently. The question put by Mr. Hope Simpson, was:

"Whether the Foreign Secretary has information as to the piratical attack on the Yarmouth schooner Eddie James which occurred off the New Jersey coast on March 2; whether the schooner was laden with 600 cases of liquor, whether the whole cargo was removed and the super-cargo wounded and kidnapped by the pirates, whether any inquiry has been made into the case, and with what result?"

Air Route Overland To China Proposed

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., April 12 (Canadian Press). — An air route between New York and Pekin, China, has been organised, which will make possible a trip by passenger airplane in 65 hours, Brig.-General William Mitchell, Assistant Chief of the United States Army Air Service, yesterday told the Chamber of Commerce.

Winnipeg will be the first stop. The second stop will be in Nome, Alaska.

The cost to each passenger will be about $1,200.

General Mitchell said he had just organised the route, and the time was not far distant when the first trip would be made. Four stops will be made altogether.

There will be only 21 miles of water to cross at the tip of Alaska, he said. The third stop would be near the Omur River in Siberia.

Starting from New York at three o'clock in the afternoon, passengers would be landed in Pekin on the morning of the third day, he said.

Recount Gives More Votes to Progressives.

MOOSE JAW, Sask., April 12. — (Canadian Press).—The lead of H. N. Hopkins, Progressive candidate, over the Liberal candidate, Hon. W. E. Knowles, in Tuesday's by-election, was increased yesterday with a re-check of city figures and also with the receipt of more returns from the country. In the country, Mr. Hopkins, with 26 polls to hear from, has secured a total of 5,321, which, with his city vote of 2,670, gives him a total of 7,991. Mr. Knowles secured a vote of 2,836 in the country, and, with his city vote of 3,807, has a total of 6,643. This gives Mr. Hopkins a majority of 1,348.

Both candidates refused to comment on the results yesterday, preferring to await further returns.

REPORT DENIED THAT DE VALERA WAS CAPTURED

Rebel Leader Was Not With Liam Lynch When Latter Was Captured By Free Staters.

SIX EXECUTED.

DUBLIN, April 12 (Canadian Press). — Official contradiction by Free tSate Army headquarters yesterday afternoon of reports that Eamonn eD Valera had been captured near Clonmel, brought statements in Republican quarters last night that the Irregular leader was not a member of the party surrounded by Free State troops when Liam Lynch was captured.

Some declared that De Valera was not in the district at the time, but instead was attending a meeting in Dublin, but all reports as to his whereabouts are untrustworthy.

The capture and fatal wounding of Lynch, who was the Republican Chief of Staff, excited speculations of immediate peace, but there is no indication as yet of any change in the attitude of the Republicans or of the Government, the latter continuing to insist upon absolute surrender of all arms.

The execution yesterday at Tuam of six more Republicans for possession of arms is pointed to as evidence that the authorities firmly intend to continue all measures they believe necessary to restore order throughout the country.

The Government Party is strengthening its preparations for the general election, and delegates meeting here have arranged for a new organisation to perfect the registration work.

The land conference representing the Government, landlords and tenants, which was summoned to advise on the Government's promised bill providing for the compulsory sale of land to do away with landlordism, broke up yesterday at its second meeting, upon failure to agree.

GOOD WORK.

The action of the Peterborough Fish and Game Association in preparing a special exhibit for the Motor Show and in endeavouring to impress upon the people of this district the necessity of protecting the game first during the spawning season shows that the association is functioning along progressive and useful lines.

Too much emphasis cannot possibly be placed on the harm that is done by killing fish in the spawning season.

As the bulletin of the association points out, "One fish killed in the spawning time means thousands lost. You cannot take fish in the closed season and have your sport catching them in the open season."

Yet each year fish pirates are causing the loss of thousands of maskinonge.

The campaign of education taken by the association will do much to bring home to the offenders the fact that there is very little logic in obtaining two or three fish in the spring and thus preventing a chance of securing fish freely in the proper season.

The whole district will feel the effect of a successful drive along this line, for good fishing means more tourists and consequently more money spent in this section of the Province.

To protect the game fish is therefore not only good sport, but it is good business.

PROHIBITIVE RATES.

The experience of the Ottawa Journal in the test that it has been making of Alberta coal seems to show conclusively that unless the cost of transportation can be materially reduced it is out of the question to expect the Western fuel to take the place of the Pennsylvania article.

The Journal brought a car-load of coal to Ottawa and distributed it in half-ton lots to the citizens who wished to participate in the test, charging them five dollars per half ton.

Now the enterprising Ottawa newspaper has received from the Canadian National Railway a freight bill at the rate of $14.40 per ton for the car-load.

That is, it cost the Journal $4.40 per ton more for the freight alone than it received for the coal, and when the cost of the fuel at the mine and the cost of delivery is added to this item it will readily be seen that under such conditions the price of Alberta coal in this Province would be prohibitive.

The crux of the problem lies in the transportation costs.

But unless the conference this week at Montreal results in a substantial reduction in freight charges for Western coal there does not seem much likelihood of the Alberta fuel being available next season.

Upon that point the efforts of those who believe that Canada should be made independent so far as her fuel supply is concerned should be concentrated.

RELIEVING UNEMPLOYMENT.

In view of the Federal Government's decision in regard to unemployment, it might not be bad business for the Ottawa administration to study the example of Great Britain in this connection and see whether or not it would be possible to minimize the effect of any protracted period of unemployment.

Relief doles certainly do not solve the problem, and in declining to advance any more money for this purpose the Government is entirely justified.

But there is a policy that might be followed by the Federal administration.

It would easily be feasible to spread over the period of least employment various public works, such as the building of roads and the construction of needed public buildings.

Unfortunately, with municipalities as well as with Governments, it has been the habit to spend the most money on public works when times are most prosperous and to curtail to the limit when periods of depression arise.

The result has been when business conditions are bad and consequently industrial activity is falling off, there is no public works going on to absorb those made idle by the slowing down of the wheels of industry.

Perhaps a reverse of this policy would provide a practical solution of the unemployment problem.

SAVE THE LAWN.

Victoria Park has been closed to traffic for a period and thus this beauty spot will be protected from the careless stride of the citizen who likes short-cuts and is indifferent as to what harm he does in obtaining his wish.

Unfortunately, it is not possible to give the same measure of protection to private property, and for the next week or two the lawns will be at the mercy of the thoughtless who ignore the pavements and cut trails across the grass.

Is it too much to ask that delivery men, milk vendors, newsboys, letter-carriers, and others, whose business necessitates house-to-house calls will see to it that lawns are protected from the damage that is bound to follow if they are invaded in their present soft and wet condition?

It may seem a small matter, but in reality it is nothing of the kind.

Many householders have gone to considerable trouble and expense in raking care of their lawns, and the immaculate appearance of such premises is something in which not only they but the community generally can take pride.

The co-operation of the public generally in making sure that the effect is not spoiled by carelessness at this time of the year is urged as a community necessity.

BLACK HAND IN CANADA.

This is a very serious statement made by General V. A. S. Williams, the Commissioner of Police, in the annual report of the Provincial Police Department tabled in the Legislature, that during the last year there have been conclusive signs that Black Hand organizations of foreign countries have extended their activities to Canada, says the Kingston Standard. It is safe to assert, he declares, that along the Niagara border there are secret organizations of foreign origin which strive for objects which are not in keeping with British ideals or British law and order.

This might have been expected, judging from the various reports which have appeared from time to time of bomb outrages, murders and incendiary fires which are the outward and visible sign of the Black Hand. The General says that there have been murders in Lewiston, Beverley Swamp, Niagara Falls, the Welland Canal, Brantford and Oakville, all in the district in which the commissioner believes the Black Hand exists, and the murders cannot be separated from the secret societies. He suggests that foreigners be compelled to carry registration cards which would not only serve as identification cards, but also carry a record of behavious. What is wanted also is a stricter enforcement of the law regarding the carrying of revolvers, in fact of all weapons. Aliens are too ready with those hideous knives; they have been used to them in their own lands; they must be taken from them here.

AN ECONOMIC CONFERENCE.

There should be a hearty response from industrial leaders in the east to the move for an economic conference as proposed by the Canadian Council of Agriculture. According to Mr. C. Rice Jones, general manager of the United Grain Growers, Limited, the desire of the western men is to revive the "get together" movement which started a few years ago between the organized farmers and manufacturers.

This is a critical time in the industrial and economic development of Canada. No effort should be spared, no stone left unturned, no avenue left unexplored to bring about the closest possible co-operation between the various economic interests—farmers, manufacturers, merchants, wage-earners and financiers. The urgent need is to find a plan upon which all interested parties can agree, to develop the home market. There is little or nothing apparently to be expected from political parties to effect an economic readjustment which must come soon.

There are signs that the economic independence of Canada is being affected by the movement of investors as well as of skilled workers into the United States. This exodus should be stopped. The natural thing is, of course, for people to look to the nation's representatives in Parliament to produce a policy which would restore the economic equilibrium of the country. Nobody knows better than the directors of commerce and industry that it is almost futile to look to politics for the necessary lead along the path of economic readjustment.

The responsibility is upon the trusted leaders, irrespective of politics, to come together, in agreement on some practical line of action to bring Canada quickly through the transition period, in which every industrial country is more or less laboring. The Canadian people are most advantageously situated with a magnificent heritage of rich land and varied resources. The workers are sober, industrious and law-abiding. They have skill and ingenuity. There is no intelligent reason why Canada must be subject periodically to trade depression, even though other countries seem to drift helplessly into recurring periods of inflation and deflation.

The continued employment of Canadian labor on Canadian natural resources and in Canadian factories could assure every one in Canada of an abundance of what are called the necessities of life, even without the stimulus of increased purchasing power. The Canadian people at present produce twice as much as they consume every year. Surely, without introducing the interminable argument about the tariff, but leaving tariff politics out of the conference chamber, it should be possible for men of good-will in Canada to discover a method of bringing the purchasing power of the Canadian people more nearly up to the capacity of Canadian industry to produce and deliver the goods.

There is nothing wrong with the Canadian capacity to produce. The nation demonstrated that fact during the war, even though half a million men were withdrawn from productive industry for military service. But the producers are also consumers. As consumers the people need greater purchasing power to buy Canadian-made goods. There is no famine in Canada, no lack of willing workers, no lack of resources nor of machinery. The nation's real credit, based on ability to produce and deliver the goods, is sound. It is, indeed, virtually inexhaustible.

A round table conference, such as the Canadian Council of Agriculture are asking the eastern manufacturers to join in, should set out to discover a practical method of drawing on the nation's real credit to bring purchasing power in the home market more nearly up to the nation's capacity to produce.—Hamilton Spectator.

KENTUCKY BELLE WAS BIG SUCCESS, APSLEY

APSLEY, April 11.—On Friday evening, March 16, the Dramatic Club of the Methodist Church presented a melodrama in three acts, "A Kentucky Belle," to an exceedingly large audience. Each character played his or her part perfectly, showing excellent talent, and also giving proof to the amount of work it meant to the young people. Special attention is drawn to the efforts of Miss Mildred Hales and Miss Dolly Church, who did their very best to make the night a financial success.

Miss Hales won a two-pound box of Laura Secord candy for getting the most money on the gold piece, and Miss Church won a similar box for selling the most tickets. The five dollar gold piece was won by Miss Mildred Hales.

Mr. and Mrs. MacTavish opened their doors for rehearsals and did everything they could to make it a success.

Immediately after the play there was a bazaar and shadow social, Mr. MacTavish acting as auctioneer, and some have wondered since if he has missed his calling.

The play in every respect was an entire success, the proceeds amounting to a trifle over $240.00, and being used to complete the financial year and pay the debt off the parsonage.

PRESENTATION AND ADDRESS, OTONABEE

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Wood Get Gift of Two Costly Chairs.

OTONABEE, April 12.—A very pleasant event took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Wood on Friday evening, April 6, when about 60 of their friends and neighbors gathered to give them a send-off to their new home; also presenting them with a pair of beautiful chairs and the following address:

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Wood:

It is with feelings of deepest regret that your many friends and neighbors learned of your departure from their midst. We are indeed sorry to part with such tried and respected friends. We realize that your absence will mean missing links in our chain, which cannot easily be filled.

Your cheerful willing help in all progressive movements has been very much appreciated and we know your services will be greatly missed in the future. During the years you have lived in our midst you have endeared yourselves to us by your readiness to give time and home to friends and service. Many will remember happy occasions spent with you and your family and have pleasant anticipations for many more. Not only at your home have you shown kindness, but we can testify that when there was need of help, comfort or sympathy you were always to the fore to offer and give your best. Loyal to the church and always doing all in your power to foster its prosperity, you were also ever-ready to give a kindly helping hand to sick or sorrowing neighbors, and surely such a testimony was worth striving for and such hearty truly kind.

We earnestly hope your new home will be all that neighbors such as you deserve and would wish to enjoy and that you may be spared many years of pleasant and useful lives.

We, as faithful friends, wish you to accept these chairs as a small token of our love and appreciation of all services freely rendered for the welfare of this community. We all join in wishing you health and prosperity.

HONOR FOR LEAGUE.

LONDON, April 12.—The latest attempt to take glory from men credited with high honors is that of a British Yeomanry officer, Lieut.-Col. Frank Hilder, who declares he formulated the plan of the League of Nations long before the idea was thought of by Woodrow Wilson.

He says he published a book called "A Senate of Civilization" at his own expense which contained the plan for the League of Nations, and which he circulated to all heads of governments of the world.

Colonel Hilder, who is a member of Parliament, admits he got the idea from the Roman Catholic League of Nations which existed centuries ago.

A HEAVY TOURIST TRAFFIC FROM WEST

C.P.R. Increases Number of Night Trains, Montreal and Toronto.

MONTREAL, April 12.—On account of heavy tourist traffic to Montreal from the West, the C. P. R. finds it necessary to increase the number of night trains between Toronto and this city to relieve the all-year-round trains during summer months. Outlook for tourist traffic to Quebec and Atlantic coast resorts is unusually promising Province of Nova Scotia is considering inaugurating an "Old Home Month" in July or August, and if it goes through it is expected Novascotians living in all parts of Canada and the United States will spend their holidays in their native Province.

An addition to Canadian Pacific Montreal-Toronto train service will be a nightly train each way, thus making six trains every night between the two cities. A new train, commencing Sunday, May 6th, will leave Toronto at 9.30 p.m., Eastern standard time, which will then be in effect in Toronto, and will arrive in Montreal at 7 a.m. Returning train will leave Windsor Station at 11 p.m., Eastern standard time, arriving in Toronto at 8 a.m.

Past growing popularity of the St. Lawrence route to Europe has made necessary also the addition of a new train from Chicago to Montreal to connect with steamships sailing from this port and Quebec. Shortness of open ocean run to Europe has greatly increased demands of traffic from central western States as well as from Ontario and Western Canada, and sailings of C. P. R., White Star, Dominion and Cunard lines to Europe have been materially increased.

During the coming season there will be 176 sailings in 205 days. A new Chicago - Toronto - Montreal train is by arrangement with Michigan Central. It begins May 13 and will leave Chicago daily from Michigan Central depot, to arrive at Montreal at 8 the next morning. It will be known as the "Dominion Overseas," and will enable passengers from Chicago to leave their homes in the morning and at 10 a.m. next day sail from Montreal or from Quebec same afternoon. This new fast service is re-establishing one which the C.P.R. and Michigan Central inaugurated in 1914 and maintained until 1918, when it was discontinued on account of war conditions. It will reduce the present time from Chicago to Europe by practically 24 hours and will result in a large increase in trans-Atlantic traffic over the St. Lawrence route.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 12. — At a meeting last night of the chairmen of the different committees that will arrange for the "Old Boys' Re-union," which will be held here in August, eevry chairman was in his place and the interest shown was an encouraging prospect for the success of the celebration. Mayor A. J. Meyers, president, in his capacity as chairman of the Finance committee, composed of the mayor and the other committee chairmen. At the next meeting the various committees will submit estimates of the amount of money that will required, that is in any cases where there is likely to be any outlay.

One of the suggestions made for a novel feature of the programme was that of A. G. Knight, the first principal of the Campbellford High scohol and who left here in 1890 to reside in Picton, be invited here for the celebration and that he hold a two hour session in the school, his pupils being the old boys whom he taught so many years ago. The object is to conduct the exercises as nearly as possible as they were formerly held, the pupils to shed their years and act as they did in the days of their youth.

Other suggestions offered were that there be a lacrosse game between Hastings and Havelock and a baseball game between Peterborborough and Belleville and such contests would be sure to attract visitors from these places. A number of bands from neighboring towns and cities, including the Salvation Army Band of Peterborough will probably be invited to take part

"Post No Bills."

A streamer advertising the Peterborough Motor Show, stretched between two National Telegraph poles on Bridge street at the corner of Front, was such a wind-break for the gale of yesterday that both poles threatened every minute to snap and let the network of wire down into the street. J. A. Burke, operator for the telephone company, asked the town authorities to remove the sign and this was done at once.

Will Not Force Town.

A member of the Town Council has received an official letter from Toronto stating that Minister of Education Grant has again given the assurance that the school grant held up last year will be forthcoming and that the department has no intention of forcing Campbellford to build a new High school.

Japanese Opera To-night.

The Japanese opera, "Princess Chrysanthemum" will be presented in Cole's Opera House to-night and to-morrow night. The members of the cast, which includes all of the best amateur dramatic talent in town, have been carefully trained by Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Cowell, the costumes and scenery are of the best, the play being a brilliant picture of life in the royal court of the Flowery Kingdom, and the public can rely upon witnessing an entertainment of a high order. The advance sale of seats indicates a large attendance on both evenings.

DISCUSSED DETAILS OF CAVAN REUNION

Afternoon and Evening Church Services to Be Eliminated on August 6

MILLBROOK, April 12.—A representative meeting of the committee in charge of the arrangements re the Old Boys' and Girls' Re-union was held on Saturday afternoon to discuss details in connection with the Sunday services on August 26. After considerable thought had been given to the matter, on motion, Messrs. A. J. Fallis, president of the committee, P. Stinson, vice-president, and H. W. Johnston were appointed a delegation to wait upon the Ministerial Association at their meeting on Monday morning and request that the usual church services be dispensed with throughout the entire day and special meetings in connection with the Re-union be held instead. All arrangements regarding the three gatherings proposed for the Sunday were to be left entirely in the hands of the local Ministerial Association.

The committee felt that the general feeling is that the public, as a whole, will want to hear the ministers of the various denominations who will be here visiting during the Re-union, and this could be more satisfactorily done at large general gatherings than in the separate churches. Members of the laity who have attained honor in their several callings, and positions of responsibility, will be given an opportunity on Monday, August 27, to address public gatherings.

Arrangements for the sports programme which it is proposed to carry out on Monday will be completed later.

The secretary reported that, so far, only about one hundred names have been sent in, and to these invitations have been mailed, though the committee felt strongly that the response is not nearly adequate to the importance of the occasion. The president emphasized the fact, those present fully agreeing with him, that some organized effort will be necessary to secure names throughout the district, especially of those belonging to pioneer families formerly occupying farms in this township, which have now passed into other hands, so that at present no persons bearing these names live in this vicinity. Members of these families would no doubt highly appreciate an invitation to attend the Re-union, and some way should be immediately found of communicating with them. The matter will be brought to the attention of the chairmen of committees in the various wards, both in Cavan and Millbrook, and necessary action taken.

Met Ministers.

The Ministerial Association met in regular session on Monday, April 9, at 9.30 a.m., the president, Rev. G. S. Gervan, occupying the chair. Soon after the meeting was opened the association was waited upon by the deputation appointed to represent the Old Boys' Re-union Committee: Messrs. A. J. Fallis, P. Stinson and H. W. Johnston. The latter were welcomed, and their request that the entire Sunday during the Re-union be given over to special gatherings was courteously listened to. Rev. Canon Allen moved that the matter be discussed when the deputation had withdrawn. Having thoroughly considered the situation from every viewpoint, the association decided to retain the regular morning service in each church and give over the afternoon and evening to Re-union purposes. The secretary, Rev. R. M. Patterson, was instructed to write and inform the committee of the decision arrived at.

The discussion of this matter having taken up considerable time, it was decided to postpone hearing Rev. Mr. Gervan's paper on "The Significance of the Temptation of Christ" until the May meeting. Rev. Andrew McLaughlin, of Keene, who was to have been the speaker on that occasion, has requested to be given a later date.

Members present on Monday included: Revs. Canon Allen, G. S. Gervan, S. T. Tucker, S. G. Rorke, R. M. Paterson and G. I. Craw.

A Toronto Lady Says Stomach Trouble Caused Collapse, Gives Tanlac Full Credit For Recovery.

"I don't believe I'd be alive today to tell of my recovery if I hadn't taken the Tanlac treatment when I did. I feel so thankful that if could I would go from house to house and tell everybody about this wonderful medicine." This is the grateful statement made the other day by Mrs. Josephine Brathwaite, 13 Bright St., Toronto, Ont.

"Seven years ago my health began to decline, and to think that if I'd only had Tanlac then what a world of suffering I would have missed. Broth and toast was about all I dared to eat, gas and pains in my stomach after a meal nearly set me wild, and I would scream with agony. I grew thin as a rail and at times became so weak and dizzy I actually fell in my tracks.

"But since taking Tanlac I now enjoy splendid health. My appetite is wonderful, I haven't a sign of my old troubles, and have gained seventeen pounds. Tanlac has been an untold blessing to me, and I will always praise it."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 35-million bottles sold.

OFFICERS ELECTED W.M.A. MILLBROOK

Mrs. S. T. Tucker President and Mrs. C. W. Richards Secretary—Social Hour.

MILLBROOK, April 12. — The anual meeting of the Woman's Missionary Auxiliary of the Methodist Church, was held on Wednesday at 3 p.m., at the residence of Mrs. E. S. Burnham, the attendance being very gratifying considering the amount of sickness in the village at present and the unfavorable condition of the roads. The pastor, Rev. S. T. Tucker, occupied the chair, opening the meeting with prayer and choosing his Scripture lesson from the 17th chapter of Acts.

The secretary, Mrs. G. W. Richards, being unavoidably absent, Mrs. F. Smith was on motion, appointed to act pro tem. Miss M. E. Hetherington, treasurer of the Auxiliary, made her annual report showing the total amount raised of $172.47, with some fees, etc., yet to be received.

The Easter thank offering is now $52 and more will doubtless yet be sent in. Annual fees of $53 are now paid and several are still to be collected; if the Auxiliary could secure a life member again this year the total amount to be sent the branch treasurer would equal that of last year.

Miss Estelle Hetherington reported for the Department of Christian Stewardship stating that 13 new members now practice tithing, and 62 are giving systematically to the church funds. Mrs. (Rev.) F. W. White of Plainfield, has charge of this work for the Bay of Quinte Branch. The "Watch Tower" brought a number of fresh items of news from the mission fields, the president, Mrs. Tucker, reading a most interesting account of a street scene at one of the city gates in Chentu, West China.

Mrs. G. W. Sayles sang a solo, and Miss Hetherington read "His Plan," a story full of suggestion to those interested in missionary work. The election of officers then took place, the following being the list for the ensuing year:

Pres., Mrs. (Rev.) S. T. Tucker.
1st Vice-Pres., Miss A. Hampton.
2nd Vice-Pres., Mrs. G. E. Burnham.
Secretary, Mrs. C. W. Richards.
Treas., Miss M. E. Hetherington.
Cor.-Sec., Miss P. Burnham.
Supt. Christian Stewardship, Miss Estelle Hetherington.
Supt. Strangers' Committee, Mrs. G. W. Sayles.
Supt. Mite Boxes, Mrs. P. Stinson.
Supt. Mission Band, Mrs. B. R. Raper.
Pianist, Miss E. Hetherington.
Heralds for Watch Tower: China, Mrs. R. H. Edmunds; Japan, Mrs. A. J. Brown; French work, Mrs. Turner; Indian Work, Mrs. J. McKnight; Temperance, Mrs. F. Smith, World, Miss P. Burnham; Austrian and Oriental Work, Mrs. T. Luxon.

At the conclusion of the election, Rev. Mr. Tucker held a most impressive installation service for the new officers, closing with prayer.

On motion, Miss Hampton was appointed delegate to the branch meeting to be held in Cobourg on June 5, 6 and 7, and Mrs. J. Hatherly alternated. Refreshments were served at the close, and a pleasant social hour enjoyed before the gathering finally dispersed.

TALK TO FARMERS ON ELECTRIC POWER

Meeting at Campbellford Told Morrisburg Enjoys Cheapest Electric Light

CAMPBELLFORD, April 12.—C. E. Merkley of Morrisburg in Dundas County, who addresed the Farmers' Club here Tuesday night, disputes the claim that Campbellford produces the cheapest electric light in Ontario, claiming that honor for his own town. Morrisburg has a municipal plant and sell power to its local industries at $7 per horse power. There is a flat rate changed for lighting. An ordinary light cost $1 a year or $1.50 if used in a hotel or other public place. These lights can be burned for 24 hours a day if required. There is a charge of $3 a year for electric irons. The plant is small and is at present taxed to capacity but even as these low charges the town has been able to accumulate a surplus and this will be used in extensions.

Mr. Merkley contrasts the Morrisburg outfit with the Hydro that holds the field in Chesterville, 18 miles from Morrisburg. In the form er town the Hydro's charge for electricity is $85 per horse power.

Chesterville is the home of W. H. Casselman, M.L.A. for Dundas, and this may account for Mr. Casselman's hostility to the Hydro, hostility which comes to the surface in nearly every one of Mr. Casselman's many speeche, in the Legislature. He was also leader in apposition to the Adolescent School Act.

Mr. Merkley says that a private transmission line is being put up in Dundas county in opposition to the Hydro. The farmers are signing contracts at $30 for service charge and six cents per kilowatt our. The Hydro's rates to the residents of the country are $57.00 for service and 8 cents per hour.

ELECTION IN JUNE OR IN THE FALL?

Many Rumors and Prophecies Pervade Queen's Park, Toronto, This Morning.

TORONTO, April 12.—(Canadian Press) — Queen's Park this morning is filled with rumors as to future of Drury Government following exciting incidents enacted yesterday afternoon and last night in Ontario Legislature. Most of these rumors and prophesies are as to whether there will be Provincal general election in June or will Drury Government hold to what was believed to have been its original intention of going to country in the fall.

"I am inclined to take the position that my duty is now in the direction of advising his Honor Lieutenant Governor that business of the House should be closed up and then we should dissolve and go to country", said Premier Drury in the course of his statement last night in the debate following the announcement by Andrew Hicks U.F.O. member for South Huron that he had resigned his position of Government whip and expressing dissatisfaction with the Prime Minister. The statement by Mr. Drury, however preceeded a vote on an amendment moved by W. H. Casselman, U.F.O. which was really want of confidence motion.

The House expressed its confidence in government by voting down the amendment by 102 to 28, whether this action will cause the Premier and cabinet to adhere to the plan for an autumn election instead of one in June probably no one will know until the cabinet council has met, likely some time to-day, and weighed the situation.

DEEP SNOW IN THE BUSH HARD ON BIG GAME.

SAULT STE, MARIE, April 12 (Canadian Press). — Deep snow in the bush is causing havoc among big game in this district.

Reports are coming in from different points of animals starving and being killed by wolves.

The animal will not leave the camp, and is being fed by Swartz every day.

Snow along the line is restricting the yards of deer and moose, and animals cooped up in the yards now depleted of feed are easy victims for the wolves.

I recommend it to my friends and to any one I know who is not feeling well." — Mrs. THOMPSON, 308 Lizzie St., Winnipeg, Man.

When women who are between the ages of forty-five and fifty-five are beset with such annoying symptoms as nervousness, irritability, melancholia and hot flashes, which produce headaches, dizziness, or a sense of suffocation, they should take Lydia E. PLANNING DANCE AT CAMPBELLFORD

Next Terpsichorean Event by Twelve O'clock Club Will Differ From Others

CAMPBELLFORD, April 12. — At a general meeting of the members of the Twelve O'clock Club, held in the office of Dr. Murphy, the president, it was decided to hold another dance in Cole's Opera House on 19th April. This function will differ from the various entertainments given by this organisation during the winter, as supper will be served at midnight and there will be one hour's dancing after that hour. A committee of ladies will arrange for the refreshments.

The Twelve O'clock Club has had a successful season as all of the dances given have been attended by large and select audiences.

Goes to Renfrew.

Charles Mitchell, one of the best players in the Regimental Band, his instrument being the saxophone, has gone to Renfrew to join the band in that town. He has also been provided with a situation at his trade at a toolmaker.

Mr. Mitchell's father, James Y. Mitchell, is one of the veteran members of the Band here.

U. F. O. man and had not changed his ideas since. "We are now on the eve of another election and I expect the Government's policy to be a straight cut declaration, embodying the principles which gave it birth; that the flavor of office is secondary to the principles for which we stand; that we court neither alliance or entanglements with other parties, and that the principles of coalition government in Ontario are dangerous. Since these charges have been made I feel that the Prime Minister should make clear his position before as well as after the election."

U.F.O. Members Speak

J. C. Brown (North Middlesex), another U. F. O. member, said the time was premature to give an opinion. If there was a movement to join the Liberals he was not in favor of it and he would run as a straight U. F. O. "If the Prime Minister cannot clear himself I am through following him. If he can clear himself I will follow him to the last."

W. H. Casselman (Dundas) said that this was the day and the hour he had been praying for months and months. Had Mr. Drury remained true to the trust the farmers had placed in him many of the things agriculture complained about would have been remedied. Mr. Drury had placed personal ambition above these things, said Mr. Casselman. He said there was indisputable evidence that there had been negotiations for a fusion between Liberals and U. F. O's.

Unprecedented Charges

Hon. Mr. Ferguson said the situation was very grave when such charges were made against a Prime Minister. "Few members of this Legislature have ever heard such words used towards the leader of a Parliament. These words indicate a course of action by the Prime Minister which I hope he can disprove. I am surprised at the laxity of certain members. This thing should be treated seriously. These charges are made against the Premier and the leader of a party in whom the people confided their trust and have placed with him public honor as well as public administration. It is so serious that I intend to waive my right to speak on the budget so that the Prime Minister can explain and refute these charges. It has been charged that the personal lust for office of the Prime Minister has superceded his sense of duty and honor. The charge is more serious because it comes from the whip of the government party. The whip is the trusted confidant of the Premier. The member for South Huron makes the charge after much deliberation. I think the people of Ontario will look upon this as one of greatest political crisis in the history of the province. If these charges are true they mean that the Prime Minister is devoid of a sense of duty and of honor and undeserving the trust of the people. I would be extremely sorry to even think the Prime Minister guilty on this indictment. The public as well as the House is entitled to hear from the Prime Minister as early as possible. He must have early opportunity to vindicate himself the can."

Contempt For Accusers

Geo. Halcrow (East Hamilton) said he had a contempt for members making charges as they had been content to take all the government offered. He did not think they were playing the game by the government. J. M. Webster (West Lambton) said he would wait for the Premier's statement before passing judgment. Mr. Drury announced, said he would make a statement at 8 o'clock, adding that he thought the proper place for charges to have been made was in caucus and that the honorable course for the members to have taken would have been to have told him they were bringing the matter up in the House.

WILD SCENES

and the other ministers acted somewhat flippantly, and that the Government was hasty in invoking the closure motion ,it was mostly held that when the House meets to-day the effervescence will have subsided and some means of accommodation will be found. On the other hand, the Laborites charcaterize the plan devised by the ministers and Speaker as an ingenious quibble and declare that strict adherence to parliamentary tradition would have dictated the resignation of the Government.

J. Ramsay MacDonald, the Opposition leader, in inviting the Government to explain its plans, plainly declared that Tuesday night's vote was a vote of censure. He expressed ironical sympathy with the Government, which "after a series of unexampled defeats in by-elections now finds itself faced with an unexampled defeat so far as the records of the House of Commons are concerned."

Ridiculing the Ministers' contention that it was a snap decision since Conservatives were in the House who refused to support the Government, he declared that to call the defeat an accident was a delightful way of clothing a disaster, and he counselled the Ministers to feel chastened by the incident and be very careful in the future.

Point was given to Mr. MacDonald's arguments by the actual fact that four Conservative members on Tuesday night voted against the Government on the ground of solicitude for the treatment of ex-service men, Had they voted with the Government the ministry would have been saved from defeat.

Government Very Weak.

Whether the Government will eventually break before the storm remains to be seen. Its weakness has been repeatedly proved both inside and outside the House. Some ministerial adherents welcome the present incident as a useful lesson and a warning against slackness on the part of the Government supporters, many of whom allow social and other attractions to divert them from close attendance in Parliament, while a strong and determined Opposition ,especially the Labor party, for the most part lacking these social temptations, is ever watchful to catch the Government party napping.

The Speaker's appeal to the Laborites to follow the exampe of their leader, Mr. MacDonald, was met by George Lansbury and many others springing to their feet and shouting and shaking their fists at the ministerial benches. The Laborites evidently were in fighting mood and it is impossible to predict what course they will adopt to-day. The uproar was incessant and overwhelming when Colonel Pretyman, a Government adherent, tried to start the agricultural debate.

Came to Blows.

Accounts are conflicting concerning the actual scrimmage in the House, and eye-witnesses are hopelessly at variance. Laborites assert that one of their members was struck, accidentally or by design, and that this precipitated an attack on the Hon. William Ormesby-Gore, Under-Secretary for the Colonies, by a Scotch member, with whom the Under-Secretary immediately came to grips. Both Ramsay MacDonald and Chancellor Baldwin intervened to separate the contestants and several angry Laborites were seen rushing behind the Speaker's chair, apparently with the intention of attacking some of the ministerialists, but were prevented by their colleagues.

John Robertson, Labor member for the Bothwell Division of Lanarkshire ,turning to the ministerialists, exclaimed: "You have assaulted us. Come outside and assault us there, you dirty cowards."

The Government has issued a strong whip for the attendance of all its supporters to-day, when the first business will be to get the Speaker out of the chair.

The Laborite tactics appear to have been devoted to forcing the Government to make a statement on ex-service men before proceeding to the debate on the estimates. During the adjournment last evening, Mr. MacDonald, John Robert Clynes and Arthur Henderson were appointed a deputation and saw Premier Bonar Law and Chancellor Baldwin in the Premier's private room. They urged the Premier to consent to make such a statement, but Mr. Bonar Law declined, and insisted that the House should adjourn until to-day.

The Labor Party will meet and discuss the situation early in the morning. The Liberals and Lloyd Georgites voted with Labor in the division, which led to the Government defeat, but took no active part in yesterday's proceedings of the Laborites, contenting themselves with an attitude of reaping where the Laborites sowed. It is generally believed, however, that recent events have tended to cement the growing union between the two Liberal sections.

Hands Were Raw Would Crack and Bleed

Eczema or Salt Rheum, as it is commonly called, is one of the most agonizing of skin diseases. The intense burning, itching and smarting, especially at night or when exposed to heat, are almost unbearable and relief is gladly welcomed.

The pre-eminent success which

has met with in permanently removing a disease of such severity is due to its wonderful blood cleansing and purifying properties.

Mrs. M. R. Willard, Dudswell Jct., Que., writes: "For about three years I had eczema, in a very bad form, on my hands. They were all raw and would crack and bleed so that I could not do my housework. I tried everything I could think of without any results. At last I got a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters, and when I had it about all taken I could see it was helping me; by the time I had taken five bottles my hands were all well again and I have not been bothered since. I cannot praise Burdock Blood Bitters enough."

To-Day's Quotations and Opinions and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, April 12. (Special)—Sugar securities to-day came under the bullish influence of the new high for Cuban raws while oils were still under the cloud of declines in crude with the possibility of further cuts.

Recent strength in raw sugar was reached six cents cost and freight Wednesday, a new 1923 high, has been based largely on purchases by the refineries. The wholesale trade had been buying in a hand to mouth fashion for consuming requirements and not for speculation.

It is estimated that the trade has now only about two to three weeks supply on hand.

Rise in sugar prices coming before sugar beet sowings were completed either in this country or in Europe, is most favorable from a consumer's standpoint. With each one of Germany, it is estimated that sowings of beets in European countries should be increased from 10 per cent. to 25 per ct. over last year. But harvesting of European countries doesn't Start until Sept. In the meantime there is plenty of chance for a squeeze in the commodity if the movement and consumption is large. Present indications, however, point to much more ample supply in 1924.

The market also was handicapped by the fact that yesterday's average for twenty industrial stocks are compiled by the Wall Street Journal, falling to 101.08, a new low since February.

This, it was explained to-day, was principally due to the fact that Texas Company showed a loss of 1 3-8, since the stock was split up on a basis of four for one. The net change each day has been multiplied by four in the compilation of the averages so that its Wednesday recession was equal to 6 1-2. Otherwise the industrial average will have stopped above the low point touched on last week's break, for most pivotal stocks received support well above that level.

This fact encouraged the belief that the reaction had been completed and the whole market would rally sharply when pressure was lifted from the oils. This idea was strengthened by the improved tone in the early dealings of speculative leaders like Steel, Baldwin, Studebaker, Anaconda and General Motors.

NO TAXES PAID ON LAND DEED TO GOD

Four acres of land in that township was deeded to God Almighty by Mr. and Mrs. Peter E. Armstrong in gratitude for the "loving care and numerous blessings" He had shown them.

Although the deed was recorded in 1864 and no taxes have been paid on it in all these years, the authorities have never felt like moving against such sanctified property. However, it is believed that the title to the land has already automatically passed to the Commonwealth, and some action may be taken shortly, it was said.

Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong in making their unusual bequest were evidently actuated by a deep and abiding faith and a genuine gratitude for the blessings bestowed on them, according to the old deed.

The deed states that being fully impressed by the Holy Word that God's children should not claim to hold property of any kind as individuals, but that they should consecrate unto God all things, the land is "hereby given to God to be redeemed at the second coming of Christ."

The four acres thus deeded is said to have been the entire extent of the property of Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong.

Milton Fox, who seconded Casselman's resolution, was interviewed by the Examiner in regard to his support of Mr. Hicks.

"Does that mean that you have want of confidence in the government or Mr. Drury?" asked the Examiner.

"I do not know that it was a motion of want of confidence," replied Mr. Fox.

In the division on the Casselman amendment, which came after midnight, twelve voted with the government and four against it. It Pays to Paint and the Better the Paint the Better It Pays

A Paint to be efficient must be 100% pure. That is why Martin-Senour 100% Pure Paint is the most economical and satisfactory Paint to use. By a "Pure Paint" we mean one that contains no ingredient that cheapens it. Substitutes only add weight or bulk.

It costs just as much to apply a "cheap" one as it does a good one. True, you save on the "first cost," but you pay dearly, because the article or building painted will look shabby in a few months. Better buy Martin-Senour Paints and play safe.

PRESSES IN COMMONS RAILWAY CLAIMS OF MARITIME PROVINCES

Hon. J. B. M. Baxter, Minister of Customs in the Late Dominion Government, Objects to the Development of American Ports at the Expense of Canadian Ports.

SEEKS INFORMATION.

OTTAWA, April 12 (Canadian Press). — "I am not a secessionist. I do not think anything that could make me a secessionist, but there are people—and they are largely in the Province of Nova Scotia—and there are some in New Brunswick who are beginning to talk of getting out of Confederation."

The declaration come from Hon. J. B. M. Baxter, Minister of Customs in the late Government, in pressing the railways claims of the Maritime Provinces in the House yesterday. Why should Canadian trade find its way to United States seaports, Mr. Baxter queried. He would go to the extent of placing a differential on shipments to Portland. British preference, he further suggested, should be restricted to goods entering Canada via Canadian ports.

In reply, Hon. George P. Graham, Acting Minister of Railways, intimated that Sir Henry Thornton and the National Railway Board had in mind the development of Canadian ports but their difficulties were great. He announced further that he would later submit to Parliament what was proposed for the encouragement of Canadian ports and it was a policy which Mr. Graham felt confident, would be eminently satisfactory to the House and the country.

Mr. Baxter asked if there had been any revision of the boundaries of the Eastern region.

The Minister of Railways replied that this was a matter for the Board in which it was no part of the Government's duty to dictate.

Mr. Baxter referred to the question of keeping the railways out of politics. Insofar as policy was concerned, he believed it was impossible. Parliament must see that all parts of the country had fair treatment and that the C. N. R. would meet the aspirations and needs of every Province.

Illusive Hallucinations.

Dealing with the situation in the Maritime Provinces, Mr. Baxter objected to the development of American ports at the expense of the Canadian ports. The people in the Maritime Provinces had accepted "the illusive hallucinations of gentlemen who now did not seem able or willing to carry out the policy which they had laid down."

He asked if there was a national railway policy. A national railway could not be made of rails, ties, and rolling stock alone. There must be a national spirit behind it.

There had been suggestions that expenditures were proposed at Providence, Rhode Island. This would indicate that the National Railways' business in the United States ports was to be further developed. He could not thus far secure any official information on this. But the people were entitled to this information. They should be informed of whether the policy of these railways was national or international. He was not asking to read into the bargain of confederation anything which was not there. He did not mean to say that the Maritime Provinces were to have some wonderful reductions in rates and so forth. Behind that agreement, however, was the idea of national unity under which each part of the Dominion was to share in the burdens of the other part.

The National system reached only Halifax and St. John of the Eastern Canadian ports during part of the year. If there was a national policy for this road, it would see that everything posible was done to develop those ports instead of allowing the traffic to be diverted to ports in another country.

A return brought down in the House had shown that the Canadian National did not handle a single bushel of grain into Halifax last year while we hauled 17,000,000 bushels to Portland. It was useless to say that shippers demanded this routing. Surely the Canadian National Railways had agents or canvassers who could have this changed. In the same time the Canadian Pacific Railway had hauled to St. John as much grain as the Canadian National was hauling to Portland and was thereby performing a national service by assisting in the development of the Canadian ports.

Drop Politics Awhile.

If the people of the Maritime Provinces would realize this and drop their politics for five minutes this Parliament would be elected on that issue. For the development of the Eastern Canadian ports, Mr. Baxter said he would favor going to the extent of placing a differential against shipments to Portland. The doctrine of Laurier that Canadian trade should move over Canadian railways and through Canadian ports, was a good one but it required to be carried out.

Mr. Baxter said the people of Moncton wanted an explanation of the removal of the C. N. R. headquarters from there and they were entitled to it. The eastern region should be administered from within the Maritime Provinces as before.

Mr. Baxter said that he was not a secessionist and he did not think any one could make him a secessionist, but in the Maritime Provinces there was a feeling that that section of the Dominion would be better outside Confederation. Why should Canadian trade find its way to the United States seaports. He suggested restricting the British preference to goods coming into Canadian ports. There was an opportunity for a national policy which would reconcile the Maritime Provinces to consideration.

Another Maritime Port.

Hon. W. S. Fielding said that he was largely in sympathy with the remarks of Mr. Baxter, but he felt that the member for St. John had missed an important point. By acquiring the Grand Trunk Railway Canada had acquired another maritime port. Were the rails to Portland to be allowed to become rusty in order that Halifax and St. John should have business? When the government of that day acquired the Grand Trunk Railway it acquired also a rival to St. John and Halifax.

Mr. Baxter said that even if Canada had to let the rails rust to Portland we should get the same traffic by way of Halifax or St. John. If any end of the railway was to lose should it not be the foreign? Instead of Yankee workmen and trainmen receiving the benefit of this business let the men of the Maritime Provinces have it.

Mr. Fielding: "Wouldn't it have been wiser to consider this before acquiring those Yankee conections?"

Mr. Baxter: "I didn't acquire them and no vote of mine would have favored their acquisition."

Sir Henry Drayton objected to Mr. Fielding blaming the last government for setting up Portland as a rival to Halifax and St. John. Portland had been the rival of these Canadian ports long before the government acquired the railway. He understood that the Board now in control of the Canadian National System was considering improving the facilities at Portland. That was one thing which the previous government had not done. All it was being asked was that an effort be made to direct Canadian traffic to Canadian ports.

Feeder Starts at Chicago.

Hon. George Graham reminded Mr. Baxter that, in its capacity as a Canadian citizen, he was the owner of every foot of line in the Canadian National Railways, no matter whether that line be in the United States or Canada. It was important also to remember that one of the great feeders of the Grand Trunk system started at Chicago in the United States. Canada must reciprocate to a certain extent if she did not want retaliatory measures from the United States.

Sir Henry Thornton and his board were under great difficulties but they had in mind developing Canadian ports wherever they could. Mr. Graham intimated that at some future time he would be able to give a statement of what was proposed in the matter of encouraging Canadian ports which would be eminently satisfactory to the House and the country.

T. L. Church, Conservative, Toronto North, said if Parliament were to continue considering railway rates from a sectional basis, as in the Crow's Nest agreement last year, the country would be well rid of the National system.

Duplication of railways had increased freight rates. As far as the railway commission's powers and value to-day were concerned, this body was an expensive luxury. Parliament should keep out of the question of railway rates. These should go to the railway commission which was the proper body to handle them.

Dr. Murray MacLaren, Conservative, St. John, rose to speak shortly before six o'clock, but intimated that he would rather defer his remarks until later. Sir Henry Drayton rose to ask regarding extensions of the Grand Trunk system to Providence, R.I. Some $7,000,000 had already been spent, and another $9,000,000 was necessary to complete the work. His impression was that it was simply a case of adding $5,000,000 to the expenditure, but conditions might have changed since then.

Sir Henry asked Mr. Graham what the outlook to-day was. Mr. Graham said he did not particularly want to go into details now. The situation was much as Sir Henry had outlined it. Some $7,000,000 had been spent in the time of Mr. Hayes and had simply remained at that. In order to complete the line charters had to be renewed by two states. This renewal was expected within a few days, and then the Government would be able to make a definite pronouncement.

The House adjourned.

TELLS DYSPEPTICS WHAT TO EAT

Avoid Indigestion, Sour Acid Stomach, Heartburn, Gas on Stomach, Etc.

Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble, say medical authorities, are due nine times out of ten to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. Chronic "acid somach" is exceedingly dangerous and sufferers should do either one of two things.

Either they can go on a limited and often disagreeable diet, avoiding foods that disagree with them, that irritate the stomach and lead to excess acid secretions or they can eat as they please in reason and make it a practice to counteract the effect of the harmful acid and prevent the formation of gas, sourness or premature fermentation by the use of a little Bisurated Magnesia, at their meals.

There is probably no better, safer or more reliable stomach antiacid than Bisurated Magnesia and it is widely used for this purpose. It has no direct action on the stomach and is not a digestent. But a teaspoonful of the powder or a couple of five grain tablets taken in a little water with the food will neutralize the excess acidity which may be present and prevent its further formation. This removes the whole cause of the trouble and the meal digests naturally and healthfully without need of pepsin or artificial digestents.

Get a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia from any reliable druggist. Ask for either powder or tablets. It never comes as a liquid milk or citrate and in the bisurated form is not a laxative. Try this plan and eat what you want at your next meal and see if this isn't the best advice you ever had on "what to eat."

REMINISCENCES OF LAKEFIELD BRIDGE

LAKEFIELD, April 12.—The reports which have been published that the Lakefield County Bridge is condemned and will have to be replaced by a modern one, have stirred up reminiscences among the older inhabitants. The present iron bridge with its stone piers replaced a wooden bridge built over the river at the same point years before. History says that the wooden bridge was the second bridge to span the Otonabee at Lakefield, however, when wooden bridge number two was the second bridge to span the Otonabee at Lakefield, however, when wooden bridge number two was travelled with great care but it was on the main pensed with. A prominent Smith farmer was riding over one day on horseback (a popular mode of locomotion in those days) and the bridge being none to secure, gave way and he went through, but rare presence of mind seized his horse's tail and was brought safely to land as the horse swam the stream in good style.

About forty-one years ago the iron bridge was built and as a means of crossing the river a ferry ran from Hague's Point above the Charlton mill to the foot of Reid street. This ferry, which just was really a scow worked by means of a windlass was operated by a Mr. Bell, a negro, who resided in the village at that time and popularly known as "Nigger" Bell. This proved convenient in many ways but had grave disadvantages also, as the ferry often was on the opposite side of the river when there was especial need of haste in crossing. As the ferryman was alone in his undertaking he naturally did not run his craft all night, and if there was strong necessity for crossing the river during the night a strong plank was put across at the site of the present bridge on which one could walk or creep across. Emergency calls for the doctor were fought with many perils in those days but history does not record a single fatality.

The present stone piers were put in ten years or more after the erection of the iron bridge (replacing wooden piers) and were considered a fine piece of masonry at that time.

The passing of the old bridge marks a new era in the history of the village and the erection of a modern new structure will be a matter of strong local interest as the new bridge will add to the appearance of the village.

PRINCE IS MIDSHIPMAN.

LONDON, April 12. — Prince Nicolas, 19, second son of the King of Roumania, has signed up as a midshipman in the British Navy.

WHERE IS KING TUT?

PARIS, April 12. —When Lord Carnarvon's successors reopen the tomb he discovered at Luxor, Egypt, they will be disappointed, King Tutankhamen will not be there. The real tomb of King Tut was discovered in 1912, says George Rene, the French Egyptologist.

Gas From Food Presses on Heart

If food does not digest it turns into poisons which form gas. This often presses on heart and other organs causing a nervous, restless feeling. Simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Alderika, removes foul, decaying food-matter you never thought was in your system which caused gas and pressure on heart. Alderika expels poisons and gas from BOTH upper and lower bowel. EXCELLENT to guard against appendicitis. McDermid & Jury, E. L. Payne, druggist.

WOMAN STARVES FOR CHARITY.

BRIGHTON, England, April 12. —Discovery of the body of Miss Mary Planner, 86-year-old recluse, here revealed the story of how she starved herself to spend all her money helping others. All her income went to charities.

FINED FOR "CUSSING."

TOTTENHAM, Eng., April 12.—One of the defendants in the magistrate's court here is back $10 just because someone overheard him "cussing" for 20 minutes at a stretch. He was fined 50 cents a minute.

"There Were Many Things Which I Could Not Eat"

Mrs. H. Robert Wells, English Harbour, Trinity Bay, Nfld., writes:

"I was troubled with nervous dyspepsia—so much so that there were a great many things I could not eat at all on account of the distressed feeling afterwards. I used many different remedies, but they did me little good. Finally I tried Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and Kidney-Liver Pills, and was surprised at the relief this combined treatment gave me in such a short time."

A CHANGE OF COPY.

The advertiser who inserts Want Ads regularly, always selling the same or similar things or service, had this question to consider:

"Shall I run the same copy week after week—or shall I change it often? Does the message repeated over and over get better results than the same "talking points" put in different words each time? In some ways I think it would. What is Want Ad experience on this point?"

There are some things to be said in favor frequent change. The public likes change. It is interested in new things—including new wording of an advertiser's Want Ad. Display advertisers recognize the principle, yet realize the importance of impressing the same facts again and again on readers. So they, "Repeat—with a difference." They run advertisements all of which are alike in some respect—the style of illustration, say, or the size or arrangement—and then tell their story each time in somewhat different fashion.

Want advertisers often do this, too. They tell much the same story in different words. Then they use a slogan, perhaps, or the same copy style, or other device which makes all their Want Ads in some respect alike.

On the other hand, there are advertisers in the nature of whose business it is difficult to get "news" copy. A furniture store can feature different articles and offers in a Want Ad, from week to week, readily; but a painter and paperhanger faces a different situation entirely.

As it works out in practice, the natures of an advertiser's business largely determines whether he does or does not change his Want Ad copy often.

This, however, is the big point in the whole question. The important thing is not so much changed copy, or repeated copy, but right copy.

Whether he changes or repeats, the advertiser should see that his copy is right. He should study his goods and services and his market. He should determine the kind of offers, words, phrases, etc., which make his advertising pull best results. Then in his copy continually, whether he changes or repats, he should make capital of these restful things.

PREDICT BIG FUTURE FOR WESTERN PORT

Premier Oliver Believes Vancouver Will Be Canada's Greatest Port in Ten Years' Time.

CALGARY, April 12.—(Canadian Press.)—Predictions that within ten years Vancouver would be the leading ocean port of Canada in point of shipments, was made here yesterday by Premier John Oliver, in an address before the Canadian Club. Mr. Oliver outlined the position of British Columbia in its fight for repeal of freight rates and strongly stressed the point that the aims of Alberta and the Pacific Coast province were identical.

British Columbia is not asking favors ,but an equal chance with the rest of the Dominion, said the Premier, and "we are going to get it."

The opening of the Panama Canal, he said, has started a natural movement that not even the Dominion government can stop and is going to create a condition that will surpass the hopes of the most sanguine.

Premier Oiver looks forward to the Pacific coast ports becoming the most important in the Dominion, due to the fact, in part, that the ports of Montreal and Quebec are closed for from four to five months of the year.

The problem of reductions on freight rates does not only affect the prairies, but is Dominion and empire wide, even affecting the world to a certain extent, Premier Oliver emphasized throughout his address that it was on the importance of future development of Alberta, whose interest in the proposition is fully as keen as that of the coast provinces, that should be born in mind.

During his discussion of the manner in which rate adjustments had been treated by the Board of Railway Commissioners of Canada, Premier Oliver voiced a bitter denunciation of the work of Hon. F. B. Carvell, chairman of the Board, of whom he said: "Mr. Carvell has given an ample demonstration of his unfitness for the office which he holds and has given sufficient cause for the country to remove him from that office."

HUSBAND DIDN'T DARE LEAVE HER ALONE HER HEART WAS SO BAD

Those feelings of faintness, those dizzy spells, the all-gone sinking sensations which come on from time to time indicate a weakened condition of the heart and a disordered state of the nerves.

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS

have no equal as a remedy to strengthen the heart, invigorate the nerves and build up the run-down system.

Mrs. C. Vanhorn, Eckville, Alta., writes:—"About a year ago I had heart trouble. My husband didn't dare leave me alone, and often I would just feel kind of faint and my heart would seem to stop beating. I would just faint away, and it would sometimes be an hour before they could bring me back to life. Someone told me about Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I got three boxes I took them and felt much better, so continued all Winter, and now I ever feel any such faintness, I surely do appreciate the good they have done for me."

THE CAUSE OF SICKNESS

Almost Always Due to Weak and Impoverished Blood.

Apart from accident or illness due to infection, almost all ill-health arises from one or two reasons. The mistake that people make is in note realizing that both of these have the same cause at the root, namely poor blood. Eiether bloodlessness or some other trouble of the nerves will be found to be the reason for amost every ailment. If you are pale, suffer from headaches, or breathlessness, with palpitation of the hearth, poor appetite and weak digestion, the cause is almost poor blood. If you have nervous headaches, neuralgia, sciatica and other nerve pains, the cause is exhausted nerves. But run down nerves are also a result of poor blood, so that the two chief causes of illness are one and the same.

If your health is poor; if you are pale, nervous or dyspeptic, you should give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial. These pills act directly on the blood, and by enriching it give new strength to worn out nerves. Men and women alike greatly benefit through the use of this medicine. If you are weak or ailing, give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial and you will be pleased with the beneficial results that will speedily follow.

If your dealer does not keep these pills you can get them by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

South Monaghan,
April, 9, 1923.

To the Editor of the Examiner,

Dear Sir,—Being a subscriber to your paper I would like to say a few words re the late season in regard to the fur catch. Now we have only about ten days till the end of the present season via 21st April and people who owns their marshes, and other who have rented marshes and paid the government the fee of $5.00 fir license to trap will be out of pock et the Indians and whites as well, and as there is at date of writing 16 inches of blue ice in the center of the river here it will be infinitely worse in the north country. So I think it is up to the U.F.O. powers that be in Toronto to send word to the several district game wardens and deputies that in case of complaint being laid against trappers for leaving their traps out another week or so that no prosecutions be made till the first of May and as we have no time to get a petition circulated for this, it is due to Mr. E. N. Macdonald or Mr. Tooms to see to it that it is brought to the attention of the Government in Toronto, who surely do not want our license fees, without giving us a chance to get something for our money. Hoping you will print this in the nterests of fair play and justice We are

Yours truly,

Apples Were Selling at $27 Per Barrel.

OTTAWA, April 12. — (Canadian Press).—The Special House Committee on Agricultural Conditions extended its investigations yesterday afternoon to the Parliamentary cafeteria. At the instance of Thomas Sales, of Salt Coats, the committee sent for one of the apples retailed in the Parliamentary cafeteria at five cents each, weighed it and worked out the selling price on that basis at $27 per barrel.

Professor C. B. Sissons, of Victoria College, Toronto, speaking from some practical farming experience, said that farmers (if farming were considered as a commercial proposition) were not making money. "Speaking simply on Ontario," he said, "I should say that the number of farmers who are making or have made at the same time interest on their investment and reasonable wages for themselves—and that would be my definition of farming on a commercial basis—is extremely small and has been extremely small."

Canadian Woman is First to Sit in Council.

GENEVA, April 12 (Canadian Press Cable). — At the opening of the meeting of the governing body of the International Labour Office here yesterday, President Fontaine extended a special welcome to Mrs. James Carruthers, the delegate representing the Canadian Government, and the first woman to sit in the council.

In the course of a discussion on hours of labour, British Labour delegates declared that certain states, although they themselves observed the eight-hour day, had hesitated to ratify the convention with reference to this matter, and bind themselves for ten years, with the result that Great Britain had not formally ratified the Washington Conference.

Reference was also made to the fact that neither Germany nor France had ratified the convention.

A resolution was finally formulated, asking for the appointment of a commission to submit suggestions regarding the best method of obtaining ratification.

OTTAWA, April 12.—(Canadian Press).—F. W. Patterson, past president of Associated Federal Employees' Union Number 66, continuing his evidence before the Civil Service Committee of the House, yesterday afternoon favored a departmental organization from the Department itself and a re-classification of the work of the service by men who know it. Flowers Express Character.

By W. R. BEATTIE.

Flowers are a mark of refinement and culture regardless of where they appear. The woodland beds of violets, the snowy banks of laurel, the bluebonnet of the plains and a thousand others are nature's expression of refinement.

Flowers about the home, like the clothing worn by the inmates, bespeak the very soul of the people who dwell within. Reasonable simplicity in planting flowers and shrubs about the home is a mark of good breeding and artistic refinement.

Expensive plantings of shrubbery and flowers are not essential, in fact are undesirable in most cases. The finest effects can generally be produced by using plants that are either native to the region or those that may be easily grown from seeds or cuttings.

To Beautify Home.

To make home surroundings beautiful, first, secure a smooth, clean carpet of grass on the lawn; second provide suitable shade trees where the available space is sufficient third, plant a reasonable variety of shrubbery or other plants around the house so as to have something in bloom the greater part of the time.

Another factor in home adornment is the use of annual and perennial foliage and blooming plants to fill in the shrubbery and provide harmonious color effects. In the main, the scheme should be one of border effects, the center or main body of the lawn being kept free of any plantings.

The most universal shrubs are berberis thunbergii or Thunberg's barberry, not the common outlaw barberry that causes wheat rust, but a very ornamental dwarf shrub or hedge plant that bears small red seed pods that remain on the plants all winter; spirea or bridalwreath, Viburnum Americanum or high-bush cranberry, cornus alba, which is a dwarf shrub of the dogwood group, and several varieties of dwarf punipers which are evergreen.

Care in Selection.

There is considerable range in varieties among these. The local florists can suggest those that are especially adapted to the locality. The great danger lies in the selection of too many different kinds and of overdoing the planting.

Splendid effects can be secured with annual flowers, also those known as perennials which bloom the second season. Scarlet sage or salvia, sweet peas, geraniums, cannas, asters, dahlias, old- fashioned hardy phlox, cornflower or bachelor's button and a host of others are adapted for producing immediate or quick results.

There are a number of hardy climbers for porches and over arbors including several varieties of climbing roses, wisteria, clematis, and others. Everblooming roses of the bush type are always appropriate but do best when planted in a separate bed from the shrubbery or the annual plants.

Dr. McPherson Heads P.A.A.A.--City League Officers Elected

ANNUAL MEETING OF CITY BASEBALL LEAGUE WAS WELL ATTENDED

GROUNDS FREE.

At a well attended meeting of the City League last evening Ward Patterson was elected president for the season o 1923. H. T. McFadden was also nominated for the office but presented the plea that his connection with one of the teams of the league might place him in an embarrasing position should any complicated questions arise, and on the vote being taken the office went to Mr. Patterson. The other officers will be: First Vice-President, N. Van Peer; Second Vice-President, Edward Wright; Secretary-Treasurer, V N. O'Connell. The executive committee will consist of the officers and one representative from each team in the league.

Prospects for the coming season are exceptionally good for baseball in Peterboro. It was pointed out by the president that one large item of expense, the matter of obtaining grounds for the games, had already been taken care of by the offer of the Baseball Club to allow the use of Riverside Park, free of charge. This will be a big assistance and shows that the senior team is ready and willing to back the junior organizations in the development of ball players.

It is expected that leagues will be operated in the Intermediate, Junior, Juvenile, Midget and Bantam series. The latter series is a very recent organization but a cup has already been donated for the winners of the city league series and four organizations have already entered teams.

Two entries were received last evening for each on the Intermediate and Junior series and efforts are being made to have at least two more teams in each. These teams should not be difficult to find as there are plenty of ball players in the city who are only too ready to play in either series if some person or organization can be found to back up the team.

Numerous applications have been received for Juvenile and Midget series and it is probable that eight team leagues will be run in each of these series.

Several representatives were present wishing to enter teams in a Mercantile section, but it was pointed out that as the City League is already affiliated with the O.B.A.A. teams will have to be entered in the regular series and mercantile teams would come under the Intermediate class. The disbandment of the old Mercantile League last year has left these commercial teams without an organization under which to play and the representatives present felt that they could not organize teams from their factories or commercial houses which would be strong enough to compete with the teams already entered in the Intermediate section. As a result the Mercantile League may be reorganized to give these teams an opportunity to play. It was pointed out last evening that as the Mercantile League has not been affiliated with the O.B.A.A. players in this league would still be eligible to play in the City League teams if their services were required.

Another meeting of the City League will be held on Monday evening at 7 o'clock at which the final arrangements will be made to get the various teams under way as soon as possible.

RE-ELECTED.

Dr. A. W. McPherson.

The Firemen also scored two in their half of the second but the K. of C. grabbed two more in the third giving them a lead which they held to the end.

Dunkerley did the pitching for the Firemen and had eleven strike outs to his credit with but one walk. He was touched for eight safeties and though his team mates gave him good support the few errors they did make came at the wrong time.

RANGERS SWAMPED BY THE ORANGEMEN

One-Sided Game Ended With the Score Standing 22 to 6.

L.O.L. 50 had a great time in the game with the Rangers last evening. The final score was 22 to 6 for the Orangemen who scored ten of their runs in the first innings. From then on theer was no doubt of the final outcome for the L.O.L. boys scored practically at will.

Caladine did the twirling for the Rangers and the Orangemen hit his delivery hard and often. In the fourth inning the L.O.L. boys distinguished themselevs by pulling off a snappy double play.

LAKEFIELD READY FOR BALL SEASON

E. M. Grier Was Re-elected President of Ball Club at Annual Meeting.

LAKEFIELD, April 12.—At the reorganization meeting of the Lakefield Baseball club held last evening E. M. Grier was re-elected president for the coming season. Other officers elected were: Honorary President C. S. Tanner, Vice-President W. C. Weaver, Secretary Treasurer F Erskine, Manager J. R. Hill, Business Manager R. H. Everett. The officers were all re-elected with the exception of Mr. Weaver who replaces C. Crawford who was last year's vice president but who has since moved away from the village.

General plans for the season were discussed but it was felt that no definite work could be done until after the meeting of the East Peterboro League. The following officers were elected as delegates to the League meeting: E. M. Grier, F. Erskine, R. H. Everett and J. R. Hill.

Arrangements are being made to obtain the use of the Exhibition grounds for the games this year.

The question of the organization of a town league was also discussed and as there are already four teams willing to enter such league it is probable that it will be fostered by the Club as it would do much to aid the development of new players.

In his closing remarks, the president paid a tribute to the work of President Howden for his work in connection with the East Peterboro League last season.

Final arrangements will be made about the grounds and other matters as soon as the league meeting is held.

Fast Game Last Evening Ended in a Tie With the Score 7 to 7.

Matthews was on the mound for the Rotary and was in fine form. He fanned no less than fourteen and walked but one. On his play he deserved to win but his teammates came across with a few odd errors at the wrong moments allowing the Gunners to romp home with the scores. But seven hits were registered against him.

Piercy did the pitching for the Gunners and while he fanned but three the Rotary found his offerings hard to hit for safeties. His team mates were backing him up in fine style and gathered in many a wallop that should have gone for a hit. He also had seven hits registered against him.

PETERBORO'S PROGRESS IN ATHLETICS SHOWN IN P.A.A.A. STATEMENTS

Dr. A. W. McPherson Re-elected President at the Annual Meeting Last Night — Many Games Flourishing But the Finances Decline.

THANKS FOR HELP.

Dr. A. W. McPherson was re-elected president of the Peterborough Amateur Athletic Association at the annual meeting held last night in the Council Chamber.

Reports for the year presented a gratifying record of achievement not only in the outstanding successes of the baseball and hockey clubs, but also in numerous other athletic activities covering a wide range of sports, including notable progress in softball, rugby, boxing and lacrosse.

The general review of the operations of the clubs affiliated with the P.A.A.A. emphasised the appealing fact that literally hundreds of men and women are engaged in and enjoying the fun and exercise and recreation of games to which they were strangers a comparatively short time ago. In brief, the process of reclaiming these players from the ranks of the spectators has made splendid advances since the P.A.A.A. came into being.

The financial statement showed a debit balance of $130.00 from an expenditure last year of $5,891.22. The accounting disclosed the assistance that had been given to three of the ball teams, the rugby team, the lacrosse club, and other weaker sisters in the city's family of sports. For the future, Dr. McPherson considered the prospects for co-operation from all the local athletic organisations. Incidentally, he outlined his own ideals of how the stronger and more financially productive games could materially assist the poorer ones by taking thought of their needs and manifesting a wish to help them in their difficulties.

The officers elected upon the recommendation of a nominating committee were as follows:

Hon. president, Rev. Paul Costello.
President, Dr. A. W. McPherson.
Vice-president, J. E. Sullivan.
Secretary, L. H. Ingram.
Treasurer, George F. Campbell.
Executive, J. P. Bond, Carl Browne, and H. T McFadden.

Mr. Ingram succeeds Mr. C. E. Curtis, who will assist him in the secretarial duties, at the same time following up the sports which he has promoted.

Hockey Report.

Mr. J. P. Bond made a verbal report of the work of the hockey committee. He had been authorised to select its personnel, and enlisted Messrs. Frank Convery, L. Loucks, E. Wright, A. Cranfield, and C. R. Widdifield to act with him. Everyone agreed, he said, that the season had been a very successful one. Both the Intermediate and Junior teams had gone to the semi-finals, and but for an accident near the beginning of the last game the Intermediates might have gone into the finals.

"All the players deserved great credit," Mr. Bond said. "They were home-brews, and gave the best they had. The Intermediates carried the Juniors at quite a loss, and although there were big gates, the balance was small. This was due to a number of causes. The teams were not stinted.

The committee thought the boys should be well looked after, and they were. At the close of the season they were given souvenirs. The committee regrets that the balance wasn't large enough for the P.A.A.A., but all the money that was spent was spent on the teams, and outside of the P.A.A.A. none were more entitled to it. I don't think it was any more than they deserved."

Softball Schedules.

Reporting the progress of the Men's Softball League, Mr. J. E. Sullivan said that there were sixteen teams entered last fall, eight each in the club and industrial sections. They played 75 games, with only one default, and had a balance of $35.00 after giving the winners a banquet.

"This spring we had applications from twenty-two teams," Mr. Sullivan continued, but in order that the schedule might be completed in time this number was reduced to twenty, with ten in the club section and ten in the industrial section. At the close of this week there remain 23 games to be played, and there has been only one default up to the present. I think everyone agrees that here is more interest than ever in the softball league. We have been greatly encouraged by the fine spirit that exists among the players, and we expect the finals will be played by 12th May. It looks as if three teams will be tied for the club section, and in the industrial group the Canadian Woollens are leading, but with the possibility of a tie there.

All in all, I think the Softball Association is filling a long-felt want in this city. It is filling between the hockey and outdoor ball seasons, and is providing recreation for men who for the most part don't participate in other games. Altogether there are 300 men enrolled."

Mr. Sullivan said the League was indebted to Alex. Kay and his staff of umpires. As an example of the strenuousness of their duties, they had four nights this week, with a list of games for Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Sullivan also acknowledged the help of Dr. McPherson, as commanding officer of the Rangers, and his successor, Lieut.-Colonel Bradburn, for securing the Armouries for the games.

Mayor Taylor presented a silver cup for the League championship. It was won last year by the K. of C. team, and was donated for perpetual competition. Mr. Joseph Kennealy had given a shield for the industrial group winners, and G. N. Gordon, M.P., another shield for the club section. These trophies became the permanent property of the winners.

Mr. George Macdonald had offered a special trophy for the team that conducts itself in the most gentlemanly manner, the award to be made by the staff of umpires.

Girls' Softball.

Sixteen girls' teams had played softball last summer, Mr. Fred Gandy recounted. After their first schedule another comprising eight teams was run off. Mr. Gandy singled out Mr. Curtis for special mention in the assistance he had given this League. When it was launched all the girls had to be taught the rudiments of the game, and as they progressed they aroused keen interest in the hundreds of citizens who attended.

Mr. Gandy said he expected 20 teams this season and asked for the assurance that the trophy promised by Mr. Smaill last season would be forthcoming.

Mr Curtis informed Mr. Gandy that there had been some disappointment in regard to the first cup promised but that another had been donated, and there remained only the arrangements for its presentation to the Colonial Weaving team, the league winners last year.

Track and Field Sports.

Dr. McPherson regretted that Dr. Frank was not present to tell of his efforts to establish track and field sports. He had spent his own money in buying some equipment, and competitors had been sent to Bowmanville and Orillia, but on the whole the response of the young men had been negligible, perhaps due to so many other attractions. The P.A.A.A. had also co-operated with The Examiner in its annual road race, and had contributed the second prizes.

Commenting upon last year's baseball Dr. McPherson said: "I want to take this opportunity of congratulating the Maple Leafs, the Adanacs, and the C. G. E. team, not to mention the Central Ontario league, upon thir success. They all played high class ball, and their conduct was everything you could wish for. We were sorry the Central League team didn't win the championship, and we felt that Adanacs were the best team in their series in Ontario. However, two championships out of four is something any city could be proud of. We have to thank men like Mr. Kay, Mr. Wright, Mr. Curtis, Mr. McFadden and other members of the C.G.E. club, and those who worked so hard for the Central Ontario team, and we hope they will have greater success this year. We have every reason to expect they will do well because we feel they will have better teams. The Peterborough Baseball Club may feel assured that this Association will do anything they can to assist in bringing the championship to Peterborough this year."

The Hockey Record.

Briefly touching upon the two girls' hockey teams, the city league and school league, Dr. McPherson dwelt at some length upon a phase of the hockey committee's statement which he said impressed him. Some explanation he felt was necessary because many of the citizens might think that the P.A.A.A. had received a great deal of money through the hockey club last winter, whereas the surplus from the committee to the P.A.A.A. was only $1.03.

"I am satisfied with the committee's hockey accounts," he said. They had been explained in detail and were accepted as correct. The committee were entitled to thanks for their work, but Dr. McPherson said he felt that some money had been spent rather lavishly. It was a pleasure to know that the money had been spent that way rather than in paying players, but the purchase of so much supplies did not seem justifiable.

Dr. McPherson said he was expressing his own opinion, and he believed that the hockey players did not require all the equipment they got. If there was more of the disposition to consider the needs of sports that were not so well off the teams that drew large gates would not be inclined to spend their money so freely.

The Underprivileged.

"As I see this matter, there are a great many boys in Peterborough who have no facilities for playing games and it seems selfish on the part of an organization or of persons to spend more than is necessary for their requirements. Let the boys deny themselves a little so that there will be some of their money left to help those in need, to be passed over for the poorer ones, whether young and old, who are unable to get gates. The P.A.A.A. in this matter is in the position of a parent among the various sports, and it would be unfair to have all the money spent on one child and leave none for another."

Dr. McPherson said he had the feeling that those who were engaged in sport and were amply repaid by the pleasure they got out of it. They should not consider that the money belonged to them.

Tribute to Teams.

"I don't want anyone to interpret my words in a harsh, criticizing way. The money was spent honestly, but personally I don't think it was spent wisely. We discussed this matter with the committee last night, and it is with their knowledge that I am making these remarks. I don't think we ever had two teams that conducted themselves so well as the boys last winter Some times they were playing against bigger players, and sometimes against faster, and they went clear as far as the semi-finals. All credit is due them. We can't carry on the general work of the P.A.A.A. without co-operation, and had there been the co-operation I speak of and money have been saved we might have had one thousand dollars to be used in assisting other organizations."

Dr. McPherson pointed out that the continuance of senior teams depended upon the supply of recruits from the juniors who were developed, but unless some one took an interest in encouraging and financing the juniors how was hockey, considered broadly, to be carried on? Dr. McPherson said he liked to think of managing hockey in the same way that soft ball was directed.

Lacrosse.

The president paid a tribute to Dr. Sutton for the keen interest he had taken last year in lacrosse.

"I don't think any other person facing the discouragements Dr. Sutton met with would have followed it up. The lacrosse club had no funds and the P.A.A.A. had to take care of their deficit. I hope lacrosse has come to stay, not only because of the recreation it provides, but because it is our national game and it is a great game. It would be a pity to lose such a great game."

Rugby.

Dr. Wood reviewed the effort to revive rugby last fall. A single schedule in the city league of four teams was won by the Excelsiors before the O.R.F.U. series opened. Both the O.R.F.U. games were lost, but considering the available material and the fact that it was the first year in rugby for many of the players, Dr. Wood was satisfied that they had done well and had shown wonderful development. The cost was one practice ball and $4.50 for tickets up to the first O.R.F.U. game. The players fully equipped themseves. The Collegiate team had been helped financially, and also in coaching through assistance given Carl Brown. Dr. Wood said he expected a better season this year.

THE SECRETARY'S REPORT

Mr. Curtis read the following report:

This report will deal with the work of the Association in the interest of various branches of sport not reported on by other members of the Association.

Running.

Last fall we sent Dick Bates and Johnny Ward to Toronto to compete in the Bathurst Street Business Men's Modified Marathon. We also co-operated with The Examiner in the annual road race on Thanksgiving Day, and provided prizes for the Junior race.

Boxing.

Towards the latter part of October the Box ing classes were resumed with Wilfred Jones as the instructor. We sent two boxers to the Riverside A. C. tournament at Toronto, and opened our local tournaments. The classes were continued throughout the winter. This Spring we planned to hold a number of Boxing tournaments, and this programme has been carried out with considerable success. Our last show was very favorably received. We co-operated with the Oshawa A.A.A. and sent three boxers to their show in January. Oshawa boxers visited Peterboro on two occasions, and further competition between the two clubs is being arranged. The conduct of the boxers has been excellent. Mr. Frank Millard has given Instructor Jones and the Secretary much assistance at the classes and the tournaments.

Hockey.

Dr. McPherson assisted in organizing the Girls' Hockey Club, and assisted the principals and the vice-principals in getting underway a hockey league for the school boys, the games being played at the Collegiate Institute rink.

The Secretary assisted in organizing a Junior City Hockey League. The Girls' Hockey League tried a plan of co-operation whereby the two organizations pla,ed their games at the Brock street rink, contributed to the rental for the rink, and shared in the gate receipts. Due to a number of causes this plan was not successful, and both organizations suffered. Several players that were brought out by the Junior League were used on the Junior O. H. A. team and a number of other players will be available for Junior O. H. A. next winter.

Mr. Tom Shields and Mr. Leo Copp deserve much praise for their work in behalf of the Girls' Hockey Club. Messrs. W. Weatherston and R. Kendry for Auburns; Mr. Lew LeBarr for the Lakeviews, and Mr. V. O'Connell, for Sacred Heart, should be given credit for organizing their teams in the interests of the younger players.

Basketball.

The Secretary assisted in organizing the Peterboro Girls' Basketball League, of eight teams, representing industrial plants and commercial establishments. Owing to sickness among the players several clubs dropped out early in the race. From the clubs of the League players were chosen for a team to represent Peterborough in the Ontario Ladies' Basketball Association, and games were played with Toronto and Oshawa. Basketball players from the Y.M.C.A. refereed the games of the local league, the championship being won by the Normal School. Mr. F. Gandy was president of the league and carried out his duties well. For much of the success of the league credit is due Miss Littlefield, physical directress at the Y.W.C.A.

Thanks to Donors.

On behalf of the P.A.A.A., Dr. McPherson thanked Mayor Taylor, G. N. Gordon, J. P. Bond, J. Kennealey and George Macdonald, for their trophies; and also Mrs. Knox for her help in connection with the P.A.A.A. tag day; the Curling Club for their grant of $50; the Manufacturers who had furthered the work of the Association; the members of the Branch Committees; the General Executive, and all others who had assisted in any way the work during the past year, were mentioned in the president's expression of appreciation.

"We have had a rather rough time," Dr. McPherson said, "but I hope the sailing ahead will be smoother. Various organizations have given us encouragement, and I believe we have overcome all the opposition we have met. A great deal of it is due to misunderstanding and to idle talk on the street. If we will all work together earnestly and honestly we will succeed."

A Common Interest.

R. M. Glover said that apparently those clubs that weer making omeny felt that they did not need the P.A.A.A. while those that were not so fortunate did require the association's help. He suggested that if there was some common object in view, such as a club house, there might be closer harmony.

"I don't see why we can't all get behind an organization of this kind," Mr. Glover remarked. "Its object of encouraging all the young boys and girls to become good athletes should bring us all together."

Membership.

Dr. McPherson referred to the attempt last year to arouse greater interest in tennis. To that end the city needed some central courts, and it had been suggested that the council might lay out four or six courts at Riverside that would be available to the boys and girls who would have the advantage of seeing good tennis, which they would imitate just as they imitate and are stimulated by the hockey and baseball players. A tennis tournament had been carried through to finality last year.

The membership campaign had not been completed but would be proceeded with before long. The response from the factories had been particularly encouraging.

The Boxing Championships.

Mr. Curtis explained that the P.A.A.A. had decided not to enter any of the local boxers in the Ontario championships this year because of certain conditions that militated against the chances of the most promising local boys. They would have to compete virtually out of their classes. For example Millard, who had been boxing at weights from 112 to 118 pounds would have to go into the 125 pound class at Hamilton, and McDonough, who is only 17 years old, would be pitted against men probably of 25 years. When the P.A.A.A. had made this decision upon the advice of their instructor, others had been communicated with, and as a result several boys were being sent to compete in the championship this week, against the advice of the boxing instructor, and with the prospect that they could not possibly win under the peculair conditions the boys would be placed in. Mr. Curtis said he did not think this action was fair to the boxers themselves.

HOLDOUT WILL PLAY UNORGANIZED BALL.

CINCINNATI, O., April 12—(Canadian Press)—Ed Roush, the recalcitrant out-fielder of the Cincinnati Nationals, will in all probability play unorganized baseball this season. The outfielder said last yesterday that he would leave for his Oakland City (Indiana) home today and start overtures with industrial league teams.

AGREE OPINION

Coupled with the above points against 44 KV service and in favor of 6,600 volt service there is the very radical saving in cost obtained by using the latter.

To Meet Requirements.

This committee feels that the requirements for increased safety to service can be adequately met at a cost of approximtaely $50,000, by the following procedure:

1. Continue to purchase power at 6,600 volts.
2. Build new, one-story, sub-station of size sufficient only to contain existing transformers and renovated switch gear.
3. Install additional transformer capacity— say 3,000 KVA outdoor type.
4. Supply highest class lightning arrester protection available.
5. Completely renovate switchboard and switch gear and re-arrange switching layout. A good portion of existing oil circuit breakers, disconnecting switches, instruments, meters, current transformers and potential transformers could be retained to good advantage .New equipment would be purchased suitable for ultimate capacity, and existing equipment when utilized would be so arranged as to facilitate substitution of heavier duty equipment when station capacity reached the point demanding it."

Advantage Not Clear.

All of the clauses were discussed at length and as a result the committee failed to make clear to the Utilities Commission wherein the 6,600 volt system would be an advantage over the 44,000 volt service.

An item advanced by the commission in favor of the high voltage service was the decrease in energy loss in transmission. With the 6,600 voltline the loss in energy is around $6,000 a year, whereas with the 44,000 volt service it will be $600.

Mr. Fisk's Views.

Regarding the suggested possible break with the Hydro Company, Mr. Fisk remarked that a few years ago the people voted almost unanimously to tie up with the Hydro-Electric for 30 years.

Mr. Hicks considers the present the best possible system for the city. Power is supplied to the city at contract rates, and there is not one dollar issued in debentures by the city. Power, he pointed out, is supplied to the city on just the same principle as the cit, supplies it to the householder. The consumer pays for what he uses. There is no liability until the power is turned on and used. In addition to this the responsibilities are all with the Hydro.

With reference to the trouble attributed to the 44,000 line by the visiting committee, Mr. Fisk said that it has been in use to Auburn for six years and there has never been any trouble. With the 44,000 volt line installed, in case of the Auburn plant being destroyed the power system could be connected with Healy Falls or Port Hope lines within an hour, an impossibility with a 6,600 volt line.

Asked to define the items where saving would be effected, Mr. Langley said that $20,000 could be saved in switching and $16,000 in the building. Two transformers could possibly be eliminated from the requirements, or one might be eliminated and two of a less expensive design design installed.

It was pointed out that a similar system of patchwork was responsible for the present precarious condition.

Mr. Hicks' Opinion.

Mr. Hicks summed up the opinion of the members in saying that the course proposed, that is, to cancel the orders for the transformers, di dnot apepal to the commission, in view of the fact that the committee had not gone into the figures involved and had no concrete proposals in regard to that phase of the question. Mr. Hicks suggested that the committee put their findings in writing and submit their plans to the commission for considertaion. The commission had gone into the matter very thoroughly, and had actually in their investigations become converted from the idea of the 6,600 volt line to the present plan..

Mr. E. F. Mason expressed the appreciation of the Utilities Commission for the interest taken by the Engineering Institute.

Owner States Tenants Not Asked to Vacate House — Given Exceptional Consideration.

The owner of the house referred to in the report of the Children's Aid Society meeting has asked the Examiner to make the statement that the remarks relating to the family requiring them to vacate the house were untrue. The only notice given the tenants was dated Aug. 1, 1921, when they were notified to vacate by Sept. 1st 1921, but they have been in the house ever since and no verbal or written notice to vacate has been given since and the owner is at a loss to understand on whose authority or information the report was given to the meeting.

DEBATE POSTPONED.

Owing to bad road conditions, the final debate to decide the winners for this season of the silver cup given in the Peterborough County U.F.W.P.O. debating competition, was postponed until Friday evening of this week, when the Zion and Indian River Clubs, now tied for first place, will meet to decide the issue.

The PRIDE of PALOMAR

By Peter B. Kyne

Farrel drew a 6 millimeter Mannlicher carbine from the gun scabbard on his saddle, dropped five shells into the magazine, looked at his sights and thrust the weapon back into its receptacle. "I think I ought to have some more life insurance," he murmured, complacently. "By the way, Don Nicolas, about how many sheep have I attached?"

"Where is the sheep camp?"

"I'm going over to give them the rush."

"By all means, Miguel. If you run those Basques off the ranch I will be able to return to town and leave my deputies in charge of these sheep. Keep your eyes open, Miguel. Adios, muchacho!"

Farrel jogged away with Pablo at his heels. Half an hour later he had located the sheep-camp and ridden to it to accost the four bewhiskered Basque shepherds who, surrounded by their dogs, sullenly watched his approach.

"Who is the foreman?" Don Mike demanded in English as he rode.

"I am, you ————," one of the Basques replied, briskly. "I don't have for ask who are you. I know."

"Mebbeso some day you forget," Pablo cried. "I will give you something for make you remember, pig." The old majordomo was riding the black mare. A touch of the spur, a bound, and she was beside Loustalot's forman, with Pablo cutting the fellow furiously over the head and face with his heavy quirt. The other three sheepmen ran for the tent, but Don Mike spurred the gray in between them and their objective, at the same time drawing his carbine.

There was no further argument. The sheepherders' effects were soon transferred to the backs of three burros and, driving the little animals ahead of them, the Basques moved out. Farrel and Don Nicolas followed them to the boundaries of the ranch and shooed them out through a break in the fence.

"Regarding that stranger who camped last night in the valley, Don Miguel. Would it not be wed to look into his case?"

Don Mike nodded. "We will ride up the valley, Pablo, as if we seek cattle; if we find this fellow we will ask him to explain."

"That is well," the old Indian agreed, and dropped back to his respectful position in his master's rear. As they topped the ridge that formed the northern buttress of the San Gregorio, Pablo rode to the left and started down the hill through a draw covered with a thick growth of laurel, purple lilac, a few madone trees and an occasional oak. He knew that a big, five-point buck had its habitat here and it was Pablo's desire to jump this buck out and thus afford his master a glimpse of the trophy that awaited him later in the year.

From the valley below a rifle cracked. Pablo slid out of his saddle with the ease of a youth and lay flat on the ground beside the trail. But no bullet whined up the draw or struck near him, wherefore he knew that he was not the object of an attack; yet there was wild pounding of his heart when the rifle spoke again and again.

The thud of hoofs smote his ear sharply, so close was he to the ground. Slowly Pablo raised his head. Over the hog's back which separated the draw in which Pablo lay concealed from the draw down which Don Miguel had ridden, the gray horse came galloping—riderless—and Pablo saw the stock of the rifle projecting from the scabbard. The runaway plunged into the draw some fifteen yards in front of Pablo, found a cow-trail leading down it and disappeared into the valley.

Pablo's heart swelled with agony. "It has happened!" he murmured. "Ah, Mother of God! It has happened!"

Two more shots in rapid succession sounded from the valley. "He makes certain of his kill," thought Pablo. After a while he addressed the off front foot of the black mare. "I will do likewise."

He started crawling on his belly up out of the draw to the crest of the hog's back. He had an impression, amounting almost to a certainty, that the assasin in the valley had not seen him riding down the draw, otherwise he would not have opened fire on Don Miguel. He would have bided his time and chosen an occasion when there would be no witnesses.

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND.

T. J. Lilly, the original "Red" with the old "Dumbells" show in France, is back with his old unit again this season for the first time since the armistice.

Mr. Lilly is probably the most legitimate comedian who has appeared with any of the soldier shows. An artist at make-up and characterization, he is a man of many parts. In the new "Dumbells" revue, "Carry On", he makes his first appearance as a mud-caked soldier in the prologue, does a ballet queen in the Dumbells Platoon number, plays an old French woman in a new Estaminet sketch, impersonates a jazz "Sheik" in the modern dance number, plays a colored mammy in his next scene, and is finally seen in his famous characterization of the British Tommy. "Red" Lilly, in the closing sketch, wherein Dick Kimberely, Pat Rafferty, Stan Bennett and himself, disport themselves as a quartette of wounded soldiers in a base hospital.

FOOTBALL NOTE.

The following players will turn out for the Comrades in the game versus Canadian Woollens on Saturday, 14th April:

Goal, Fenner; backs, Anderson and Rae; half-backs, Jackson, Hoggarth, and McMillan; forwards, Shewan, Brown, Richmond, Craig, and Burgess.

G.W.V.A. FOOTBALL TEAM.

In yesterday's list of entries in the Peterborough District Football Association the G.W.V.A. team was omitted. The veterans expect to have a strong team in the field.

FIVE TEAMS.

Five teams have been entered in under the P. & D. F. A. for this season from the following organizations: Quaker Oats, G. W. V. A., Thistles, Canadian Packing Company and Canadian Woollens. The schedule is now being drawn up and will commence on April 21.

HER THREE CHILDREN HAD WHOOPING COUGH

Many mothers make the mistake of thinking that whooping cough is not of serious importance, but it is one of the most dangerous diseases of infancy, and yearly causes more deaths than scarlet fever, typhoid or diphtheria, and is more common in female than male children.

DR. WOOD'S NORWAY PINE SYRUP is highly recommended by mothers everywhere for the relief of this trouble as it helps to clear the clogged-up air passages of the mucous and phlegm that has collected, and in this way brings on the "whoop" which brings the so-much-sought-for relief and heals and soothes the lungs.

Mrs. H. W. Mahar, Kentville, N. S., writes: "My three children had whooping cough. I tried every medicine I could think of until an old gentleman told me to try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. Before they had one bottle taken the cough seemed better, and after two bottles they were about well. It loosened the cough and relieved them of that hard, distressing and strangling feeling that goes with it."

"Dr. Wood's" is 35c. and 60c. a bottle. Put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

NATIONAL CONTROL OF BRANCH SYSTEM

George Bevington Suggests That National Bank Be Started in Competition With Existing Institutions.

OTTAWA, April 12 (Canadian Press), — National control of banking was advocated by George Bevington of Edmonton, resuming his evidence yesterday afternoon before the House of Commons Committee on Banking and Commerce.

Mr. Bevington approved the system of making the people's credit the basis of the monetary system. In his opinion, however, the nation should be its own banker. He believed that the country could carry on its own banking business at lower prices, while at the same time giving better service.

The Bank of Australia, he said, had accumulated a large surplus by operating on a 6 per cent. basis. He thought the national institution would develop to a point where it would satisfy all the banking cities would satisfy all the banking requirements of the country, and at a cheaper rate. In many Canadian cities and towns there were far more bank branches than were necessary. In Edmonton, for example, there were eight banking buildings where one would suffice to take care of the business. He would not favour abolishing the present Canadian banking organisation, but would start a national system concurrently and allow the existing banks to continue in competition if they found it possible. Mr. Bevington did not think there was anything practical in the suggestion of a general or universal cancellation of debts.

SOLD LAND FOR SONG.

AUGUSTA, Maine, April 12. — When the State of Maine in 1888 sold Ogunquit beach in the town of Wells to a New Hampshire resident for $100, it disposed of a property which since the popularity of the Maine shore as a summer resort became marked has returned great profits. Now the owner, who has since sold to cottagers much of the property, threatens to sell the beach itself to persons who would close it to the public, and permanent and summer residents have asked the State to buy it back for $35,000.

The beach property was part of the Ferdinand Gorges grant in the early days of the colonization of the Maine coast. In 1646 the Gorges family disposed of it, and in 1678 the State of Massachusetts took over the property. In 1821 the new State of Maine bought half of it, acquiring the rest 30 years later.

After the sale of the property, residents formed the Ogunquit Corporation, which has leased it for successive terms of years in order to keep it open to the public. The lease calls for a payment of $1,500 a year. Although the latest lease has several years to run, the owner has attacked its validity, claiming that the corporation has violated some of the terms of the contract.

THE LAW GOVERNMENT BREATHES EASIER AFTER ALL NIGHT TEST SESSION

Demonstrated Strength After Debate That Lasted 21 Hours—Labor and Government Members Nodded and Dozed During Droning Debate.

TORY ROUSED LABOR

(By Lloyd Allen, United Press Staff Correspondent).

LONDON, April 13.—The House of Commons debated throughout the night, and the session was still in full swing at noon to-day.

Labor members sprawled asleep on the benches, Government supporters dozed and nodded as one speaker after another droned on: occasionally test votes interrupted the peace of the slumberers.

Finally, when it seemed the session, which had lasted 21 hours, might go on indefinitely, the bill before the House was voted upon, passed its third reading, and weary members dragged themselves home to bed.

It was a big test of strength for Bonar Law's Government. The Army and Air Force Annual Bill, the subject of the debate, was relatively unimportant—any other subject would have done as well. The Government was determined to demonstrate it still has a clear majority over all opposition in the House.

The long session was comparatively peaceful, although in the night Labor members sang "John Brown's Body" while votes were being taken. On each test vote the Government won.

About 10.30 this morning a Labor member proposed an amendment to the Army and Air Force Bill, substituting imprisonment for the death penalty now provided for army deserters. The amendment was rejected.

During the voting the snores of Labor members resounded throughout the drowsy house. The sleepers awoke indignantly when a Tory member demanded the "corpses be removed."

OBJECT TO STATEMENTS ABOUT THE DRUG EVIL

GENEVA, April 13.—(Special).—The Swiss chocolate manufacturers have sent a joint letter to the League of Nations, protesting vigorously against certain statements alleged to have been made in Canadian newspapers and demanding details of the charge that Swiss firms are shipping morphine and other deleterious drugs to the Dominion labelled cocoa.

They declare that the industry has been seriously injured by these malicious reports, and they express their intention of prosecuting those responsible for their circulation in the courts.

OVERHEATED PIPES WAS CAUSE OF FIRE

Over-heated pipes of a kitchen stove caused a fire which destroyed the home of Donald McNaughton, Stewart Settlement, Otonabee Township. The women of the family were at church, but the men were at home, and with the aid of neighbors succeeded in confining the fire, which was fanned by the high wind of last Sunday morning, to the frame house.

The loss will be partly covered by insurance. Mr. McNaughton, whose wife is dead, moved with his family from Norwood about four years ago.

THE WEATHER.

There came to me to-day the official monthly weather report for March issued by the Meteorological Service of Canada. March is officially declared to have been from 4 to 10 degrees colder each day than average, depending on locality. In many places it was the coldest March month ever experienced, and in Toronto, it is statistically declared that nothing equal to its grand finale had been seen in 83 years. But why dwell on a shivering memory!—W. P.

5 MORE DAYS TO PETERBORO MOTOR SHOW.

Rev. C. W. Rose, D.D. Assumes Pastorate on Sunday Morning

The congregtion of Murray street Baptist church is rejoicing in the fact that, next Sunday, their new pastor will begin his ministry in Peterborough. It is several months since the call was extended and accepted. But the multiplicity of the interests of Dr. Rose in the east has made this delay unavoidable. In the church at Amherst, assisted by Dr. Johnston of Boston, he has completed a series of special services planned before the New Year. In these services nearly 90 people indicated their acceptance of Christ as Saviour. Then, as a member of a committee of the Board of Governors of Acadia University, Dr. Rose has been representing that college in the negotiations for the affiliation of Maritime Colleges. And, as President of the United Baptists' Convention of the Maritime Provinces, he has, this week, been presiding at a special session of that body.

The people of Murray street church are, therefore, looking forward to the ministry of this gifted man, whose talents have been appreciated by his brethren in the east.

BEEF ON MARKET WAS CONDEMNED

Confiscated by Sanitary Inspector and Carted to Incinerator.

Three quarters of beef that were recently offered for sale on the market were confiscated by Sanitary Inspector Stapleton as unfit for food, and were destroyed at the incinerator. Mr. Stapleton called Police Inspector Reid and another member of the Police Department as witnesses. The Inspector did not give his action any publicity and the information was at first learned through other sources.

The beef was displayed by an Enismore farmer, and apparently none of it had been sold. Examination of it convinced Mr. Stapleton that the meat should not be retailed, and after waiting several hours for the owner to appear the Inspector learned that he intended to sell it. He quietly told the farmer that he was the city's sanitary inspector, and that he could not permit the beef to be sold.

"You'd better take it right down to the incinerator" was Mr. Stapleton's order, and to the farmer's suggestion that a carter be called to take the meat away, Mr. Stapleton told the farmer to get his team, hitch them to the sleigh and take the load down himself. To his request that he be allowed to sell the beef in the city as dog meat, the Inspector replied that there were quite a number of good dogs in Peterboro and he could not recommend the meat even for them.

On the way to the incinerator the farmer admitted that the cow had broken its leg and he had tried to fatten it before killing it and cutting it up. He had kept the fourth quarter at home. Mr. Stapleton told him that the animal was bound to lose flesh in that condition, and appearance of the meat offered on the market tended to substantiate the owner's stacment of his attempt to make the injured cow for sale as roasts and stews.

A HAMILTON PRISONER INJURED GUARD IN ARM

HAMILTON, April 13.—(Canadian Press).—Constable Landon, of Hamilton Police Force, while guarding a prisoner under observation at the detention room on a charge of insanity, was attacked by his prisoner this morning. The prisoner secured the officer's revolver and shot him in the arm, inflicting only a flesh wound.

EXTREME REDS OPPOSE DRIFT TO CAPITALISM

Anonymous Group Expected to Demand That State Operated Industries Be Still Subsidized

FEAR UNEMPLOYMENT

(By John Graudenz, United Press Staff Correspondent).

MOSCOW, April 13.—The convention of the Communist party which opens next week is expected to bring to the surface a new annonymous left wing, "extreme even when compared with Leon Trotsky and other Radical Government leaders."

This group is demanding two prominent revisions in the Communist form of government, it was learned to-day:

1—The formation of a new policy to lure foreign capital into the development of Russia's great resources;

2—The enactment of a purely monetary budget instead of collecting taxes in wheat and other products.

The new wing, as yet unnamed, will probably swing into action when the convention open, possibly Sunday. Embodied in its program there is also a provision which would sweep away Government subsidies for the various industries and a general curtailment of expenditures.

There is strong opposition to the abolition of subsidies among those who fear that such a step ultimately will lead to widespread unemployment.

The views of the new wing, so far has been expressed, and its sentiments and ideals outlined in a publication called "The Workers' Truth." The organ recently launched its attack on the new economic policy of the Government, claiming that the country faced the possibility of the creation of new capitalism.

The so-called drift towards "capitalism" is under fire.

PRACTICE COURTESY IN BUSINESS LIFE

All, From Office Boy to Chief Executive, Can Profit by Courtesy.

Courtesy week is not for Kiwanians alone. Kiwanis have merely recognized that courtesy is one of the essentials of modern business life and they are endeavoring in this drive to put the idea over with all sections of the community.

Everyone from the office boy to the chief executive can profit by the practice of this virtue. The office bo ywill draw attention to his up-to-dateness when he practices it, and the executive will rise in his employees' estimation by the expenditure of a few seconds in saying "Thank you."

"That fellow is a good man in the back room of the business where he can't drive away customers," is a comment frequenty made concerning a grouch who may have brains but has never learned to be courteous. In fact, about the only man who can afford to be gruff is the sheriff when he "pinches" a bootlegger.

The fact about Kiwanis' Courtesy Week is the yare not preaching courtesy, but are practising it to make it contagious. Get close to them and get infected.

Courtesy pays.

EVERYBODY HAPPY

Each Sale of the Bankrupt Stock at Grafton's Pleases Two People.

The sale extraordinary of the bankrupt stock of the W. E. Sanford Co., of Hamilton, at Grafton's, is giving a lot of pleasure, both to buyers and sellers. The purchasers of a good suit, at a very low price, experience a high degree of satisfaction, and the clerks are pleased to be kept busy handing out the goods. There's a mountain of the goods to be cleared out—suits for men of all ages from kiddies up and coats and overalls in prodigious quantities. They were bought at a very low rate on the dollar, and are being sold for the cost of making, or less, with no charge for the cloth.

Don't delay looking over this startling offering. Its like giving you the cloth, and you pay only the economical factory cost of making the suit or coat.

Fire Drill Value Is Exemplified at Havergal College

TORONTO, April 13.—(Canadian Press).—In absolute good order, 120 girls in the residence at Havergal College, Jarvis Street, marched out this morning when an alarm of fire rang through the building. They thought it was a regular fire drill alarm, but soon found out that flames were belching from the upper windows of the rear wing of the building.

The girls were having breakfast when the alarm was sounded, and there was not the least suspicion of fire. No one was hurt. The upper portion of the building was badly damaged.

LURED BY LOVE AND HYPNOTISM FROM HER HOME

Twenty-Year-Old Girl has Been Missing Seven Months and No Clue Yet Discovered.

MAN AN ASTROLOGER

AUGUSTA, Me., April 13. — Love hypnotism lured Elsie Leuchter away. She has been mysteriously missing now for seven months. How long can the spell keep its grip upon her?

This is the belief and the question in the mind of August Leuchter, father of the 20-year old girl who disappeared last September.

Though detectives operating throughout the United States and Canada have failed to find a clew the father refuses to give up the search.

"If she could see her mother, her sister or me," he says, "I know the hypnotic spell would be broken."

The mystery revolves around a man of 30 who came to Augusta last summer, kept his room filled with girls' photographs obtained through answering ads in matrimonial journals, and disappeared the day that the girl went away.

A warrant charging seduction against the man, mentioning several names used in courtship by correspondence, is in the hands of the Augusta police.

"This was not an ordinary runaway," said Leuchter. "The man posed as an astrologer and swayed Elsie by strange feats. He predicted hailstones and the storm came. He told her the hour of her birth—5 a.m. He said the stars predicted that unless she changed her mode of living she would be compelled to commit suicide within two months. She was hypnotized into eloping."

Leutcher's family lives here, but he spends much of his time in New York where he operates the Electrolytic Laboratories. He has broadcasted a message by circulars and wireless pleading with his daughter to come home.

The missing girl is described as 5 feet 3, weighing 130 pounds, with light hair and complexion, gray-blue eyes and wearing shell glasses.

DUMBELLS DRAW RECORD CROWDS IN GREAT SHOW

Capt. M. W. Plunkett's "Dumbells," headed by the Captain himself, Ross Hamilton ("Marjorie") and Al Plunkett (you know Al), in their new revue, "Carry On," who open an engagement at the Grand to-night, have been meeting with enthusiastic receptions everywhere. In Kingston, the first three days of this week, there were record audiences, and Manager Bickell of the Grand has received word from the manager of the Belleville Opera House, that every seat there was sold last night, and that the "Dumbells" gave a wonderful show. Indications are that Peterborough, which has always given Capt. Plunkett's entertainers a warm welcome, will be out in full force to-night and at the matinee and evening performances to-morrow. The new "Dumbells" will introduce many new performers to local play-goers during this visit, including the Plunkett jazz orchestra, while Capt. Plunkett himself will take part. Owing to the length of the programme, the public is asked to note that the curtain will go up sharp at 8.15 o'clock at the evening performances and at 2.30 o'clock at the matinee. Tickets ordered by telephone positively will not be held after 8 o'clock.

ASBESTOS, ITS ORIGIN AND USE ARE EXPLAINED

Exceedingly Informative Address on a Little Known Subject to Engineers and Visitors.

By ROBERT ABBOTT

Members of the local branch of the Canadian Institute of Canada, and visitors, were treated to an interest-holding and exceedingly informative address in the Chamber of Commerce last evening by Robert Abbott, maanger of the Canadian Raybestos Co., this city. Mr. Abbott presented his subject, "Asbestos and Its Uses," in a clear, intelligent and concise manner, and conveyed to his audience much valuable information on asbestos, and the varied operations by which it enters into brake lining for cars. He said in part:

'Asbestos' is from the Greek, meaning inextinguishable or unquenchable. It is composed of the following ingredients:

Forty per cent. (40%) Silica.
Forty-one per cent. (41%) Mag-
Five per cent. (5%) Oxides of Iron and Alumina.
Fourteen per cent. (14%) Combined Water.

It loses no weight at 600 F.

At 1500 F. it loses its combined water completely and at the same time its fibrous character and becomes a powder, but does not melt even at higher temperature.

Asbestos is found in two characters: Amphibole— white, grey and blue (Cape Colony); Chrysotile — yellow and green, snow-stone.

The fibres range from a fraction of an inch to five and six feet long, but the latter have been found to be harsh and brittle and not well adapted to spinning and weaving. The most satisfactory had been found to be the Canadian two and three inches long which has great tensile strength and is best suited for making yarn.

Differ as to Origin.

Scientists differ considerably as to the origin of asbestos, but it is generally agreed that three conditions are necessary:

1. Intense heat.
2. Extreme pressure.
3. Slow cooling.

One of the most likely theories is that a rocky crust had already fallen on the surface of the earth and in cooling, it had cracked into fissures. Into these fissures fell the incessant torrential rains of that period, turning to steam and boiling water, dissolving the surrounding rocks and forming a saturate solution. In this solution were the silicate and magnesia which are the principle constituents of asbestos together with small quantities of iron oxide and alumina.

The heat from the surrounding rocks cooled slowly and the pressure on the solution was extreme Crystals appeared on the sides of the rocky fissures, holding the solution. Long periods of time passed before the tiny crystals grew to be silky fibres long enough to reach each other across the gap, which varied from a fraction of an inch up to six feet. So compact are these fibres that it appears like a solid mass of rock. Some investigators insist that it was not deposited but the growth of the chrystoline formation forced the rocks apart.

It is rather difficult to ascertain when asbestos was first discovered, but in 1676 a Chinese merchant exhibited an asbestos handkerchief or "Salamanders Wool" before the Royal Society.

The Eskimos of Labrador used it for lamp wick. It was also used by the ancients as shrouds in cremation to prevent the ashes of the body from mingling with the wood ashes of the pyre.

Asbestos Table Cloth.

Charlemagne is said to have possessed a table cloth of asbestos of which he was very proud. When soiled it was purified by burning. Prior to 1878 Italy furnished a large part of the asbestos of the world, but since that time, Canada has assumed the leadership on account of its being the finest spinning fibre yet disscovered. Asbestos has been found in Canada, Rhodesia, Arizona, South Africa, Russia and Italy, in quite large quantities, but it has appeared in many other places in small quantities and of very poor quality.

When the first discovery of asbestos was made in Quebec in 1877, there was a mad rush for other and richer deposits, villages sprang up, and there was a flood of population into districts of the roughest nature. Of course this refers to the Thetford and Black Lake districts. However, there was a set-back due to the fact that the methods of mining were crude. Most of the work was done by hand and naturally there was a large amount of fibre wasted as it did not pay to handle it. When you stop to consider that it takes about a hundred thousand pounds of quarried rock to make one ton of crude fibre, you can readily see that it would not pay to handle by hand

Local Railway Situation Shows Big Improvement in Conditions

A review of the roalroad situation shows that at present the business being done is far in excess of that handled in the same period in previous years.

Mr. A .McNab, station agent, on the Grand Trunk System here, told The Examiner to-day that more traffic was handled in March and up to date in April than in any previous year within his memory.

Several of the Peterborough manufacturers and all of the cereal mills are working steadily on large orders.

There is an immense quantity of grain to be shipped from the lakeside elevators before navigation opens in order to provide storage room there for the new grain.

This traffic, added to the great amount of local traffic now being handled, will mean capacity operation for the railroads, it is expected.

MACON MAN IN BED TODAY TO AVOID MISHAP

Chapter of Accidents to J. A. Parham on the 13th Day of Each Month—Combination Too Much

STAYS IN BED

MACON, Ga., April 13 (Canadian Press). — J. A. Parham, a Macon business man, is spending to-day in bed. While working on an automobile several months ago a steel splinter destroyed the sight of one eye. It was on the thirteenth of the month.

Next thirteenth he broke an arm while cranking an automobile.

A month later, on the thirteenth, he slipped in his garage and broke his leg.

Two months after that he was able by extra precautions to avoid mishap.

Then the thirteenth came again, and while he was watching mechanics repair an automobile, a block broke loose, and smashed his foot.

Last month, on the thirteenth fire destroyed his garage.

To-day's combination — Friday, the thirteenth, was too much for him.

Catholic Prelates Are Acclaimed by Christian Advocate

NEW YORK, April 13.—(Canadian Press). — The Roman Catholic prelates and priests condemned by the Soviet Government, one of whom was executed, are acclaimed by the Christian Advocate, a recognized Methodist publication, in its current issue to-day.

"It is not for any Protestant to lessen the glory of these martyrs by saying that they were obedient to "Rome" rather than to God. They have been bred in the belief that the voice that speaks to them through the Church is the voice of God. And in their defiance of that social law which offends the dictates of conscience they have displayed heroism that links them with all who through the ages have said, "We know that we ought to obey God rather than man."

NEW PRESIDENT OF TRADES COUNCIL

Frank Wallwork Succeeds Wm. Rudkins — Sound Financial Condition.

Mr. Frank Wallwork was elected president of the Trades and Labour Council last night with W. B. Halpin recording-secretary and Tom Darrah continuing as financial secretary. The financial statements of the Council and trustee board showed credit balances, the trustees having $861.17, according to M. H. Gainey's report. Both statements were referred to the auditors.

Visitors last night were Ald. Crowe and M. P. Green of Ottawa, organizer for the Carpenters' Association. Mr. Green predicted one of the biggest building years in the history of Canada. The season had been slow in opening, but the work was on hand, Mr. Green said that the merchants of any city should be supporters of Labour in their efforts to secure favorable wages.

"If the workingmen are obtaining good wages" he said; "they will be able to spend that much more in their city. Workingman have to spend practically all they earn, and the more money they have to spend the more goods will the merchants sell and in the long run the more goods will the manufacturers have to produce. So everybody is helped."

How workingmen may influence their own trades was illustrated in a report last night of the results of a campaign recently waged in St. Louis by the Trades Union Education League. It was formed by the Central Trades Council in that city to boost the use of union-labeled goods and products. One of its accomplishments was the increased sale of Clown cigarettes to the number of 1,000,000 packages in January. Every ward in that city organized branches and the meetings were addressed by big business men, lawyers and ministers. Stores throughout the city showed their interest by catering to the union trade.

In the election of officers last night Mr. Wallwork succeeds Mr. Wm. Rudkins who resigned, and Mr. Halpin takes the place of Mr. James Dodds.

MADE TRANSFER OF INSTRUMENTS FROM VETERANS

Lakefield Asked Share 93rd Instruments—Informed They Are Not Being Divided.

AMBULANCE AGAIN

The 93rd battalion band instruments will be transferred to the Peterboro Rangers with a string to them.

Ald. Phelan suggested at the meeting of the Property Committee last night that a clause be inserted in the agreement between the City and officers of the Rangers that the instruments shall be returned to the Council upon demand. A letter from Capt. Marling of Lakefield requested that if there was to be a division of the instruments Lakefield's 93rd bandsmen should be considered together with the fact that Lakefield citizens had contributed to the fund with which the instruments were purchased.

City Clerk Armstrong was instructed to write Capt. Marling that the Council is not making any change in the custody of the instruments except that the agreement for their safe-keeping is now with the Rangers instead of the G.W.V.A. The terms are virtually the same and the regimental band is about eighty-five per cent G.W.V.A. musicians who retain use of the instruments they have been playng now for some years. Col Johnston attended last night's meeting at which Ald. McIntyre presided.

The question of transferring the agreement was debated meticulously for an hour or more with consideration for any promises made to Lakefield during the war, and any obligation to dispose of the instruments permanently now.

Ald. Crowe incidentally intimated that the retirement of Rupert Gliddon from the position of bandmaster was largely due to opposition on the part of former G.W.V.A. bandsmen, and that the old feelings that had previously kept the two sections of musicians apart was responsible for Mr. Gliddon's resignation, although he was completing twenty-five years of service here.

The Dan Spence

Once more, and seemingly for the hundredth time the Dan Spence ambuiance was the subject of a discussion as to what should be done with it. As a problem the ambulance appears to be difficult of solution. For years it has been stored away in a shed at Comstock's who were paid $200 a year for using it for charity calls. Because it was horse-drawn it was left in storage while Messrs. Comstock sent out their own motor ambulance on any city calls.

Ald. McIntyre has insisted that the Dan Spence should be reclaimed from the dust and oblivion and at least given a somewhat more conspicuous resting place at the fire hall after being repainted. In the meantime, he had advised, charity ambulance calls would be referred to

ANCIENT MARINERS READ DICKENS, SCOTT, HUGO

BOSTON, April 13.— (Associated Press).—Making literature play a part in keeping up the morale of men who follow the sea is the work of the American Merchant Marine Library Association, which is opening a campaign in Massachusetts to provide books for seamen on American vessels sailing from this port. The association has headquarters in Boston, New York and Cleveland.

Reading taste among the seamen changes with good or bad times, officials of the association say. When ships are demanding men, and crews change after every voyage, the call is for fiction by writers on adventurous subjects. With a decline in shipping the steadier men stick to their ships and more responsible crews are signed up. In such periods the demand is for substantial reading. Wells' "Outline of History," Van Loon's "Story of Mankind," Masefield and Ibsen are much read.

There are requests for Keats, Nietzsche and Plutarch when the book chest is being made up at the waterfront storehouse of the association. Works on navigation and scientific subjects also are in demand. Older men and the officers are still devotees of Dickens, Scott and Hugo.

The Boston office is under the direction of Mrs. Henry Howard of Cleveland, called by the sailors the "mother" of the marine libraries. In the last year, under her direction, 19,134 books and 7,849 magazines were loaned by the Boston office to crews on 266 ships. Roughly the books are divided into three classes —fiction, both "best sellers" and standard authors; history, travel and biography; and works on navigation and marine engineering.

GENERAL ELECTION IN LATTER PART OF JUNE

Drury Announced Officially That Legislature Will Be Dissolved After May 4 and Elections Will Be Held Late in June.

THREE NEW BILLS.

TORONTO, April 13.— (Canadian Press.)— Ontario will have a general election in the latter part of June. There will be redistribution before the election. These were the two chief announcements Premier Drury made to an expectant Legislature yesterday afternoon. The government went safely through the crisis of Wednesday night but until Premier Drury officially told the press at noon yesterday that the elections would be in June and that there wold be a redistribution, the intention of the government was in doubt. Premier Drury repeated in the Legislature what he told the press earlier.

"The events of yesterday came as a shock to me personally," said the Premier. "I was unable yesterday to make the announcements that I am now ready to make. The situation cleared considerably last night when a vote of confidence passed in the government. I believe the government has the confidence of the House and of the country. I think that the electors of this province should be consulted before midsummer. July and August would not be the proper time for an election, particularly among the rural people. I therefore propose that this House continue in session until May 4, which will give us three full weeks for business. The committees have some contentious bills may have to some contentious bills may have to be withdrawn. After May 4 I will advise the Lieutenant-Governor that the Legislature be dissolved. I am now going to introduce three bills, one of redistribution, one on proportional representation and one on the single transferable vote."

The Premier thought redistribution necessary and said that the government proposed to have a fair bill let the chips fall where they may. All material was available for a redistribution committee which could get to work immediately. He proposed that the committee consist of five Liberals, five Conservatives and one from the independents in the opposition benches and eleven from

GERMAN DEBT HAS REACHED TERRIFIC SUM

Ten Days' Expenditure in March 12,511 Times As Great As Corresponding Days of 1913.

THE FIGURES.

BERLIN, April 13. — (Canadian Press.) — Germany's expenditures during the last ten days in March were 12,511 times as great in the present depreciated currency as they were in the corresponding period of 1913, while the income amounted to only 1,421 times as much, it is revealed in the publication of the latest figures on Germany's floating debt.

On March 31, the debt totalled 7,641,143,000,000 marks, with such items as are included only at the end of each month. The debt in discounted Treasury bills alone amounted to 6,601,142,000,000 marks.

A large part of the increase in the total floating debt during the last ten days in March was due to advances made to the Posts and Telegraphs Department and the Railway Administration. The former was able to turn in a surplus of 16,000,000,000 marks during the preceding ten days, but in the later period called on the Government for 24,000,000,000 marks. The railways received more than 274,000,000,000 marks, making the total advanced to them during the last fiscal year more than 2,000,000,000,000 marks.

In the last ten days of March, 298,700,000,000 marks went for the general administration purposes of the Government, bringing the total expenses for the year on this account to approximately 2,000,000,000,000 marks. The debt also grew considerably due to losses of income in consequece of the Ruhr occupation, such as the customs, taxes, etc., as well as through added expenditures for the purchase of foreign coal, provisions and foodstuffs for the Ruhr population; aid to deportees from the occupied regions and similar outlays.

IRISH GOVT. HAS CONFIDENCE IN ARMY CONTROL

Mulcahy Says Army is Responsible to the Government and is Bringing About Peace.

DAYLIGHT SAVING.

DUBLIN, April 13.— (Canadian Press.) — Considerable discussion took place in the Dail Eireann yesterday over the position of the Free State Army, the contention having been raised in some quarters that the military branch is not sufficiently under civil control.

President Cosgrave arose and declared that General Mulcahy, Minister of Defence, had his entire confidence and that there was no intention of disturbing him in his direction of military affairs.

General Mulcahy himself followed the President. He maintained that the army was perfectly responsible to the Government, and was quite efficient. In support of the latter statement, he made it known that the operation against the irregulars in which the Republican Chief of Staff, Liam Lynch, lost his life, was dictated from the Free Sttae Army Headquarters, 24 hours in advance.

The army was not being organized for war, he said; hostilities were not contemplated with any neighboring country, but the army had brought the country out of a dangerous situation.

The Dail yesterday adopted the bill establishing daylight saving by a vote of 38 to 14, despite opposition from the farmers.

THE PARLIAMENT CRISIS SAFELY PASSED BY THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT

Committee Appointed to Investigate Grievances and Government Motion Passed By a Good Majority.

LOST PRESTIGE.

LONDON, April 13.— (Canadian Press.) —The Parliamentary crisis was quietly surmounted yesterday, when, the Government having yielded to the Laborite demands and undertaken to appoint a committee to investigate the grievances of the ex-service men, the Opposition permitted a motion that the Speaker leave the chair to be put without ffurther resistance.

Thereupon, in accordance with constitutionl usage, that grievances must be heard before supplies are granted, the House began a discussion of various subjects, including the question of the serious hindrances placed upon British trade by the French action in the Ruhr. The discussions having proceeded about three hours, with only occasional effervescence from the Labor benches, Sir Philip Lloyd-Greame, for the Government, moved closure, which was carried, 242 to 155, and the motion that the Speaker leave the chair was agreed to unopposed.

The Government thus retrieved its defeat of Tuesday with a vote showing its normal majority, but is generally considered to have suffered badly in prestige. In this connection, Stanley Baldwin, Chancellor of the Exchequer, who, owing to the Prime Ministers' loss of voice, is temporarily acting in his place, comes in for considerable criticism from his own side and in the press, for unskillful, untactful handling of the situation, thereby playing into the hands of the Laborites.

The Ruhr debate last night mainly concerned technical questions, but revealed continued strong dissatisfaction on the part of the Opposition members with the Government policy of benevolent neutrality relative to the French action.

One effect of the crisis has been avoidance of what probably would have been a somewhat acrid debate on the agricultural policy, but as the members were clearly not prepared to debark on the semi-protective policy advocated by the Agricultural Tribunal, they may be assumed to have escaped some strong criticism from the protectionist elements aomng their own supporters.

THE HICKS' EXPLOSION.

The resignation of Andrew Hicks, Ontario Government Whip, and his sensational charges against Premier Drury of having betrayed the U.F.O. by endeavouring to set up an alliance with a section of the Liberal party, have undoubtedly hastened the dissolution of the Legislature, and an early election is the result.

Although neither urban or rural voters are keen to have a campaign thrust upon them, an election is nevertheless welcome, because it will clear the air and possibly result in the return to power of a party strong enough to carry on the business of government.

The majority of people are tired of the system of group government that exists at present.

The refusal of the administration to take the responsibility of much of the legislation introduced, the tendency to substitute government by commission for the ordinary methods, a recognition that the alliance between Farmers and Labour is logically impossible, the feeling that many of the Cabinet Ministers are qualified neither by natural ability nor by training for the positions they hold, the rapidly mounting expenditures in the face of pre-election promises of economy—all these things combine to make an early election desirable.

If Mr. Hicks' explosion has done nothing else than to speed up the dissolution of the present Legislature, it has been justified, in the opinion of vast numbers of Ontario electors.

An election cannot possibly leave the Province in worse condition as regards its Government.

THE MALE VOICE CHOIR.

The Peterborough Male Voice Choir is to be congratulated, not only upon the success of the annual concert, but also upon the very evident progress that has been made by the organization since last year, progress that not only reflects credit upon the director, Mr. J. H. Renwick, but upon the individual members who must have been faithful in their attendance at practice to achieve such results.

The Male Voice Choir is evidently here to stay, and it is an excellent thing for Peterborough that such a society exists.

Music lovers of the city have to thank the choir, not only for the enjoyment afforded by the splendid singing of the chorus, but also for providing the opportunity of hearing such fine artists as Miss Bertha Crawford, who was the assisting soloist last year, and Cameron McLean, this year's soloist.

The choir was organized in June, 1920, with the objects of promoting the musical interests of Peterborough and of providing pleasure and development for the men of the city who are interested in better vocal production.

That it has admirably succeeded in both these aims cannot be doubted.

Entirely undenominational, open to all male singers who wish to associate themselves with the undertaking, the choir has made remarkable advancement.

A strong esprit de corps has been established, there is harmony and mutual liking and respect in the organization, and under such conditions continued progress cannot fail to result.

THE P.A.A.A. CARRIES ON.

The re-election of Dr. A. W. McPherson as President of the Peterborough Amateur Athletic Association for the ensuing year is a merited tribute to the enthusiasm and unflagging energy displayed by Dr. McPherson in his efforts to advance the cause of amateur sport in this city.

The reports presented at the annual meeting indicate that in spite of some discouraging features very remarkable progress has been made.

In fact, the association was able to present a record of achievement that shows unmistakably that there was a big need for such an organization in Peterborough.

Probably never before in the history of this city have so many Peterborough people been actively engaged in healthful recreation as during the past fifteen months, and for that condition of affairs the credit must unquestionably go to the P.A.A.A., which has launched and guided many new sporting enterprises that have been functioning successfully.

Work of this nature is of too great a community value to be dropped, and for that reason the announcement that Dr. McPherson is to carry on at the head of the organization is of great importance.

The biggest problem before the association is that of establishing an entente between itself and those athletic organizations which are revenue producers, for undoubtedly if the general work of the P.A.A.A. is to be successfully carried on there must be financial resources upon which to depend.

Tactfully and diplomatically handled, this problem can be solved, and it will be a happy day for sport in Peterborough when a solution acceptable to the various interests is reached.

The people of Peterborough want good baseball and hockey teams, and they also want the P.A.A.A.

There is no reason why they cannot have all three, or why an entente cordiale could not be set up.

RESEARCH INSTITUTE.

In spite of neglect, and the lack of proper quarters for its important work, the Honorary Council for Scientific and Industrial Research continues to make a most valuable contribution to national progress, says the Hamilton Spectator. The annual report, just published, shows what has been accomplished in the past year in the way of providing competent research workers to meet the needs as they arise. Bursaries, studentships and fellowships, as well as grants to individuals engaged in experimental work, are the means adopted to promote the ends in view. In addition to which the Council has appointed committees to consider special problems.

The Government has been constantly importuned [illegible] all classes of the community to do something worthy in the way of providing a permanent home for the research institute, adequately endowed and properly equipped. To these representations it has not turned a very sympathetic ear; but the agitation goes on, and those who who are conscious of the need will not be denied. The necessity for economy takes precedence of every other necessity in the mind of the Government when this subject is under consideration. But there is such a thing as false economy, and to allow the country to be outstripped in this matter of scientific investigation is not prudent.

There is no country which offers so great a scope to the skilled researcher as Canada. With our vast store of undeveloped resources, the opportunities for their scientific exploitation are practically limitless. Yet very little indeed has been done, and the most grudging attitude is assumed towards this question. What is needed is the practical co-operation of the manufacturers with the Government in establishing an institute on a scale sufficient to satisfy the national requirements. The longer such effective action is postponed, the more the country suffers in competition with its rivals.

PUTTING THE LID ON.

With the position taken by Premier King in receiving a deputation from the Canadian Good Roads Association which waited upon him to urge Federal assistance towards the building of roads, there should be no quarrel.

The Premier declared that more and more demands were being made upon the Dominion Government for funds for purposes that could not strictly be defined as Federal undertakings, and that the time had come to put an end to grants of this kind.

The announcement that the lid is on at Ottawa is welcome.

The cry from one end of the country to the other is for economy.

Yet in spite of the demand for retrenchment there seems to be no end to the requests that Ottawa spend money on this, that and the other object.

Deputation after deputation urges that the Government undertake some enterprise that involves the expenditure of millions of the people's money, and private members add to the difficulty by calling for public works to be undertaken in their particular constituencies.

There is no sense in complaining about the burden of taxation and begging for economy and then demanding Government assistance for any number of more or less unnecessary enterprises.

LIFE IN THE WEST.

Mrs. McNaughton, who has been the promoter and leader of many movements to improve social conditions on the grain farms of Western Canada, gave some very interesting evidence at Ottawa yesterday. In a survey of over three hundred farms in Manitoba she found that nearly 60 per cent. had no water laid on to the kitchens, only about 10 per cent. had bathrooms, two homes were ninety miles away from a hospital, while no less than one-fifth of the farms visited were more than fifty miles away. Twenty-five per cent. of the women did the chores of the farm and 50 per cent. of them did the milking in whole or in part.

It is idle to say that the grandparents of these women, the pioneers of the country, had to go to the well for their water, knew nothing of hospitals, and took their full share of the farm work. The forbears of the city housewives did not have electric light and power, bathrooms were rare, there were no movies, no telephones and grocery stores were a long distance away with no street cars to lighten the journey. The comparison that is fair and full of meaning is not between the prairie housewife and the women who faced the unknown in the prairie schooner, but between Mrs. Brown, who lives on the homestead fifty miles from a hospital in Northern Alberta, and her sister, Mrs. Smith, who resides in a comfortable, steam heated flat in Maisonneuve or Earlscourt.

Judged by this standard, the farmer is getting the worst of the deal and in sheer desperation he and his brothers are abandoning their farms, not singly, but in battalions. It is the most serious thing that is happening in Canada today, and unless it is checked it will mock our schemes for immigration and sap the very springs of Confederation.

It is not difficult for the man or woman who reads of this wholesale abandonment of homes while seated in the street car or in his cosy home to criticize or to belittle the farmer. He has not the courage or the determination of the older generation, say these superior critics; he expects to make a fortune too quickly, he relies on a single crop and does not work half hard enough they say. There is plenty of this kind of talk—in the cities. It would not be so general if the city man would change places with his country brother for a week. Clerks in offices who suffer from brainfag when they total up many rows of figures in a warm office, lawyers who plead exhaustion after the delivery of an oratorical tour de force, and men and women at the dress goods counter in a heated and well ventilated store, would find life many shades more difficult if they had to break the ice at the well at five o'clock on a winter's morning in order to water the beasts, or had to milk the cows with the thermometer standing forty "below."—Montreal Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Mr. Hicks, M.P.P., can hardly blame the wind for the trouble caused by his Wednesday speech in the House.

The worst news coming from Ireland in sometime is the announcement that the report of the capture of De Valera is not true.

Somehow the feeling will not down that at least one person was not surprised at the Hicks charges against Premier Drury. That person might be J. J. Morrison, Secretary of the U.F.O.

Although the people of Ontario are not anxious to have an election, there seems to be a widespread feeling that the administration as at present constituted is not getting anywhere in particular and that any change cannot fail to be for the better.

London's Mayor and some of the Aldermen are indignant because the Ontario Government has refused to grant an elective police commission. It should be remembered that this matter was never voted on by the people, nor was the Government at Toronto ever committed to such a course. The Ontario Government used its own discretion in the matter, and we believe they acted wisely in turning down the request. —London Advertiser.

IN MILLBROOK AND DISTRICT

Outstanding Figure in Business Life, and Connected Here, Passes Away — News Paragraphs.

MILLBROOK, April 13.—One of the outstanding figures in the business life of the city of London, and Western Ontario, in the person of Dr. T. H. Rea, brother-in-law of Mr. David and Miss A. Hampton, Millbrook, passed away at his home in the above city on Good Friday, March 30, following an illness of several weeks caused by a regretable motor car accident. His death is deeply regretted in London where he was well known in business and civic life, and ihs demise is sincerely mourned by relatives residing in Lindsay, Millbrook, and in Ops township.

The late Dr. Rea was born in Ops township at the family homestead, Reaboro, and was a son of the late Isaac Rea, and Elizabeth Buchanan Wade, two highly esteemed residents of the early days of the township. His father was for years Justice of the Peace in Ops and, as such, had a large circle of friends.

After receiving his early education in the public school at Reaboro, the late Dr. Rea passed through the High School at Lindsay, as a student being both diligent and brilliant. The same success which marked his studies at public and High schools followed him through his course at the leading Dental College of Philadelphia, of which he was a graduate. Later, wishing to practice in Ontario he entered the Toronto Dental College, graduating therefrom and beginning his professional life at Lindsay in association with the late Dr. Gross. After remaining in Lindsay for two or three years he removed to London where he carried on an extensive practice for some time and where he started the Rea Dental Supply Company, a firm which had a large business for a number of years. Later on it amalgamated with the Temple-Patterson Supply Company of Toronto, Dr. Rea becoming the silent partner, and a member of the Directorate. The late Dr. Rea's dental supply company was the first of its kind west of Toronto.

In public life deceased always manifested a keen inteerst in the affairs of the day, although of an unassuming disposition. He was indentified with several of the business enterprises of London, a Methodist in religion, and a Conservative in politics.

Left to mourn his loss are his devoted wife, formely Miss Lottie Hampton, of Millbrook, and two sisters, Mrs. E. B. Weldon, and Mrs. Rev. Francis Johnston of Lindsay, on Tuesday, April 3 at 2.30 p.m., interment being in the family plot at Riverside cemetery.

The Pikers' Tour.

According to present arrangements the Michigan Pikers Association which will tour Ontario from July 11 to 23, is expected to pay its visit to Lindsay and Peterboro on Friday, July 20th, passing along the provincial Highway within five miles of here. Cars from several Canadian cities will augument the M.P.A. motorcade.

Are Much Improved.

Dr. B. C. Whyte, who has been taking treatment at Sarnac Lake for the past year, returned home last week looking remarkably improved in health. Dr. and Mrs. Whyte were guests of her mother, Mrs. A. Wood over the week-end.

The many friends of Mrs. John Allen, Sr., will be pleased to learn that she is recovering satifactorily from her recent severe illness and is now able to be down stairs. Mrs. D. C. King of Peterboro, who has been with her mother for a week, returned home on Monday. Dr. King was also here over the week-end.

CHURCH IN FAVOR OF 2 CENT STAMP

Tommy Church Advocated Return of Pre-War Postage Rates in the Federal House Yesterday.

OTTAWA, April 13.—(Canadian Press)—Direct charges of patronage were heard in House last night. The Post Office estimates were under consideration. In an atmosphere of considerable warmth, Conservatives had cited a case of alleged patronage in Nova Scotia. Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, leader of the Opposition followed with the declaration that his mail was full every morning of letters from men who had been dismissed and who had been denied even a statement why they had been dismissed and of cases where the Civil Service Commission had followed the Civil Servie Act, named an appointee and "Government had refused to install him but had placed their partisan appointee there instead." "They are spreading patronage all over this country," Mr. Meighen exclaimed "and doing it very frequently in defiance of prior rights of returned soldiers."

Mr. Meighen added this applied more particularly to Ontario and the Eastern Provinces. Western Canada was almost unanimously against patronage.

The Liberals sharply dissented from Mr. Meighen's charges. Herbert Marler, Liberal of St. Lawrence St. George, declared his experience to be that returned soldiers were always given priority in Montreal appointments and that all departments at Ottawa referred him to Civil Service Commission.

Pre-War Postage Rates

In the discussion in the Post Office estimates, referring to the item of $29,.12,904 for outside services of the Post Office Department T. L. Church, Conservative, N. Toronto, advocated a return to pre-war rates of postage. Nothing retarded the growth of a country to such an extent as high postage rates. The war postage tax in the United States had been dropped, and a great increase in business was the result. The introduction of the two cent letter rate in Canada by Sir William Mulock had been most beneficial from every point of view, and surpluses had been turned in by the Post Office Department for many years since it was established.

Mr. Church also emphasized the need of a new post office in the city of Toronto. As large a center as Toronto required the best postal facilities and a large post office building was necessary.

Hon. G. P. Graham, acting Postmaster General, said he knew taxes were unwelcome. He could not make any statement in regard to the postal war tax without consulting the Minister of Finance. Regarding the post office for Toronto, he knew the postmaster general had been discussing the matter with the Minister of Public Works. It did seem as if such an important center should have good post office buildings.

W. A. Boys, Cons., S. Simcoe, made a plan for increased remuneration for rural mail carriers. Some of these men had undertaken contracts for the delivery of mail when prices were not so high as they are now. They are now required to fulfil these contacts under the more difficult circumstances. Mr. Boys the act should be amended so as to give the postmaster general the right to make increase to rural mail carriers up to $100 or $150. The average pay of rural carriers in Ontario was but $816 a year and they were required to have equipment necessay for the work. The job was a hard one and the holidays to these men were but few.

Bonus to Carriers?

In the evening, Mr. Graham said he believed the Minister of Finance had a proposal before the House for continuing the bonus to letter carriers for the coming year.

A number of members expressed the opinion that rural mail carriers were being inadequately remunerated. Mr. Graham on this head said the work was done by contract and when a man submitted his tender he, as a matter of fact, fixed the rate of remuneration himself. Mr. Graham thought that perhaps special mail carriers should be paid a little better and added that he would be glad to learn of a scheme for doing this which would not smack of patronage.

Mr. Boys thought the mail carriers might be given some small addition to their contract rate. Since they had already secured the work by open tender, the government could not be accused in such case of patronage.

John Evans (Progressive, Saskatoon) appealed for a better building in his city for post office purposes, to which Mr. Graham replied that post office buildings were in the hands of the Public Works department. The post office department was anxious for the best possible facilities but owing to the financial situation, the public works department had "frozen up."

J. L. Stansell, (Conservative, East Elgin) felt it was not a credit either to the government or the country to have carriers working for so little. Mr. Stansell believed a flat rate of $1000 or $1250. The average pay of rural carriers in Ontario was but $816 a year and they were required to have equipment necessay for the work. The job was a hard one and the holidays to these men were but few.

T. G. McBride (Progressive, Cariboo) had no sympathy with men who took mail contracts and afterwards complained. The contract system was the only fair method of awarding contracts.

R. J. Woods (Progressive, Dufferin), agreed with Mr. McBride, but thought rural carriers should be given olegal holidays.

To John Millar (Progressive, Qu'Appelle) who asked as to rural mail routes in the prairie provinces, Mr. Graham said the extension of rural delivery was being considered.

Robert Forke, Progressive leader, did not like the idea of abolishing contracts and asking the postmaster-general to employ men to carry the mails. This would give rise to suspicions at least of patronage.

TO PURCHASE NEW FLYING EQUIPMENT

The House Appropriated Quarter of a Million to Be Expended on the Air Force.

OTTAWA, Ont., April 13. — Canadian Press. — A vote of $250,000 for the purchase of new flying equipment for the Air Force was passed by the House of Commons yesterday. The vote came up Wednesday but was allowed to stand over.

Hon. George P. Graham, Minister of Defence, took occasion to answer some criticisms contained in a letter read Wednesday. One of these was that machines requiring extensive repairs had to be transported to Camp Borden. Sometimes they required very lengthy transportation with consequent extensive delay.

Mr. Graham explained that there was only one place in Canada at present where extensive repairs could be made, and until another similar repair point was established it was necessary that this work be done at Camp Borden.

The Minister stated that Colonel Barker, V.C., was in charge at Camp Borden and about 150 other officers and men were stationed there.

To Hon. R. J. Manion, Conservative, Fort William, the Minister said there was one medical officer and an eight or ten bed hospital. He had not heard of any serious epidemic of "flu." The officers there were at present considering the use, as an emergency hospital, of one of the buildings erected for the Royal Air Force. About 70 machines were at Camp Borden which were in good repair or could be put in good repair in a week.

A. E. McLean, Liberal, Prince, P.E.I., asked if the use of airplanes commercially had been proved a success. When Prince Edward was isolated in as far as mail was concerned last winter, the people there had asked for an airplane mail service, but had been informed that the cost would be out of reason. If airplanes were not successful commercially he did not see the justification for spending so much on them.

Mr. Graham said that the new machines which it was proposed to purchase were amphibians. The machines at present in use were handicapped in that they could not aligrt on both land and water, and the amphibians were required on forest patrol work.

Dr. Manion urged that there be the fullest possible co-operation with private firms who were operating airplane forest patrols. Canada last year had exported forest products to the value of $200,000,000 or almost to the value of the wheat crop of the prairie provinces. Private corporations should be assisted as long as they required it.

Mr. Graham said he rather favored leaving commercial aviation in the hands of private firms. Last year the Ontario government had paid the air board $38,000 for forest protection received. British Columbia was prepared to pay $20,000, and Quebec a similar amount this year.

W. A. Boys, Conservative, South Simcoe, said that he did not think there had been any serious outbreak at Camp Borden nor had he heard any complaints of insufficient hospital accommodation. However, there were many good buildings at the camp which the government had obtained for very little; he thought some of these could perhaps profitably be used.

GENERAL ELECTION

the Government side with Hon. Nelson Parliament, the Speaker, as chairman of the committee. The proportional representation bill, he said, did not specify where that system was to be put into effect and the committee would have to decide. All three bills were given first reading.

Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Conservative leader, expressed surprise that important legislation should be introduced when the Prime Minister had practically promised a dissolution at once. He had given little consideration to redistribution he said, but he expressed doubt if a fair and equitable treatment could be given in the time at the disposal of the committee. However, for the present occasion he would refrain from discussion of the matter.

The Prime Minister also stated that the medical men of the House and one from each group would be consulted by the government to prepare a suitable recognition of the services of Dr. Banting and Dr. Best for their discoveries in medical research.

The bill banning the publication and sale of racing information went through committee. Old country newspapers are exempted from the provisions of the bill. Outside papers may come in by mail but they cannot be sold if they contain information on race course betting. The committee also passed a bill consolidating the various traffic and automobile regulations.

German Police in Clash With People.

DUISBURG, April 13.— (Canadian Press.)—A clash occurred here yesterday between German police and German unemployed which resulted in the severe wounding of two men among the latter.

The incident developed in connection with a march of 2,000 workless men to the City Hall, where they asked an increase in their unemployment allowance, which was denied. Upon the refusal of the men to disperse the police charged. The officers refrained from shooting, but two of the demonstrators received bayonet wounds, while many others were bruised.

Housing Bill Has Ignored Slum Evil

LONDON, April 13.— (Canadian Press Cable.) — The government's housing bill is adversely criticised on the ground that it ignores the middle classes and fails to deal with the slum evil.

It is pointed out that the main proposal of a £6-subsidy to builders is confined to non-parlor houses and would thus merely benefit the unskilled laborer. The other provisions of the bill are regarded as excellent but the failure to meet the grievances of the middle classes, which has proved fatal to the government in a number of by-elections, is likely to provoke strong opposition to the bill.

TAPPING FOR SAP NEAR LAKEFIELD

Some Citizens Would Make Their Own Syrup —A Real Sign of Spring.

LAKEFIELD, April 13.—Sap is running and some optimistic citizens are tapping their trees for the purpose of making their new syrup. One says optimistic advisedly as when school is dismissed a thirsty mob attack the sap pails and drink the contents. It would be a nice little problem how much sap goes to the youngsters and how much to the legitimate owner.

Real Sign of Spring.

The sidewalks, at last, are cleared from the piles of snow which decorated them so much longer than usual, and the result is a procession of small children with waggons. This is a real sign that spring is coming—just as certain as the robins. Pedestrians now must move out of the way or climb a tree apparently as the waggons appear to have the right-of-way.

Was Known Here.

Deep regret was felt in the village over the death of Mrs. W. Archibald who with her husband and daughter spent a year in the village when Dr. Archibald was rector of St. John's Parish. While the news was not entirely unexpected it came as a shock to many of her friends. The sympathy of the community is with Dr. Archibald and Miss Rhoda.

PUT THE OLD MAN OUT OF HIS MISERY

Says Son Arraigned on the Charge of Slaying His Father.

EVANSVILLE, Indiana, April 13.—(Canadian Press.)— After thinking the matter over he decided it was best "to put the old man out of his misery," George Virgin, aged 43, declared yesterday when arraigned on the charge of slaying his father, John Virgin, 73, a paralytic.

"We were lying together in bed when I decided to put him out of the way. He had been paralyzed for eight years and I wanted to put him out of his sufferings," Virgin said.

He dragged the old man down hill to a tank and threw him in the water, then hit him ten times on the head with a hatchet.

"I hit him an awful lick, but his skull was thick and he didn't die right away, he told the police.

GAVE PLAY IN CAMPBELLFORD

Was Under the Directon of Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Cowell—The Names of Those Who Took Part.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 13. — Brilliant Oriental costumes, a beautiful floral display, stirring music and specimens of the black art, marked the Opera, "The Princess Chrysanthemum," which was presented at Cole's opera house last night under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Cowell, who by common consent achieved their highest triumph last night, the performance being by far the best of the many high class musical events which they have staged since coming to Campbellford. There were sprites and fairies, a charming Princess and a devoted bevy of ladies in waiting, intriguing courtiers, a sinister creature in the garb of a black cat, with a caudle appendage that seemed to wave defiance at the world, and an Emperor who through every stage, never wavers in the dignity which the monarch of the east alone can maintain. The scenes are beautiful and all the incidents are cleverly strung upon a thread of narrative that alone is sufficient to hold the interest of the most critical audience.

A Royal Court Yard.

The first scene is a fete in the garden of the Royal Palace. A fete is arranged to celebrate the coming of age of the Emperor's only daughter, "The Princess Chrysanthemum," whose part is cleverly taken by Miss Hazel Atkinson, who is equally at home as a singer, her speaking parts and the stately representative of an imperial household. Prosperity and adulation does not turn her head, adversity does not sour her disposition, in a word, in every phase of the difficult role, all the more difficult because so different from portraying a character from modern society, she is every inch the Princess. Her costume is in keeping too with her high estate.

It is only natural that the Princess should have admirers among the courtiers on her 21st birthday. She is required by the Royal mandate to make her matrimonial choice. She selects as her partner for better or for worse Prince So True, who is represented in the play by Percy Gould.

Prince So Sli (Carl Maguire) the rejected suitor, resorts to magic to beat out his rival for the favor of the princess. Saucer Eyes, the wizard cat, the role played by Miss Fay Ketchenson, is called to the aid of the intriguing princess and the princess, enveloped in the black robe used by the kidnappers the world over, is spirited away to a cave in which the Wizard Cat makes his home with a number of sprites, arrayed in the scarlet costumes of demons and with Satanic horns upon their head dresses. But they can sing and dance, too, with almost uncanny grace.

Naturally the princess is in despair but never for a moment does she lose her Royal poise. She is a prisoner but there is nothing of cruelty on the part of her feline hostess. Then Cherry Turner, as Fairy Moon beam, floats into the cave like a burst of sunshine and brings cheer to the princess. There is a magic ring worn by the Princess, but she loses the charmed circlet which is fixed up by the lover who he resorted to the tactics of the cave man.

The Emperor, accompanied by the accepted suitor and Harold Quibler who has the part of the court chamberlain, finds his way to the cave. They fail to locate the princess but they arrest the Wizard Cat, who is taken to the palace and threatened with torture unless the whereabouts of the lost maiden is revealed. The Wizard Cat declares that he has been acting under a spell cast over him by Prince So Sli. Another is added to the captive train and two heads are to be lopped off by imperial mandate.

Then the princess suddenly appears so apparently unconcerned as if she had been absent on a pleasure excursion, with her Royal robes unruffled, her fan and parasol in commission as usual. She pleads for the life of the guilty pair under sentence of death, and her father grants her prayer.

There are three acts in the opera. In the first and third the scene is the palace garden, brilliantly lighted and rich with floral decorations, a true picture of Oriental splendor. The scene in the second act is the dark cavern home of the Wizard Cat. The change from the hilarity of the festive celebration of the natal day of the princess to mourning for her sudden and mysterious disappearance is cleverly worked out by the cast. The third act opens with the court maidens mourning in song for the lost princess. When she returns the scene suddenly shifts and there is rejoicing again, even the Emperor deeming it no compromise of his Royal dignity to engage in an occasional bar of light melody.

One of the prettiest pictures in the entire presentation is that of over a score of little girls in the role of dancing fairies. Their singing and dancing is perfect, showing the careful training they had received by Mr. and Mrs. Cowell. The little folks looked charming in their white costumes, resplendent with silver decorations.

There were no tedious waits between the acts, and the arrangements were all that the most fastidious could desire. Every part was cleverly taken by the different principals, the singing and dancing were of the highest order. The performance represents weeks of hard work on the part of the members of the cast and Mr. and Mrs. Cowell, who trained them so thoroughly. Every scene was true to life.

The scream uttered by Princess Chrysanthemum, when her rejected suitor and his black art ally threw the dark mantle over her head as a preliminary to her capture, had in it the ring of general alarm, and would have done credit to a professional.

The accompaniments were played by Mr. Cowell, who was assisted in the orchestral part of the programme by George Frederick. Mrs. Cowell acted as stage director, and the success of the performance is in a large measure due to the efficiency and tact with which she handled the situation. All the principals were perfect in their lines.

The house was fairly well filled, but it is expected that when the play is repeated to-night that it will be greeted by a still larger audience.

No finer stage picture was ever seen in Campbellford than that presented in the closing scene, when all the members of the cast joined in singing and went through dances with military precision, closing with the national anthem of Japan and finally rendering "God Save the King."

The following are the names of all those who took part:

What might be safe for herself may do injury to an infant. You will find that if the little one cries and doesn't want to play that its bowels are constipated. First look carefully to the diet and give the child one-half teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin. You will then see results in a few hours. You will not have to force it on babies or children: they actually ask for it, it is so pleasant-tasting and free from griping.

DRILL SHORTLY FOR OIL AT COLBORNE

IN TWENTY YEARS
"HE was only a little morsel of humanity one year old when I took out a 20-year endowment policy in the Mutual Life of Canada for him. It seemed a long way ahead then—it doesn't seem far looking back over those 20 years now.
"But the other night, when he came to me in the den, where I sat reading, it struck me very forcibly that my boy had grown into a man. He fairly towered above me where I sat in my lounging chair.
"'Father,' said he, 'can you lend me $1,000?'
"'What do you want with $1,000?' I demanded in surprise.
"It seems he had an opportunity of entering a motor agency and garage business with some other young fellows whose fathers I knew well as successful business men. I looked up the date of the Mutual Life policy before I gave my answer.
"'Yes,' I said. 'I will have $1,000 for you on your 21st birthday—a little coming-of-age present from your mother and me.'
"Do you know, it was a wonderful satisfaction to be able to say that!"

COCHRANE'S DEATH TOLL IS GROWING

Typhoid Epidemic Claims Five More Victims, Bringing Total Deaths to 34.

COCHRANE, Ont., April 13. — (Canadian Press.)—Five deaths occurred Wednesday, bringing the total of typhoid fever victims to about 34. So far no further deaths have occurred since noon yesterday, although a number of patients, including Charles Mulligan, master bridge builder of the T. and N. O., are reported to be extremely low and may not survive. The total cases reported since the epidemic began have now reached 730, but the number of new cases is still on the decline. Three days ago 23 new cases developed from secondary infection, while yesterday only seven were reported. The people of Cochrane feel that assistance should be given the town to bear the cost of the epidemic on a similar, if not greater, basis as in case of fire. In a statement to the Canadian Press last night, Mayor Russell estimated that the total cost of the epidemic will reach $35,000 or $40,000. Unless aid is received from the government this will have to be defrayed by the issue of debentures in order to spread the burden over a long term of years. Mayor Russell stated emphatically that rumors that the town had been warned were completely false. "We all realized where the contamination was going but no one dreamed it was ever reaching the source of our water supply," he said. His Worship continued, "Aid to Cochrane should be in the form of a cash grant. The shopkeepers have carried the needs of the town on credit as long as they can, but they must have money for re-stocking. The situation is undoubtedly serious and unless something can be done Cochrane is going to be financially crippled for years."

Supplies are coming in slowly from a number of points in the north, but there is still a tremendous need. At present as many as 200 bed pads are required daily.

SENATOR ROCHE DECRIES USE OF LEAGUE NATIONS

Has a Staff of Clerks But No Physical, Pecuniary or Moral Force Behind It.

NO ARMY OR NAVY.

OTTAWA, April 13.— (Canadian Press.)—Having passed the interim supply bill, granting the government appropriation sufficient to cover expenditures during April and May, having given second reading to Senator Dandurand's bill to prohibit the publicaittion of evidence taken before Parliamentary committee in marriage and divorce committees without the authority of the house of parliament concerned the Senate yesterday again took up the motion of Sir George Foster drawing attention to conditions in Europe and the work of the League of Nations, and asking the government to lay upon the table the report of the Canadian delegates to the third assembly of the league. On this motion Senator Roche of Halifax and Hon. Gideon Robertson were heard.

Senator Roche said that the League of Nations was a pretentious framework. It had an aristocratic and costly secretariat and a staff of clerks, but it had no physical, pecuniary or moral force. It had no army or navy to enforce its decrees. It existed only on the subscriptions of the nations. It could cajole only the lesser nations and it could not control the great powers. Credit had been given the league for settlement of the dispute between Lithuania and Poland but Russia claimed credit for ending that dispute. Senator Roche recalled the Entente Allies dispute with Turkey and said the conference of Constantinople had ended abruptly. Great Britain had observed the possibility that Russia would be behind Turkey in the dispute, had been cognizant of the disquiet in India, and had concluded that India was more valuable to the British Empire than the freedom of the Dardanelles.

He condemned the French occupation of the Ruhr Valley and in so far as Canada was concerned, he said, she should refrain from European entanglements, turning her attention to the bearing of the burden of her war debt, to the development of her own resources, the perfecting of her own transportation system and the extension of her commerce and to the working out of her own destiny in the western world.

Senator Gideon Robertson, spoke of the attitude of organized labor abroad toward the occupation of the Ruhr. He quoted the opinion of the International Federation of Trade Unions protesting against the adoption of a policy of force and calling for a reference of the dispute to arbitration; of the British labor organizations calling for a reference of the question to the League of Nations; of the French General Confederation of Labor declaring that the military occupation of the Ruhr was a dangerous mistake and urging a hearing of the dispute between France and Germany by a court of arbitration and of the committee of action of the devastated areas urging the adoption of amicable methods of settling the differences of the two countries.

During the sitting Senator J. A. MacDonald gave notice of a resolution declaring that "railway freight rates now effective on consignments from the Maritime Provinces are proportionately higher than those effective on consignments from the western provinces and seriously handicap the industries of the Maritime Provinces and should be substantially reduced and that the government should take steps forthwith to cause such reduction."

TROOPS SEARCHING FOR REBEL LEADER

Free Staters Combing the Tipperary Mountains For Eamon De Valera.

DUBLIN, April 13.— (Canadian Press.)—Six columns of Free State troops under General Prout are scouring the mountains in Tipperary for Eamon De Valera, Dan Breen and the other irregular heads who escaped the Free State troops when Liam Lynch was captured and fatally wounded, Tuesday.

The area in which the troops are operating is very mountainous and little information regarding their movements is trickling through.

Thomas Keating, one of the southern irregular leaders, died to-day from his wounds in the Dungarvan Hospital. Keating, with a party of irregulars, was surprised by troops operating at Coolnasmear, near Dungarvan, County Waterford. The irregulars refused to surrender and were fired upon, Keating receiving a mortal wound. He was one of the most active of the southern irregulars.

REVINGTON HAS NEW BANK PLAN

Would Have the Provinces Incorporated as Banks Under Present Federal Bank Act.

OTTAWA, Ont., April 13. Canadian Press. — That the province should incorporate themselves as banks under the Federal Bank Act, was proposed by George Bevington of Edmonton, before the Banking and Commerce Committee of the House of Commons, yesterday afternoon, as a means of solving the problem of providing credit for agriculture and other purposes.

Mr. Bevington suggested that the powers of the Treasury Board to issue Dominion notes in return for securities be defined by Parliament; that the provinces take out charters under the existing Bank Act, and appoint a Board of Directors to conduct business, including estimates of local units or branch banks.

W. F. McLean, Cons., York S., expressed the view that the provinces had now the right to obtain and operate a bank charter.

"I doubt it," remarked Hon. A. K. McLean, chairman of the committee.

W. F. McLean said that the matter was now being examined by a provincial attorney general.

Mr. Bevington led up to this proposal by stating that the present system encourages loans to manufacturers and distributors rather than to the primary producers.

He pointed out that under existing conditions the Dominion Treasury Board issued Dominion notes to the banks on provincial or federal bonds or other good securities. Why then should not the Treasury Board issue Dominion notes direct to a province on provincial bonds?

In the effort to meet the demand for credit, he said, some of the banks had already extended their credit to a point where the government might have to come to their help. They had extended credit so far as to accept securities which were not acceptable to the Treasury Board, though they were absolutely sound.

Mr. Bevington suggested the provincial branch banks should grant loans on securities such securities being rediscounted by the provincial unit and again by the treasury board.

"What should be the limit of the loan?" he was asked.

"The limit would be the assets which the individual was able to put up," was the reply.

He expressed the view that the proposal would have the advantages that it would decentralize control, reduce interest rates, and provide for the employment of local deposits in local loans.

SOVIET CRITICISED BY EVERY SECT

Execution Vicar-General Butchkavitch Draws Protest From All Religious Heads in Britain.

LONDON, April 13. Canadian Press. — The attitude of the Soviet Government towards the Christian Church of the world, as manifested in the recent execution of Vicar-General Butchkaviter, and the condemnation of Archbishop Zepliak, forms the subject of an indignant protest issued yesterday over the names of the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Archbishop of York, Cardinal Bourne, Rabbi Hertz, General Bramwell Booth, and other religious heads, representing nearly every sect in Great Britain.

Addressed to "All Men and Women of Good Will," the document exhorts those who have at heart the well-being of the world and the maintenance of religious liberty to register their condemnation of the Soviet's actions.

"The last few weeks," says the protest, "have witnessed a portent which has filled all generous hearted men and women with horror. The ruthless warfare which the Soviet Government has long carried on against all forms of religious belief, has come to a head.

"Hundreds of thousands of religious people and ministers of religion of all ranks and creeds have been subjected to savage prosecution, the express object of which has been to root religion out of the land. The central facts for which religion stands have been systematically outraged and insulted. The most sacred of religious festivals (Easter) has been made the occasion for blasphemous travesty.

"The Bolsheviks themselves have not disguised the purpose they have in view. In their own journal they declared: 'We must carry out our agitation against religion just as systematically as we do in political questions, but with even more determination. Although we have declared war on the denizens of Heaven, it is by no means easy to sweep them from the households of the workmen.'"

The pronouncement then says it is for the sake of these workmen and the whole people of Russia, and for the preservation in their hearts of their faith in God, that the signers appeal.

"We represent many religious communions and many political opinions," it goes on, "but we are united in the indignation and horror with which we regard the present policy of systematic persecution of religion in all its forms. Such a policy cannot be tolerated in silence by those who value religion or liberty. Our protest will, we are confident, evoke a response everywhere on the part of those who have at heart the well being of the world."

No matter what you plant in your garden you should be able to get some chickens out of it.

LEONARD R. STEEL DIED INSOLVENT

BUFFALO, April 13.—(Canadian Press.)—Leonard R. Steel, promoter of the L. R. Steel enterprises, in which the public invested more than $20,000,000 in three years, died insolvent. This was disclosed yesterday when Mr. Steel's will was filed for probate in Surrogate Court.

The will, drawn two years before the sudden death of the promoter and at a time when he controlled millions of dollars, made generous provision for his widow and other relatives. One clause created a trust fund of $10,000 for the care of the graves of all persons named in the will.

Following the filing of the will, Walter M. Wilkins, Steel's personal lawyer and one of the executors, said Steel left no assets that could be turned into cash and that the trust created for the benefit of Mrs. Steel and other relatives contained only stocks in the Steel companies, which are now in the hands of receivers and of doubtful value.

Germans Protest Commission's Action.

BERLIN, April 13. — (Canadian Press)—The German Government has forwarded to the British, French and Belgian Governments, a note protesting against the Rhineland Commission's action relative to the German railway workers in the occupied territory.

The Allied Rhineland Commission notified the German railway in March that those who refused to served under the French and Belgians would be expelled from the occupied territory during the early part of April.

Steamers Delayed By Labor Troubles.

SYDNEY, Australia, April 13.—(Canadian Press Cable)—A number of steamers are held up at Newcastle owing to the labor trouble in the northern territory having spread to the south coast where two collieries are already idle. A number of coal mines in the northern territory have closed down. The dispute arose over the refusal of the government to remove a magistrate who had sentenced several miners for absenting themselves from work.

Why we awake dull, sluggish, dispirited and weary

The reason why sleep is refreshing and strengthening

Sleep is nature's method of repairing the wear and tear that is constantly going on while we are awake. As soon as we fall asleep, all the organs of the body "slow down" in their work. It is for this reason that a sleeping person breathes more slowly and his pulse is much less rapid.

This "slowing down" of all the organs enables them to take in more energy from the blood than they expend in the performance of their different functions, and the result is that they accumulate a sufficient surplus of this vital power to meet the demands of the waking hours to follow. We feel vigorous, sprightly, strong and energetic when we awake from a night's sound sleep, because during all that time the organs have been receiving nutritive elements from the blood faster than they could use them.

But when the blood is deficient in nutritive elements—when it does not contain enough of them to supply an abundance to every organ during sleep—we awake dull, sluggish, dispirited and weary because the organs have not been able to accumulate a surplus of vital power. We often tire in the early hours of our morning's work because the organs have not been able to store up a reserve energy during the night before.

If your sleep is not sound and refreshing; if you roll and toss all through the night and wake up in the morning feeling gloomy, sullen, sluggish, "out of sorts" and weary, it is probably because your blood is not rich enough in nutritive elements to meet the demand of all the organs of your body. If the condition is neglected, the loss of vigor may soon be followed by nervous exhaustion or a seriously debilitated constitution. In order to prevent a serious break-down, you should begin taking a tonic and restorative preparation of the right sort.

Wincarnis

The Reconstructive Tonic

Wincarnis is a preparation of the elements that are necessary in the repair of wear and tear of the organs and nervous system. It contains these elements in a form in which they are rapidly absorbed into the blood and are carried to every part of the body to be converted into vital power. Wincarnis is a general tonic and restorative intended especially for those who suffer from wakefulness, sluggishness, loss of vigor, nervousness or a debilitated constitution. For almost half a century, physicians have prescribed this preparation for the weak, anemic, nervous and run-down. A single bottle is often sufficient to restore one's energy, strength and vital power.

MAKE THE BACKYARD PAY

Good Top Soil, Careful Attention and Fertilization Make a Good Lawn.

By W. R. BEATTIE.

Nothing so improves the surroundings of a house as does a good lawn. The establishment of a lawn, however, is not an easy matter, in fact the lawn often has to be "made" right from the start.

The top layer of earth around the dwelling usually consists of the clay or rough, stony material taken from the bottom of the cellar. This material could hardly be dignified by the term of "soil" and while it may be "soil in the making" it requires considerable making before anything will grow upon it.

The first step in making a lawn is to grade and level the ground and remove or deeply bury all rocks. The top three to five inches should be made just as fine as possible.

Fertilization.

The second step is to provide something in the soil on which grass can grow. The ideal method is to put on a top dressing two or three inches thick of good soil or loam. A heavy application of stable manure, if it can be obtained, will add organic matter or humus and supply plant food.

Heavy clays may be lightened by mixing in slited coal ashes or sand. Bet line applied to the surface at the rate of 25 to 40 pounds to the square rod and mixed with the top three inches of earth is undoubtedly the best treatment of heavy clays.

Coarsely ground bone meal is one of the best fertilizers for mixing with the soil in making a lawn and may be applied at the rate of 20 pounds to the square rod on heavy soils and 10 pounds on light or sandy soils. All fertilizer should be well mixed with the top soil.

New House Lawns.

Considerable difficulty is experienced in getting a good lawn under such adverse conditions as are usually found about newly built houses. One method is to go into some field where there is a good covering of grass, cut the sod in sections and relay it where the lawn is wanted. This is expensive and besides it is not always possible to get good sod.

All things considered, it is generally best to sow a good grade of lawn grass seed mixture and then give special attention to watering and care of the young grass until it is ready for the lawn mower. The mixture of seed will vary with locality, but Kentucky blue grass, redtop and white clover is a common mixture. Four or five pounds of this mixture will seed a lawn 50 by 100 feet in size. To keep the lawn in trim a little seed and some fertilizer should be sprinkled over the surface every spring.

Crabgrass is the common enemy of lawn grasses and it means a fight to prevent its taking possession. Where dandelion and plantains give trouble sow plenty of grass seed at frequent intervals and keep the lawn clipped closely to prevent these plants seeding.

TELLTALE SYMPTOMS OF WOMAN'S ILLS

Every woman who suffers from backache, headaches, dragging-down pains, nervousness, irregularities, displacements, irritabilty, or despondency should recognize in such symptons some derangement of her system which should have attention before some more serious ailment develops. These conditions are often evidenced by a sallow complexion, dark circles under the eyes, lassitude and sleeplessness. For nearly fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been pre-eminently successful in overcoming such conditions, and it is now recognized everywhere as the standard remedy for woman's ills.

YANKEE GENERAL LAUDS THE BRITISH

General O'Ryan Tells the Canadian Club of Spirit of Comradeship Which Existed.

NEW YORK, April 13 (Canadian Press). — Major-General John F. O'Ryan, Commander of the New York Division of the United States Army in France, and John W. Dafoe, editor of the Winnipeg Free Press, were guests of the Canadian Club at a luncheon given in their honour yesterday.

General O'Ryan, in a brief address, dealt with the change of sentiment toward the British which had been brought about in the United States as a result of the experiences of the war. A very large percentage of the men in his Division were of either German or Irish parentage, and had been outspokenly anti-British at the time of their enlistment. There was something like consternation in the ranks when they learned they were to beattached to the British Army in France. However after they had experienced a few battles as comrades-in-arms with the British Tommies, their feeling of antipathy was changed to one of good fellowship and friendship.

General O'Ryan related several anecdotes of the war illustrative of this change of sentiment.

Dealing briefly with the proposed participation of the United Sttaes in the International Court of Justice and the criticism of this step on the ground that it meant entrance into the League of Nations General O'Ryan declared that the average United States citizen had never made a careful study of the League, but had based his opinions on newspaper headlines. He believed that if the majority of the people in his country could be made to realise the fundamental principles of the League, the opposition to it would break down.

Mr. Dafoe declared that the fact that the United States had been unable to find it possible to unite with the other nations in the League of Nations had been a disaster second only to the disaster of the war. The presence of the United States in the League was essential to its proper functioning. The united influence of the two great English-speaking nations would maintain the stability of civilisation and prevent a recurrence of disaster, but he did not believe any form of alliance was necessary or desirable. If an Anglo-Saxon bloc were formed there would soon also be a Latin nations bloc, and a Slavic bloc, and there would be distrust and suspicion leading to disaster. But without any definite pact, the English-speaking nations would inevitably and almost unconsciously act together in the time of crisis, just as the United States and British soldiers had spontaneously forgotten all trivial prejudices and had co-operated so wonderfully during the war.

Want Ad Tips by John T. Bartlett

THE BUYING IMPORTANCE OF WOMEN.

"Notice the facts I've underlined in that Want Ad?" asked the real estate advertiser. "Those facts are put there for a purpose. Three guesses to tell me what that purpose is!"

One fact underlined—the description was of a home offered for sale—was, "6 roomy closets." Another was, "Most convenient kitchen in the city." Still another was, "Furnishings selected by foremost interior decorator," and a fourth, "A dream of a home."

Let the reader, before the writer reveals the answer, take three guesses, too.

The answer is significant to Want advertisers selling many things—yet many have not taken thought to heed it. There are many Want Ads on homes for sale which contain no such touches. They should contain them, for they multiply inquiries from one great section of the buying public. Those readers we mean are women—the wives, mothers, daughters, sweethearts. The successful real estate advertiser took pains to make his Want Ad appeal to women.

Women do an overwhelming percentage of the retail buying of the nation. Even a hardware store recently reported that at least sixty per cent of store customers were women. The percentage is far higher in the department store. This condition exists—and it applies strong to Wan Ad buying, too—partly because they have much more time to buy than their husbands.

While, in the case of a house or an automobile, a woman may not do the actual buying, in a great number of cases women will influence the choice. The good advertiser will think of this influence when he writes his Want Ad. He will put in it facts which will appeal to women. Closets; convenient kitchen; artistic decorations—those things instantly arrest feminine interest. And facts of equal strong appeal to woman can be put into Want Ads selling many other things.

GHOST PICTURES
They Aid Sculpture Project.

ATLANTA, Ga., April 13.— Giant ghost figures flicker nightly across the vast expanse of Stone Mountain, near here.

Robert E. Lee, Stonewall Jackson and Jefferson Davis can be seen leading into battle hosts of men, ill clad and poorly equipped but determined to die for a cause they hold sacred.

Superstitious negroes shun the Stone Mountain region. But others know these ghost figures are not a visitation of the supernatural but are children of a projecting machine operated by Gutzon Borglum, famed sculptor, who is performing the greatest projection feat on record.

Southern women have engaged Borglum to carve a giant Confederate memorial at a cost of $2,000,000 on the side of Stone Mountain, said to be the largest mass of solid rock in the world.

Borglum conceived the idea of "marking" the mountain by means of a giant motion picture machine. At last his scheme has worked.

With his projection machine Borglum flashes pictures across the great black mass as easily as if he were operating a motion picture theatre.

How Sculptor Works.

With this remarkable projector the pictures of the figures Borglum wishes to inscribe may be thrown on the mountainside.

Borglum will cover the mountainside with nitrate of silver, which will form a black sheet.

Then the figures will be cast and a developing fluid sprayed over them, thus producing them in outline upon the mountain.

The next day, workmen will be lowered from the top and, with white paint, trace the outlines of the photos.

His Vantage Point.

Then, from his workshop, 600 feet from the base of the mountain, Borglum will determine whether the pictures are in the right place. If not, they can be rubbed off and others substituted.

Actual carving of the memorial will begin May 1, says Borglum.

Twelve years will be required to finish the vast project and hundreds of skilled workmen will risk their lives hanging from the mountain top to carve out the giant figures from miniature models made in Borglum's studio.

DRESSING ON $500 A YEAR

By HEDDA HOYT.

NEW YORK, April 13.— (United Press).—There simply is no answer to the question, "What must a woman spend yearly to be well dressed?" It all depends upon the woman.

Now $500 a year is considered a normal amount for the woman of moderate means. Some women can dress decidedly well on that amount while others will get nowhere with it.

A woman with artistic taste, capable fingers and who pays attention to the sales advertised daily in the newspapers, can, in my estimation, not only dress on $500 a year, but she can be stylishly dressed with an assortment of clothes for various occasions.

True, she can't go into the shops at the beginning of the season and buy advance style models, nor can she load up with ready-made silk underwear, or rush the season with imported hats. But—if she waits for sales, makes her own silk underwear and copies French hats with her own deft fingers, she can make $500 wisely spent equal $1,000 heedlessly spent.

Help Clever Woman.

Everything has been done to assist the clever woman in dressing. There are dressmaking establishments all over the United States which teach dressmaking by the day where women can take their own materials and under expert instructors cut, fit and sew their own gowns. Even an amateur can turn out a beautifully made frock under the tutelage of these schools. Gowns are so simple nowadays, all made very much on the same lines, that after a few lessons in such a school, one should be able to make one's own gowns at home following the patterns and directions supplied by the school.

In New York there are many millinery supply houses where they teach women who buy their materials there to make their own hats free.

By watching silk sales one can pick up remnants of silk suitable for undergarments very reasonably. Nothing is easier to make than underwear. It is often just basted together and finished at the hemstitchers. For the price of a cheap ready-made cotton garment one can have a pretty silk one.

In the untrimmed millinery departments you can find hats almost identical in shape with the ready trimmed ones for one-third of the price. There are counters of flowers, ribbons, ornaments and feathers and a clever person can duplicate a costly hat for very little. True, it takes thought and a little trouble, but if you are to be well dressed on $500 a year you must make dressing a business in which both brains and fingers are needed.

Watching the Sales.

"Watching the sales advertised in the papers is the first rule for the careful spender. Mondays and Fridays are generally sale days. I know a young woman who does her shopping on rainy days as she says that many stores realizing that rain brings few shoppers, place odds and ends on their counters on these days to keep business going. Stockings, gloves, neckwear and blouses are articles often sold on these days.

Buying clothes that are labelled "as is"—meaning that they are slightly soiled or damaged, is another way to have beautiful clothes cheap. I have seen marvellous beaded gowns sell for one-fifth of their original price, because some of the beads were off. A fastidious buyer matches these beads and replaces them. A soiled gown sold "as is" can be cleaned or dyed.

Purchasing clothes after the season is advanced is always a saving. Clothes which sold for prohibitive sums can then be purchased as cheaply as the medium priced models were at the beginning of the season.

Buying bargains and storing them away for later use is a problem which I shall discuss in my next fashion article.

JUDGE ASKS WHAT LOVE IS WORTH?

Heiress to Millions Stole the Affections of Barber and Wife Sues.

CHICAGO, April 13.—Judges in damage suits are called upon daily to fix the value of a leg, an arm, an ear or an eye when litigants demand compensation for the loss of these members.

And it's not a rare day when a judge is asked to fix the value of a human life—in cases where relatives sue for compensation for the death of one of their kin.

But a Chicago judge today faces a problem more subtle and more entangling than any of these.

He is asked to put a money valuation on love!

This problem has arisen in the suit of Mrs. Edwin Milner No 1 against Mrs. Edwin Milner No. 2.

Mrs. Milner No. 1 a housewife, much like the dozen others you'll find in your block, alleges Mrs. Milner No. 2, heiress to millions, so dazzled Milner, a barber, by her wealth that she stole away his love.

$100,000 Suggested

Wife No. 1 seeks compensation for the lost affection—and suggests $100,000 might be a suitable amount. Here is her story as she sets it forth in her complaint:

Milner and Mrs. Milner No. 1 and their daughter, Charlotte, 13, were getting along as well as they could on Milner's salary of $16 a week.

They were happy.

Then came prosperity. Milner got an executive job with a big haberdashery concern. There Milner met Harriet Capper, dashing debutante daughter of his employer.

The heiress and Mr. and Mrs. Milner became friends. Frequently they went on jaunts in Miss Capper's luxurious limousine.

Suspects Love

Soon, Mrs. Milner alleges in her complaint, she began to suspect affection was growing between Miss Capper and her husband.

But she didn't mention that when she sued Milner for divorce shortly afterwards. She secured a decree on ground of cruelty and began to receive alimony cheques for $20.00 weekly.

One year and one day later Miss Capper became Mrs. Milner No. 2. And Milner became vice president of the haberdashery establishment.

And now ex-Mrs. Milner comes in to court and demands from the present Mrs. Milner compensation for the loss of Milner's affections.

Judge's Problem

But the judge, sifting the evidence on both sides, is confronted by these new and strange questions:

What claim has an ex-wife on her divorced husband?

How much is that husband's affection—the amount he failed to lavish on her before he was allegedly stolen—worth in cash?

Is one husband worth more than another?

How shall a court of law attempt to judge the points on which his purloined value can be assessed?

What is a fair price for any husband's love?

The case will decide all this, lawyers say.

What sort of award would you make if you were the judge?

Canadian Stock Exchange — And Mines — = New York Stock Exchange — And Curb Prices. —

To-Day's Quotations and Opinions and Reviews of the Markets.

TRADITION DEFIED.

NEW YORK, April 13 (United Press). — Friday the thirteenth tradition was defied by the stock market to-day, which went steadily higher under the influence of a good Federal Reserve statement and the improved technical condition of the market as a result of this week's shake-down in the oils, the one group which has failed to participate in the previous technical setback.

...Recently there has been buying of Canadian Pacific, both here and in London.

This was attributed to the fact that some of the roads' 5,000,000 acres of land is said to be promising oil territory.

Weekly statements of the Federal Reserve Banks demonstrated that any immediate change in the rediscount rate was out of the question and showed how absurd it was to talk of inflation in the present economic situation.

Not only did the Reserve ration of the system advance to 76.3 per cent. or less than 1 per cent. from the high of the year, but re-discounts experienced a shrinkage of $72,000,000 conclusively proving that the fear of a credit strain was far fetched.

Stocks in the general list displayed a relatively buoyant tone in the early dealings.

Steel, Republic Steel, American Can., California Petroleum, and Studebaker and other market leaders scored good gains over the previous close, while the entire list was free from selling pressure.

Stocks gained further ground on the recovery before the end of the first hour.

Buying was stimulated by March reports of the building activity which broke all records for any single month in the nation's history.

Building operations afforded a splendid index to the business conditions and great expansion which has occurred means increased consumption of steel, copper, cement, sumption of steel, copper, cement, and lumber.

United States Industrial Alcohol was one of the leaders from the advance moving up to 69 3-4 against Wednesday's low of 67 1-8.

Stewart Warner was featured among the specialties selling at 118 7-8 up 2 7-8 from the low of yesterday.

Steels made a good response to the constantly increasing evidence of the country's growing prosperity. . If the labour supply were adequate, the steel mills would be producing at the rate of at least 5,000,000 tons more of steel annually.

Chairman Toppings of Republican Steel, is of the opinion that production is more likely to be downward than upward, due to the shifting of labour.

He Who Gives Promptly Gives More Than His Money

"THE SCARLET HIEROGLYPHIC"

The author of one of the most interesting books ever written, "The High Romance," was at one time a consumptive . "The scarlet hieroglyphic" was the name he gave to one of the earliest symptoms of the great "white plague," the blood-tinged sputum which is the "red flag" of danger in this disease.

A pamphlet issued by the Canadian Department of Health, entitled "What You Should Know About Tuberculosis," says:

"If we could collect and destroy all the spit of such patients and make them cover their mouths when they cough, we could almost wipe out the disease."

"Every one therefore who spits or has a cough should be just as careful about his spitting as if he knew that he had tuberculosis."

Another paragraph:

"If all people who have any spit would destroy it carefully would cover their mouths when they cough, would refrain from kissing and would keep their hands clean, and if all milk, for children at least, were boiled or pasteurised before use, unless it came from veterinarily tested cows, it would not be long before we would get rid of the trouble entirely."

Light, air, and cleanliness, avoidance of late hours, dissipation, drink, and unduly long hours of work, much outdoor life and healthful amusements are further recommendations.

Instruction in simple hygienic rules advice as to daily food and habits bedside nursing for such afflicted sufferers, the supplying, in cases of necessity, of milk, eggs, and medicine, are among the good works carried on in Peterborough by the local Health Association, to ameliorate the condition of consumptive patients, and prevent the spread of a disease which has so far in the world's history never been conquered, and of which it is asserted that "Every third person between fifteen and sixty dies of it, or every fourth person between twenty and fifty; or, in other figures, it kills about one in ten of all people who die at any age."

The policy of those who carry on remedial work in tubercular cases might be termed the "lend a hand" method, as epitomised in the couplet: "Look up and not down, look forward and not backward. Look out and not in, and lend a hand."

The "lend a hand" policy may easily be imitated, if not in actual visiting, at least in the moral and financial support given by all who attend the Motor Show next week, in aid of the Peterborough Health Association's endeavuors.

SLAYER OF RECTOR MAKES STATEMENT

KALAMAZOO, Mich., April 13. —(Canadian Press).—Rev. Father Charles Dillon, who last night shot and killed His Superior, Rev. Father Henry O'Neill, pastor of St. Augustine's church, admitted to the police that he had been drinking during the day.

"I knelt before God and prayed that something would happen to that man," he is quoted as saying. "I had no right to kill Father O'Neill, not one right in the world. I took that in my own hands and I killed him. I want to go to Jackson (State Prison). I'd rather have the chair."

"I never did any harm in my life; never took a cent from anybody. Gentle little children all over Michigan will tell you they love me," he said. He had purchased revolver "conditionally for the purpose" of shooting Father O'Neill, but he had hoped that it could not happen.

LONDON CONSERVATIVES PREPARE FOR CAMPAIGN

LONDON, Ont., April 13.—(Canadian Press.)—Local Conservatives meet to-night to consider recent developments in the political situation and outline tentative plans for the London campaign.

A week from to-night a big Conservative gathering for Western Ontario will be held and delegates from 21 ridings will attend with leading members of the party in the province.

The latest advices from Toronto state that Sir Adam Beck, former member for London, will not entertain candidature and that he desires to "keep Hydro out of politics."

OPPOSE THE WATERWAY SCHEME FOR THE WEST

SASKATOON, April 13, Canadian Press. — Opposition to the St. Lawrence deep waterway project was expressed by Premier John Oliver here last night in speaking in support of British Columbias fight for equalization of freight rates. The project would simply add further water competition at tremendous cost, premier said, when the chief need was more rail traffic to make possible further reductions in the railway rates, and greater net profits to the roads.

Premier Oliver criticized the sentiment of those who sought to create further waterways, when the "great Pacific" was unused.

RIOTS REPORTED IN SECTIONS OF INDIA

LONDON, April 13. Canadian Press. — Despatches from India report trouble at Amritsar, where serious disturbances ocurred in 1919. The present unrest is attributed to tension by Hindus and Mohammedans as a result of the proselyting activities on the part of both. A riot occurred on Wednesday in which scores of persons were wounded.

British cavalry and armoured cars have been brought from Lahore to strengthen the local force.

WOMAN'S LIFE SAVED BY PARROT'S MIMICRY

NEW YORK, April 13. — Canadian Press. — The mimicry of her parot to-day saved the life of Mrs. Louis H. Reid. After quarrelling with her husband, Mrs. Reid slashed her wrists in her apartment on East 57th street. Then she cried for help until she became faint. The bird however carried on. Mrs. Reid's mother living in the same house heard the parrot, and rushed her daughter to the hospital.

LOCK-OUT OF 500,000 WORKERS IS AVERTED

LONDON, April 13. United Press. —The lockout of 500,000 workers in the building trades scheduled for tomorrow was averted when the employers and their representatives agreed to-day to arbitrate their differences.

JOLLY EVENING SPENT WITH COURT CHEMONG

A very jolly evening was spent by members and friends of Court Chemong, No. 530, I.O.F., last night in the W.O.W. Hall, when the regular semi-monthly business session of the society was followed by a re-union social, with a good attendance of members of both sexes.

Bro. E. C. Stiles, Chief Ranger, was chairman of the meeting, which was followed by an evening spent in cards and games, with dainty and the ladies on the committee. Consumptuous refreshments served by panions Millard, Chandler, Brady, Davis, Leal, McGann, Houghton, and Bradshaw, assisted by Bros. Stiles, Cooper, Buyers, McGann, McBain, Dilton, and Storey. During the evening Mrs. C. Scholey contributed several enjoyable vocal selections, and also supplied instrumental music.

JAMES HENRY WILLIAMS FELL FROM A HAND CAR

James Henry Williams, aged 39, of 367 Bethune Street sustained a broken leg this morning when he fell from a hand car on the Grand Trunk line on Bethune Street.

While Williams who was employed as a section man was proceeding along the track in the vicinity of Wolfe Street about 8 a.m., he fell from the front end of the pumper.

J. R. Reynolds, a fellow-workman, attempted to catch him, but did not break the fall sufficiently to save the injury. First aid was rendered by the section foreman, R. J. Bannon, and the injured man was taken to his home, where Dr. A. Moir, the railroad physician, was called.

Williams was removed to Nicholls Hospital in Belleghem's ambulance, where he was progressing satisfactorily.

Williams was overseas with the 20th Battalion, and was seriously incapacitated, being for nine weeks without the use of his hearing and his eyesight.

Mrs. Williams stated that he had had a very narrow escape to-day, the handcar almost passing over his head.

WILL GO AHEAD WITH HUDSON BAY RAILWAY

OTTAWA, April 13.—(Canadian Press)—"I would rather favor building the Hudson Bay Railway even if there was no shipping at the end of it," Hon. George P. Graham, acting minister of railways, told the western delegation which interviewed him this morning.

"I don't see why there should be any doubt about the Government carrying out the promise made by me in the House to place in operating condition that part of road already constructed," he continued.

"I think you can all rest assured that when we get money, and I intend to bring down a vote on the supplementary estimates this year, that we will go ahead with work."

HAND-CAR ON C.N.R. JUMPED THE TRACK

LINDSAY, April 13.— A serious accident which will probably be attended with fatal results occurred on the C.N.R. track near Beaverton the other day. As the section men were going in their hand car to work, a wreach fell in front of a wheel causing the car to jump the track. Mr. Chas. McVicar was thrown off and badly injured. He was picked up in an unconscious condition and rushed to the hospital. He is still unconscious and his condition is critical.

SIR HENRY NEWBOLT LIKES THE CANADIANS

ST. JOHN, April 13.—(Canadian Press.)—Sir Henry Newbolt, accompanied by Lady Newbolt, arrived in the city last night and will sail today on the steamer Montrose for England.

Speaking as to what he thought of Canadians, as Canadians, he said that he had not found any that he had not liked, and their manners and their friendliness had always been pleasure. He certainly wanted to come back to Canada.

Regarding the purpose of his tour and the national conference on education, Sir Henry thought that it would be a very good plan to have exchanges not only of teachers, but of the whole sections of the population of professors, of students, of journalists and of clergymen.

ASSISTANT RECTOR SLAYS HIS RECTOR

Words at Supper Table Led to Shocking Tragedy in Kalamazoo.

KALAMAZOO, Mich., April 13.—(Canadian Press.) — Rev. Father Charles Dilton, assistant rector of St. Augustine's Roman Catholic church, shot and killed Rev. Father Henry O'Neill, rector of the church, at the supper table last evening. He fired four shots, all of which took effect. Turning to the dumbfounded Rev. McCullough, only witness to the tragedy, the infuriated priest tossed on to the table a phial containing some holy oils, with the request that the other administer the Sacrament of Extreme Unction at once. The slayer next went to the telephone and calmly summoned the police and the coroner.

According to the confession, Rev. Father Dilton made to the police, he had been driven to fury by alleged ill treatment at the hands of Rev. O'Neill.

"He treated me with disrespect almost ever since I came here from Battle Creek thirteen months ago," the prisoner told the officers. To-night at the supper table we quarrelled over the matter. He ordered me to pack up my belongings and get out. I went upstairs to pack up, but it was a revolver that I packed. I intended to give him a chance to confess and to repent before I killed him, but as I advanced into the room, with my hand holding the extended pistol, I saw him grab for a salt celler to throw at me, and I fired once and then twice. After that I do not recall very well what happened.

Rev. Father O'Neill was born at Hubbardston, Mich., about 56 years ago. He was a graduate of Assumption College, Sandwich, Ont.

HE DOES NOT HOPE FOR GOVT. DEFEAT

Former U. F. O. Whip Explains His Attitude to Administration.

TORONTO, April 13.—(Canadian Press)—All talk at Parliament Buildings is on possibility of Premier Drury getting through electoral reform bills and dissolving the house on May 4. Opinion was freely expressed that the Premier cannot complete his announced programme by this date.

At a Government caucus eleven members who will represent the Farmers and labor on the redistribution committee were appointed, but Premier Drury declined to make known their names.

Andrew Hicks, former U.F.O. Whip explained his attitude to the Government by stating that he had no desire that the administration be defeated. All estimates had to be passed and it was desirious that the Government should not be obstructed. "It was up to us to get through essential business and then dissolve" he said.

ROBBERY OF FURS AT SUNDERLAND

LINDSAY, April 13.—(Special).—The Lindsay police have been notified of a fur robbery which took place in Sunderland last night. The furs, which were the property of S. L. Goldberg, consisted of otters, beavers, coon, lynx, rats, etc. Their value is estimated at $500 or $600.

The burglars are believed to have headed towards Lindsay.

ASBESTOS

anything but the best and richest pieces.

Since that time, modern machinery and more up-to-date methods have made it possible to use practically all of the fibre mined.

How It is Mined.

The most common practice in mining asbestos is to remove the surface soil, sometimes to a depth of 25 feet until they hit the rock and then the usual quarry methods are used, such as drilling, dynamiting and blasting. The quarried rock is then conveyed to the mill, where it is put through the various processes of crushing, cobbing and carding, so that the various grades may be selected and packed for shipment.

Crude asbestos is commonly known as asbestos with fibres longer than 3-4 inch and in the Canadian fields run as high as 4 1-2 inches. However ,the so-called crude fibres are only 5% of the total asbestos mined. It may be of interest to you to know that of the crude asbestos, the Raybestos Co. annually uses over 40% of the total mined. Some idea of the range in prices may be gathered from the following: 1885 crude asbestos, $ 80.00 a ton 1900, crude asbestos, 300.00 a ton 1920-23, crude asbestos 3,000.00 a ton

When you consider that it takes 200 pounds of rock to make a set of brake linings and consider all of the handling between the rock and the finished article, you can easily see why brake lining costs so much money.

For Brake Lining.

It may be that some of you are not acquainted with the process of manufacture of brake lining from Rock to Raybestos," and therefore I will give you a brief resume of the process.

After the rock has been blasted and sent to the mill, the best pieces are 'cobbed,' that is, the adhering rock is knocked from the asbestos by hand, hammers being used by the workmen. The asbestos is then crushed, dried and fiberised by machinery. It is then packed in bags and shipped to England and the United States to be made into yarn.

Asbestos fibre is very difficult to weave alone as the fibres are very slick and offer no means of preventing slipping one on the other, which is not true of flax, silk, wool and cotton. It is therefore common practice and also the result of keen competition that a small percentage of cotton is used with the crude asbestos fibre. The better the yarn the smaller the cotton content and this naturally follows through to the brake lining with which the yarn is woven.

The purpose of a brake lining is to absorb energy due to momentum and convert it into heat. In 1895 the Royal Equipment Company, predecessors of the Raybestos Company, experimented with a canvas belt, saturated with a special mixture. However, at 500 F. this lining became charged and was of no value.

Metal to Metal Brakes.

Previous to this, metal to metal brakes had been used but were inefficient for the following reasons:

1. Low co-efficient of friction and consequently too much force necessary to make them efficient.
2. Noisy.
3. Surfaces rapidly worn.
4. Presence of oil or grease makes them wholly inefficient.

It was for the above reasons that the Royal Equipment Company who were then manufacturing automobile brakes started experimenting with a lining of saturated canvas. After a long period of experimental work the Raybestos Company brought out in 1905 the first asbestos brake lining. This was a pure asbestos woven lining and was far more satisfactory than cotton, leather or any other material thus far used, but even it had its limitations. The particular objections were weak co-efficient of friction and rapid wear. It was found by experiment that by using yarn in which there was a mixture of fine brass wires, greatly added to the strength and durability of the lining and to this was added an impregnation process on the lining itself to increase the co-efficient of friction and also the durability.

It is this impregnating compound which is the secret of Raybestos Brake Lining quality. You will find some linings too soft and some too hard and some will deteriorate or disintegrate under the presence of heat and oil, but our compound has eliminated practically all of these objections.

Until recently, very little attention has been paid to brakes by the automobile trade in general, but cities and states are now taking the matter up very seriously, as it has been proved that the majority of collisions and accidents have been due to faulty brakes.

Even the best of linings will not operate satisfactorily unless the brakes are properly adjusted and unless the lining is placed on the brake hand in the proper manner.

Brake Adjustments.

In our long experience with complaints and adjustments, we have found that the average garage and repair shop man knows less about brakes and their application than practically any other part of the car. This has worked to the detriment of a manufacturer whose lining has always been guaranteed for one year and recently we have brought out a machine for properly drilling and counter-sinking lining and have established in all parts of the United States and Canada, service stations which will use our machine and our methods and we feel confident that a new era in brake service has been started in which the public will benefit in many ways. In the first place, you will be able to obtain a guaranteed lining put on your car in the latest and most approved manner and the price will be very considerably lower than previous to this time.

One of the greatest abuses or causes of poor brake service is the improper application of rivets. It has hitherto been the practice to use split brass or steel rivets in attacking the lining to the brake band. These rivets are not counter-sunk and in a very short space of time, either wear a groove in the drum or themselves become worn and are of no value in holding the lining to the band. The recommendations which we offer after our long experience, is a tubular brass rivet inserted in a counter-sunk hole in the lining. This assures a firm hold until the lining is worn to a state where it is practically of no value and should be renewed.

Two Classes Brakes.

There are two classes of brakes: One, the internal expanding, and the other the external contracting. The American practice is to use both of these on the rear wheels or rather drums on the rear wheels, but European practice has been to use the internal only and then it is small in diameter, evidently was for the sake of appearances more than anything else as they are rapidly changing to the double style and larger diameters as it has been proven conclusively that the latter are more efficient. Some automobiles have used a brake on the propeller shaft directly back of the transmission, but this has been proved to be poor practice due to the excessive strain on drive shaft, differential, propeller shaft and universal joints. Recently there has been considerable experimental work done on brakes for all four wheels and we believe that the time is not far distant when this will become common practice. It has been possible to stop a car of considerable weight, travelling at 20 miles an hour in 15 feet and the car will not skid nor will the brakes lock, but the action is so gradual that it can be compared to the arresting of an elevator.

Relief Officer Miller who would apportion them between the ambulance owners.

"When you're not in trouble for goodness sake keep out," was Ald. Fife's proposal.

He appreciated a higher cost of the charity service under the proposed change, and Ald. Morrison said he was unable to see where there would be a saving.

It was also suggested that Mr. Miller might expect more money in view of the fact that he would be called at all hours of the day and night to provide an ambulance, and even then might be unable to get one.

Ald. Crowe broke into the seemingly endless conversation with the exclamation—"What's the use of sitting here all night over a trifle like this. It makes me tired talking about the darned thing so much."

"And the whole thing doesn't amount to a hill of beans," remarked Ald. Phelan.

Ald. McIntyre was finally given power to act according to his inclination.

GUNNERS LOST THE LEAD BY ONE RUN

Two Counters in the Ninth Gave the Triple Link a Victory.

The Gunners had an opportunity to jump into the lead in the club section last evening, and almost did so, but were nosed out by the Triple Link nine by a score of 12 to 11. A decided weakness in the first three innings, when the Triple Linkers scored nine runs, was responsible for the Gunners' defeat, a defeat which sent them from first into a tie for fifth place.

At the end of the third inning it looked as if the Triple Link nine were going to have everything their own way. Having scored nine runs and held the Gunners to one, it looked as if they had the game sewed up tight.

From the third to the eighth inning it was a regular ball game, with both teams battling for all they were worth. The Gunners scored two and the Linkers one. In the eighth the Gunners suddenly came to life, and walloped Price's offerings all over the field for seven runs to tie the score. They added one more in the ninth, and took the lead.

The Triple Link staged a rally in the final session that sent two runs home and won the game.

The breaks went against the Gunners, or they might have won in spite of their poor showing at the start of the game. Coursey was the big sufferer, two of his wallops that looked good for homers being dragged down by spectacular and almost impossible catches.

Alex. Butcher was the star for the winners, his work in the field being above par. Wolff was the best for the Gunners.

The players were:

Gunners—Ranger, c; Coursey, 1b; Piercy, p; Wolff, 2b; Taylor, ss; Dougbty, 3b. Gilders, ss; Galvin, lf; Simmons, rf; Nichols, ss.

Triple Link—G. Butcher, ss; A. Butcher, 3b; Munro, 1b; Ackford, rf; Long, lf; Byers, ss; Price, p; Barrie 2b; Crowe, c.

Score by innings:

Gunners	100100171—11
Triple Link	243010002—12

Toronto Semi-Pros. Couldn't Find Field.

The proposed Buffalo-Toronto semi-professional baseball league that has been talked of for some time, and which it was thought might come into existence this year, has passed out for the present at least. Failure of the Toronto end to secure a suitable enclosed playing field which is necessary to such a scheme put the finishing touches on. The three Buffalo clubs, all of whom have enclosed fields, have been ready to go on with the proposition and are enthusiastic about it.

"Corney" Burns, the leading spirit in Toronto on the matter, found the ground question too troublesome a factor and decided to leave the idea over a year. The "pass-the-hat" contributions on an open field in Toronto would not realize enough to make the league enough money to break even. And at any rate Buffalo would not likely come in unless the games in Toronto were played on an enclosed field.

The two Peterborough winners will appear on the card again tonight.

Flyweight Wins Bout With His Promoters.

NEW YORK, April 13 (Canadian Press). — A judgment for $3,000 against the Madison Square Sporting Club, settling the claim of Frankie Genaro, United States flyweight champion, for an amount due him from the contest in which he won the title from Pancho Villa, was entered by default yesterday in the State Supreme Court.

Genaro complained that after the contest in which he won the championship, Madison Square Garden promoters paid him $3,343, or $3,000 less than the amount due him.

The promoters said they withheld the $3,000 to pay Genaro's fine in New Jersey for failure to fulfill a contract to meet Villa in a contest in that State.

TO PIN HANDS.

Rumors of lacrosse amalgamation around Toronto refuse to die out, and the latest has it that Maitlands and Beaches are about to join hands. Nothing definite has yet been announced, but it seems to be the feeling around the north end that they are still lacking the strength necessary to win that championship, and certainly between what they have and the Beaches one fine team could be molded.

CENTRAL LEAGUERS AT CAMPBELLFORD

Peterboro and Belleville Will Play Exhibition Game August 6.

The Peterboro and Belleville teams have agreed to play an exhibition ball game at Campbellford on August 6th in connection with the Old Boys' Re-Union in the Trent town. Al Heckman and Jackie Williams will be the opposing pitchers and the regular teams will be used. It was learned last night that this attraction had been arranged for by Rev. J. C. Phelan who was recently appointed chairman of the committee directing the celebration. Campbellford is approximately half way between Peterboro and Belleville, and this game is expected to bring big crowds from the two cities and all the towns and villages in the district. Heckman and Williams would prove a big drawing card, and the Campbellford people will have a chance of seeing two of the best senior ball teams in Ontario.

SOFT GAME WON BY SMOKE EATERS

Rangers Were the Victims With a Score of 13 to 3.

The Firemen won the only easy game of the night last evening, when they took the curtain raise from the Rangers by a score of 13 to 3. The Firemen started off strong with three in the first inning and from then on there was never any doubt of the final outcome. Heavy hitting was the order of the day as far as the Firemen were concerned and they leaned onto Sam Calladine's offerings with gusto. Of the first four men to bat in the first innings three hit for two bases each and the remainder of the game was on par with the first frame.

Calladine himself turned in a good game for snappier fielding on the part of his team mates would have cut of several hits and kept the scoring down. In the second innings his Texas League wallop sent in two of the Rangers runs.

There was but little to choose between the Firemen. Dunkerly, who did the pitching received good support all around and all hands took one or two good healthy wallops with the willow.

The players were:

Rangers—Calladine, p; Hamblin, 2b; Grant, 1b; Goodfellow, rf; Thomas, 3b; Sevlin, ss; Griffin, ss; Dyer, lf; Varty, c.

Firemen—Carr, 1b; McBride, lf; Mason, ss; Chief Gimblett, c; Connors, 3b; G. Gimblett, 2b; Marchand, rf; Dunkerly, p; Warde, ss.

Score by innings:

Rangers	020001— 3
Firemen	303502—13

Carpentier to Go After Heavyweight Title.

PARIS, April 13 (Canadian Press) —Two European boxing championships will be contested for on 10th May, in the Buffalo Velodrome here, in addition to the bout between Georges Carpentier and Marcel Nilles for the heavyweight title of France.

Routes, a bantamweight from the stable of Robert Eudeline, will attempt to wrest the European title in that division from the veteran Charles Ledoux, and Louis Porcher, of France, will meet Piet Hobin, of Belgium, for the welterweight title.

Carpentier is training hard for his fight with Nilles, which will be his first appearance in the ring since his defeat by Battling Siki. He left Paris for his training quarters immediately after the exhibition at the American Legion benefit on Tuesday, and will not return until the eve of the fight.

KIWANIS WON GREAT GAME

K. of C. Went Under By One Run in the Best Game of the Season.

Two runs for the Kiwanians in the sixth frame loomed large in the battle with the K. of C. last night. The league leaders came out of the scrap with the short end of a 3 to 2 score, but their loss was not sufficient to deprive them of their position at the top of the league standing. Their position, however, was seriously jeopardised for no less than other teams have now an opportunity to jump into the lead within the next few games.

The game itself was a battle royal from start to finish. The teams were as evenly matched as could be desired, and the game was the closest and best seen this season. The Kiwanians had a slight edge, and deserved the victory on their play. They outhit the Knights by 7 to 4, and gave McLean such airtight support that but twenty-eight men came to bat in the eight innings of play.

Both pitchers were working at the top of their form. McLean had five strike-outs and Murphy four, but otherwise there was but little to choose between them.

Dick Sheehy started the scoring for the Knights with a home run in the first inning after two men were out. He took such a healthy crack at the ball that he ruined a perfectly good bat. Kiwanis evened the count in the third, when Weber circled the sacks after getting on with a lucky hit. A muffed throw at first gave Brown a safety, and allowed Weber to score.

The teams battled along with the score even till the sixth, when the "We Builders" assumed a dangerous attitude. Parker was safe when his third strike was dropped and scored on Cummer's hit. Cummer in turn scored on Mackey's hit, but a double play retired Brown at first and Mackey at home, and cut off what had started out to be a disastrous rally.

It proved, however, sufficient to win the game, for the Knights were only able to send one more counter home, an eighth inning rally sending Wolff in with a tally. Grady was the star of the Knights' line-up, while Mackey showed to good advantage for Kiwanis.

The players were:

K. of C.—M. Sheehy, 1b; O'Hern, c; D. Sheehy, ss; J. Rutherford, ss; Murphy, p; Cronin, rf; Grady, 3b; G. Rutherford, 2b; Wolff, lf.

Kiwanis—Weber, 1b; Gordon, ss; Brown, c; Parker, 2b; Cummer, 3b; Mackey, ss; McLean, p; Lacey, rf; Dick, lf.

Score by innings:

K. of C.	10000001—3
Kiwanis	0010020x—3

British Athletes in Poor Position.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., April 13 (Canadian Press). — Oxford University, which will compete in the two-mile international relay race at the University of Pennsylvania Carnival, drew thirteenth place, or near the outside, in the drawings for positions, it was announced yesterday.

In the distance medley relay race, the British athletes were equally unlucky, as they drew the outside.

Oxford drew fifth position in a field of fourteen in the sprint medley, if it starts in this event.

Pennsylvania State College drew the pole in the two-mile race with Boston College the indoor intercollegiate champions, second, and Michigan third, if it starts.

In the one-mile for High Schools, Hamilton College, Canada, drew third position.

PUTTING HASTINGS ON THE LACROSSE MAP

HASTINGS, April 13.—Hastings lacrosse fans are out in full force to put their town on the map in the O.A.L.A. They have gathered together some classy players from Bridgewater. Then they have Mr. Coats and Weir, and Campbellford have offered a couple of their first men from last season.

Charlie Montgomery, one of the classiest defence men in these parts is still in Campbellford and may be found in a Hastings uniform.

W.M.S. OMEMEE ELECTED OFFICERS

Mrs. R. F. Stillman President of the Methodist Organization — Trustee Board Met.

OMEMEE, April 13.—The regular monthly meeting of the W.M.S. of the Methodist church was held in the Sunday school room on Thursday afternoon. On account of the heavy downpour of rain there were only seventeen members present. Mrs. Stillman occupied the chair and conducted the devotional exercises. Miss Lillian Race read a very appropriate Easter story. It being the closing of the year in the work of the Society, a report of the years work was given by the treasurer of the Reserve Fund, Mrs. A Scott, also by Corr.-Secty., Mrs. Bushnell. The report of the treasurer Mrs. T. C. Ivory being held over until next month.

Miss Lila Parsons was appointed delegate to attend the annual branch meeting in Cobourg on June 5, 6, 7.

An Easter chorus was then given by three little girls, which was much appreciated, to be followed by a piano solo by Miss Lillian Race.

The election of officers then took place and the following ladies were elected for the coming year:

President—Mrs. R. F. Stillman.
1st. Vice-Pres.—Mrs. Bushnell.
2nd Vice-Pres.—Mrs. Wm. Earle.
Rec.-Secty.—Mrs. G. N. Earle.
Ass.-Secty.—Mrs. Bradburn.
Treas.—Mrs. T .C. Ivory.
Corr.-Sec.—Mrs. Widdis.
Strangers' Sec.—Mrs T. A MacPherson.
Christian Stewardship—Mrs. Stillman.
Sup't of Little Light Bearers—Mrs. J. Shields.
Treas. Reserve Fund—Mrs. Scott.
Pianist—Miss Eva Race.
Flower Comm.—Miss L. Parsons, and Mrs. Bradburn.

A resolution was passed that a birthday box be placed on the table and each member whose birthday falls within the month is asked to donate a copper for every birthday they have reached. The meeting closed in the usual manner after which the hostesses, Mrs. P. Race, Mrs. T. A. MacPherson and Mrs. Widdis, served dainty refreshments.

Build New Sheds.

A meeting of the Trustee Board of the Methodist church was held in the parsonage on Wednesday evening, when the following gentlemen were appointed as a building committee, to oversee the news sheds; Messrs. Alex Lang, George Henderson, Richard Poast and Jams Bushnell.

Socialist Party Has Reconstruction Plan.

PARIS, April 13. — (Canadian Press)—Restoration of the Franco-Belgian devastated regions at Germany's expense and partly by German labor, cancellation of the Inter-Allied debts with a corresponding reduction in the German debt, demilitarization of the left bank of the Rhine under League of Nations control, and the economic reconstruction of Europe, are the main points in the reparation plan agreed upon at the recent meeting of French, British, Belgian and Italian Socialists with the German Socialists in Berlin.

This was made known to-day by the newspaper L'Oeuvre, official organ of the French Moderate Socialist Party. No official publication of the plan has been made yet by the Socialist Congress, as the delegates are waiting its ratification by their respective parties.

Delegates of the Socialist Parties of the four countries met for the first time in the Chamber of Deputies here on March 20, and a commission selected by this Congress was sent to Berlin to confer with the Germans.

LINDSAY ROAD IS NOT A PROVINCIAL HIGHWAY

LINDSAY, April 13. — According to a Victoria County official, who was a member of the Good Roads deputation to the Council this week, the refusal of Premier King to consider a grant for good roads development means that the Lindsay-Peterboro highway will not be designated for some years.

If the grant had been secured the Provincial Government would have designated the stretch as a Provincial Highway next year but it will will have to be dropped until there are prospects of more revenue.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT TO A FARMER AT READORO

LINDSAY, April 13. — Frank Curtin, a farmer, residing near Readoro, sustained a serious accident a few days ago while engaged in wood cutting operations near his home. His hand came in contact with a circular saw with the result that two of his fingers were taken off, and the forefinger and little finger badly lacerated. He was taken to the Ross Hospital for treatment and an effort will be made to save the remaining digits.

HEAVY SUMMER TRAFFIC IN GRAIN IS PREDICTED

LINDSAY, April 13. — According to the statement of a C.N.R. official there has been a marked as well as increased activity on the Midland to Belleville line during the past few days, and a busy summer is anticipated in grain hauling operations.

There are about 3,000,000 bushels of grain in the northern elevators and this is being moved to make room for shipments which will arrive as soon as navigation opens.

THREE CORNER CONTEST LIKELY SOUTH VICTORIA

LINDSAY, April 13. — The political pot is commencing to simmer in South Victoria, and the politicians are girding their loins in anticipation of a brisk contest. A three-cornered contest is practically assured. The Liberal candidate, it is said, will probably be ex-Mayor J. O'Reilly while the Conservatives look to ex-Warden Patterson to carry the standard. F. G. Sandy, M.P.P., will again be tendered the U.F.O. nomination, and will likely accept, although it is stated, he has been offered a constituency in Eastern Ontario. The old parties are badly disorganized in this riding.

Daylight Saving is Cause of Mix-Up.

BRUSSELS, April 13.—(Canadian Press)—The international trains running through Belgium from France to Holland and Germany may have to be halted one hour at the Franco-Belgian frontier this Summer, owing to France's failure to adopt daylight saving time, which becomes effective in Belgium on April 22.

The Belgian Ministry of Public Works fears it will be unable to change the entire train schedule and this would have to be done to conform with the French running time, as the local Belgian traffic is so arranged as to give the right of way to the international trains at certain hours.

Deferentiate Between Colonial and Dominion.

LONDON, April 13.—(Canadian Press Cable)—In the house of commons yesterday Viscount Sandon asked what was being done about the suggestion made by the Colonial office that the Board of Education should issue instructions in regard to the distinctive use of the expressions 'Colonial' and Dominions.'

E. F. L. Wood, president of the Board of Education replied that he was in sympathy with the suggestion and that it was now being considered by the board in connection with suggested revision in the teaching of geography.

Freight Charges on Beef Are Reduced.

MELBOURNE, Australia, April 13. Canadian Press Cable. — Both exporters and shipping representatives have now undertaken to reduce the sale price and freight charges 1-8 of a penny per pound on beef which reductions Premier Bruce had demanded as the condition on which the Federal Government would grant a bonus of a farthing a pound on beef exports.

Billiard League

The contest for the cups presented by Mr G. N. Gordon, M.P., to the City Billiard League, is ended, and the De Laval team are declared the winners, with the S.O.E. close behind, taking the second prize. The De Laval team, captained by Mr. A. Nicholls, are to be congratulated on winning 43 games out of fifty-six. The competition was very keen, and it was no easy task to wrest the cup from the Sons of England, who held on to it with the tenacity of the British bulldog. Clean play and real sportsmanship have dominated throughout the whole series of games, and it is gratifying to note the increasing popularity of the most interesting and scientific game of English billiards. A banquet is being arranged, and it is anticipated that the Deputy Speaker of the Federal House, who donated the prizes, will present them. Captains of teams will be duly notified by the secretary of the League.

The PRIDE of PALOMAR

By Peter B. Kyne

For an hour he waited, watching, grieving, weeping a little. From the draw where Don Miguel lay no sound came forth. Pablo tried hard to erase from his mind a vision of what he would find when, his primal duty of vengeance, swift and complete, accomplished, he should go down into that draw. His tear-dimmed, bloodshot eyes searched the valley—ah, what was that? A cow, a deer or a man? Surely something had moved in the brush at the edge of the river wash.

Pablo rubbed the moisture from his eyes and looked again. A man was crossing the wash on foot and he carried a rifle. A few feet out in the wash he paused, irresolute, turned back, and knelt in the sand.

"Oh, blessed Mother of God!" Pablo almost sobbed, joyously. "I will burn six candles in thy honor and keep flowers on thy altar at the Mission for a year!"

Again the man stood up and started across the wash. He no longer had his rifle. "It is as I thought," Pablo soliloquized. "He has buried the rifle in the sand."

Pablo watched the man start resolutely across the three-mile stretch of flat ground between the river and the hills to the south. Don Nicolas Sandoval had remarked that the stranger had come in over the hills to the south. Very well! Believing himself undetected he would depart in the same direction. The Rancho Palomar stretched ten miles to the south and it would be a strange coincidence if, in that stretch of rolling, brushy country, a human being should cross his path.

The majordomo quickly crawled back into the draw where the black mare patiently awaited him. Leading her, he started cautiously down, taking advantage of every tuft of cover until, arrived at the foot of the draw, he discovered that some oaks effectually screened his quarry from sight. Reasoning quite correctly that the same oaks as effectually screened him from his quarry, Pablo mounted and galloped straight across country for his man.

He rode easily, for he was saving the mare's speed for a purpose. The fugitive, casting a guilty look to the rear, saw him coming and paused, irresolute, but observing no evidences of precipitate haste, continued his retreat, which (Pablo observed, grimly) was casual now, as if he desired to avert suspicion.

Pablo pulled the mare down to a trot, to a walk. He could afford to take his time and it was not part of his plan to bungle his work by undue haste. The fugitive was crossing through a patch of lilac and Pablo desired to overhaul him in a wide open space beyond, so he urged the mare to a trot again and jogged by on a parallel course, a hundred yards distant.

On went the old majordomo, across the clear space and into the oaks beyond. The fugitive, his suspicions now completely lulled, followed and when he was quite in the center of this chosen ground, Pablo emerged from the shelter of the oaks and bore down upon him. The mare was at a fast lope and Pablo's rawhide riata was uncoiled now; the loop swung in slow, fateful circles——

There could be no mistaking his purpose. With a cry that was curiously animal-like, the man ran for the nearest brush. Twenty feet from him, Pablo made his cast and shrieked, exultantly, as the loop settled over his prey. A jerk and it was fast around the fellow's midriff; a half hitch around the pommel, a touch of a huge Mexican spur to the flank of the fleet little black thoroughbred and Pablo Artelan was headed for home! He picked his way carefully in order that he might not snag in the brushes that which he dragged behind him, and he leaned forward in the saddle to equalize the weight of the THING that bumped and leaped and slid along the ground behind him. There had been screams at first, mingled with Pablo's exultant shouts of victory but by the time the river was reached there was no sound but a scraping, slithering one—the sound of the vengeance of Pablo Artelan.

GIRLS' SOFTBALL ASSOCIATION.

Sporting Editor, Examiner.

In the Examiner's excellent report of the annual meeting of the Peterborough A. A. A., the secretary was given credit for work done in the Girls' Softball Association. Mr. Gandy, who gave the report, also referred to the Girls' Basketball League, and it was in this work the writer assisted. The officers and those associated with the teams are entitled to all credit for the success of the Girls' Softball Association. I had no part in it.—Yours truly,

O. E. Curtis.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

To the Editor, Examiner.

Sir,—I notice by the report of the Board meeting of the Children's Shelter that considerable discussion took place regarding the merits and demerits of pasturized milk. If we follow the reports of the press lately it should not be hard to convince ourselves of the necessity of a safe milk supply. If we study how to get that safe milk supply, we must come back to the method of pasteurization. In the first place, milk was never intended to be exposed to the air, as it is from the air that harmful germs drop into the milk as well as sediment from the cow's udder. If we follow the line of discussion to-day all over the province you will note that many of the health authorities are beginning to realize that conditions under which milk is produced are gradually becoming more dangerous, from the fact that tuberculosis in the cattle has increased tremendously during the past few years. Almost weekly you will notice in the paper that some particular herd has been tested and all condemned, and this is causing the farmer much anxiety for some method of preventing the increase of tuberculosis in their herds. As a preventive last year the Provincial Government passed an Act compelling all whey, skim milk and buttermilk to be pasturized before being fed to animals for the purpose of safeguarding against the disease. From my own experience in dealing in milk products in co-operation with the farmers in the Peterboro section, I can truthfully say that they are giving their milk excellent attention, and the milk we are receiving in our plant is coming in in a very good condition, and by clarifying and pasteurizing, it is certainly in a much better and safer condition for using as food, and it is admitted by all who have studied the question that milk is a good food for children and should be used much more extensively than it is.

Last week I noticed a letter in the Peterboro Examiner, written by Dr. Johnston, V.S., of our city, who has given the matter a lot of study, and after dealing with the manner in which the bovine tubercular germ is transmitted and attacks children, his conclusion winds up with a recommendation that all milk, butter and ice cream should be pasteurized before using, unless it is produced from a herd, the owner of which can produce a certificate from a qualified veterinary, that they are free from tuberculosis.

Then, again, I note a report from the medical health officer at Hamilton, which says that pasteurization of all the milk in the city of Hamilton has been in vogue since 1910, and that the death-rate at present among the children under the age of one year is only 58 to 1,000, while 15 years ago it was double this number, and he concludes his remarks by saying that while credit is due the local Board of Health and various other voluntary organizations, he believes that the present low rate of infant mortality has been brought about by the proper pasteurization of the milk supply and the efficiency of its general supervision. The argument is used that pasteurization changes and destroys the milk for infant feeding, but Dr. Johnston states that he believes all the arguments against the pasteurization of milk are based on prejudice and that there is no definite proof that it lessens the food value or has any unfavorable results.

Further dairy research work carried on by medical authorities points out that milk as it enters the stomach of a child becomes curdled by the acid present in the stomach, and that the curd of human milk is soft and easily digested. Raw milk curdled in the stomach forms a hard curd, which can only be digested by strong digestive powers in the child. The curd from pasteurized milk is a soft curd almost like the curd from the mother's milk, and is much easier digested by weak stomachs, and cites as an instance of this, that raw milk curdled for cheese-making makes a hard firm curd, but that from the pasteurized milk a soft broken curd only can be formed.

I am quite satisfied that when the city milk is given the careful consideration of the people that 99 per cent. will be firmly convinced that under present conditions, pasteurization is the only method of safeguarding the health of its citizens, particularly the young generation.

G. A. Gillespie.

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND.

Just as Canada's soldier boys went over the top in the great conflict, so is Canada's record-breaking soldier show, the "Dumbells", going over the top with their newest overseas revue, 'Carry On', which comes to the Grand for two days.

The new show has been provided with a sumptuous setting, heavily garnished with gobs of the old trench stuff sprinkled with dainty bits of the most recent hits, and served with a dressing of delectable taste.

In order to make this season's offerings a treat to be remembered, Capt. Plunkett has gone forth into the highways and byways and gathered in all of the famous stars of his four divisional parties in France. Carry On" is a sort of re-union and jubilee of those never-to-be-forgotten days in France, when the entertainment corps came into being as a part of the regular army.

Epic Entertainment

This week is evidently 'music week' at the Capitol. Rivalling the brightness of the vaudeville offering of the first three days is the clever violin-playing of thirteen year old Natan Natanson, a quiet, dark-eyed child who plays the king of instruments brilliantly, with a flawless technique and smooth, full tone. His number, played entirely from memory included much difficult double stopping and harmonic work, and received loud applause from a pleased audience. The boy, who played last night the "Gypsy Airs" by Sarasate, the "Serenade Espanol", and the "Valse Bluette," took first prize for twelve years and under at the musical competitions at the Canadian National Exhibition last year, and also received an award in the eisteddfod recently held in Toronto.

The 'cave man' motif is the idea worked out in a very interesting feature picture, "One Week of Love," with Elaine Hammerstein as Beth, and Conway Tearle as Buck Fearnley a renegade." The hero uses the good old-fashioned method of wooing. After buying the girl from the Mexicans who claim her after she has decended on their shack in a wrecked aeroplane, he takes her to his mountain cabin and keeps here there for a week. Some thrilling incidents are woven into a story whose appeal is in its romantic human interest atmosphere. There is the giddy flight in the clouds of the plane, whose broken propellor brings it down like a wounded bird; there is a storm scene lighting up the running flight of the hero and the two murderous Mexicans and there is a train-wreck, where the coaches are shown emerging from a tunnel, to plunge headlong from a broken bridge into a churning mass of flood fed waters.

AT THE ROYAL.

A score of Ziefeld Follies' girls add zest and pep to "Polly of the Follies," Constance Talmadge's latest First National attraction, now showing at the Royal. The picture depicts the story of a country girl who breaks into the famous beauty chorus and shows the training of the chorus for the annual review and the performance on the opening night.

"Connie" is funnier than ever as "Polly of the Follies," and with the rest of the exceptionally good programme, pleased large crowds at the Royal yesterday, afternoon and evening. In addition to the feature picture, there is Reginald Denny in Round Two of the new "Leather Pushers," the million dollar serial; "The Radio King," and a rollicking comedy.

In order to preserve the realism of the story of "Polly of the Follies," Miss Talmadge decided to have it done in the proper atmosphere and actually engaged the members of the Ziegfeld Beauty Chorus, then playing on Broadway, to fill their own parts in the picture. The result has been a bevy of beauty and a hurricane of action. The dance and ensemble numbers are said to be the best that have ever been seen on the screen.

The dancing of Miss Talmadge was equally surprising to the chorus girls who had seen the star on the screen, had known of her ability to do good comedy and put on excellent screen mimicry but had never known of her terpischorean talent.

The story introduces the character of Flo Ziegfeld, the internationally famous creator of beauty choruses, in charge of the rehearsing of one of his reviews. It was impossible to wile Mr. Ziegfeld away from his office even for the short part in the picture, so Bernard Randall, an actor who bears a close resemblance to Mr. Ziegfeld, took the part.

DECLARES SPIRITISM IS CHILD OF UNBELIEF

NEW YORK, April 13—(Canadian Press).—That spiritism was a legitimate child of unbelief, rationalism and modernism was the declaration of Dr. T. T. Shields, pastor of Jarvis Street Baptist Church, Toronto, who spoke in Calvary Church last night.

"So long as such men as Conan Doyle live," he said, "there will be a religious delusion and the rejection of the word of God."

SEVEN YEARS IN GAOL FOR PART IN MURDER

KENORA, April 13. — (Canadian Press).—Seven years in the penitentiary was the sentence meted out to Mike Koshman by Justice Masten last evening for being an accessory in the murder of Wasyl Padlyky in August, 1919. Mytro Wiksych has been sentenced to death for the murder.

AEROBUS LINE PLANNED.

PARIS (United Press) — The Municipal Council of Paris is considering a project for the establishment of an "aerobus" line between the city and the suburbs to take care of the enormous crowds during the rush hours. M. Francois Laur, an engineer, has presented a plan for a train built like a dirigible with overhead wheels running on an electrified line strung on plyones. The initial cost is estimated at about $65,000 a mile. The train would carry sixty thousand persons in the course of the day.

VOL. LII., No. 88 PETERBOROUGH, SATURDAY, APRIL 14, 1923 PRICE THREE CENTS

ALLIES APPLY THE PRESSURE WHILE LONGER

In the Meantime Great Britain Will Be on the Outside Looking in--Decision Reached.

NEWS OF RUHR

(By Webb Miller, United Press.)

PARIS, April 14. — Great Britain, with its objections to the Ruhr occupation is to be outside the entente a little while longer while France and Belgium apply the screws and bring the venture to a successful and a profitable conclusion.

This according to reports in well-informed circles, is the decision that was reached by Premiers Theunis and Poincare.

The prime ministers of France and Belgium have agreed that the time is not ripe for healing the rupture in the entente owing to England's attiture. The Ruhr venture must be made productive.

The population of the newly occupied district will feel the allied hand more heavily upon it from now on, it has been officially announced.

Pertinax, writing in the Echo de Paris repeats the official sentiment, when he says: "The hour is not yet at hand for a FrancoBelgian-British reapproachment, for London is not yet sufficiently converted."

The final session of the conference between the United States and Poincare began at 10 o'clock to-day continuing and completing discussion of new measures of repression to be enforced in the ocupied areas.

The French and Belgium Governments to-day at a conference of their Ministers decided to reimburse themselves for the Ruhr occupation expenses out of merchandize and money seized from the Germans. The two allies again emphasized their determination to evacuate the Ruhr only as Germany paid.

Any balance left after military and engineering expenses are paid will be turned into the reparation fund for the benefit of all the allies.

France does not like to be called "an enemy" by Germany.

The French foreign office made that plain on Friday when it despatched a note to Berlin protesting against the use by Chancellor Cuno of the word "enemy" in the Reichstag.

The German note of protest against the shooting of the Krupp workers in Essen by French soldiers was also answered.

Scarcity of Skilled Mechanics Here and Metal Industries Speeding Up

The activity that has been developing of late in Peterborough's metal trade industries is one of the most hopeful and encouraging signs pointing to a general business recovery that have been noticed in many months.

Three of this city's leading factories, the Canadian General Electric Company, the De Laval Company, and the William Hamilton Company are reported to have their welcome mats out for skilled mechanics, and the local supply of machinists and other experienced and proficient metal workers is said to be considerably short of the present demand.

It is understood that to relieve the situation it will be necessary to obtain men in these trades from other centres, and that advertisements are being published out of town.

When the metal trades are brisk and well employed, it may be generally accepted that prosperity has emerged from around the corner, and is about to lead the procession.

The liveliness among moulders is another bright spot on the local industrial map, and the building trades are going into action, either locally or in other cities to which some of them may have moved.

Several smaller building projects that have been under consideration both this year and last are still on the fence, and Mr. And. Brown is reported to have decided not to proceed just now with his garage project.

THE FIRE DEPARTMENT TWO CALLS YESTERDAY

The fire department answered two calls yesterday and two this morning. A chimney fire caused an alarm at 312 Louis street at 6.22 a.m. yesterday and at 7.08 p.m. an overheated stove pipe called the department to 87 Park street south. At 8.30 and 9.19 this morning overheated pipes demanded attention at 567 Harvey street and 296 Roger street respectively.

SEVEN YEARS FOR A REGINA LAWYER

Harold Fisher Pleaded Guilty to Sixty-five Charges of Forgery.

REGINA, Sask., April -..—(Canadian Press.)—Seven years' imprisonment in penitentiary was the sentence passed on Harold Fisher, Regina lawyer, by Judge Harmon here yesterday, after hearing Fisher's plea of guilty to sixty-five charges of forgery, uttering and theft of checks aggregating more than $32,000 .Fisher was arrested in London, England, and brought back to Regina to face trial.

Until last July, Fisher was employed by the firm of MacKenzie, Thom and Company, where his duties were largely in connection with the administration of infants' estates.

Fisher obtained money by forging and uttering checks on accounts of firm and of estates administered by firm.

WORTHLESS $10,000 BILL TRAVELS FAR IN RUSSIA

KIEV, Russia, April 14.—An American sailor and a ten thousand dollar bill recently disturbed the Ukrain money markets.

The sailor came from one of the American destroyers which put in now and then at Odessa, on the Black Sea. Where he got the ten thousand dollar bill is still a mystery, though it is inferred he acquired it in the China service.

The bill had all the earmarks of United States legal tender, save that in a corner were printed four stars calling attention to the word "specimen."

The bill appears to have been passed for a trillion or so roubles in Odessa, and gradually to have worked its way into the interior, leaving a trail of wonder and then of disaster as each of its various owners discovered the actual value of the paper.

The bill came to Kiev in the hands of a money changer, who walked into the offices of the American Relief Administration and asked the office chief to change it.

The chief, used to such requests concerning odd lots of Confederate money, was nonplussed. The bill looked good until the word "specimen" was noted.

Further inquiry showed that the bill was part of some samples printed up for China some 40 years ago, when an endeavor was being made to persuade the Chinese to adopt paper money instead of silver, at least for large amounts.

The Russian money changer said had paid a hundred dollars for the bill. "Now I guess I'll have to sell it to somebody else," he added.

So it went on further travels.

NATIVES OF RUSSIA THINK WE WALK UP-SIDE DOWN

In Daghestan, Russia, Explorer Golder finds a tribe so primitive and ignorant that they believe we live in absolute darkness somewhere down under their feet. This compares favorably with many Europeans' conception of us.

The people in Daghestan think we walk upside down. That's methematically correct, in relation to the folks on the other side of the earth from us. If there were a hold through the middle of the earth and you dropped down it, you'd come out standing on your head.

Next to keeping a good man down the darnedest think to do is keep a bad one up.

A Removable Tooth and a Beard Helped to Fool the Bolshevists

If Lenine Should Die Disruption Would Result Between the Opposing Factions in Russia, Declares Chief of British Secret Service.

OTTAWA, April 14.—(Canadian Press)—Removable tooth, patiently grown beard, small apertures on top of parapet along Nevao in front of winter place in Petrograd, brilliant cool mind and superb audacity and courage, these were factors both inanimate and human, which played important parts in fool proof espionage system that let out in side story of Russia to world, told by Sir Paul Duke, former chief of British Secret Service in Russia and who last night related to large audience salient features of Russia and who last night related to large audience salient features of Russia's tragic experience.

Significant points in his address were, that if Lenine should die, disruption would result between opposing factions of those who are for world revolution and those who are for reversion to capitalism that communistic experiment is "negatively popular." That membership of communist party by its own statistics numbers only half million in country of 150 million and that Russia is not Bolshevist, only its government is.

HUGE PLOT TO DESTROY LIFE AND PROPERTY

Plans by Irish Republican Supporters Aimed Especially at London's Utilities and Police.

IMPORTANT CAPTURE

DUBLIN, April 14 (Special to The Examiner). —Austen Stack, a cohort of De Valera's, was captured by Free State troops in the Tipperary Hills to-day, a despatch from Clonmel states.

Austen Stack was a former Minister of Home Affairs.

De Valera's Message.

A bulletin, purporting to be a message from Eamonn De Valera to the Irregular military forces, was circulated last night in which, after reference to Liam Lynch, Irregular Chief of Staff, who died of his wounds after being captured by the Free State forces, quotes De Valera as saying:

"Faced by former comrades who have deserted your side, your task is a hard one. It is a task upon which only heroes would venture. You must fling yourself across the path of a stampeding nation, but it is better to die nobly, as your Chief did, than to live as slaves."

WHERE IS THE COUNTESS?

LONDON, April 14 (Canadian Press). — A Glasgow despatch says that Countess Markievicz is in that city. Recent newspaper despatches said that the Countess had been captured by the Free State troops in Tipperary.

The Free State Army headquarters say it is unable to confirm the capture of Countess Markievicz.

DOCUMENTS REVEAL PLOTS.

LONDON, April 14 (Canadian Press). — Documents which are said to reveal plots involving th destruction of life and property in London, are reported to have come into the possession of Scotland Yard as the result of last night's raid on residences or resorts of Irish men and women suspected of being Republican supporters.

Among the plans said to have been revealed were plots to attack London's lighting and power sources, the underground power stations, efforts to release Irish prisoners from London prisons and projected attempts on the lives of high police officials.

It is stated that the plots had a huge ramification in Great Britain, and particularly in London, and had reached such a sage that delay of one week by the police might have resulted in the scheme being put into operation.

TO ATTACK THE POLICE.

Among the plans was one for attacking police officers in their houses, and a prominent former Cabinet Minister is declared to have been marked for attack.

There was a well organised scheme, it is asserted, to raid a certain London prison, either for the purpose of damaging it or for rescuing Irishmen detained there. Irish prisoners also were to be rescued from the prison vans while being conveyed through London.

Preparations had been made for some sort of an attack on the Old Bailey Court, and underground power stations had all been marked for destruction.

DUBLIN, April 14.—(Canadian Press— Capture of Austin Slack most prominent Republican left with exception of De Valera was confirmed here this afternoon by Free State authorities.

Airplane Crashed Through a Bakery

BERLIN, April 14 (United Press). — A Polish military airplane crashed through the roof of a two-storey bakery at Cracow, Poland, to-day, killing three persons, according to a despatch to the News Berliner.

The gasoline tank exploded, burning the bakery.

The pilot jumped to the street just before the crash, and was instantly killed.

RURAL SPRING DRIVE MAY BE LATE THIS YEAR

Peterborough farmers are "standing to" impatiently waiting for the zero hour that will launch their spring drive against the fallow fields and stubble. Along the fences are forbidding fringes of snow that still survive the winter, and the fields are drying up so slowly that it will probably be the first of May before operations are general.

The farmers are lining up their shock troops of hired men, who usually go over in the first wave, but as a matter of fact, there are gaps in the ranks which, from the present labour outlook, may not be filled. And farmers who have been through the home effects of war refuse to worry or grow alarmed about their own quotas of hired help.

So unsatisfactory have been the experiences of farmers in recent years that they will be more content and satisfied to carry on themselves rather than go through the bother and often the disappointment of engaging hired men who tarry awhile and then disappear when they would be most needed.

Many demands have been reported at the local labour bureau, but the supply of men is comparatively small and perhaps inadequate. The rumour that some of the rural recruits have trekked across the border in the lure of big money appeals to some farmers, who are inclined to hope that they will stay there.

In the meantime the spring ammunition dumps of seed grain have been piled up in the stores that cater to the agricultural trade, and the ordnance and equipment such as ploughs and plough points, harrows, and other implements are moving out of the warehouses and shops.

But from all appearances the agricultural opening will be later than the average, unless the weather changes quickly to decided warmth. There may be some farms that will be dry enough to permit an earlier hopping off, but it may be May Day before the rural forces are generally engaged.

The Oser-McCormick Nuptials

CHICAGO, April 14 (Canadian Press) — Mathilde McCormick, young daughter of Harold and Edith Rockefeller McCormick, was married in London yesterday morning to Max Oser, a major in the Swiss Army, and a former riding master, according to a London despatch.

As far as is known, says the correspondent, couple left for a honeymoon in Scotland after ceremony.

MARKET TODAY HAD A BETTER SPRING COLOR

Lots of Produce and Buyers—Maple Syrup Priced Range from 75c. to 90c. a Quart.

THE BASKET SECTION

The farmers' market had the real flavour of spring about it this morning. The keen, cool air and warm sunshine seemed to impart a briskness to the buyers' and sellers' methods which has been lacking for some time.

The market, upstairs and down, was thronged with people, men, women and children, and there was plenty of colour about the proceedings.

Around the auctioneer clustered the usual crowd to regard with speculative eyes the bargains he dilated upon, and hear him mix advice re gymnastics with his selling endeavours; the little squealing pigs that filled several crated carts were the subject of much discussion; a horse dealer exhibited the paces of a shaggy black animal; in and out of the crowd darted a tiny collie pup, attached to a little boy by means of a steel chain, and there were eager observers intent on the ladles and spoons that offered samples of maple syrup, sold by half a dozen different men in half a dozen different ways, out of milk cans with spigots attached, generals helpings flowing out for prospective customers; out of open tins, the brown of the syrup obscured by milky froth, out of cans and barrels and boilers, in prices ranging from 75 cents a quart to 90 cents.

Upstairs, the women had syrup in bottles and sealers, at the same range of prices.

The Basket Market.

In the basket section, there was a huge crowd of buyers and the tables were loaded with eggs and butter.

Fowl was not so plentiful, the available supply of hens and chickens going for 30c and 35c a pound, and turkeys at 35c.

going for 30c and 35c a pound, and eggs ranged all the way down from 30c per dozen reported 23c a dozen

Butter was selling from 47c to 50c a pound, and eggs ranged all the way down from 30c to a reported 23c a dozen.

"Eggs for hatching, from the Department of Agriculture, Whitby," were 28 cents a dozen.

A young girl had "fryings of meat," white and clear, at 25 cents a pound; honey, dark gold, was 15 cents a pound, or, in five-pound pails, 45 cents for the dark, 50 cents for amber, and 60 cents for clear clover.

The Open Market.

Downstairs, there was pork on a couple of carts, at 17 and 19 cents a pound and veal at 13 and 18 cents a pound.

Potatoes were 75 cents a bag, white onions, 10 cents for a small measure, and little pigs, who looked as if they were trying to live up to their owner's recommendation that "they could eat anything, and were feeding well," were $7.50 apiece Sleepy little white pigs in another crate were $7.00 apiece.

Appetising looking red cabbage pickled were selling for 10 and 15 cents for a fair-sized bottle.

OVER 299 EXPERTS ARE WRITING WAR HISTORIES

Over 200 world-famed experts are at work on the 150-volume history of the World War that is being compiled by the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace.

It is the most thorough work of its kind ever undertaken. The aim of the writers is to steer clear of causes of the war and the incidents around which bitter controversies have raged. Military operations also are ignored. The history is limited to describing the war's effects on European civilization. For that reason, the part played by United States is left out. MOTOR SHOW PRIZES ON EXHIBITION

Great Display in the Windows of Grafton & Co., Clothiers.

Grafton Co's immense centre window display is full to overflowing with prizes to be given at the Peterborough Motor Show. Dozens of articles of value are to be drawn for on each evening of the show. Stop and take a look at them. Your chances will be just as good as your neighbours. There will be four bands on the parade and now that we are promised fine weather for the show, it is bound to go over bigger than ever.

NOTED LECTURER COMING TO CITY

Missionary in Jerusalem During War Will Tell Her Experiences.

Miss Mary A. Butterfield of Jerusalem, Palestine, who is a member of the Christian and Missionary Alliance Society since 1908 and who was in Jerusalem during the last awful war—one of four missionaries allowed to remain on the field—left the Orient in 1917, travelling to United States by way of Asia Minor, Turkey, Bulgaria, Austria and Switzerland.

She returned in 1918, under the Red Cross, going back by way of Egypt, passing over the new railway built by the British Army. Her experiences on these travels are full of thrilling interest and most valuable information, and no one else can tell it like Miss Butterfield. Her messages have enthralled large audiences throughout the United States, and as this is her first visit to Canada since the war and probably her last before returning to the field, every citizen in Peterborough interested in these most important and interesting themes should hear her.

Following we list some of the subjects that Miss Butterfield will present while in the city:

"The Missionary Vision."
"The Dawn of a New Day in Palestine."
"Experiments on Heaven's Wireless."
"Arabia and Its Only Hope."
"Through Turkey and Europe in War Time."
"My Trip Around the World."
"Peasant Life in the Holy Land" (specially suitable for children).
"Religions of Palestine."
"Sacred Sites and Scenes in the Holy Land."

From the 23rd to the 27th of April Mr. L. Watson will precede Miss Butterfield each evening for about thirty minutes with his splendid lantern slides, showing new pictures of India, China and Africa.

This convention, to be held in the Tabernacle Church, will undoubtedly be the finest of its kind and a splendid attendance is expected throughout.

A CONVENTION SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS HERE

THE PROGRAMME

Instructive addresses by prominent members of the local section featured the convention of the Ontario Religious Educational Council Convention held in St. Andrew's Presbyterian hall on Friday evening.

This organization embraces locally all the Protestant churches with the exception of the Church of England. About 160 workers in the Sunday schools of the city attended this convention and all benefited greatly by the exchange of ideas.

Supper was served at 6.30 and John Edgar, president of the Peterboro branch of the Council, occupied the chair during the evening. For the programme which followed, John A. McKone acted as chairman.

An excellent talk was given by E. E. Ingall of the Normal School on methods of teacher training. Mr. Ingal said that the Sunday school teacher should teach his lessons along the same lines as the teachers in the public schools.

The four points on which the speaker built up his case were "Preparation, stating of the Problem, Classification and Generalization, and Expression." Preparation should be thoroughly made and the outline of the proposed lesson fixed firmly in mind before the teacher approached his class, and the application of the lesson should be developed out of the past knowledge of the child, said the speaker.

"Superintendent's Problems and teachers' problems," was the subject handled in an excellent manner by Rev. C. M. De Mille, the General Secretary of the Council, who brought out his points very clearly. The work of the council was also discussed by Mr. DeMille and his remarks indicated that a wonderful work is being accomplished in solving present day problems.

Rev. James A. MacKenzie spoke on the teacher's attitude toward the Sunday school, and in his usual happy way made an impression on the teachers present which will prove of benefit to them in their work. A committee was appointed to arrange a teacher training class, which is to to commence in the fall. E. Edgar was appointed convenor, and the superintendents of the Sunday schools will act as the committee.

During the evening a choir of children led the singing under the direction of Mrs. J. A. McKone. These children were from several Sunday schools, and their excellent musical attainments were greatly appreciated by the audience.

A violin solo by Arthur Spencer was greatly enjoyed; also a solo by Kenneth McCannon.

Miss Alice Cocks was at the piano for the work of the children's choir.

TWO HUNDRED RADIO PATENTS BY ONE MAN

Patents on 200 radio devices, invented by John Hays Hammond Jr., are sold to the Radio Corporation and the big telephone company.

One of them is said to be a device that eliminates static intereference and the "butting in" of Morse code on wireless telephonic concerts. This latter will disappoint Satan.

When 200 new radio patents change hands, you wonder how long it will be until present radio devices will be obsolete. All will change. Once the wireless bug user coherers and de-coherers. How many radio fans know what the words even mean?

W. H. CASSELMAN ASKS THAT SEAT BE CHANGED TO THE OPPOSITION SIDE

Says He Is Not Leaving U.F.O. But Those Who Turned on the U. F. O. Party.

ALBERTA COAL.

TORONTO, April 14. Canadian Press. — A sequel to Wednesday's dramatic scenes in the Legislature, took place in the House yesterday afternoon. W. H. Casselman (Dundas), who moved the vote of confidence motion, and was the only man on the government side of the House who supported it this afternoon, asked the Speaker to arrange for a seat for him on the Opposition side. Next week when he returns to his legislative duties, Mr. Casselman intends to sit on the opposition side. In making his request Mr. Casselman said that it was not he who had precipitated the events of Wednesday but that he had no regrets or apologies to make for his actions or words.

"I think perhaps there is a feeling here however that certain government supporting members would be more comfortable if I were not here on this side. If it will add to their comfort I will move but I want to make it plain that I am not leaving the U.F.O. party. I am leaving those who have turned their backs on the U.F.O. party. I will therefore ask Mr. Speaker that you be kind enough to arrange a seat for me elsewhere in this House."

Alberta Coal.

On question by Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Premier Drury gave some details of his recent trip to Ottawa to see the government about water powers and Sir Henry Thornton about freight rates on Alberta coal The Premier stated that the position of the Federal government was in view of the fact that the water power rights affected all the provinces that a test case should be submitted to the Privy Council to establish the jurisdiction of provincial control. In coal rates the Premier said that he expected Sir Henry Thornton to make an announcement in a few days. Meantime demonstrations of the burning qualities of Alberta coal both for steam and domestic purposes were being carried out under the Department of Public Works.

Hon. F. C. Biggs said that the government did not contemplate distribution and was going into the coal business, but it would lend all its support to getting Alberta coal if it could be brought down at reasonable rates.

Steffanson Heard

V. Steffanson, the noted Artic explorer, was given the privilege of addressing the legislature. He declared that most people who secured their information from school geography, were wrong in nine things out of ten that they learned about the far north. He referred to its great wealth and the move all through history towards the north, although always there had been opposition and untruths told about the northern parts of the world.

There was a long debate on the bill which would extend the right to all stores to sell hydogen peroxide the sale of which is now confined to drug stores. W. F. Nickle (Kingston) moved an amendment that in places where there were no drug stores that other stores be allowed to sell. Mr. Nickle was subjected to several interruptions by the Prime Minister and read the first minister a lecture for such procedure. The amendment was lost by 22 to 13.

Bill Would Allow A Woman to Marry Husband's Brother

OTTAWA, April 14. —(Canadian Press.)—Second reading of a Senate bill to make lawful the marriage of a woman to her deceased husband's brother or such brother's son, was moved in the House of Commons last evening by A. R. McMaster, Liberal member for Brome. Mr. McMaster explained that this legislation had met with practically no opposition in the Senate. At the present time the law provided that a man might marry his deceased wife's sister, but, strange to say, a woman might not marry her deceased husband's brother. For the last forty years this right had been accorded to men but not to women.

At the conclusion of Mr. McMaster's speech the bill was given a second reading, put through committee, and given third reading without further debate.

To Arbitrate the Building Troubles.

LONDON, April 14. — (Canadian Press).—The trouble in the building trade which has prevailed for several days, was temporarily settled yesterday after much negotiating. The employers agreed to withdraw their notice that they would lock out nearly 500,000 workers if they did not accept a new schedule of wages and hours, and the men agreed to refer the question of wages to arbitration within seven days.

Each side to the controversy will appoint a representative and the Lord Chief Justice will be asked to name the arbitrator. A ballot will be taken among the workmen with regard to the new hours. Meantime work will continue under the present conditions.

ARRAIGNMENT OF PRIEST HAS BEEN DELAYED

Rev. Charles Dillon Will Be Arraigned Monday For the Shooting of His Superior, Rev. Henry O'Neill.

STATEMENT MADE.

KALAMAZOO, Mich., April 14. —Arraignment of Father Charles Dillon, charge with the murder last night of his Superior, Rev. Father Henry O'Neill, pastor of St. Augustine's Parish, was postponed late to-day at the direction of Judge George V. Weimer, in Circuit Court until Monday.

Postponement was granted at the request of counsel for Father Dillon although the priest had made known his willingness to enter a plea guilty to a charge of first degree murder. It was indicated that alienists might inquire into the sanity of the accused man.

Father Dillon, a member of the Carthusian Fathers Order, and formerly a missionary of the Church in many counties, declared to-day that he wants to go at once to Jackson or Marquette, (where State prisons are located), and insisted he is perfectly sane. He remains claim and manifests no sign of remorse because of his deed.

Father McCullough, the only eyewitness of the shooting, made a statement to officers yesterday.

"When we were seated at the dinner table last night," he said, "Father Dillon appeared morose. Finally he burst out, addressing Father O'Neill: "You'd like to get me out of here, wouldn't you??"

"Father O'Neill replied: "You are under no compulsion. You may stay as long as you wish, or if you prefer, you may go.'

"Then I'll go and pack up.' Father Dillon said. He went upstairs. In a few minutes he returned and without warning began to fire."

This version of the affair differs from that of Father Dillon, who told police that the Parish Priest had ordered him to leave.

Second Reading of Redistribution Bill.

TORONTO, April 14. Canadian Press. — Just before 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Premier Drury presented his redistribution bill for the second reading. In doing so he broadly outlined the underlying principles on which the redistribution was to be carried out. He said that he thought the highest unit of representation should be in Toronto, because it was a metropolitan city, and the capital. He was have an urban unit of population for cities, such as Ottawa, Hamilton, London, Windsor and others which are ridings without addition of rural parts. The third unit of population would be for rural districts in old Ontario. The largest unit of population would be for ridings in Northern Ontario because of their great stretches of country and isolation. If that course were followed he thought the committee could draw up a measure within three weeks.

The premier thought such a system fair. "This government will not juggle else to its own advantage," he declared. He then named the committee which will consider the bill:

Chairman, Speaker Parliament; Government supporters, Messrs. Drury, Grant, Homuth, Rollo, Heenan, Watson, Oke, MacDonald, Lethbridge, Johnston (Simcoe), and Taylor. Liberals: Braekin, Mageau, Clark and McLeod. Conservatives, McCrea, Nickle, Cooke, Price and Henry. Independents, MacBride.

The bill provides for the same membership as at present, 111 members.

Mr. Ferguson objected to discussing such an important bill so late on Friday. He asked for an opportunity to think it over, pointing out that the committee could not meet until Tuesday anyway. Nobody had assumed until a few days ago that there would be such legislation.

The premier agreed to let the second reading stay over till Monday.

CHILDHOOD INDIGESTION

Nothing is more common in childhood than indigestion. Nothing is more dangerous to proper growth, more weakening to the constitution or more likely to pave the way to dangerous disease. Fully nine-tenths of all the minor ills of childhood have their root in indigestion. There is no medicine for little ones to equal Baby's Own Tablets in relieving this trouble. They have proved of benefit in thousands of homes. Concerning them Mrs. Jos. Lunette, Immaculate Conception, Que., writes: "My baby was a great sufferer from indigestion, but the Tablets soon set her right and now I would not be without them." Baby's Own Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cent a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

LORD ROBERT APPEALS TO WOMEN TO PUT END TO ALL FUTURE WARS

Address at Des Moines Was Made to League of Women Voters — Asks For Suggestions.

LACK OF CREDIT.

DES MOINES, Ia., April 14—(Canadian Press)—In the presence of an audience of several thousand men and women, including feminine leaders from all parts of the United States, Lord Robert Cecil last night addressed an appeal to the women to further actively the cause of world peace.

Concluding an address in which he had outlined the accomplishments of the League of Nations and the hopes that are held for its further usefulness, the British representative in the Assembly of the League said:

"I have no request to make to you, no advice to give you, I await with interest any comments or questions you may have to make on the matter I can only say this: Do not, I beseech you, forget the importance of the question—important to all alike, but perhaps most of all to women. Think, I pray you, of the sufferings of the late war, sufferings which many of you yourselves must have endured, sufferings which have been more widely and deeply felt by other nations of the world.

"Think of what is still going on all over the world—unrest and disquiet—passion and hatred, which are oppressing men everywhere. Do not in the presence of such events pass by on the other side. Do not reply that you are not your brother's keeper. Whatever you may think in our less exalted moments we cannot avoid our responsibilities as human beings. We are all members of one family. That is an absolute truth, an unavoidable fact."

The meeting to which Lord Cecil spoke was a public mass meeting held by arrangement of the National League of Women Voters, now in convention here.

The speech throughout was addressed to women and phrased to interest them. Lord Cecil said:

"Women have, or ought to have, a special passion for peace. I know in my country there is scarcely a woman who has not suffered some terrible loss in the late war, a loss more terrible than the loss of her own life.

"I do not know how it may be in America, but we in Europe are asking how can this thing be stopped for the future? And it is to make some contribution towards an answer to that that I am here. Not that I have a cut-and-dried plan to force down your throats, but I have some information to give you; and I look forward, I hope not in vain, for some helpful suggestions from you."

Lord Cecil argued that no place in the world to-day is in a situation of economic isolation. He analyzed the present industrial and financial difficulties abroad, tracing their causes back to war conditions, and he pointed out that Europe and America are economically inter-dependent.

Lord Robert explained the system of international credits.

"Credit," he said "is a pycological matter. It depends on trust between man and man, and in a period of destruction trust vanishes. It is a delicate plant and the first blast of the storm is apt to destroy it; that is what that happened all over Europe. Credit is not dead—it is very sick. That means that the whole machinery of commerce works stiffly and unsatisfactorily. Transactions are difficult to carry out and they meet with obstacles—obstacles which increase. It is not only individual countries which are involved, but the whole world. Prices are now world prices. It has been said that the price of grain in America is the price of the exportable surplus. That is quite true and what is true of grain is true of almost every other commodity. Modern means of transportation and communication make all the world one market, and offers and acceptances flash through the globe, so that prices in England and here are directly affected by the welfare of the rest of the world.

SUNSHINE MISSION ELECTED OFFICERS

Marjorie Sayles Heads Active Organization in Millbrook Methodist Church.

MILLBROOK, April 14. — The annual meeting of the "Sunshine Mission Band" of the Methodist Church was held on Wednesday evening, the president, Kathleen Freelove, in the chair. Owing to the illness of her mother the superintendent, Mrs. B. R. Raper, was unable to attend. Encouraging reports of the year's work were given by the secretary, Lawrence Rowland, and the treasurer, Marjorie Sayles. The former showed that the membership is now fifty-eight, including thirteen life members, while the treasurer stated that a total of $30.82 has been raised so far with some mite-boxes yet to come in. The Easter thankoffering amounted to $16.44. The Band has therefore now on hand the $30 which they remit each year for the upkeep of the "Millbrook Sunshine Cot" in the Women's Hospital at Chentu, West China.

The Scripture lesson from Psalm 145 was read alternately and the "Watch Tower" taken up following the opening prayer. The following "Heralds" reported for their various mission fields: French work, Lawrence Howland, India, Walter Sayles Indian work, Gladys Tucker, Italian work, Marjorie Sayles, Japan, Jean Burnham, Korea, Nelles Rowland.

In the absence of the pastor who was attending another meeting Mrs. Tucker took charge of the election, the following being the list of officers for the new year:

President—Marjorie Sayles.
Vice-President—Jean Burnham.
Secretary—Kathleen Freelove.
Treasurer— Elsie Spence.
Corresponding Secretary — Jean Burnham.
Organist—Gladys Tucker.
Room Committee—Kenneth Donnelly, Buster Raper, Bruce Freelove, George Sayles.
Look-out Committee—Girls vs the Boys.

A treat of home made candy was provided by the girls after the meeting which was closed by Mrs. Tucker with prayer.

Miss Pearl Lamb, Miss Elsie Weeks, Miss Gertrude Gray, and Messrs. R. Stone and Albert Dunn motored to Peterboro on Thursday evening to attend the meeting of the District A.Y.P.A. which was held in All Saints' Church. Delegates were present also from the Lakefield Association, Miss Blanche Graham, of that town, being president of the District organization. Representatives from St. Luke's, St. John's, and St. George's churches were also in attendance, and a considerable amount of important business was transacted. Miss Gertrude Gray of Millbrook, is the District treasurer.

FIRST BUDGET OF FREE STATE SHOWS DEFICIT

Cosgrave Will Negotiate a Domestic Loan to Cover Shortage of £20,000,000.

NO NEW TAXES.

DUBLIN, April 14. — (Canadian Press.) — The introduction in the Dail Eireann yesterday of the first budget of the Free State Government, which forecasts a deficit of £20,000,000, has awakened little public interest and no speculation on the part of the press.

The receipts for the year are estimated at £26,500,000, and the expenditures at £46,500,000. The upkeep of the army and compensation for damage done by the irregulars accounts for more than half of the expenditure estimates.

The attendance at the session of the Dail to-day was sparse, and William Cosgrave, the President, was severely statistical in his speech in announcing the budget figures. Generally the members of the Dail were familiar with the figures. It was known that the cost of army upkeep and the outlay in compensation for outrage would necessitate extensive borrowing, aggregating at least £20,000,000.

Mr. Cosgrave expressed confidence that a Free State loan could be raised within the country. He also evinced satisfaction over what he termed the failure of the Republicans in their attacks on the State. The members of the Dail generally received the budget favorably. Nobody had expected any remissions in taxation, and there was relief over the statement that the deficit would not compel any increase in taxation.

The thorny questions regarding free trade or protection, or concerning indirect taxation on various classes of the community, were shelved by the proposals which left all changes to the future Parliament.

FRENCH AND BELGIANS WILL BRING GREATER PRESSURE ON GERMANY

Conference Held in Paris Yesterday — Nature of New Measures Was Not Announced.

SESSIONS TO-DAY.

PARIS, April 14. — (Canadian Press.)— The French and Belgian Government Ministers at their meeting here yesterday afternoon decided upon new measures of pressure to be applied to Germany if she remains unyielding on the reparation question. The nature of the measures was not disclosed but the Ministers announced in an official communique that they are determined to continue pressure until the Berlin Government makes direct overtures for settlement.

The meeting was participated in by Premiers Poincare and Theunis, various members of their Cabinets interested in reparation problems, and a number of experts. As in the case of the recent conference at Brussels, the session was largely devoted to technical questions in connection with the occupation of the Rhur and the efforts under way to make productive the guarantees seized there.

The Ministers had before them complete reports on the occupation to date, with details of all the costs and of the movement of fuel. These reports were reviewed at length, but it was impossible to complete their consideration yesterday and the work will be continued to-day, with sessions probably both in the morning and afternoon.

The Allied representatives confined themselves to discussion of the details of the occupation and the principle that it will be continued and extended until Germany yields, and it is authoritatively stated that nothing else will be considered at the conference. France and Belgium have no intention of elaborating a plan of settlement, it is said, because when the time comes to consider any proposition Germany may make, it will be necessary for the British take part in the conversations.

Talk of a new plan under consideration, which is confined to a very limited section of the French press, is regarded as a well-intentioned desire to begin the preparation of the French people for such concessions as France eventually may be required to make in order to reach complete accord with Great Britain. Official circles, however, say it is ill-timed and that it has no foundation in fact.

There are among the well-informed French politicians who believe the time will come when it will be necessary to let the French people know that they cannot expect all from Germany that France thinks she ought to pay, but that time, they say, will be when Germany has shown some disposition to do what she can.

Ask C.N.R. to Take Over Kent Railway.

OTTAWA, April 14. — (Canadian Press). — In the Senate yesterday Senator Bourque asked for the production of correspondence since 1921 concerning the Kent Northern Railway. Senator Bourque urged that this railway be taken over and made part of the Canadian National system.

The third reading was given to the bill to prohibit the unauthorized publication of evidence taken in divorce enquiries.

The Senate adjourned until Tuesday evening.

COURTESY WEEK.

Courtesy Week, promoted by International Kiwanis, is the kind of week we should have fifty-two times a year.

In these modern times there is some reason to fear that courtesy is being lost in the shuffle.

And yet it has been truly said that courtesy is one of the largest assets in life, and that the confirmed boor is a spiritual bankrupt.

It implies, as Sir Arthur Currie has pointed out, the fundamental principle of doing to others as we wish them to do to us, and its practice means the taking of trouble to make the most of our world with regard to our relations with mankind.

And Sidney Smith used to say that a want of courtesy produces in the end a person who with the greatest good temper and volubility and with a total inattention to your point of view or position gallops over a thousand fine feelings and at every step leaves the marks of his hoof upon your heart.

Courtesy is not merely politeness—it is based on consideration for others, consideration for their feelings, for their comfort, for their geneal welfare.

The Kiwanis Club deserves thanks for calling attention to the desirability of a more general cultivation of a courteous spirit among the people of this continent.

IF YOU BELIEVE.

If you believe in the work of the Peterborough Health Association,

If you believe that Peterborough needs the services of the district nurse,

If you believe that the summer camp at Jackson Park has been of great benefit to dozens of children of subnormal health,

If you believe that the work on behalf of crippled children should be continued,

If you believe that victims of the Great White Plague who are in need of nourishment and attention should receive a helping hand,

If you believe all of these things or any of them your duty towards the annual Motor Show next week is clear,

Upon the financial success of that event depends to a considerable extent whether or not all of these activities will be maintained—

It is, therefore, beyond question the duty of all those who believe in the work of the association to make sure that the show is a financial success, not only by attending themselves, but by endeavouring to impress upon other citizens the necessity of extending their patronage.

Keep Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week clear for the Motor Show and ensure an attendance that will leave all previous records far behind.

THE EARLY INDICATIONS.

The announcement that the Provincial elections will take place in the last week i June has cleared the air, and the political pot is this riding has already begun to simmer, if not to boil.

Interest naturally centres for the moment on the nature of the contest.

So far one candidate is already in the field.

Mr. Thomas Tooms, the sitting member, has announced his candidature as a supporter of Mr. Drury, and not, as on the occasion of the last election, as a straight Labour candidate.

That he will be opposed is certain, and the first question will be, by how many?

It is safe to say that Mr. Tooms will find himself opposed by at least two rivals, and possibly by a third.

The entrance of straight Conservative and Liberal standard-bearers into the race is taken for granted.

And it is not beyond the bounds of probability that there will be a fourth candidate in the shape of a U.F.O. nominee.

Farmer support went to Mr. Tooms in the last election, but much water has run under the bridge since that time. There is a number of Farmer candidates anxious to break into the political game, and from the rural sections of the riding come rumours of a determined attempt to put West Peterborough in the U.F.O. column.

All early indications suggest the very strong possibility of a four-cornered fight, in which event there will be no use of a circus invading this district during June.

WHY NOT TRY IT FOR THEMSELVES?

Peterborough has its share of discontented individuals who never tire talking of "capitalistic domination," the "slavery of the worker," and that kind of nonsense, and who long for the communistic system and for the putting into force in this country of the theories and practices of the Reds.

These trouble-makers never seem to realize how inconsistent they are.

They profess to believe that the Soviet system would give them a utopia, that all the ills of the world would be cured.

And yet they remain in this country when, according to their own statements, the truth of their theory is being demonstrated in Russia.

Why stay in Canada when utopia is only a few days away?

There are no restrictions on emigration from this country—nothing to prevent these Red agitators from seeing their principles in operation.

Yet they linger here under conditions they are fond of describing as slavery.

Is it possibly because deep down in their hearts they know that the Russian experiment has been a ghastly failure, because they realize that they may have the same experience as is related in the following New York despatch describing the adventures of a Red who did investigate conditions for himself:

"There never was a more radical Red than I was last May. So I went to the home of the Reds—Russia—and they cured me forever. When I found what a sham the Soviet system is, and when the authorities tried to convert my wife to the principles of free love—well, that was enough."

With these words Thomas E. Doyle of Baton Rouge, La., wound up his story to the District Attorney today; and within an hour the police had booked on charges of grand larceny P. Pascal Cosgrove and Frank Reese.

Doyle, who returned Wednesday from Russia with his wife and two small children and several other erstwhile American radicals, told the District Attorney an amazing story of exploitation and hardships which he said he had been subjected to there.

"Last May," Doyle said, "my wife and I read an advertisement telling of a plan to colonize Americans in Russia. Coming to New York, I gave Cosgrove and Reese, who have a splendid office on West 40th street, $1,000 for 'expenses.'

"These men are known as the Soviet organizers in America of the 'Autonomous Industrial Colony, Kuzka,' and they have victimized hundreds of Americans with their promises of a wonderful Utopia free from capitalism's oppression, of a land of golden opportunity for the worker, of a refined and beautiful life in the Ural mountains, where we were to work the platinum mines and share in the proceeds.

"Well, we sailed. Our party numbered 125 men, women and children. When we got to Moscow we were royally received by 'Big Bill' Haywood and his Soviet associates. Haywood is the guiding mind of the fifty Kuzba offices in this country.

"Moscow treated us splendidly—the first day. Four brass bands and banquets and presentations to high Bolshevik officials and a review of 10,000 soldiers, all in charge of Haywood.

"The next day, and for months thereafter, came disillusionment. The Soviet authorities took every cent we had, and shipped us in dirty cars like cattle to Kamarova, a desolate village in Siberia beyond the Urals.

"Instead of the conditions painted so glowingly to us, there was cold, hunger, misery and poverty. There was nothing to do but toil like beasts in the coal mines without pay.

"And the unspeakable insults to which Mrs. Doyle and the other women were subjected! The local authorities sought every day to convert us to the principle of free love a practice enforced everywhere under Lenin's rule. Day and night, these bewhiskered Slavs would accost Mrs. Doyle, insisting that she yield.

"Finally, we took our leave, although our lives were threatened, and returned by slow stages to Moscow. There we managed to get help from some American relief agents, and we came home."

NEWS ABOUT EGGS.

Everyone is interested in eggs; there is no getting away from them in some form or another, even from rotten ones at various times, and seasons, and occasions, says the Kingston Standard. But the latest news concerning them is that new regulations have been passed about them which it is understood will come into force in the first of next month, which we might incidentally point out is also moving day. The latter will be a trial to many people, so they can think about these regulations instead of their troubles.

The idea of the regulations is to provide for the sale of eggs by grade only in domestic trading, with the unanimous consent of the producers, the trade and the consumers. Under the new regulations, eggs can be sold only by standard legal grade. These grades are three in number: Extras, firsts and seconds. Thus it will be possible for a housewife to go into a store and buy eggs with some reasonable assurance as to their quality. The finest quality of boiling eggs will be known as extras; a good grade of boiling or poaching eggs as firsts, and cooking eggs as seconds. The grade of eggs sold must be distinctly marked on the package in which they are sold.

The official statement on this matter says that the effect of these new reulations will tend, it is confidently believed, to further stabilize the egg industry. As the country merchant, who is the largest collector, must now sell the eggs he gets from the farmer by grade, he will, in self-protection, buy by grade. Thus the farmer who brings high-grade eggs to market will receive the highest price, while his neighbor who brings in poor eggs will get a lower price. The result will be to grade up very considerably the quality of farm-produced eggs, and the increased supply of high-grade eggs will materially lower the price to the consumer.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

June will be the month of ballots as well as of roses.

Will the strawberry festival have to give away to the campaign meeting along the concession lines this year?

Speaking of the Hicks charge, there seems to be considerable curiosity as to who was really responsible for cracking the Whip.

Election talk should not cause Peterborough people to forget the Motor Show next week. The Health Association needs to be supported.

The rural mail carrier question is being discussed in the House of Commons. It is to be hoped that the Government will seriously consider the revision of the present contract system and the substitution of a more stable and more equitable method.

Many a professional man must wish these days that he had learned brick-laying instead of wasting time in a university.

People who talk about an exodus from Peterborough merely demonstrate that there are not nearly as many vacant houses here as there are vacant heads.

It is a funny thing that many a man who can play three games a week of softball is too tired to beat the family carpets.

The answer to the question, "If winter comes can spring be far behind?" seem to be "yes."

Politicians always expect abuse from the other side of the House, but it is not pleasant to a Premier to be slashed by his own Whip.

A Chicago preacher declares that many of the world's troubles are due to bald-headed men. Surely he would not deprive the flies of their right to a playground!

OMEMEE, April 13.—Messrs. S. F. Wilson and G. Haygarth were visitors to Cannington on Thursday last to attend the funeral of their sister-in-law, Mrs. Conneybeare. Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Haygarth returned home on Saturday, they having gone there on Monday after receiving a message that their sister had suffered a stroke of paralysis. Deceased lady never rallied and death claimed her on Wednesday. Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Haygarth have the sympathy of their many friends in Omemee in their sad bereavement.

Call In Effect May 15.

Rev. Mr. James of the Anglican church announced on Sunday that his call to Newcastle would take effect on May 15.

Preached to Veterans.

A very impressive service was held in the Anglican church on Sunday evening, when the pastor, Rev. E. R. James delivered a very eloquent sermon to about twenty-five returned soldiers as well as a fair representation from the sister churches in town, in commemoration of the famous battle of Vimy Ridge. Mrs. B. Hurre sang an appropriate solo in fine voice, "Lord God of Hosts's be with us yet, lest we forget."

A Quiet Wedding.

A quiet wedding of much interest to Omemee people, was solemnized at the Cambridge street parsonage, Lindsay, on Good Friday, when Ethel, the second daughter of the late Henry and Mrs. Colwell formerly of Omemee, was united in marriage to Mr. Clark Butler, of Somerville township. The good wishes of a host of Omemee friends will follow Mrs. Butler to her home near Coboconk.

Monthly Meeting.

The regular monthly meeting of the W.M.S. of St. Andrews' Presbyterian church was held in the Sunday school room on Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Mackey the 1st vice-president conducted the devotional exercises after which Mrs. B. Courtney read the closing chapter in last year's study book on "The Field." Mrs. H. Lamb read from this year's study book on "Building a Nation" which so far has proved very interesting on account of its dealing with early history of Canada, and the settlers. Through the removal of Mrs. (Rev.) Scott president's chair was left vacant and Mrs. Mackey was appointed the new president with Mrs. H. Lamb as 1st vice-president.

It was decided to hold a quilting next month along with the regular meeting. Meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction, after which the hostess, Mrs. L. Windrim served refreshments.

Had a Bad Fall.

Little Arthur Jamieson, the four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Jamieson is suffering from a slight concussion of the brain as a result of a fall which he received on Tuesday evening while playing with some older children, who shoved him into a ditch where his head struck a stone. The little fellow was unconscious for some time, but it now much improved and it is hoped that no serious effects will follow.

Laid at Rest.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Robert Mitchell was held on Saturday afternoon from the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Harold McConnell. Interment took place in Emily cemetery. Rev. R. F. Stillman conducted the services. Deceased lady had been in failing health for several months and death was not unexpected, she having lost her sight about two months' ago. She leaves of her immediate family two daughters, Mrs. Harold McConnell and Mrs. John White and two sons, Walter and Victor, all of Omemee, to whom is extended the sympathy of the citizens in general.

The sad news of the death of the little one year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Allie Casey of Oshawa, formerly of Omemee, reached here on Monday, pneumonia having been the cause. The corpse arrived on the 11.27 noon train on Tuesday and the funeral was held from the home of Mr. Casey's uncle, Mr. Samuel Mills, the same afternoon. Rev. R. F. Stillman conducted the services both at the house and at Emily cemetery where burial took place.

BARN NEAR LINDSAY DESTROYED BY FIRE

LINDSAY, April 13. — On Wednesday night the fine barn of Mr. McKnight, who resides near the Mariposa-Brock boundary was totally destroyed by fire, together with all the implements.

The fire was caused by an explosion of a lantern.

All the stock, with the exception of a few pigs, was removed safely.

There was some insurance, but it will not nearly cover the loss.

FIRES LAID TO STRIKERS.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, April 14.—(Associated Press)—Strikers or their sympathizers are charged with the setting of frequent cane fires which have been occurring recently chiefly on the south side of the island where strikes of field laborers have been on for some time. None of the mills have been forced to shut down because of the strikes, although some of the centrals have worked on a reduced scale.

Within 48 hours in the Guayama district recently there were 40 fires reported, culminating in the burning of more than 700 acres of cane.

When you come home and find the kitchen stove in the parlor you know it is spring cleaning time.

DRY LAW DID NOT KILL BARLEY CROP

WASHINGTON, April 14. — (United Press).—Prohibtion did not deal a death blow to the barley growing, contrary to the belief, the department of agriculture stated today.

When pre-prohibtion beer went under the ban, post-prohibtion beer, the one-half of one per cent beverage, took its place as a barley consumer, the department stated.

Before prohibtion the breweries consumed approximately 30 per cent of the barley crop. This was the highest grade of barley, for which a premium was paid. The market for fancy barley has been maintained by malt and near-beer requirements.

Export demand for fancy barley also has increased due to the elimination of Russia as a barley producer, the department stated.

The other 70 per cent of the American crop goes for milling and stock feed. Barey is almost the equal of corn for stock feeding, the department stated.

CASE HINGES ON LOST SALES SLIPS

Theft Case Will Be Settled in Five Minutes If Slips Can Be Found.

MONTREAL, April 14.—(Canadian Press).—Race tracks in the Province of Quebec are not nearly so well attended as those in Ontario, and it is unfair to apply a system like the Rutherford law, which is based on Ontario attendances, declared J. A. Begin, Comptroller of Revenues for the Province of Quebec, in the course of the trial here yesterday of Frank H. Dunn, charged with stealing $38,000 and falsifying accounts of the Connaught Park Jockey Club. The other witnesses were E. S. Houston, hon. treasurer of the club, and W. F. Powell, a member of the Board of Management of the same club.

Whether six missing sales slips, supposed to hold the signatures of Dunn, and said by T. B. Gorman, secretary of the club, to have been sent to Mr. Houston, can be found or not, became one of the centres of interest yesterday. "The case will be concluded in five minutes," said N. K. Laflame, K.C., who is defending Dunn, "if these modified sales slips can be recovered."

When the case was adjourned until Monday next, R. L. Calder, K.C., counsel for the Crown, announced that in all probability Walter Mitchell, M.P., Hon. Jacob Nicol, Provincial Treasurer, and Senator Belcourt, president of the Connaught Park Racing Club, would testify either that day or Tuesday.

CANADA'S FOREIGN TRADE DISCUSSED

Canada's Export Trade Has Made Great Strides Forward in the Last Thirty Years.

OTTAWA, April 14. — (Canadian Press).—The foreign trade of Canada and our policy in relation to it were discussed last evening in committee of the House in connection with an item of $320,000 for the Commercial Intelligence Service. Hon. J. A. Robb, Minister of Trade and Commerce, stated that Canada had twenty-three trade commissioners and five commercial agents in various parts of the world, seeking opportunities for Canadian trade.

Canada, he said, was second in the list of exporting countries on a per capita basis. New Zealand came first with per capita exports of $154.54; Canada second, $100.63. The per capita exports of the United Kingdom was $69.36, and of the United States $33.95.

Welland Preparing For Next Election.

WELLAND, Ont., April 14 (Canadian Press). — Welland County Liberals are making ready for the election to be held the last week in June.

W. H. Crowther, president of the Liberal Association of the county, is to be in Welland to-day ,and hold a meeting, where it is expected that the present member, R. Cooper, will be re-nominated to carry the Liberal banner.

There has been a number of rumours of an opponent, but the prominent Liberals of this county say it is not likely.

Several of the big guns of the Liberal Association from Toronto and Chatham are expected to make their appearance.

The Conservatives named 2nd May as the date for their nomination meeting. Mark Vaughan and G. H. Pettit are named as possible candidates, with a dark horse in the offing.

The Conservatives of the district feel that the Hon. Howard Ferguson will make an announcement of his policy in regard to Prohibition shortly and are confident that the leader's election promises will swing the wet vote solidly to their side.

The U.F.O. are hardly likely to contest the riding but labour may. The Labour Party may run a candidate under the Government colours so that a three-cornered fight with plenty of interest is promised.

No Changes in Late Moose Jaw Returns.

MOOSE JAW, Sask., April 14.—(Canadian Press).—No further results of the polling in Moose Jaw constituency have been received here and E. N. Hopkins, Progressive, whose election is conceded, maintains his majority of 1,443 over Hon. W. E. Knowles, Liberal candidate. Additional returns from the south country may be available today.

QUESTIONS NEED OF A NEW HIGH SCHOOL AT CAMPBELLFORD

Member of Council Asks Why the Eagerness of Certain Group of Education Board to Shoulder on Ratepayers So Heavy a Liability.

NOT COMPULSORY

J. A. ANDERSON
Campbellford's Reeve
Who urges that there is absolutely no pressure on community to erect new High school building at present time.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 14. — To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—As your paper has always tried to give fairly and fully both sides of the school question in Campbellford, I would ask space to set before your readers some reasons why I, as a member of the Town Council, am opposed to the building of a new High school at this time.

Why all this eagerness on the part of certain members of the Board of Education to build a new High school at present, when there is absolutely no pressure on them from the Minister of Education? The old excuse that the Department of Education is urging the Board to build has now vanished and there is absolutely no excuse left those certain members other than purely a selfish motive.

So persistent are they that they go to Minister and Deputy Minister of Education and beg for the privilege of reducing the original plans and specifications so as to put up a smaller school building, that they may force the expenditure of $45,000 upon the taxpayers at a time when our tax rate is 40 mills, and knowing perfectly well that fully 85 per cent. of the ratepayers of Campbellford are opposed to this action.

The Board speaks of congestion in our High school but this cannot be serious when students from the outside of the county are permitted to attend.

Now a word or two about the by-law which was passed by the Town Council in 1920. A resolution to issue debentures for $75,000 was moved by a member of the Council not now residing in Campbellford, and was seconded by a councillor who is now a member of the Board of Education. This resolution snatched from the people the privilege of passing upon this matter and saying whether or not they were in favor of this expenditure. Is it not deemed presumptive on the part of any Council to assume the responsibility of passing a money by-law for $75,000 without first consulting the people who have to pay the bill?

If the taxpayers of Campbellford are forced to assume another liability of $68,000, which many of us claim is not a real necessity, I venture to say that perhaps some of the members of the Board of Education, like some of the members of the Council of 1920, may soon be moving away from Campbellford and little need they care about the liabilities that they leave behind them.

How can the special committee of the Board of Education explain the statement that they made to the Minister of Education in their recent conference with that official, that the debenture debt of Campbellford is less than $16,000 when no later than last year, debentures for $20,000 were issued to pay for the construction of new sidewalks alone? They also accused me of falsifying the financial condition of the town when I stated to the Minister that our liabilities were in the neighborhood of $145,000.

Since that statement was made the Council has verified what I said to the Minister by preparing a table of figures showing the true condition of affairs.

The special committee of the Board of Education told the Minister that our municipal power plant takes care of $70,000 of the town's annual expenditures.

The Council frankly admits that the power plant is a paying asset but who takes care of the plant, which cost the municipality over $140,000 and upon which there is still a debenture debt which we are paying?

Paying assets or non-paying assets, what is it that creates in Campbellford a 40 mill rate of taxation which evidently is not high enough to suit certain members of the Board of Education?

Furthermore, it is quite possible that the 40 mill rate will have to be increased this year. The Council is faced with petitions for new sewers. These petitions have been in for two years and some action must be taken regarding them as they are all deserving and the wishes of the taxpayers can no longer be ignored.

When a legislative body loses the confidence of its constituents the proper course for it to take is to resign and submit the issue to the people. If certain members of the Board of Education are convinced in their own minds that the people of Campbellford want a new High school why should they hesitate to let the taxpayers vote on the question?

If the tax rate runs up to an abnormal figure it is the members of the Council, not those of the Board of Education, who are held responsible by the people and who are penalized at the annual election by the voters. The duty of the Council is to safeguard the financial interests of the taxpayetrs and this the councillors have endeavored to do since the beginning of the present year.

The members of the Board of Education claim that when they were voted $75,000 by the Council of 1920 they were given a free hand and that the grant was not conditioned upon any particular type of building that was to be put up.

Does it seem reasonable, possible or sensible that any Council would vote away $75,000 of the people's money for a new building without first having approved of the plans and specifications as required by the statute?

Is this Council bound to issue debentures for a building other than one of the type and dimensions required by the Department of Education in 1920?

The opinion of the Minister of Education as given to the Council in the recent interview with him was that the town would act wisely in deferring building operations for two years and then put up a structure as originally planned, one that would meet the growth of the municipality for years to come.

The Council cannot believe that the Board of Education is to going to be presumptive enough to force another expenditure upon the people, one that might well be avoided without any serious injury to the educational interests of Campbellford's good.

Thanking you for this space.

J. A. ANDERSON,
Reeve of Campbellford.

Bank Accounts for Farmers

Farmers find that doing business through The Bank of Nova Scotia has many advantages. It enables a farmer to keep track of all his dealings. His bank book is a handy record of all moneys received or paid out.

By depositing milk, grain and other produce cheques he has a complete record of receipts.

By paying all bills by cheque he has a record of all payments and runs no risk of loss by carrying money in his pocket or keeping it in the house.

In short, a Bank Account is a necessity in the conduct of farming operations on a business basis.

Change in Management

Owing to the change of management in the Bell Telephone office here, Mr. Cecil Sutton, who has been for some years in charge of the local central, is no longer connected with the service. As Mr. Sutton was always most courteous, obliging, and capable, there will be general regret felt that he was not retained in his position as a member of the staff in Millbrook.

FRENCH AND BELGIANS

The recent visit to London of Louis Loucheur, former French Minister of Liberated Regions, and his interviews with British statesmen on the reparations questions, undoubtedly will be the subject of conversations at the formal social functions in honor of the Belgians, but there is little prospect that it will appear on the agenda of the conference.

The trip to London of Louis Klotz, former Minister of Finance, has greatly diminished the importance that was at first attached to M. Loucheur's visit. The intervention of prominent public men such as these two is explained in political circles as being due only to their personal desire to have a leading part in a solution of the reparation problem. The Government, it is pointed out, could not refuse to hear reports of what they were able to learn regarding the attitude of the British statesmen, without provoking adverse criticism itself.

Premier Poincare, it is understood, may exchange views with the Belgians as to a possible basis of discussion with the Germans when the latter signify that they are ready to negotiate, but nothing will be decided even tentatively until the time comes, when the question will come up before all the Allies, including Great Britain and Italy.

France is particularly anxious not to forestall Great Britain in any way on reparations, and it is held in official circles that nothing useful can be accomplished in making preparations for a final settlement without British participation.

Old-Fashioned Flowers.

By W. R. BEATTIE.

The craze for flowers of the more expensive and popular class has bid fair to cause old-fashioned zinnias, marigolds, cockscomb and petunias to be forgotten. The common flowers, however, have an important place in our scheme of gardening and, in fact, are worthy of more attention on the part of everyone who plants a garden.

Among the many advantages of zinnias and other annual flowering plants in their classes are small cost and quick results. Where it is desired to have a border of flowers along the vegetable garden one packet each of zinnia, marigold, cockscomb, phlox and petunia will supply a variety of pleasing color from midsummer until frost.

By starting the plants in the house and transplating them to the garden they will bloom considerably earlier. The easy way, however, is to sow the seeds in the place where the plants are to grow.

Castor Beans.

Where something large is wanted to hide an unsightly background plant a double row of castor beans, using the large bronze sort for the back row and the dwarf green sort for the front row. A few plans of cosmos can be worked in between the castor beans and a row of zinnias in front so that a complete screen will be formed.

Sunflowers, not the very large kind, but the smaller ones, are very effective for mixing with the other plants. Spiderflower is also good for mixing in with other plants that grow from two to four feet in height.

After all, there is no flower that is quite so effective as scarlet sage or salvia for mass planting. A double green hedge of California privet, is very striking and attractive. Zinnias could also be used this way but in either case plenty of water must be given the plants because the hedge draws heavily upon the moisture supply in the soil.

There are at least 20 of the old-fashioned flowers any of which may be used to advantage, especially in backyard and border planting. The cost of starting and growing them is small. The list includes, in addition to those already mentioned, cornflower, love-lies-bleeding, larkspur, China asters, snapdragon, garden balsam, four-oclock, mignonette, candytuft, Japaneses, pink, Iceland poppy, lobelia, pansies and forget-me-nots.

Strawflowers.

Strawflowers, called "everlasting flowers" by our grandmothers, are again coming into popularity mainly because they make a beautiful border as a summer bloomer and in addition the flowers can be cut and dried and hold their color for use in the house during the winter. The seed of the strawflower may be sown in the open ground but the plants do better if started in the house and transplanted to the garden.

Strawflowers want good soil and the plants should be set about 18 inches high. The flower for use in the house during the winter should be cut before fully grown and dried in the shade. A good plan is to tie the cut flowers together in small bunches by their stems, then wrap in newspaper, leaving the ends of the package open and hang in a cool, dry place.

After all, there is nothing equal to zinnias and a number of others of their class for quick results in hiding a fence or some such unsightly background. As time goes on a screen of shrubbery and more permanent plants can be planted.

SNAKES ARE USEFUL IN CHECKING PEST GROWTH

Don't kill snakes, warns Remington Kellogg. He's a scientist who has been studying food habits of reptiles. Snakes, he finds, are invaluable as pest destroyers. Their diet includes field mice, rats and other crop ravagers.

Nature maintains a wonderful system of checks and balances. Everything that exists has its definite purpose. When we detroy life of any kind, we interfere with nature, except as nature's whole scheme is for life to prey on life.

A FRENCH GENERAL HAS PLANNED NEXT 25 YEARS

General Payott, French commander at Colgone, boasts that France and Belgium intend to run the German railroads on the left bank of the Rhine for at least 25 years. This will interest observers who believe that what France really wants is to move her frontier to the Rhine. It is, of course, ridiculous for any one to attempt to prophesy volatile Europe's course for 25 years ahead.

Ghosts of Yesterday

The busy streets are filled with an endless procession of people. Some are healthy and energetic and push their way through the crowds; others move along slowly, being pushed here and there, but still continuing on. It is only when the latter drop and interfere with the hurrying crowds that they are noticed.

The weak are ever trod upon. Pale, weak people must regain their glow of health and energy. Invalids, convalescents and those suffering from anaemia or general run-down condition, will find that "Bludwine Tonic" will enrich the blood, invigorate the shaky nerves and build up the wasted muscles.

Bludwine Tonic

contains a base of Pure Native Wine, Glycero-Phosphate of Iron, Calcium Soda, Quinine of Hydrochloride and Extract of Malt. These ingredients assure immediate results in the development of renewed energy and increased weight. If you are well, this Tonic will keep you fit.

VIOLIN PRODIGY 12 YEARS OLD

Boy Wonder Found in Omaha Will Be Sent to New York For Education

OMAHA, Neb., April 14.—With an artist's "O K" placed upon him by Fritz Kreisler, master violinist, Sammy Carmell, Omaha's 12-year old violin prodigy, will go to New York to receive an artist's education at the expense of Omahans who have become interested in him.

Sammy is just an ordinary western boy, born in a home or moderate means. He likes to fish, to play marbles and in other ways to emulate Huck Finn.

But back in the depths if his dark eyes something gleams that you don't see in every boy's eyes.

"The spark of genius," said Omaha musicians.

Since he was a very tiny lad Sammy has cherished his violin From a very young age he' been appearing in public at home-talent dramatic entertainments.

It was at one of these that a talented Omaha musician heard him. He told others. Patrons of art became interested.

"If the boy has got the stuff in him, we'll pay the expense of his education," this group decided.

But who was to pass on Sammy's possibilities?

Mischa Elman came. But he was too busy to give the lad a try-out.

Finally came Fritz Kreisler. He consented to listen to Sammy. He even accompanied Sammy on the piano. Sammy had only played a few bars when—

"The boy has real talent!" Kreisler interrupted.

"He should be sent to Franz Kneisel in New York for training.

A GOOD MEDICINE FOR THE SPRINGTIME

Do Not Use Harsh Purgatives—A Tonic is All You Need.

Not sick—but not feeling quite well. That is the way most people feel in the spring. Easily tired, appetite fickle, sometimes headaches and a feeling of depression. Pimples or eruptions may appear on the skin, or there may be twinges or rheumatism or neuralgia. Any of these indicate that the blood is out of order—that the indoor life of winter has left its mark upon you and may easily develop into more serious trouble.

Do not dose yourself with purgatives, as many people do, in the hope that you can put your blood right Purgatives gallop through the system and weaken instead of giving strength. Any doctor will tell you this is true. What you need in the spring is a tonic that will enrich the blood and build up the nerves. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do this speedily and surely. Every dose of this medicine helps to enrich the blood which clears the skin, strengthens the appetite and makes tired, depressed men, women and children active and strong. Miss S. L. McEachron, Nairn, N.B., says: — "I have been in the habit of taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the spring and they keep me in the best of health. I think it is entirely due to the use of these pills that I always have such good health."

SET ASIDE EAPRI FOR LITERARY USE SOLELY

By HENRY WOOD

ROME (By mail to the United Press)—The creation on the famous island of Capri in the bay of Naples under the auspices and control of the League of Nations, of a retreat for literary people, artists, sculptors, professors, scientists and intellectual workers of all kinds is one of the latest projects of the Italian government.

It is being supported by the municipal government of Capri as well.

The island which ranks as one of the most beautiful spots in the entire world, has been a haunt for literary men and artists from the time of Cicero and Virgil. In recent years many men like Gorki have spent a portion of each year there.

The present plant is to set aside the old Carthusian monastery, which exists on the island, have it thoroughly refitted and refurnishe d to meet the needs of the world's leading intellectual workers and to create long or short stays as they see fit for recreation for work.

The municipality of Capri has offered to stand a portion of the initial expense of 1,200,000 francs, the bulk of which, however, would be apportioned among the nations that would participate in the enterprise. The entire plan has been submitted to the League of Nations Permanent Commission for Intellectual Collaboration.

The Carthusian monastery would accomodate about sixty guests at a time and each nation would be assigned a fixed quota which it in turn would assign to those of its most representative intellectual workers turn by turn.

THIRTY PERSONS DIED IN OLD RELIGIOUS WAR

Thirty skeletons of men, women and children are dug up on the outskirts of Paris when workmen break into an underground room. These skeletons belonged to people who were walled up alive during religious wars about 500 years ago. They had clawed the walls in frenzy. The Christian idea of how to convert has changed a lot in five centuries.

Human nature does change.

Want Ad Tips

by John T. Bartlett

SEVERAL PLANS FOR USED CARS.

(By John T. Bartlett)

There are many proved good Want Ad plans for used cars. A dealer whose advertising had been along conventional lines wished to vary it. So he adopted and advertised a selling stunt which in used car experience has often been very successful. His Want Ad. ran:

"We will sell to the highest bidder a fine 6-cylinder to .ing car of a make and model now selling used around $500.

"This car has new paint, new top, good tires, and an exceptionally smooth running motor. It's a dandy! It will be displayed in our used car department until Monday morning.

"You examine it and submit a sealed bid of what you are willing to pay for it. Bids will be opened at 9 a.m. Monday. Highest bid gets the car."

The same possibility that draws individuals in crowds to country auction sale—the chance that one may pick up a big bargain—makes this selling plan produce excellent results. On occasions, to put variety into a dealer's advertising, it is an excellent plan. It is good, too, for a car owner who is very anxious to sell his car at once, and is willing to take what he can get.

One highy successful concern consistently features in Want Ads its "$150 department." A typical Want Ad reads:

"Tell you friends and neighbors that we will furnish at all times a good touring or good runabout for $150 cash. OR ON TERMS. $65 cash and $10 per month. Tourings and runabouts with starter and demountable rims, $230."

Some advertisers have found it an excellent idea to state in the Want Ad only the down payment—very low. Others cater carefully to the customer's convenience—he is urged to phone and make an appointment for evenings or Sundays. Another plan is to list a large number of cars in the same Want Ad, on the principle that nearly every reader actually in the market will find there something he will wish to investigate.

The used car advertiser has many good Want Ads plans to pick from.

The PRIDE of PALOMAR

By Peter B. Kyne

When he reached the wagon road he brought the mare to a walk. He did not look back, for he knew his power; the scraping, slithering sound was music to his ears; it was all the assurance he desired. As calmly as, during the spring round-up, he dragged a calf up to the branding fire, he dragged his victim up into the front yard of the Rancho Palomar and paused before the patio gate.

"Ho! Senor Parker!" he shouted. "Come forth. I have something for the senor. Queeck, Senor!"

The gate opened and John Parker stepped out. "Hello, Pablo! What's all the row about?"

Pablo turned in his saddle and pointed. "Mira! Look!" he croaked. "Good God!" Parker cried. "What is that?"

"Once he use' for be one Jap. One good friend of you, I theenk, Senor Parker. He like for save you much trouble, I theenk, so he keep my Don Mike—an' for that I have—ah, but you see! An' now, senor, eet is all right for take the Rancho Palomar! Take eet, take eet! Ees nobody for care now—nobody! Eef eet don' be for you daughter I don't let you have eet. No, sir, I keet it you so queeck—but my Don Mike he's never forget hes one great caballero—so Pablo Artelan mus' not forget, too—you sleep in these hacienda, you eat the food—ah, senor, I am so 'shame' for you—and my Don Mike—hees dead—hees dead."

He slid suddenly off the black mare and lay unconscious in the dust beside her.

CHAPTER XXIV.

Once again a tragic scene had been enacted under the shade of the catalpa tree before the Ferrel hacienda. The shock of a terrible, unexpected trend of events heralded by the arrival of Pablo Artelan and his victim had, seemingly, paralyzed John Parker mentally and physically. He felt again a curious cold, weak, empty feeling in his breast. It was the concomitant of defeat; he had felt it twice before when he had been overwhelmed and mangled by the wolves of Wall Street.

He was almost nauseated at the sight of the dusty, bloody, shapeless bundle that lay at the end of Pablo's riata, but with the realization that, indirectly, he had been responsible for all of this.

Pablo's shrill, agonized denunciation had fallen upon deaf ears, once the old major domo had conveyed to Parker the information of Don Mike's death.

"The rope—take it off!" he protested to the unconscious Pablo. "It's cutting him in two. He looks like a link of sausage! Ugh! A Jap! Horrible! I'm smeared—I can't explain—nobody in this country will believe me—Pablo will kill me——"

He sat down on the bench under the catalpa tree, covered his face with his hands and closed his eyes. When he ventured again to look up, he observed that Pablo, in falling from his horse, had caught one huge Mexican spur on the cantle of his saddle and was suspended by the heel, grotesquely, like a dead fowl. The black mare, a trained roping horse, stood patiently, her feet braced a little, still keeping a strain on the riata.

Parker roused himself. With his pocket knife he cut the spur strap, eased the majordomo to the ground, carried him to the bench and stretched him out thereon. Then, grasping the mare by the bridle, he led her around the adobe wall; he shuddered inwardly as he heard the steady, slithering sound behind her.

"Got to get that Thing out of the way," he murmbled. The great barn door was opened; from within he could hear his chauffeur whistling. So he urged the mare to a trot and got past the barn without having been observed. An ancient straw stack stood in the rear of the barn and in the shadow of this he halted, removed the riata from the pommel, dragged the body close to the stack, and with a pitchfork he hastily covered it with old, weather-beaten straw. All of this he accomplished without any purpose more definite than a great desire to hide from his wife and from his daughter this offense which Pablo had thrust upon him.

He led the black mare into the barn and tied her. Then he returned to Pablo.

The old Indian was sitting up. At sight of Parker he commenced to curse bitterly, in Spanish and English, this invader who had brought woe upon the house of Farrel. But John Parker was a white man.

"Shut up, you saddle-colored old idol," he roared, and shook Pablo until the latter's teeth rattled together. "If the mischief is done it can't be helped—and it was none of my making. Pull yourself together and tell me where the killing occurred. We've got to get Don Miguel's body."

For answer Pablo snarled and tried to stab him, so Parker, recalling a fragment of the athletic lore of his youth, got a wristlock on the old man and took the dirk away from him. "Now then," he commanded, as he bumped Pablo's head against the adobe wall, "you behave yourself and help me find Don Miguel and bring him in."

Pablo's fury suddenly left him; again he was the servant, respectful, deferential to his master's guest. "Forgive me, senor," he muttered, "I have been crazy in the head."

"Not so crazy that you didn't do a good job on that Jap murderer. Come now, old chap. Buck up! We can't go after him in my automobile. Have you some sort of wagon?"

"Si, senor."

"Then come inside a moment. We both need a drink. We're shaking like a pair of dotards."

He picked up Pablo's dirk and give it back to the old man. Pablo acknowledged this courtesy with a bow and followed to Parker's room, where the latter poured two glasses of whisky. Silently they drank.

"Gracias, senor. I go hitch up one team," Pablo promised, and disappeared at once.

THE LITTLE THEATRE CLUB

The Little Theatre Club, under the direction of Mrs. W. McKee Bingham, celebrated Shakespeare's natal day and its own second Shakespearean anniversary in a fitting manner in the Conservatory of Music Hall last evening, by giving in pleasing and artistic fashion the belmont scenes from "The Merchant of Venice" and the balcony scene from "Romeo and Juliet," before an audience of nearly two hundred people. Mrs. Bingham and the different members of the cast, all ladies, have evidently spent many long hours in preparation for last night's production, and the result was eminently satisfying. Considering the limitations in staging, lighting and space, their ambitious project was carried out in a manner that left little to be desirsed.

A thorough appreciation of the possibilities of the part was manifested in every instance. Mrs. W. McKee Bingham made a lovely Portia, giving the part an intelligent interpretation that pleased her audiences immensely. Mrs. Bingham, while enacting Portia in a thoroughly feminine manner, gave her the intellectual type of mind that the most noteworthy of Shakespearean commentaries agree was the aim of the great dramatist in portraying this, one of the most attractive of his many lovely women. Although it was impossible to give the trial scene, with Portia thwarting the Jew in his demand for "a pound of flesh," the scenes as portrayed last night fitted in to a very likeable whole, the story unfolding itself in the flight of Jessica with Lorenzo, and the "ducats," in the casket scene at Belmont, where Portia's suitors choose in turn the golden, the silvered and the leaded caskets, and in the finale, where Portia and Nerissa, her maid, confront their lovers in the garden and demand the rings which the bewildered men have given to the defendants of Antonio.

Miss Mathilde Masson made a charming and loveable Jessica, Miss Geraldine Glover was very good in the role of Nerissa, who carries on a little romance of her own with the handsome Gratiano, played in fine style and voice by Miss Dorothy Garden; Mrs. Edward Wood made a very effective Prince of Atragon, with an imperious manner and haughty air, and Miss Trucie Pearson was a glittering figure in the golden coat, loose trousers and turban of the swarthy Prince of Morocco, the impressive foreigners from the land of the burnished sun.

The wounded pride of the two suitors over their unfortunate choice of silver and golden caskets was very well portrayed.

One of the most effectively-drawn stage portraits was that of the clown, Launcelot Gobbo, enacted in splendid fashion by Mrs. J. E. Dickenson, whose whimsical capers and appropriate manner brought her applause at every appearance. Miss S. A. Tomkins made a very good 'Old Gobbo," father to Launcelot, while the part of Antonio was given a pleasing interpretation by Mrs. G. L. Macdougall.

In the role of the hero, Bassanio, Miss May Perry was exceptionally good. In dashing, debonnair style, her tall slimness made a gallant boyish figure her deep quality of voice carrying out the illusion of graceful youth. Lorenzo, the lover of Jessica, was enacted in splendid style by Miss Edna Borbridge, Miss Ethel Kennedy was pleasing a Salanio and Miss Elizabeth Drope doubled in satisfactory fashion as Stepheno and Leonardo, servants to Portia and Bassanio.

One of the most effective of the minor characters was Miss Katherine E. Wallis as Portia's majordomo, Balthazar. Miss Wallis, sincere and impressive rendering of a role which called forth only a few words being heartily applauded.

The Misses Burness Pidgeon and Mildred Sisson were dignified silent yellow-clad attendants of the Prince of Morocco, while two cunning little pages in white suits, Dorothey and Barbara Foster, accompanied the Prince of Arragon.

In the scene from the Venetian Ghetto, troubadours who supplied music were Miss Edwina Palmer, (violin) 'Kit' Picard (vocal) and Earl Spellman (guitar). The Egyptian dances of the Misses Martha Kirn and Teddy Connor, in appropriate costumes in the masque scene were particularly pleasing.

A noticeable element in the entire production, which showed portions of four acts, was the artistic use of details. With a pretty back drop and a couple of wood wings loaned by the Grand Opera House management, a few 'props,' the heralding of triumphs for the stately advance of the princely suitors, two tall, lighted candles and the dignified presence of the sombrely-clad Balthazar, a distinct impression was created, which was enhanced immensely by the costumes of the players. These, designed and executed by the executive of the Women's Art Association, carried out in every phase the dress of Shakespearean times.

The colorful dresses of men and women, the tight-hodiced lovely gowns of Portia and Nerissa, the velvet capes and neck ruffs, the flat-feathered caps, the pied doublets and long hose of the men, the smocks and pointed shoes of the clown and his father, all added their realistic touch to a very artistic and pleasing production. The costumes of the two princes were especially luxurious, but silks, satins and velvets in varying tints contrived to give a general rich and noble effect.

The balcony scene from "Romeo and Juliet" with the darkened lights of the stage concealing the young lover from the lovely maiden in brilliantly lighted, rose-embowered balcony, was a charming scene that brought instant appreciation and hearty applause from its audience. Miss May Perry's flexible voice and unaffected rendition of the role of the ardent Romeo, and Miss Mathilde Masson as the beautiful, timid Juliet, responding finally to the passion of her lover, produced an appealing, dainty scene of youth and romance, done with exceptional dramatic skill. Mrs. Bingham spoke as the nurse, off stage.

Between acts, the Conservatory orchestra, conducted by Mr. R. Gliddon, gave a programme of delightful music, playing as an appropriate overture Nevin's "A Day in Venice." Miss Olga Fowler acted as accompanist.

Mrs. Bingham, to whose painstaking tuition and unfailing enthusiasm much of the credit of last night's successful presentation was due, received two beautiful bouquets of roses at the conclusion of the production of the scenes from the "Merchant of Venice."

"FISH CAN SMELL" IS CLAIM MADE BY WRITER

Spring fishermen, here's a tip: Fish have a well-developed sense of smell, says a writer in Aquatic Life. Maybe they're smelling when they nose the bait.

Settlers in central Ontario say they have to stand behind a stump to bait their hooks when they sprinkle a few drops of oil of rhodium on a can of worms. Ojibway Indians, by the way, claim the best trout bait is a live field mouse, hooked under the spine and allowed to swim freely.

"Safety Last" Shows the Powers of the Motion Picture.

(By JAMES W. DEAN)

NEW YORK, April 14.—Harold Lloyd's "Safety Last" is a complete exposition of the powers of the motion picture. No other medium could possibly work such direct effect upon the spectator.

Apparently Lloyd scales a 12-story building, surmounting obstacles that a human could hardly overcome.

Clutching at crevices in the wall he is beset by several pigeons intent upon eating pop corn that has fallen upon his hat and shoulders. He clings there, high above the ground, with one hand, while he wards off the attacks of the birds.

Up he climbs, meeting new hazard at each floor. He clutches at the hands of a clock. The face of the clock slips from its fastenings.

He is lassoed by one foot with a rope from a flag pole and swung like a pendulum at a dizzy height.

These and many other episodes furnish a swift succession of thrills which lasts for more than three reels. The excitement is almost more than one can bear, even one who is in the resources of film illusion.

I do not profess to know just how Lloyd accomplished all that was apparently done. I am sure all who see the film will believe that Lloyd actually did everything he appears to have done.

* * *

"Safety Last" is much more than a mere thrill picture. In the episodes in which Lloyd appears as a store clerk trying to make good for his sweetheart he shows deep penetration into human psychology.

His job isn't much, but like all love-lorn youths he tries to make his sweetheart believe that he is very important. He spends all his money on presents to send back to her. She comes to see him at the store.

He must make good his bluff. He poses as manager of the store. He works his superiors to his own ends, making it appear to his girl that he dictates to them. It is in these episodes that Lloyd does the best acting he has yet shown on the screen.

* * *

Thrill movies generally are of more interest to men than to women. They present physical courage that all men think they have, but haven't. Every man has his irrational moments when he believes he would like to risk his neck at some foolhardy experiment just to call attention to his physical courage.

Lloyd has balanced this masculine appeal with a very deft satire of women in "Safety Last." He shows them in a bargain-counter rush, in which ladies forget they are ladies. He has succeeded in accomplishing that rare situation in which women laugh at women. In no other comedy that comes to mind at the moment has satire been so sharply drawn.

* * *

The reason for Lloyd's widespread popularity lies in something beyond his personality and his acting ability. He is a master of his craft. He is one of the few men engaged in making pictures who have a full grasp of the potentialities of the moving silhouette as a medium of expression. The stories of his films are unlike any stories that have ever been written. The action of his pictures is unlike the action of anything ever done outside the medium of the screen.

The future of the screen depends on such men as Lloyd. Picture producers must come to a definite understanding of the instruments with which they are working if the art of the cinema is to advance. Chaplin, Lloyd and only a very few others have that understanding at this time.

SOME CHOOSE DEATH TO SPENDING LIFE IN JAIL

Which would you prefer—death or life imprisonment? Death, is the usual answer. But no one can be certain what his decision would be, until face to face with the real thing instead of an imaginary situation.

In Canton, Ohio, a judge gave a Spaniard, confessed murderer, his choice between the electric chair or life in prison. He chose death. His lawyers persuaded him to change his mind, so he goes to the penitentiary, with the chance of getting out before death.

Is life as great a burden and disappointment as most of us pretend? Not according to the way we cling to it.

THREE NATIONS TO IGNORE CONFERENCE

Make Agreement on Limitation of Armaments Unlikely.

SANTIAGO, Chile, April 14 (United Press).—A feeling of doubt exists in many quarters here as to whether any real effective accomplishments will be made by the Fifth Pan-American Conference to meet last Sunday.

This feeling has arisen in connection with the announced decision of the Governments of Peru, Bolivia and Mexico not to participate in the conference.

Even though the most important questions on the conference agenda will undoubtedly be freely discussed by the delegates attending, action on these matters will be severely curtailed by the absence of the three important countries from the meetings.

While the subject of limitation of armament—which is undoubtedly the matter of greatest import to be taken up at the conference—superficially is of greatest interest to the "A B C" countries (Argentina, Brazil and Chile), it is a subject that is of vital concern to every South American republic.

Selling Old Arms to S. A.

More than one European government in the years since the end of the World War, have considered South America as a practical market for their obsolete war materials, and have to a great extent exploited this field, succeeding in cashing-in on what would be junk in the eyes of European army staffs.

"Salesmen" in the persons of military missions have been sent abroad to market the goods; and these "demonstrators" are successfully at work in various South American countries.

Not only is this system an expensive one for South America with its depleted finances, but its spread constitutes a threat against universal peace. Both the Peruvian and Brazilian military establishments are under the instruction of French military missions, headed by a general in each case, and Colonel Kundt—late of he German Army and a German citizen—holds the post of War Minister in Bolivia.

Argentina for Limitation

The armament limitations question was brought up many months ago by Chile and at the latter's instance found a place on the Conference agenda. Argentina strongly supports the effort that will be made to cut down armed establishments on this continent, and most of the other countries that are attending the conference have expressed a keen interest in getting something of a practical nature done. However, even though a convention governing armament cuts may be adopted and signed, it is hardly likely that an effective pact can be made in the absence of nations like Peru and Bolivia. The South American political lineup makes imperative their adhesian to any agreement governing a limitation of armed force by the nations of the continent.

The non-participation of Bolivia again is felt in the matter of control of traffic in narcotics, a subject which occupies a prominent place on the programme, since Bolivia is the largest single producer of the Coco leaf, from which cocaine is manufactured.

Boundary Disputes

Pending boundary disputes may also be mentioned, during the progress of the conference, though one of the most important—that existing between Ecuador and Peru, must of necessity be left untouched due to the absence of the latter country.

The decision of Mexico to remain aloof has already been deeply felt here. A great feeling of friendship for Mexico exists in Chile, and while the Chilean press has refrained from discussing the merits of the Mexican attitude in not accepting the Conference invitation, her absence is nevertheless deplored.

RADIO CUTS DOWN ON PHONOGRAPH RECORDS

Radio concerts, broadcast free, are cutting down the sale of sheet music and phonograph records. This reduces the revenue formerly enjoyed by music composers. So they organize, threaten to sue broadcasting stations that use their copyrighted music without paying for it.

J. C. Rosenthal, representing the composers, says: "It is getting to the point where the top of the piano is never lifted and the phonograph is never used. I personally know of two music lovers who have installed their radio receiving sets on top of their phonographs. They have not opened the phonographs since and have not bought a record."

Someone should nominate John Morin of Jeffersonville, Ind., for something. At 86 John has made an average of $50 a month and saved $30,000.

LORD CECIL STANDS STEADFAST IN HIS FAITH IN ZIONISM

Says Britain Firm For Palestine As Jewish National Homeland.

Reply to Beaverbrook.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, April 14.—Lord Robert Cecil, who recently arrived here from London, has given a statement to the Jewish press, which will appear in The New Palestine organ of the Zionist organization of America in its issue tomorrow. The statement says:

"The British Government and the responsible, right-thinking people of England are for the establishment of the Jewish national homeland in Palestine. Great Britain will never withdraw from her promises."

Lord Cecil is also quoted as saying: "I believe that when the history of the war comes to be impartially written the two greatest results will be the establishment of the national Jewish home and the creation of the League of Nations. The two are not really disconnected. They represent the two great ideals for which we fought and by which we conquered—the ideals of nationalism and internationalism."

"My attitude toward the Jewish question is well known," Lord Cecil continued. "All know that I am an adherent of the Balfour declaration, and I am little concerned with what the enemies of Zionism and the Jews have to say. It were better for the Jews to listen to their friends, to think more of the great historic opportunity which is theirs, rather than to listen to the Beaverbrooks and others."

Zionism Not Dying

Lord Cecil's reference to the "Beaverbrooks" was in connection with a recent cabled report from London as to an article appearing in the Daily Express, owned by Lord Beaverbrook, to the effect that Zionism was dying.

"It is most absurd to say that Zionism is dying," Lord Cecil declared. "Zionism is synonymous with Judaism, and the Jewish people have had sufficient experience to know that the opposition of its enemies only serves to strengthen it."

When asked what influence the attacks on Zionism had on British public opinion, his answer was:

"No influence whatever. Great Britain does not listen to the enemies of the Jewish people and of Zionism. Great Britain is a friend of the Jew and a friend needs no explanation. The Jews, like all other people, must expect opposition. Has not Great Britain enemies? Has not America enemies? Why worry? The Jews who have lived for 2,000 years in strange lands, must expect that someone will attack them. But they should be proud of the fact that they have good friends who will always be with them."

When asked as to the attitude of the present British Government toward the establishment of the Jewish national homeland, Lord Cecil said: "I have a profound and passionate conviction for the ideals of the Jewish people. I am a good Briton and know that England will never go back on them.

"Governments may change, some Lords may attack the Jews and Zionism, but Great Britain will always remain steadfast in its purpose to carry out the Balfour declaration."

"Driven" Movie With An Ineffectual Hero.

(By JAMES W. DEAN)

NEW YORK, April 14.—Charles Brabin presents an authentic picture of mountain life in "Driven," his new film, but he has nullified the drama of his story with a purposeless ending.

A mountain youth visions himself as another Lincoln. Somewhere 90 miles beyond the hills that hold him in their maw is a railroad. Once he can reach that road the world will be his to conquer.

In the end he goes, but through no effort or ambition of his own. His mother had betrayed his three brothers and father to the revenue officers and for that had received enough money to start the boy and his sweetheart on their way.

The atmosphere of this film story is much like that of "Tol'able David." But the stories are widely divergent. "Tol'able David" dealt with a boy's own triumph. The enthusiasm, the will to succeed, came from within him. It was unquenchable, inextinguishable. He deserved his triumph.

The world gives little credit to anyone who gets along in life through the sacrifices of others. And that was the way with the boy hero in "Driven." He would have stayed tied to his mother's apron strings if she hadn't cut him loose and shoved him out to the place he desired but was to weak to attain.

* * *

Up to the end of the picture Brabin had accomplished a fine piece of direction. He set down a family of inbred morons in a carpetless cabin in the mountains. A father and three sons made moonshine and led an unbridled existence while the mother slaved for them and the fourth son, a dreamer and idler.

The oldest and most brutal of the boys desired an orphan girl who lived with the family. She and the youngest son were in love. The development of their romance is simply and directly set forth. The threat of the older brother is ever present. The impending tragedy accumulates like a rolling snowball. Then, blooie! The mother gets the revenue officers, the three older sons are killed, the boy and his sweetheart leave and the mountain woman and her husband start life anew "as partners," as the subtitle puts it.

* * *

No recent picture has contained such excellent delineation of character as "Driven." Emily Fitzroy is as true to type as the mountain woman as she would have been had the director gone 90 miles from a railroad to find her. Her performance is one of the outstanding ones of the screen for all time George Bancroft, Burr McIntosh and Elmor Fair were all excellent. Charles Mack, as the young weakling, was inclined to overdraw his character.

* * *

It may be that I am unfair in criticizing Brabin for having an ineffectual hero. Undoubtedly Brabin sought to portray real life. And many of our accepted heroes would prove ineffectual if the truth about them were known.

CHINESE BOY EMPEROR LIKES OCCIDENTAL WAYS

The 16-year-old Manchu boy, who is emperor of China in name only, has renamed himself Henry and his wife Elizabeth. Possibly he got tired of signing his official title—Ta Ching Kuo Ta Huang Ti. Expressing his admiration of Caucasian ways, he had his queue (pigtail hair) cut off a year ago.

He retains his title as emperor, and the Chinese republic gives him a large allowance for the upkeep of his family and court. But he has been stripped of real power and is isolated in a condition that amounts to imprisonment.

Emperor Henry of China may be powerless but he is one of the world's most interesting characters—a living monument to a great oriental nation's casting aside the monarchial system that ruled it for unknown centuries. The whole world moves toward real democracy.

Having rented their farm in East Emily a few weeks ago they moved to their new home which they built in Omemee.

The party was planned to allow their friends and neighbors to spend a pleasant evening with them, also to present to them a token of appreciation of their kindly and neighborly lives, lived in this section.

The early part of the evening was spent in games, social conversation and music.

Following this the address was read by the Rev. R. F. Stillman and the presentation made by Mr. Albert Finley.

The Address.

East Emily, April 11, 1923

To Mrs. E. A. Doube, Mr. John Doube and Miss Annie Doube:

Dear Friends,—

It was with a keen sense of personal loss that we learned of your purpose to remove from our midst, and could not let this occasion pass withut expressing to you the high esteem in which you are held by the community at large.

Your noble ideals and Christian integrity have contributed in no small degree to create and maintain an exalted standard of social rightcousness.

As a slight token of our esteem we ask you to accept this purse, and trust it may long remind you of the happy assocations we have spent together.

We extend to you our best wishes that God may richly bless you in your new home and make you the blessing to others, that you have been to us.

You'll Get Rid of Blackheads Sure

There is one simple, safe, and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads, that is to dissolve them. To do this, get two ounces of peroxine powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear. Blackheads are a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions that form in the pores of the skin. The peroxine powder and the water dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition.

Use Only Our Pasteurized Milk

Why? Because the city of Toronto, by compelling all milk to be pasteurized, has in ten years reduced the infant mortality death rate from the highest to the lowest on the continent.

The cities of London, Brantford and Guelph have passed a bylaw compelling all milk sold in their cities to be pasteurized. Why? Because 75 per cent. of the herds tested have been shown to be tubercular.

Consequently milk from tubercular cows should be pasteurized to be safe.

What about your children? We can protect them. Are you helping?

FRENCH MILITARISM BLAMED FOR CRISIS

Statesman Who Exposed the Congo Scandal Writes His Opinion on the European Situation.

By E. D. MOREL, M.P.

(Printed by arrangement with "Foreign Affairs," London)

LONDON, April 14 (United Press) —Let us face this problem of "Security for France" with clear heads. Let us begin by expressing the utmost sympathy with the victims of the devastation wrought in the invaded French counties during the war. Let us fully allow for the shuddering horror with which the people of the invaded provinces must envisage the possibility of another such manifestation.

Having expressed that sympathy having made that acknowledgment let us also assert with all the earnestness of which we are capable that we approach this question with one desire and with one only to seek a solution which shall be fair both to the people of France and to their neighbors and calculated to preserve the world's peace.

When the problem of obtaining "security for France" is discussed. the assumption is always made by those who, since 1914, have forgotten all the history they ever knew, that France has, at successive periods in her history, been the repeated and systematic victim of German aggression.

This amazing delusion is fostered by statements like those of Lord Grey, who reminds at intervals that France has been invaded by Germany three times in a century; a statement strictly true in fact, yet conveying an entirely erroneous impression.

A Blood Feud.

The facts are, of course, that this blood feud (between France and Germany) has been active operation for over 250 years, and that during most of that period Germany has been overrun, dismembered, and devastated by French armies to such an extent that the marvel is Germany survived at all.

In the seventeenth century, profiting by the great struggle between Protestants and Catholics in Germany, French imperialism sought to aggrandize itself territorily at Germany's expense, and to fix itself permanently upon the Rhine.

The seizure of the Lorraine in 1670; the seizure of Strasburg in 1681, the seizure of the Palatinate. which included the wholesale destruction of orchards, vines, and crops, the sacking of cities and the infliction of incalculable miseries upon the population, a process which lasted from 1687 to 1697—these were so many milestones in the orgy of destruction, which turned the greater part of Germany into a desert, by the armies of Louis XIV.

The military operations of Louis left France mistress of the Rhine and the German lands grovelling at the feet of the conqueror.

The ascendancy of France over German life lasted for the next half century, when the power of the French Bourbon Kings began to decline.

Fifty years later (1792) the scene changed, and we find a combined Prussian and Austrian army this time invading France to save the French monarchy from destruction. They were speedily driven back.

Four years later French armies again crossed the Rhine and poured over German soil. For nine years the German population underwent a repetition of the horrors inflicted upon it by Louis XIV. In 1805 Napoleon created his "Confederation of the Rhine" and all into obedience to his sway.

In 1806 the French armies entered Berlin in triumph, the museums and art galleries were ransacked and the contents carried off to Paris. Prussia was torn in pieces. Four years later Napoleon annexed the northern coast of Germany. But the tide turned, and before another five years were up the French Imperial armies were driven over their borders, pursued on to French soil, and finally defeated at the hands of the Prussian, Austrian, Russian, and British troops.

Another half century—and once again the claim of the French militarism to determine the destinies of Germany was advanced. But much had hapeged in the interval. France claimed the right to prevent unification of Germany. Picking a quarel with the latter, the Emperor of the French finally declared war. The French armies again invaded Germany, only to be defeated, driven back and pursued to the walls of Paris.

The Great War.

Forty more years of peace followed the defeat of French Imperialism until the Great War.

The truth of the matter is that French imperialism has been the blight of the European Continent for the past three centuries and the curse of the people of France. It has been the persistent disturber of the peace; a continuously aggressive force, against which Europe has had to coalesce again and again. It has decimated the people of France with its wars, reducing the population in appalling numbers.

Such then, is the historical setting in which the present day demands for "security for France" is seen to lie. The conclusion surely is that Germany needs protection quite as much as does France!

SPURNS SOCIETY FAVOR OF HORSES

Woman Finds Companionship of Horses More Interesting Than That of Most People.

LEXINGTON, April 13.—"The companionship of horses is a lot more interesting than that of most people. You can depend on them —and show me the man who can say with truth that his vices are fewer than those of a horse."

That comes from Miss Elizabeth Daingerfield daughter of southern aristocracy who has entered into the south's most exclusive social circles but woh elects to spend most of her time with horses.

Miss Daingerfield is a superhandler of thoroughred racing stock. She manages her own farm, Haylands, near here and besides is active manager of Far Away Farm, owned by Samuel Riddle of Maryland and Walter Jeffords of Philadelphia and Lexington.

Charges Worth Million.

To Miss Daingerfield's care is entrusted a herd of world-famed race horses, valued at more than $1,125,000.!

Among them is the celebrated Marvich, winner of last year's Kentucky derby, whose owner, Benjamin Block, wouldn't take $200,000 for him, the unbeatable Man o' War, said to be worth $800,000, and Golden Broom, whose value is not even estimated.

Miss Daingerfield is the only woman in America who presonally supervises the care of valuable horses with the one exception of Mrs. Edward Kane, active manager here for August Belmont, New York millionaire banker.

Besides her work in caring for equine celebrities, Miss Daingerfield is an extensive dealer in thoroughbred horses and her judgment is accepted unhesitatingly by experts in horse flesh.

Sells Horses, Too.

Last year her private sales of racing-horse stock amounted to $50,000 and the year before her sales at the auction ring at Saratoga, N. Y., reached $37,000.

"It is with horses as Kipling says of women—you never can tell till you've tried them and then you can't be sure," Miss Daingerfield says.

"People who think that horses degenerating with the exception of a few bred for racing purposes are wrong. The horse will not disappear—there'll always be a place for him.

"Demand for thoroughbred horses has increased since the war."

DIFFICULTIES OF FARMERS STRESSED

Canadian Agriculturists Find it No Easy Task to Make Ends Meet.

OTTAWA, April 14 (Canadian Press). — Difficulties experienced by Canadian farmers in making ends meet were again stressed in the House of Commons last evening by Progressive members when an item of $320,000 for commercial intelligence service of the Department of Trade and Commerce was discussed.

The debate began with an optimistic statement by the Hon. J. A. Robb, Minister of Trade and Commerce, whose optimism was attacked by the followers of Mr. Forke.

Mr Robb said that while farming conditions at present were not of the brightest there were other countries which suffered more.

The Right Hon. Arthur Meighan said that while the taxation in Canada had been a factor in causing hard times there were not all due to Canada's fiscal policy.

Charges of patronage in the Post Office Department were repeated when the Hon. George P. Graham, Acting Minister, asked approval of post office salaries and contingencies, amounting to more than $9,000,000.

Sir Henry Drayton led the attack and charged that "temporary postmasters had been illegally continued in their duties."

Seven Years and Lash For Robbery.

OTTAWA, April 14. — (Canadian Press).—Ernest Gauthier, Hull taxi driver, was found guilty yesterday at the Hull Criminal Assizes, of highway robbery, and sentenced by Judge Weir to seven years in Portsmouth Penitentiary, Kingston, to which was added seven strokes of the lash to be administered ten days after his admission to Portsmouth.

Gauthier was found guilty of having robbed Kos Pitz, a Polander, of $74 on July 4, 1921, when he found him lying helpless on the Aylmer Road. The assizes concluded with the Gauthier case.

PRIVATE CONTROL OF BANKS WRONG

Interests of the Banks Run Counter to Public Interest—Increase Debts of People.

OTTAWA, April 14.—(Canadian Press.)— That "private control of the banks is wrong," was the statement made to the banking and commerce committee of the House yesterday afternoon by Neil East, of Alberta, who with George Bevington of Edmonton, is advocating provincial banks under federal charters as a solution, of Canada's credit problem.

"The interest of the banks runs counter to the public interest," declared Mr. East. "The people are trying to get out of debt; it is to the interest of the banks to increase debts."

The discussion in which these statements were made started by Mr. East's saying that in the latter part of 1920 there was a deflation of $153,000,000 in bank loans "during the period of crop movement."

He was asked whether he meant that the deflation was made at the expense of the farmers, but replied that he did not say that, though he did know that "there was a good deal of pressure put on the farmers."

What was the reason for the deflation, asked J. J. Hughes of Prince Edward Island.

"During the inflation process," was the reply, "bonds were bought with 47 cent money. The process of deflation would force these bonds out of the hands of the farmers to assist them in meeting their liabilities, and it would have the effect that it would require two bushels of wheat to pay interest, whereas one bushel would have paid it before."

Hon. H. H. Stevens, asked if the witness advocated continued inflation.

"No," replied Mr. East, "we advocate that the people should have enough money to do business on a cash basis."

"You object to the fact that deflation took place at the behest of the bankers," suggested William Irvine of East Calgary.

"Yes," said Mr. East, "they did not take the interests of the people into account. The private control of the banks is wrong, in my view."

Passing on, Mr. East recalled that the Dominion government had made money advances to the Canadian Northern. "To whom would it have done injustice," he asked, "if the whole railway had been bought first with Dominion notes?"

"Suppose," remarked Hon. A. K. MacLean, "that $600,000,000 of Dominion notes were issued for this purpose, would it not do everyone an injustice through the fall in value of the notes?"

"If that is so," was the reply, "then the inflation before the war did."

"At what point do you propose to stop the issue of notes?" asked Hon. H. H. Stevens.

"We do not propose to issue notes without security," answered Mr. East.

"Apparently," remarked Donald F. Kellner, Edmonton, East, "some people seem to think that the bankers are the only people who would know when to stop."

A discussion followed as to whether Canada was on a gold basis, the chairman stating that technically it was not. In the course of the discussion, L. J. Ladner, Vancouver, South, siad that he had it on high authority that it was now possible to get gold for Bank of England notes.

Mr. East read a statement that the province of Alberta owed $715,000,000 including provincial and municipal debts, morigages, fire and life insurance, debts, industrial investments and Alberta's share of the Dominion debt. The annual interest charges, he said, were $42,000,000.

E. B. Rychman, Toronto, voiced a protest against these facts going on the record. "I have reason to know," he said, "that Alberta is shortly coming into the market for a loan."

"Be sure," said one of the Alberta members present, "that those who loan money will know all these things."

Mr. East was asked if he would propose to cancel the federal debt. He replied in the negative. To do so would cause hardship, he said, but by reversing the process that we had come through the debt could be got rid of gradually.

L. J. Ladner has given notice of an amendment to the Bank Act which provides that provisional directors must be bona fide owners of stock in their own names. This is now required of permanent bank directors but not of provisional directors during the process of organization.

MUCH QUALITY IN THE 21 BOUTS IN TORONTO.

Both the Minicolas of Peterborough Were Defeated at Boxing.

TORONTO, April 14. Canadian Press. — Twenty one bouts, including twelve semi-finals, made up last night's programme at the Ontario Provincial Amateur Boxing Championships at the Arena, and there was as much quality as there was quantity, with a few surprises slipped in to keep the fans on edge throughout. Of eight championship classes, three heavier classes were won without new champions entering the ring, Harry Hennening encountering no opposition in the 160 pound grade, while Charles McDoullon was elected to position of title holder in two heavy weight divisions by acclamation.

In the 126 pound Novice, James Anderson of Toronto, defeated T. Minicola, Peterboro.

In the 118 pound class, J. Johnston, of Toronto, knocked out L. Minicola in the first round.

B'Well Makes People Feel Well

B'Well is a medicine that assists nature, made from roots, barks, herbs, leaves, etc. The concentrated extracts of these herbs tone up the stomach, regulates the liver, act on the kidneys, and it contains a harmless worm destroyer that is sure death to worms, and can be used with perfect safety.

B'Well is restoring thousands of people to health. I am not going to enumerate the different disease and complaints that people have been relieved of from the use of B'Well, as it would take too much space. I can simply say that restlessness and disease cannot remain if you take this medicine for a time, and it will surely make you fell fine.

It does not contain poison in any form, or narcotics that only relieve pain, but the different roots and herbs that regulate the system. It stimulates the stomach, liver and kidneys into healthy action, helps digestion and keeps the bowels regular, expels all gases from the system and takes away the bad feeling around the heart, and fearful feeling from the head, depressed spirits and melancholy simply vanish and a cheerful spirit takes their place. B'Well is a blessing to those that feel life is a burden to them, that are down-hearted and unhappy from disease. B'Well carries the poison out of the system through the natural channels of health, and as the poison is carried out of the system, nature restores herself, and a cheerful spirit follows, as there is nothing like good health to make a person cheerful and happy. People treated for Epileptic Fits have been restored by its use. Don't ask me if it cures this, that and the other disease. It is different from most medicines advertised as curealls, and I am not advertising this remedy as such, but simply advertising it as a medicine that has and will regulate the system, carry the poison out of the blood, and common sense must surely tell you the result. Men and women who have been nervous wrecks, with hollow cheeks and sunken brow, have become plump, healthy and cheerful from its use and I can only say what it has done for others it will surely do for you. Young men and women whose faces were covered with pimples and a sickening sight to look at are now free from them from its use. Men, women and children who had eating ulcers and running sores have been healed, and what it has done for them it is likely to do for you.

Prof. Mulveney's World Famous Tapeworm Remedy is saving thousands of valuable lives, and B'Well is doing just as much for those requiring this kind of medicine.

B'Well is put up in powder form for conveniences to send to foreign places by mail, which does away with all breakages. The package of powder makes twice as much medicine for the same amount of money. Full directions for making. Price, $1.25; six packages, $6.00.

True Stories From Real Life

His Life Saved

About three months ago I was visiting my father, Prof. R. L. Mulveney at 211 Ossington Ave., Toronto. While in his office one evening a frail little woman came in and asked to use the telephone. She said her husband was in the Consumptive Hospital at Weston, dying. She was crying and in a pitiable condition. She asked me to 'phone to the hospital and get a permit to take him home. The doctor had told her they could do no more for him. And he wanted to come home to die. She said she could not refuse him his last wish, as he had always been kind to her and their little daughter. I spent about an hour trying to make connections but the line was always busy. She then asked me to 'phone the home of the doctor. He was not home. She was so anxious to get the permit to bring him home. I advised her to go to the hospital, which she did, and received the permission and brought her husband home. They lived in this vicinity. When we head of his arrival from their little girl my father went to see him, and, when he came back, he said I am going to give that poor man a bottle of B'Well and one of Rheumaticide. You know it saved a man's life who lived in Islington, Ont., and another man's life on Argyle street in this city. He went back and gave him the medicine as a present, telling him it remained with him to fight the dread disease hard and give it a fair trial, and he believed he would get well again. The next evening the little girl came running in the office and asked me if I would telephone for them again. The nurse had called and said father was in a dying condition, and asked me to 'phone to the parish house to the priest. I could not find the number, so I called Information and explained what I wanted, and she told me to the 'phone had been disconnected during alterations. So I told the little girl she had better go back and tell her mother and then go over to the parish house herself. A few days later she came in and told me father was feeling a lot better and thought the medicine had begun to help him already. I told her I was glad to hear that, and hoped he would get well. I am home visiting my parents again and was more than suprised to hear that this man is alive and well again at work every day. H got better and gained 35 lbs. It is certainly marvelous what B'Well and Rheumaticide have done for him. He was pronounced by the medical profession to have consumption and compelled to go to the Consumptive Hospital where the windows were open constantly and he got so sick and weak he was in a dying condition in mind and body. It was certainly a great blessing for him to get home to a kind and loving wife and child who fairly worshipped him and was in sore distress on being separated under such conditions. I fell it would be doing wrong not to tell the world of this wonderful relief. I am sure this little woman deserves great credit for her attention in this case. She says: "B'Well and Rheumaticide saved my husband's life." It has, therefore, brought happiness to their home.

Her Life Saved

About three years ago today a lady resident of this city came to this office, 211 Ossington Ave., Toronto, and said she had been reading one of our advertisements about B'Well.

She purchase a bottal of same for her sister who resided at Niagara Falls, Ont., and had been treated by doctors for over a year and had been in bed all this time, being treated for what they claimed was consumption.

Her sister received the medicine and wrote to tell her of the wonderful results and sent for six more bottles of B'Well. A few months later the lady came to the office and said the B'Well had done her sister so much good she was able to be up and around. She said it was certainly a wonderful medicine, as the doctors who treated her had said she could never get better. She was engaged to be married, but they gave her no hope of recovery.

Some time later they both called at the office. The Toronto lady said: "This is my sister from Niagara Falls who was treated for consumption. Don't she look well? We have come for some more B'Well," which they purchased.

Not long ago the city lady came to purchase some B'Well for herself, and said her sister was well and that B'Well certainly had worked wonders for her, as she was married now and had a fine healthy baby.

This is just an instance in Prof. Mulveney's business to show. "That every day in every way, B'Well, it has come to stay."

WOMEN FIGHTING REDS, HOLY WAR

They With Workmen Are Chief Obstacles to War on Religion in Russia.

By MILTON BRONNER.

LONDON, April 14.—Workmen and women of Russia are the chief obstacles hindering the war on all organized religion declared by the Soviets.

The war against the "denizens of heaven"—as the Reds themselves call it—goes on despite world protests.

Most Reverend Dr. Tikhon, former Patriarch of All Russia and Metropolitan of Moscow, is the next to go on trial for his life. It will come as a sequel to the trials of Roman Catholic prelates and priests, in which Monsignor Budkewicz, vicar general of Petrograd, was executed, and Archbishop Zepliak, Metropolitan of Petrograd, was first condemned to death and the sentence was later commuted to 10 years imprisonment.

The massed pressure of the entire civilized world against what witnesses of the trials call a travesty of justice has not swayed the Soviets in their anti-religion war.

What Soviet Says.

This is what "Pravda," official Soviet paper, says:

"We must carry on our agitation against religion just as systematically as we do in political questions, but with even more determination.

"Although we have declared war on the denizens of heaven, it is by no means easy to sweep them from the household of the workmen. The women especially are intractable.

"With an iron sweeper, the workmen must clear their homes of the last vestige of all that is 'holy.'"

In conformity with his policy, the all-powerful Cheka—the Soviet secret service—is acting against all religious sects. Buildings of the Orthodox Russian Church have been secularized. The Jewish synagogue of Minsk has been turned into a Soviet lecture hall. Many Roman Catholic churches have been seized.

Charges against the prelates already tried and executed or sentenced to prison are the same as those pending against Dr. Tikhon—"persistent and organized opposition to the decrees of the Soviet for the separation of church and state, and opposition to the sequestration of church treasures." This means that they persisted in holding services and prevented the government from seizing gold and silver vessels belonging to the churches.

Dr. Tikhon met refusal when he offered to sell all church treasures for the starving people, stipulating that the clergy should have the authority to select the articles not used in the rites of the church, and that they alone should distribute to the needy.

Public Prosecutor Krylenko, in his speech to the Supreme Revolutionary Tribunal, at the trial of the Catholic prelates, sneered that "they have lost the game and must pay up."

Bebrichtcheff Pushkin, on behalf of the prisoners, retorted:

"If you want to employ these tactics, would it not be more simple and honest to organize a wholesale slaughter under government auspices?"

BARS

Can't Hold Him.

NEW YORK, April 12.—Gerald Champan, notorious "million-dollar mail robber" who has startled the nation by his two spectacular escapes from custody in Georgia, is hiding near his old haunts in New York, say older members of the metropolitan detective force.

They do not believe the criminal, whose daring flight have put him in the position formerly occupied by Roy Gardner, Pacific coast bandit has fled to the mountains of North Carolina, as Georgia authorities at first believed.

Chapman was sentenced to the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga., after he had been convicted of being the leader of the $1,000,000 mail robbery here in 1921.

Early on the morning of March 27 Chapman and Frank Grey, convicted forger, escaped from the penitentiary. They cut the wires supplying electric lights for the prison yard and, under cover of the darkness, scaled the prison wall by means of a rope ladder, supplied by friends outside.

Menaces Citizen.

When a citizen refused to aid Chapman in his flight, Chapman forced him at the point of an automatic pistol to accompany him on a street car and pay his fare.

Chapman, however, was recaptured, after he had been shot three times. He was placed in a hospital at Atlanta, Ga., under heavy guard.

Doctors said his condition was so serious that an escape would be impossible.

But Chapman fooled them. He dressed in his guards clothes, knotted his bed sheet into a rope and, while his temperature was at 100 degrees, climbed to the ground and fled.

A nation-wide dragnet has failed to locate him.

WAR WEAKENS MORALITY

That's View of British Feminist Who Talks on Europe's 20,000,000 Doomed as Spinsters.

CICELY HAMILTON.

BY MILTON BRONNER

LONDON April 14. "Anybody can see the position of women has grown worse since the war. Men are bad enough off — women are worse. There are more of them. And they must fight prejudice, customs, laws discriminations. Things will get worse before they get better."

That comes from Cicely Hamilton, writer, speaker, actress—and one of the most prominent feminists in Europe.

Her experience as a lecturer before working girls' clubs during the war makes her an authority on Europe's problem of 20,000,000 women of the present generation who will be denied homes and children because there are no husbands for them.

"In England the after-the-war blow has hit women less hard despite the fact that we have two million more women than men" she

"We have been used to this. For decades our men have migrated all over the world.

Girls Taught To Work.

"Middle class families' parents recognized the great probability their girls might not marry. So they educated them to take care of themselves by useful work.

"What English girls long ago learned the girls of other European nations are now having to learn. But the result everywhere is the same—an overcrowding of the ranks of the work seekers.

"If the various trades unions and similar organizations are wise they will face the facts and join the feminists in their fight for equal pay for equal work.

"If they don't they will put a terrible weapon in the hands of big employers. Because once you get the trades unions definitely aligned against women drawing the same pay as men you are on the way to destroy men's labor unions. The employers will simply hire women who are cheaper more tractable and more easily cowed.

Morals Sink.

"Morals of the after-the-war woman have been definitely lowered, who were going to stay at home felt this began during the war. Women they owed everything to the men who were going into the trenches—and they gave.

"Unfortunately the war also created a huge class of women for whom there was only one word in the dictionary — pleasure. These, serving in government bureaus or munition factories, drew double and triple the salaries they could draw in normal times.

"Fur coats, expensive hats, chocolates, the theatre became in time necessities of their being. They could obtain these things with their own pay envelopes.

"Then came the armistice and discharge from their jobs. Girls were reckless. Restraints were resented and thrown off.

"You see the result in the crowds of fun-seekers who haunt the flashy restaurants, the night clubs, the cabarets, the jazz palaces in every big European city.

"But, after all, this is only a passing phrase."

LONG-HANDLED BRUSH.

A long-handled brush should be a part of every household equipment. It is excellent for cleaning off greasy dishes before the actual washing occurs.

A HUNDRED MEN ARE MIXED UP IN BLACKHAND PLOT

Conviction of Leader in Philadelphia Breaks Up Band Which Operated For Ten Years.

PHILADELPHIA, April 14.—(United Press).—One of the nation's largest blackhand gangs is now believed to have been broken up after a ten-year pursuit of suspects by secret service agents.

Paolo Fransca, playwright, actor and alleged leader of the blackhand gang and his alleged confederate, Antonio Fero, are now in the federal department of Moyamensing prison, awaiting the action of Federal Judge Thompson on appeal for a new trial.

Fransca was convicted on 40 counts and Fero on 20 counts in U. S. District Court after A. T. Hawksworth, a U. S. Postal inspector, brought the men to justice. The two prisoners under the law could be sentenced to serve no less than 200 years each and pay a fine of $200,000.

According to the evidence produced by the Government, the two men, with several others, have been involved in over 75 per cent. of the blackhand outrages in Philadelphia and vicinity during the last ten years.

Fransca since 1913 has had more than 100 confederates sending his letters to wealthy Italian bankers and merchants, manufacturers, capitalists and professional men, the Government alleged. He is charged with operating in all the larger cities of New Jersey and in Philadelphia, New York, Kansas City, St Louis, Chicago, Boston, Tampa, Pittsburgh, Harrisburgh and Cleveland.

Amounts ranging from $300 to $10,000 were demanded of the victims, it is charged. In the hands of postal authorities there are now more than 4,000 letters alleged to have been written by Fransca and his associates. It is estimated there are thousands of others which will never be exposed, because the recipients fear death.

"Tears of Blood."

"I will make you cry tears of blood" and "I am a cold-hearted scoundrel who will make you see blood and drink it if necessary" are some of the quotations alleged to have been written by the blackhanders to their victims.

The blackmailers began operations in 1913 and complaints were then made to postal authorities, according to Inspector Hawksworth. At that time Philadelphia was stirred by a series of bomb explosions in the Italian section. The writer of the blackmail letters continued to spread terror among Italian residents of many cities. Hundreds of successful business men from Italy were virtually frightened into leaving the country under threats of death to themselves and their families.

How much money the blackhand band gathered in its ten years of wide operation will probably never be known. The letters sent over the wide area usually went to persons of means and generally to those having children.

Made Terrible Threats.

The wording of the missives always threatened to kidnap the youngest child of the family, usually a girl. The most terrible threats imaginable were made, such as cutting the child to pieces and sending the body back through the parcel-post.

Postal inspectors continued their relentless search for the gang with only hand-writing to guide them.

One day a little Philadelphia girl carrying a small bottle with a prescription written on the lable in a peculiar hand went into a store where Inspector Hawksworth was telephoning. The inspector questioned the girl and found out where Fransca lived. This lead to the exposure of the "terror organization."

According to Inspector Hawksworth, Fransca was a strategist. He portrayed the part of the blackhand artist in plays he wrote and portrayed himself and often stopped in the middle of his sketches to tell his audience what an insidious and real thing a blackhander is.

Underlings Sentenced.

Many of the underlings of Fransca have served sentences from a few months to seven years, but they would never implicate their leader. Here are a few samples of the Philadelphia operations:

George Fanito received a threatening letter. He appeared in the office of the postal inspectors, told his story and then went home. A bullet missed him as he entered his house. Fanito died of a heart attack two hours later. A few days later the man's brother, who was also threatened, fell dead.

The store of Dominic Venuto was blown up because he refused to pay $5,000. His eight-year-old daughter never recovered from the shock.

The meat store of James Centieth was blown up and his house destroyed after he refused to pay $5,000 demanded. Mrs. Centieth went insane from shock.

A Marconi factory was burned to the ground at a loss of $125,000 after an increase of from $2,000 to $10,000 was demanded by the blackhanders.

Mrs. A. H. Lee, Beamsville, Ont. writes:—"I am delighted to let you know what I have to say regarding the good Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills did me.

A short time ago I suffered with heart and nerve trouble, and was so bad I could not sleep, only about two hours each night. My heart was so bad I had spells when driving on the road and would faint away, and neighbors would carry me in from my wagon. I also took these spells in the night and during my daily work on the farm. My nerves were so bad I would jump out of bed, and was then compelled to walk the floor before I could settle down again, but after taking a few boxes of

LOWER LAND VALUES IN THE FARMING DISTRICT

Something serious to worry about: Plough lands throughout the country are worth an average of 26 cents on the dollar less than they were three years ago. Value of an acre of plough land now is about $66, compared with nearly $70 a year ago, $84 two years ago and $90 in 1920.

The lower price, regulated by demand, means that farming is steadily becoming less attractive. That's natural, considering unfairly low prices received by farmers. They must get a larger share of prosperity or cities will have a real food problem and smaller markets for city-made goods.

BARGAIN HUNTERS

By HEDDA HOYT

NEW YORK, N.Y., April 14.—Men joke about their wives being "bargain hunters," but the man whose wife is a good bargain hunter doesn't realize what a saving she is to him.

I say "good bargain hunter," for there are few good ones. With many women, bargain hunting is sort of a disease which makes the weekly salary waste away and dwindle into nothing. The victim becomes obsessed with a desire to buy everything which looks "cheap" regardless of her need for it.

Many women have the habit of buying everything which looks "cheap" regardless of her need for it.

Many women have the habit of buying "bargains" and storing them away for future use. Unless this is done with the utmost forethought it is a bad plan. Dresses, for instance, should never be bought with this idea in mind, unless they have plenty of fullness and material to allow aterations, as styles change so vastly from season to season. The same thing applies to hats.

On the other hand, one can be reasonably sure that suits with tailored lines can be carried over from season to season as they are always in good style.

In buying a suit with the purpose of using it the following season, there are things one must beware of. Firstly it must bear no tell-tale earmarks of the season. It must be rather staple in cut and color and have a skirt long enough to permit hem alterations.

When buying wearing apparel for future use which is marked down, because it is out of season, one must use great discretion. There are certain things, like underwear, stockings, sweaters, batihng suits, fur neckpieces, umbrellas and dress goods, gloves, etc., which do not suffer style changes to any great degree, but anything that it liable to be affected by style changes is a bad thing to stock up on.

Falling under this list are dresses, hats, wraps, shoes and neckwear, and I might add, fur coats, which are listed at great reductions during the August sales. One should study the foreign style magazines before buying the winter coat in August as the French styles in furs are always about six months ahead of ours.

There is a great saving in buying the right thing at the right time. June is the month when the spring and summer things are offered at great reductions. It is a good plan to delay the summer wardrobe until then. Summer hats are then sold for $5 which sold at the beginning of the season for as high as $25. Dresses are cheaper as well as wraps and shoes, for by that time the demand for summer clothes is dropping off.

Too much can not be said about watching the advertisements in the daily newspapers. One can not estimate the saving the newspapers offer through the "sales" advertisements. The woman who doesn't watch for these sales and take advantage of them, can not be well dressed on a limited income.

I do not suggest advertisement reading to senseless women, who clutter up the house with bargains which they never use, but to the well balanced woman who knows a bargain when she sees one and who knows her own needs.

PREMIER KING SPENT HOLIDAY AT MONTAUK

NEW YORK, April 14, Canadian Press. — The newspapers here announce that Premier King of Canada spent Easter week-end at Montauk Point. Premier King shielded his identity and spent much of his time walking along the seashore.

The only reason that could be given for the visit was the expressed desire of Premier King to spend the holiday at the loneliest spot that could be reached in his private car, and Sir Henry Thornton thought Montauk Point was it.

DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD

It has given me back my old time vigor and made me strong and well.

This is the way people feel about DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD. It lifts them out of the tired, nervous, helpless condition resulting from exhausted nerves, restores health and vigor and makes life worth while.

COULD NOT SLEEP

Mr. A. W. Foster, 178 Le Breton St., Ottawa, Ont., writes:—"For almost a year I was troubled with "nerves," was restless, especially on retiring, when I would be unable to sleep for hours. I was easily fatigued, or excited and very irritable. A neighbor recommended the use of Dr. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD, but I neglected doing so until one day when in a drug store it was again recommended. I bought a box immediately and before the first week had passed I was enjoying a good night's rest every night. I gained rapidly in every way while taking this treatment, and my general state of health is now very much improved."

HEALTH RUN DOWN

Mr. Charles E. How, R. R. No. 5, Aylmer, Ont., writes:—"My system became generally run down, and I suffered from dull, heavy headaches. I was nervous, could not sleep at night, and my muscles used to twitch. My appetite became poor, I had indigestion and weak spells. I consulted a doctor who gave me a tonic, but it did no good. I used other remedies, too, before finally trying DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD. I found that this did me more good than anything I had ever taken. I can heartily recommend it to anyone for weak nerves or run down system. I have also found DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT splendid for cuts, bruises, etc."

Say Divorce Result of Easy Courtship.

WYCKOFF, N. J., March 14.—"Divorce can be prevented by hard work. The trouble these days is that married folks have things too easy."

That's the opinion of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Demarest, married 73 years and still happy. He is 95 and she is 91. He still works his own garden and she does her own washing.

They were married March 2, 1850, raised four children, and have six grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

"Getting married wasn't a joke in those days," said Grandpa Demarest, "We rode horseback when we went courting and the boys would race to the girl's house. No telephone then, and no rural mail deliveries."

"Girls didn't think so much about dress," said Grandma Demarest. "I had two dresses a year, one of flax and one of wool, both homegrown and homemade. And one pair of shoes a year. We saved our shoes and didn't put them on until just before we started for church or a dance."

Their wedding day was the first time Mrs. Demarest ever rode in a wagon. They have built their own houses of hewn logs and they have only been separated once, when "grandpa" visited his brother in Iowa for two weeks 37 years ago.

"We've been happy because we haven't had time to be anything else," he said. "Young folks these days don't work hard enough."

The aged couple, who are looking forward to celebrating their diamond wedding anniversary, live with their daughter, Mrs. Peter S. Pullis at Spring Lake Farm, near Wyckoff.

A THOUGHT

Favor is deceitful and beauty is vain, but a woman that feareth the Lord, she shall be praised.—Prov. 31:30.

There was never yet fair woman but she made mouths in a glass.—Shakespeare.

No remedy can cure all ailments of the human body, but an immense number of people suffer from aches, pains and discouragement when their real trouble is lack of iron in the blood. It is the iron in your blood that enables you to get the nourishment out of your food. Without iron your food merely passes through you without doing you any good; you don't get the strength out of it. There is one universally known tonic that has helped thousands because it contains iron like the iron in fresh vegetables and like the iron in your blood.

is an eminent physician's best blood prescription, standardized. It is recommended for all anaemic and run-down conditions. It has helped thousands of others. It should help you. Ask for it at any drug store.

SAY BLOOD FEUD THREATENS WORLD

Morel Holds That France Should Have Sought to Bury Hatchet.

LONDON, April 14 (United Press).—Let us now investigate the special claim to "security" advanced by the rulers of France today, and the support it receives from the present British Government under pressure of their extreme anti-German supporters. The French imperialist invasion of Germany now seeks to base itself upon that demand for "security"; but when M. Poincare first set his troops in motion, he declared that his object was "Reparations."

Who believes that today? And why should we now believe that the purpose of his policy is "security"? If the object of French Imperialism has been "security," the rulers of France would have acted during the past four years in an exactly contrary way to the way in which they have acted.

They would have sought to bury the hatchet; to put an end to the blood feud. Instead, they insisted upon the kind of political settlement which would give them vengeance, but which could not by any possibility give them security. Had their policy been "security" they would have accepted, since Versailles, the repeated German offers to rebuild the devastated areas, instead of rejecting them.

Africans on Rhine

They would not have stationed African troops on the Rhine. By all these acts, and by countless more which could be cited, they have deliberately sought to exasperate relations with their Eastern neighbors.

But it may be urged, the rulers of France are persuaded, however wrongly, that "security" was not obtainable by a policy of conciliation, and the Anglo-American guarantee having failed and Imperial Russia having disappeared, nothing was left for them to do but to seek security through the political dismemberment and economic enslavement of their old foe.

"Security" then, through destruction; and the main plea advanced being that the German population, even after the partial dismemberment of Germany arranged for under the Treaty and since aggravated by the Upper Silesian decision of the "League of Nations" is still 20,000,000, more than the population of France.

Now if this plea is accepted as valid, every nation whose neighbor has a larger population than its own is entitled to demand this neighbor's political subjugation and to take steps to enforce it if it can; and per contra, the more populous nation is entitled to prevent itself being subjugated by waging a "defensive war" against its less populous neighbor. "I must destroy my neighbor, lest he destroy me."

Here is the philosophy of international anarchy in its completest form. Let us look at this plea, that because there are 60,000,000 of Germans and only 40,000,000 of Frenchmen Germany must be dismembered and politically destroyed.

Difference in Population

They wish to convey the impression that this difference of 20,000,000 in the population of the two countries means that, militarily speaking, France is manifestly weaker and in that sense, must destroy lest she herself be destroyed. The boot is on the other leg.

It is not a case of France having, for military purposes, only 40,000,000 against Germany's 60,000,000. It is a case of her having a minimum of 100,000,000 to draw upon against Germany's 60,000,000. France has 43,500,000 people under her sway in Africa and 22,500,000 in Asia. And she has now applied to all these peoples her laws of military conscription.

She is raising and training great native armies for service in Europe. She reckons in the next five years to have a permanent army of 800,000 Africans for war in Europe, permanently stationed in Europe, if need be.

COMBING THE MOUNTAINS FOR EAMONN DE VALERA.

DUBLIN, April 14 (Canadian Press). — Eamonn De Valera, the fugitive leader of the Irish Irregulars, apparently has escaped the Free State dragnet in Tipperary, a reliable despatch from Clonmel stated to-day.

Thousands of troops, assisted by airplanes, are said to have combed the regions of the Waterford Mountains since early on Friday, attempting to capture the former President. Torrents of rain, however, hindered their work, and it is believed that De Valera has escaped in safety.

ARRESTS FOLLOW SHOT AT FRENCH GENERAL.

LONDON, April 14. — (Canadian Press).—Two arrests have followed the recent attempt to injure General Payot, French chief of transportation in the occupied area, at whose automobile a bullet was fired near Castrop on Thursday, says a Duesseldorf despatch to the Exchange Telegraph. The bullet shattered a pane of heavy plate glass on the car, and a splinter cut the eye of a French engineer who was riding with the General.

BILL WOULD LIMIT FOREIGN LANGUAGE

HONOLULU, April 14.—(Associated Press)—The teaching of Oriental languages in the public schools of Hawaii and the Pacific Coast state, as a means of bringing about better relations between the United States and Japan, was advocated here by Dr. A. L. Dean, president of the University of Hawaii, at a public hearing held by the territorial house educational committee on alien language school measures which have been introduced into the legislature.

One of the bills would carry into effect the recent order of the board of education providing that no child may attend an alien language school until after he completes successfully the first two grades in an American public school. The other bill imposes an annual tax of $1 upon all pupils of alien language schools, the proceeds to be used in defraying the expenses of inspections of such schools by the territory.

Dr. Dean's statement came after the presentation of argument against both bills by Joseph Lightfoot, former deputy territorial attorney-general, and Judge S. C. Huber, former United States district attorney, who are acting as counsel for the Japanese language schools.

Lightfoot, in his argument, designated as "Jap baiters" the members of an inter-racial committee who had been appointed to outline courses of study and textbooks for alien schools. Dr. Dean, chairman of the inter-racial committee, answered this by declaring that 13 members of the joint committee were Japanese.

Lightfoot reviewed the history of Japanese schools in Hawaii, saying that there are now 147 of these institutions in the territory, attended by 23,000 pupils. He said that the bills aimed at the elimination of the the schools and not for their regution. He pleaded against what he characterized as "class legislation" and said that enactment of the bills would deprive the Japaneses of treaty and constitutional rights.

Judge Huber urged a liberal attitude toward the language schools, pointing out that litigation is pending before the supreme courts of the United States and of the Territory, testing the rights of such schools. He asked that legislative action be delayed until these cases were settled.

Dr. Dean said that the problem was not a question of teaching Japaneses children to speak the langaage of their parents, but of teaching Americans to speak Japanese, since practically all the pupils at alien schools are American citizens. He said that the inter racial committee did not aim at the abolition of the schools, but it did desire to limit their activities, and that under the new program all of the work of the schools could be done in six years instead of eight.

He declared that one of the strongest arguments against the alien schools was that few children could master two languages at the same time, and that, since the children, born of alien parents, were to be future citizens of the United States, it was desirable that they be able to use effectively the medium of expression of their country. He denied the committee was actuated by a spirit of "Jap-baiting."

PERVERSITY.

I do not like this formal world, this very-far-from-normal world;
I want a small, sane piece of earth where I may dwell content;
And I shall plant me flowers there, to grow in dirt and showers, there—
Gay wayside buds and wastrel weeds whose lives have been misspent.

I do not like this silly world, this crazy, Jack-and-Jilly world;
I'll go a-walking by myself to see some friends of mine,
A pleasant pal's Old Father Toad, Miss Alley-Cat lives up the
I like the way he rolls his eyes, I love her children nine!

It does not matter what you do, for I shall not agree with you;
But east winds so the prophet's say, soon blow themselves to rout.
I may not feel at all perverse, tomorrow, or I may be worse—
If you come calling on my heart, I may be home—or out!

Wreck of Steamer Still Unexplained.

VICTORIA, B. C., April 14. Emphasizing the lack of sufficient evidence to arrive at a definite conclussion concerning the causes of the wreck of the steamer Alaskan which in January was lost with all hands near Pachena Point, Vancouver Island, the findings of the Marine Court which investigated the case, issued yesterday, stated that the disaster was "without doubt due to the violence of the southwest gale raging." Thirteen men lost their lives.

CROP REPORTS

Following is a summary of reports made by the Agricultural Representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:

Fall wheat, clover, alsike and alfalfa are reported to be in good condition generally speaking, although some complaint is made of injury where ice had formed on low-lying spots. Essex, where a large acreage of fall wheat is grown, says that crop has come through about ninety per cent safe.

The subsidence of the snow has revealed the fact that much injury has been done to many orchards by rabbits and mice girdling young fruit trees. Strawberries where mulched are looking promising, but have been more or less injured by frost and winds where left uncovered.

More applications from farmers for farm help have come to representatives than for the last three years, and there is difficulty in finding suitable men.

Peel: There is a keen demand for Peel county grown alfalfa, but very little remains in farmers' hands. The price of No. 1 is $14 to $16 a bushel for Ontario Variegated, and from $16 to $22 for Grimm.

Kenora: There is an abundance of seed oats, some farmers having three hundred bushels, for which they ask $1 a bushel.

Rainy River: Mr. A. C. Crawford is feeding threshd pea-vine easilage to a carload of purebred Shorthorns that he brought in, and they are doing well on it.

Lanark: There has been a slight increase in all casses of stock except horses. Four carloads of western horses have sold in the Perth vicinity at prices varying from $100 to $200, depending on quality.

Renfrew: Horses are selling fairly well at sales. A fair working team this week brought $335, and another horse brought $187.

Peel: A carload of waggon horses was purchased recently for Winnipeg, while another car of good type agricultural horses was shipped to Nova Scotia. As evidence that there is still a good demand for horses of good quality, a Peel farmer recently sold an extra good team of show geldings for $800, while a neighbor received $350 for a big pair, all four animals by the same sire.

Oxford: At the annual horse sale held last week, good heavy horses sold at prices from $150 to $200. This was purely a local market. At the dairy cattle consignment sale last week, twelve bulls averaged $173 fifteen heifers $155, and thirty-three cows $180. The top bull brought $335 and the top cow $500. Milk at the powder plant is now bringing $2.25 a cwt.

Prince Edward: There is a decided increase in the number of cows, and they are coming through the winter in better condition on account of more feed. The prevailing prices of cheese have stimulated production considerably. One of the factories has been making cheese all winter; several started on the 2nd of April, and the rest will begin on April 15th.

North Simcoe: High prices are being paid for fresh cows of indifferent quality. At a recent sale of Holsteins and Ayrshires brought in from another county, fresh cows went as high as $116, the lowest price being $60 for one with a damaged udder.

Lennox and Addington: At the Napanee Breeders' Club Sale last Saturday, the highest animal brought $130. Mature cows averaged $87.75 each, and two-year old $94.70 each. The average for the entire sale was $70.25. Twenty-six animals, nineteen females and seven males were put up for auction. While the prices realized were not very encouraging, still it afforded an excellent opportunity for a breeder to get good stock at reasonable prices for herd foundation.

Victoria: At a recent sale of dairy cows good type grades brought up to $100.

Peterboro: The new farmers' organization at Peterboro has sold three carloads so far, and they are getting requests from various sections of the district to hold meetings and explain the proposition they have under way.

Dufferin reports considerable mortality among hogs this spring.

WILLED $300,000, TO WED A GEORGIA MISS

ATLANTA, Ga., April 14.—For $300,000—

Who would five in Georgia?

Would you marry a Georgia girl?

That question was put up to Manuell Duke Ledbetter, globe trotter and adventurer, and he finally decided he would—but it took him some timbe to make up his mind.

In 1910 he was camping in the Cripple Creek district, Colorado. He overheard a plot of six Mexicans to rob a neighboring camper.

He galloped up to his neighbor's tent just a nose ahead of the Mexicans. A battle followed. Ledbetter was wounded twice and his horse killed under him, but he killed three assailants and routed the others.

Gets $300,000.

The man whose life he saved was Colonel Joe Eadards, and on the spot Ledbetter was given $300,000. The world was bright.

But a cloud appeared. Ledbetter feel like sprucing up every time you dering the three Mexicans.

At his trial, Ledbetter was acquitted.

Remembered in Will.

Now comes the legacy—

Thirteen years have passed, years in which Eadards has prospered; gold and oil have brought him wealth, and he is worth many millions.

In his will he specified Ledbetter should receive $300,000 on condition—

That he resides in Georgia—

That he marry a Georgia girl.

But Ledbetter is a rover. He roves the open spaces, the sky-reaching peaks.

He continued to roam, refusing to settle down to the hum-drum existence of opulence.

But in January he received a letter from Eadards, touring Europe with his family. Ledbetter returned to Georgia.

"I would have been back long ago," he says, "but that marriage clause frightened me. The letter didn't mention that condition and I am hopeful the colonel will forget it.

"But what's the difference—$300,000 is $300,000, it will brighten things somewhat, eh?"

BOILS Made Him Sick and Miserable

Mr. Richard Zaienzoski, McLean, Sask., writes:—"I had been suffering continuously, with boils, for three years, and during that time I tried many different remedies without any success whatever. In spite of all my efforts I was compelled to go to the hospital. This was in the Fall of the year, and right in the busiest time of the season. Upon my return home it just took about two weeks until my neck and arms were again occupied by the boils which made me feel very sick and miserable.

One day one of my friends advised me to try Burdock Blood Bitters, and after I had used less than two bottles I was very much surprised at the result.

It is now over two years since I got in touch with B.B.B., and I have had no bother with boils since. I will recommend it to all persons suffering from any defect in the blood."

NEW CO-OPERATIVE MARKETING PLAN URGED IN INDIANA

INDIANAPOLIS, April 14.—(Associated Press). — Governor Warren T. McCray, of Indiana, hopes that out of this State may come the model cooperative marketing law for farmers of the middle west. He vetoed a measure, known as the cooperative marketing act, which was passed by the Indiana Legislature, recently adjourned, and now proposes a committee to draft a model cooperative marketing law.

Governor McCray owns and farms 3,000 acres of Indiana prairie land and in explanation of his veto, declared that the bill would hurt those intended to be helped. Half of the provisions of the bill were singled out by the Governor as "objectionable," and furthermore U. S. Lesh, Attorney-General of Indiana, declared the bill, as a whole, unconstitutional.

The Governor proposes a committee of practical farmers, agricultural experts, legislators and authorities on constitutional law to create the model law. He suggests that enough farmers be on this committee to give them the deciding voice.

"The farmers of the middle west," declared the Governor, "need a law first that is fair to them, and I hope to have such a bill ready for the next Legislature in time for everyone to have an opportunity to study it, and know what it contains, so that no one need be captivated by the title as was the case in the one just vetoed."

"I am a farmer and I favor the principle of cooperative marketing, properly safeguarded, but I know only too well some of the past experiences of the farmer, such as that with elevators a decade back; with the 'scoop shovel corn' movement that followed, and with some so-called cooperative marketing agencies that seem to have disappeared after the farmer paid his fee to the promoters. As a farmer I know that farming has been profitable to some one other than the farmer.

"I firmly believe, if the drastic provisions of the proposed act had been incorporated into law, that true cooperative marketing would have been set back at least 20 years. As between those who might control the associations organized under it, and the producers entering into the marketing contracts with such associations, there was no balance between the powers conferred and the obligations imposed. Three persons or more, according to the proposed law, might form an association with or without capital stock; the producers entering the association might be tied to it for ten years, and everything he produced would go to the association for marketing.

"A farmer joining with an association and later failing to market all he produced through it could not only be fined, but sent to jail. There was no limit to the amount of debts which the association might incur, and for the payment of which the marketing members (farmers) might be made liable. On the other hand, there were no obligations imposed on the associations to account to the marketing members for their just and equitable share of any profits that might be derived from the sale of their products. Anyone now in business dealings with farm products could not, under the proposed law, even offer to buy the products of a farmer who belonged to an association without being subject to jail."

Apparently Governor McCray's program for drafting the model law will not have the support of the Indiana Farm Bureau Federation, which backed the bill he vetoed. President W. H. Settle, of this organization, has announced that he would not confer with the Governor to arrange for drafting a new bill. The farmers, according to Mr. Settle, are "disgruntled" by the veto. He said the bill had the approval of recognized national farm bureau men.

CALIFORNIA TO REVIVE HISTORIC PONY EXPRESS

SAN FRANCISCO, April (United Press)—The conquest of time and space through three-quarters of a century will be depicted in an elaborate revival of the historic California pony express and in transcontinental races between automobiles, trains and airplanes, all of which are scheduled to finish at a mammoth pageant in San Francisco, on California admission day, September 10.

This announcement was made here recently by the San Francisco delegation to a conference of representatives from seven western states in Denver, called to organize the pony express memorial association and plan for a relay race between St. Joseph, Mo., and San Francisco, over the route of the original pony express.

Revival of the pioneer spirit in the west through the medium of the pony express was the object of the Denver conference. The original plan was confined to instituting as an annual event a 2,000 mile pony express race, but, according to Sidney Peixotto, San Francisco, one of the sponsors of the project, it is probable that this plan will be elaborated to include an exposition in this city on the evolution of transportation, the exposition to open with the arrival of the various relay "teams" and continue for a fortnight. The different means of transportation will be so spaced, according to their comparative speed, that the finish of all the races will be in San Francisco on the same day.

According to the schedule arranged, the first of the ponies and the riders will leave S. Josph, Mo., probably on August 20. In pioneer days the route covered by the riders ended in Sacramento, and from that city the mail was brought to San Francisco by Sacramento river boat. In the revival, however, a new relay will start at Sacramento and follow a course leading through the historic country of the Mother Lode into Oakland, and by ferry to the "end of the trail."

"A Terrible Experience"

"I Recall My Experiences with the Burglar with Feelings of Horror!"

"How would you feel if you wakened in the middle of the night with a flashlight shining in your eyes and the gruff voice of a man threatening that, 'If you make the slightest noise, I'll shoot!' That was my experience the end of last March when my husband was away in the woods and I was alone with my three children. Everytime I think of this experience a shudder passes over me and as long as I live I shall remember it. At the time I really thought I would die, it's a wonder my heart did not stop beating. I was so weak that even if I had any desire to move, I could not. I was bathed in a cold, clammy perspiration. Even to recall the shocking details now makes me shudder. It was a result of this shock that I contracted a high fever and for hours at a time I was delirious. I got so bad that the doctor finally gave up hope of my ever recovering, but by careful nursing, I was finally pronounced out of danger. The shock had left me so weak, that, for no reason whatever, I would suddenly burst into tears. All the life seemed to have been taken out of me. I kept getting weaker and weaker, so much so that my husband and children were constantly worrying about me. Doctors prescribed for me and while I willingly tried their medicines, only very few of them did me any good, but unfortunately the good was not lasting. My family asked me if I would try Carnol and I said, 'I was willing to try anything,' but felt that it would not do me any good. Four bottles of Carnol taken regularly, has completely restored my former health and strength and, while I occasionally recall my experience with the burglar with feelings of horror, I am otherwise as well and strong as I have ever been. Carnol is the most wonderful preparation I have ever used for building and restoring health and strength. It has done wonders for several of my friends to whom I have recommended it." Mrs. McC. of....

Carnol is sold by your druggist, and if you can conscientiously say, after you have tried it, that it hasn't done you any good, return the empty bottle to him and he will refund your money.

REFUSED TO MAKE PEACE WITHOUT VICTORY FRANCE NOW HAS VICTORY WITHOUT PEACE AS SEEN IN RECENT OCCUPATION OF THE RUHR

France's Unenviable Position is Attributed to a Government Opposed by an Opposition Constituted of Several Political Groups—Review of the Situation.

By ERNEST M HEMINGWAY
Special to The Examiner, Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act.

PARIS, April 14.—To write about Germany you must begin by writing about France. There is a magic in the name France. It is a magic like the smell of the sea or the sight of blue hills or of soldiers marching by. It is a very old magic.

France is a broad and lovely country. The loveliest country that I know. It is impossible to write impartially about a country when you love it. But it is possible to write impartially about the government of that country. France refused in 1917 to make a peace without victory. Now she finds that she has a victory without peace. To understand why this is so we must take a look at the French government.

France at present is governed by a chamber of deputies elected in 1919. It was called the "horizon blue" parliament and is dominated by the famous "bloc national" or war time coalition. This government has two years more to run.

The liberals, who were the strongest group in France, were disgraced when Clemenceau destroyed their government in 1917 on the charge that they were negotiating for peace without victory from the Germans. Caillaux, admitted the best financier in France, the Liberal premier, was thrown into prison. There were almost daily executions by firing squads of which no report appeared in the papers. Very many enemies of Clemenceau found themselves standing hindfolded against a stone wall at Versailles in the cold of the early morning while a young lieutenant nervously moistened his lips before he could give the command.

The Great, Unled Opposition

This Liberal group is practically unrepresented in the chamber of deputies. It is the great, uniformed, unled opposition to the "bloc national" and it will be crystallized into form at the next election in 1924. You cannot live in France any length of time without having various people tell you in the strictest confidence that Caillaux will be prime minister again in 1924. If a very good chance to be. There will be the inevitable reaction against the present government. The chance is that it will swing even further to the left and pass over Caillaux entirely to exalt Marcel Cachin, the Communist leader.

The present opposition to the "bloc national" in the chamber of deputies is furnished by the left. When you read of the Right and the Left in continental politics it refers to the way the members are seated in parliament. The Conservatives are on the right, the monarchists are on the extreme right of the floor. The radicals are on the left. The communists on the extreme left. The extreme communists are on the outside seats of the extreme left.

The French communist party has 12 seats in the chamber out of 600. Marcel Cachin, editor of l'Humanite with a circulation of 200,000, is the leader of the party. Vaillant Coutourier, a young subaltern of Chasseurs who was one of the most decorated men in France, is his lieutenant. The communists lead the opposition to M. Poincaire. They charge him with having brought on the war, with having desired the war; they always refer to him as "Poincaire la guerre." They charge him with being under the domination of Leon Daudet and the Royalists. They charge him with being under the domination of the iron kings, the coal kings; they charge him with many things, some of them very ridiculous.

Spits Like Angry Cat

M. Poincaire sits in the chamber with his little hands and little feet and his little white beard and when the communists insult him too far, spits back at them like an angry cat. When it looks as though the communists had uncovered any real dirt and members of the government begins to look doubtfully at M. Poincare, Rene Viviani makes a speech. Monsieur Viviani is the greatest orator of our times. You have only to hear M. Viviani pronounce the words, "la gloire de France" to want to rush out and get into uniform. The next day after he has made his speech you find it pasted up on posters all over the city.

Moscow has recently "purified" the French communist party. According to the Russian communists the French party was mawkishly patriotic and weak willed. All members who refused to place themselves directly under orders from the central party in Moscow were asked to turn in their membership cards. A number did. The rest are now considered purified. But I doubt if they remain for long. The Frenchman is not a good internationalist.

The "bloc national" is made up of honest patriots, and representatives of the great steel trust, the coal trust, the wine industry, other smaller profiteers, ex-army officers, professional politicians, carcerists, and the royalists.

Royalist Party Well Organized

While it may seem fantastic to think of France having a king again, the royalist party is extremely well organized, is very strong in certain parts of the south of France, controls several newspapers, including l'Action Francaise and has organized a sort of Fascisti called the Cameiots de Roi. It has a hand in everything in the government and was the greatest advocate of the advance into the Ruhr and the further occupation of Germany.

There, briefly, are the political parties in France and the way they line up. Now we must see the causes that forced France into the Ruhr.

France has spent eighty billion francs on reparations. Forty-five billion francs have been spent on reconstructing the devastated regions. There is a very great scandal talked in France about how that forty-five billions were spent. Deputy Inghies of the department of the Nord, said the other day in the chamber of deputies that twenty-five billions of it went for graft. He offered to present the facts at any time the chamber would consent to hear him. He was hushed up. At any rate forty-five billions were spent wildly and rapidly and there are very many new "devastated region millionaires" in the chamber of deputies. The deputies asked for as much money as they wanted for their own districts and got it and a good part of the regions are still devastated.

The point is that the eighty billions have been spent and are charged up as collectable from Germany. They stand on the credit side of the ledger.

If at any time the French government admits that any part of those eighty billion francs are not collectable they must be moved over to the bad side of the ledger and listed as a loss rather than an asset. There are only thirty billions of paper francs in circulation to-day. If France admits that any part of the money spent and charged to Germany is uncollectable she must issue paper francs to pay the bonds she floated to raise the money she has spent. That means inflation of her currency resulting in starting toe fnne on the greased skid the Austrian kronen and German mark traveled down.

Why Briand Fell

When Aristide Briand, former prime minister, who looks like a bandit, and is the natural son of a French dancer and a cafe keeper of St. Nazaire, agreed at the Cannes conference to a reduction in reparations in return for Lloyd George's defense pact his ministry was overthrown almost before he could catch the train back to Paris. The weasel-eyed M. Arago, leader of the bloc national, and Monsieur Barthou, who looks like the left hand Smile Bro., were at Cannes watching every move of Briand and when they saw he was leaning toward a reduction of reparations they prepared to skid him out and get Poincare in—and accomplished the coup before Briand knew what was happening to him. The bloc national cannot afford to have any one cutting down on reperations because it does not want any inquiry as to how the money was spent. The memory of the Panama canal scandal is still fresh.

Poincare came into office pledged to collect every sou possible from Germany. The story of how he was led to refuse the offer of the German industrialists to take over the payment of reparations if it was reduced to a reasonable figure, and the sinister tale that is unfolding day by day in the French chamber of deputies about how Poincare was forced into the Ruhr, against his own will and judgment, the strange story of the rise of the royalists in France and their influence on the present government will be told in the next article.

INDIAN RIVER WON THE SILVER TROPHY

Final Debate of United Farm Young People of East Peterborough.

The final debate in the series which has been carried on during the winter months by the United Farm Young People of East Peterboro, for the silver cup given by the East Peterboro U.F.O. to the successful contestants in the series, which is carried on throughout the entire county, was heard in the Simcoe street rooms, when Indian River and Zion clubs debated here for the final decision. Harold Lewis, the county president, had charge of the meeting. Debaters on the affirmative were Mr. Dawson and Miss Bell of Indian River, and the negative side was taken by Miss Jackson and Mr. O'Toole of Zion Club. Judges were Joseph Wearing, city solicitor, Thos Shields and Morgan Lewis. The subject of the debate was: Resolved "that a policy of unrestricted immigration, exclusive of immoralists and criminal, would be to the best interest of Canadian agriculture."

The decision was finally awarded to the affirmative upheld by the Indian River Club, which becomes the winner of this year's silver cup. A cup is given every year for this competition, the winners holding it permanently. Lakefield Club won last year's award.

During the judging, a musical programme was given, with vocal solos by Miss Rita Redmond, instrumental number by Miss May Muir, and a reading by Miss Jean Hamilton. W. R. Shield also gave an address, on the plan taken by the government to procure better bacon.

Roy Saunderson, president of the Peteroro Club, made arrangements for the holding of a debate on April 17th, between the senior and junior clubs, on the resolution "that country life is better for the boy than city life."

Roy Sanderson and Carl Wilson will take the negative.

Mr. Vivian Milburn was appointed secretary of the Peterboro U.F.Y.P.O. baseball Club, and Harold Lewis and Roy Sanderson were appointed to arrange for the hall for next year. The young ladies served a dainty lunch at the conclusion of the programme.

No Longer Fears Whooping Cough

Toronto Mother Tells of New Vaporising Salve.

The quick direct treatment for colds of children and grown-ups, too, is an application of Vicks over throat and chest at bed-time.

Not only is Vicks absorbed thru the skin, but its healing vapors of Champhor, Menthol, Eucalyptus, Turpentine, etc. are breathed all night directly into the affected air passages.

Relief usually comes by morning. Just as good, too, for cuts, burns, bruises and itching skin troubles.

Mrs. William Morrison of 114 Sheridan Ave., Toronto, says: "Last fall our baby had whooping cough so bad that we were afraid of losing her. I heard about Vicks Vapo-Rub from my neighbors and decided to try it. Every morning and night I applied it, as directed on the pamphlet inside on the package, and it worked wonders. It seemed to break up the cough and ease her, especially through the night when it was most troublesome. I have also used it for colds with good results and would not be without it."

At all drug stores 50c a jar. For a free test size package, write Vick Chemical Co., 344 St. Paul St., W., Montreal, P.Q.

Though Vicks is new in Canada, it enjoys a remarkable sale. Over 17 million jars used yearly.

HARD WORK IN FASHION IN EUROPE ONCE MORE

While Europe's politicians shadow box for effect on their audience, Europe's people continue rebuilding the damages of war.

The great old-fashioned institution, hard work, is getting back to normal over there. In the long run, that's what really counts. Belgium, for instance, is producing fourth-fifths as much pig iron as in 1913, a good pre-war business year.

Watch Europe's industrial activity. Her politicians never have agreed and they never will.

Canadian Stock Exchange — And Mines — New York Stock Exchange — And Curb Prices.

To-Day's Quotations and Opinions and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, April 14.—(United Press.)—Price movements in to-day's short stock session gave further evidence that faults in the technical structure of the market had been pretty well eliminated through the drastic shake-out in the oils earlier on the week.

Another vulnerable point was found among shipping shares when Marine Preferred broke to a new low for the year.

But taking the list as a whole, its action suggested that a healthy situation had been restored and that extensive preparations were under way for the resumption of the forward movement.

Publication of the government cotton consumption figures for March placed this commodity in the class enjoying unparalleled activity. With this additional evidence of prosperity stocks like Crucible, Sloss, Sheffield, American and Continental Can., American Locomotive and Baldwin reflected important accumulation based on the thought that current "selling levels couldn't be said to have discounted a business rival surpassing the most optimistic predictions of a few months ago. The market closed higher. Closing prices: United States Steel, 106 3-4, up 1-2; Republic Iron and Steel 64 3-4, up 5-8; Crucible 82 1-4, up 7-8; Baldwin 139 1-2, up 1-8; Pan American 72 1-8, up 1 1-2; Pacific Oil 41 1-8, up 1 3-8; Studebaker 123 7-4, off 3-8; General Motors 15 3-4, up 1-4; American Woollen 101, up 3-8; International Paper 49 3-8, up 1-8; Anaconda 49 1-2, up 1-2; American Smelting 64 1-2, up 3-4; New York Central 49 1-2, up 1-2.

Woman Suicides While Despondent.

WINNIPEG, April 14.—(Canadian Press).—With her month old baby peacefully sleeping in his cot nearby, Mrs. Mike Labaty, of Transcona, Man., near this city, hanged herself from a bedpost in her home yesterday. Mrs. Labaty, according to her husband, had been greatly depressed over the loss of $1,200, their entire savings, which had been swept away in the collapse of the Dominion Ticket and Finance Corporation, a private banking institution, here, recently.

"DAY BY DAY IN EVERY WAY I AM GETTING BETTER AND BETTER"

This is the sentiment expressed by all users of Prof. Mulveney's Remedy, "B'Well." On another page will be found a true story from real life giving the history of a man who was supposed to be dying at the Consumptive Hospital at Weston, Ont. The doctors had given him up and he wanted to come home to die. His wife called on Prof. Mulveney and secured a bottle of his famous "B'Well," and the man took it steadily. He is now alive and well and working every day and has gained 35 pounds in weight since starting to take "B'Well" and "Rheumaticide," which have certainly done wonders for him. His wife says they saved his life. Prof. Mulveney has hundreds of testimonials testifying to the great benefit of this particular medicine, the originals of which can be seen at his office, 211 Ossington Ave., Toronto.

Mercantile League Organized - Lawn Bowlers Elect - Soft Ball

MERCANTILE LEAGUE WAS ORGANIZED BY 5 FACTORY TEAMS

New League Will Not Conflict With the City League --Harry Cressman Elected President.

MEETING WEDNESDAY

At an enthusiastic meeting of representatives of five factory teams of the city held last evening in the Chamber of Commerce rooms it was decided to organize a Mercantile Baseball League for the coming season. The teams having representatives present were: Westclox, Canadian Packing Company, Examiner, Lock Works and De Laval.

Having selected a chairman the meeting got under way with the immediate work of organization, after which the following officers were elected:

President—Harry Cressman.

First Vice-President—Fred Whaley.

Second Vice-President—A. G. Austin.

Secretaray-Treasurer— Ian Murray.

Since several other teams had signified their intentions of entering this league if it was formed, it was felt by those present that the final action of, restrictions to be placed on players and other matters of vital importance should be left to a meeting at which representatives of every team could be present. It was the feeling of those who attended last night's meeting that the teams should be confined strictly to employees of the firm or factory their team represents. As the primary object of the league is the development of a spirit of comradeship among the employees of the various factories, much of this spirit would be lost if the teams were allowed to go outside their own factory organization to draw their players. It was pointed out by various speakers that the league has not got its eye on provincial championships or anything of that nature, but is to promote factory spirit and to give good, clean, healthy recreation to employees of the various firms.

The League is not being run in opposition to the City League. In fact it has the hearty support of that league, and if circumstances develop to make such a course possible, may even be affiliated wthin the city organization. As things now stand, owing to the fact that the Mercantile league is not affiliated with the O.B.A.A., players from this league will also be able to play in the City League if they are needed.

The need of the new organization was apparent from the fact that the Intermediate City League has ever prospect of being a three or four-team league while there are many players in the city who are past the junior age limit but not sufficiently fast to play against the present intermediate teams. These players will now all get a chance to play in either the City or the Mercantile league. By confining its players to the factory represented the Mercantile league teams will be fairly evenly matched with good, bad and indifferent players to be found on every team.

A meeting of the League will be held on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock at which a constitution will be presented and the details of the league organization discussed and decided upon. Representatives of all teams entered or wishing to enter the league have been requested to attend this meeting as well as the managers of the various factories or their representatives.

BREAKS AGAINST THE ENGINEERS

Quakers Handed C. G. E. Team Second Defeat of the Season.

The Quakers humbled the Engineers nine last evening by handing them a 12 to 10 defeat in a keenly contested game. The Quakers got the breaks on most of the plays. Both teams clouted the ball for long rides but neither team fielded well, errors coming frequently, and often being costly.

Carruthers did the pitching for the Quakers, and uncovered great speed with good control, fanning seven and allowing five hits. Langley had the same figures in the twirling for the Engineers.

The breakfast food lads got their runs in bunches of three and four. The Engineers led for the first four innings, but the Quakers put on a spurt in the last few frames. They tightened up in their fielding and hit the harder, winning the battle handily.

The line-ups:

Quakers—McGuerin, 1b; Foster, c; Carruthers, p; Graham, ss; F. Guerin 2b. Meyette, ss; Gandy, 3b; Hill, lf; Armstrong, rf.

Engineers—McCarney, rf; Burgess, ss; W. Jackson, 3b; Langley, p; Munro, 1b; Metherall, 2b; McLeish, lf; Allen, ss; Anderson, c.

Score by innings:

Quakers	2040330—12
Engineers	3402100—10

The Tool Room gang went gaily along, piling up a couple of runs in each inning, and they added 7 to their total in the last frame.

"Abbie" Rose was on the rubber for the C.G.E., and he gave the De Laval batters no easy task. He received the best of support.

The line-ups:

Belleville to Have Two Lacrosse Teams.

The first steps to organise a lacrosse team in Belleville were taken at a meeting held in the Chamber of Commerce building recently, which was attended by Harry Moore of Deseronto.

Belleville will place two teams on the field, juvenile and midget. The former is composed of boys 18 years and under and the latter of boys 15 years and under.

Mayor Hayes of the Junior Council is the instigator of the idea, and from all appearances it is due to be a great success.

Belleville will, in all probability, be grouped with Trenton, Deseronto and Napanee. All four towns are to have two teams in the group.

AFTER LOST LAURELS.

(By Billy Evans).

NEW ORLEANS, La., April 14. —Can Babe Ruth come back?

At present the demon swatter is the question mark of baseball.

What are the chances of Ruth to regain the home run crown that is now th property of Rogers Hornsby of the St. Louis Cardinals?

For several days I have been giving the "Sultan of Swat" the once over, the up and down, trying to decide that very question.

If the hitting of home runs merely depends upon condition, Ruth has a great chance to win back the fame and glory that was his for three years.

I had heard much about Ruth's condition prior to hitting this burg, but was sceptical as to the reports.

Ruth Weighs 201 Pounds.

How much had Ruth actually lost during the winter on the farm and the preliminary work at Hot Springs, Ark.? I wanted to get the information first-hand and had the big fellow step on the scales. He tipped the beam at exactly 201 pounds.

Last season Ruth weighed 235 pounds. Draw on your imagination, and it is an easy matter to picture the change that has taken place. The waistline has been reduced at least six inches, and the bay-window that once announced the approach of the Babe is now conspicuously missing.

Ruth is lighter and in better shape to-day than I have ever seen him during his entire connection with the American League. When he was the leading southpaw of the Johnsonian organisation, Ruth weighed in the neighbourhood of 210 pounds.

WALTER OKE PRESIDENT OF LAWN BOWLING CLUB

Elected at Annual Meeting Last Night — Third Presidency to Which He Has Been Appointed This Spring.

TOURNAMENT DATES.

Three presidencies of athletic organizations in practically as many weeks is the notable record of Walter J. Oke.

First he was unanimously chosen president of the Curling Club; next the newly formed Baseball Club selected him as their directing head, and last night he was elected president of the Peterborough Lawn Bowlers' Association. Responsibility seems to gravitate naturally to Mr. Oke in as large measure as the confidence, the respect and the affection of those with whom he is associated. Meanwhile he is an active Kiwanian and an enrgetic man of business. With all the demands of private affairs involving close touch with prices of grapefruit in Florida, "pines" in Porto Rico, oranges in California, and the new crops in Louisania, even down to the Manvers potato market, Walter Oke never pleads or pretends that he is too busy to do his bit in promoting sports in which the general public of Peterborough are so deeply interested, and in his personal economy or schedule he finds time to assume the obligations of president of three of the most prominent branches of athletics in this city.

Last night's meeting of the Lawn Bowlers was held in one of the class rooms of the Business College. The officers for this year were elected as follows:

Hon. Pres.—Dr. Hammond.
Preesident—W. J. Oke.
Vice-Pres.—J. W. Mayneord.
Sec.-Treas.—W. F. Fox.
Committee—Robt. Cottrell, George Cairns and J. F. Bacon.
Green Committee— M. Chenhall, John Read and J. F. Convery.

H. R. Martin was appointed convenor of the bonspiel committee, and the general executive will have charge of the season's schedule.

Two-day Tournament.

The Club decided to follow its established precedent by holding a two-day tournament on July 25 and 26. These dates are expected to fall between the Cobourg and Belleville tournaments conveniently for all the clubs of the district.

Dr. Hammond's offer of prizes for the club doubles and for the runners-up was gratefully accepted, and the McKone cup will be given for the handicap singles, and the Clark cup for the open singles.

T. C. Elliott's motion fixing the fourth Thursday in September as the date of the annual meeting was adopted, and this year's fee was determined at $10 for old members with $5 for new ones.

The question of securing permanent grounds was discussed at considerable length and Messrs. Oke, Morton and Cunningham were appointed a special committee to bring in a report. The price of the greens at the corner of Aylmer and Brock streets was said to be $11,000 according to the last quotation from the owners.

An Invitation

Sports Editor The Examiner,

At a meeting of representatives of five commercial organisations held last evening in the Chamber of Commerce Rooms, it was decided to reorganise the Mercantile Baseball League. It is desirable for the successful and convenient conduct of the League to have at least eight teams represented if possible, and to this end it was decided to present this open letter, inviting such other teams as wish to enter the League to do so.

A meeting of representatives from both old and new entries will be held in the Chamber of Commerce Rooms on Wednesday evening, 18th April, at 8 o'clock, at which the final regulations governing the League will be decided upon and a constitution drawn up and adopted.

It has been suggested that players be restricted to the employees of the factory and commercial house represented.

The question of affiliation with the City League will also be discussed and decided at this meeting.

Will the factories or commercial houses wishing to enter teams please notify the undersigned as soon as possible, and have a representative at Wednesday night's meeting.

Thanking you, I remain, sincerely yours,

Ian Murray, Secy.-Treasurer.

McTigue Refuses Carpentier Bout.

NEW YORK, April 14. Canadian Press. — Mike McTigue announced in a cablegram yesterday that he had refused an offer of $75,000 to box Georges Carpentier in London on May 29th. He said that he would sail for the United States early in May.

Joseph Jacobs, McTigue's manager, said that negotiations were under way for a match between McTigue and Carpentier in the United States some time in June.

A New Umpire for The National League

NEW YORK, April 14. Canadian Press. — Doll Dern, of Baltimore, International League Umpire for the past three years, yesterday was signed up by the National League for the coming season. He will replace Charles Rigler, the veteran arbiter, who was retired to devote his time to business in Kentucky.

John A. Heydler, president of the National League, anounced that he was obtained through arrangement with John Conway Toole, the head of the International circuit.

WHITE SOX MAY BE DARK HORSE

(By Henry L. Farrell, United Press Sports Editor).

NEW YORK, April 14 (United Press). — Kid Gleason's Chicago White Sox roamed all over the American League terrain last year, hitting every place but first and second.

The regions that were not explored last year may not only be reached this year, but they may be occupied more or less permanently by the smart ball club that Gleason has built up since the memorable bust-up of 1920.

Since the Braves pulled their 1914 stunt in upsetting all calculations with a spurt starting in July that led them to the National League pennant, the baseball prophets have always been wary of a dark horse.

Granting the possibility of a big surprise that would take the heavy battle for the pennant away from the Yanks and the Tigers, the White Sox and the Philadelphia Athletics look like the clubs most liable to jump out and take a lusty boot at the well-known dope bucket.

The White Sox look like the better qualified of those two dark horses to deliver a surprise.

With Kid Gleason on the bench, Ray Schalk behind the bat, Eddie Collins on second, Red Faber in the box, and Harry Hooper in the outfield, the White Sox have an array of brains that cannot be surpassed by any team in the major leagues. There are more than enough wise heads on the field to balance the young material that the club has been so successful in gathering up from the minors.

The mental department of the club has also been augmented with the signing up of Ed Walsh as coach of the pitchers. With the shrewd Gleason and Walsh in charge of the promising young pitchers, most anything can be expected during the coming pennant chase.

Last year the White Sox did nothing more serious in the pennant race than an occasional threat, but this year they have prospects not only for making that threat more consistent, but of making it permanent.

BROWNS ARE WEAK FOR THE 1923 RACE

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, April 13.—(United Press)—Lee Fohl had he the temperament of a crab, could find plenty of reason for howling that he had been picked out for about all the slaps that Bad Luck had reserved for the American League in 1922.

This time last year the pennant chance of the St. Louis Browns were so bright and rosy that the fans of the Missouri metropolis were tuning their voices to acclaim the virtues of the man and the team that were to bring the first world's series into their front yard.

The voices were tuned up harmoniously, but they were never used because a load of bad breaks settled on the Browns and they missed out in a terrific battle with the New York Yankees by one slim game.

First came the injury which threw Ellerbe off third base and forced Fohl to use the veterans, Bronkie and Foster, in a position where speed on foot and a live arm are needed more than the stout hearts of those veterans.

Then the pitching staff was disorganized. "Shucks" Pruett, young Missouri University, who jumped into fame by fanning Babe Ruth ten out of the first twelve times that he pitched to him, came up with a lame arm and held the bench for most of the season. Dave Danforth persisted in tampering with the ball until he had to be released, because the umpires and the managers of the rival clubs camped on him too much for the use of illegal deliveries.

Perhaps the peculiar conviction that he couldn't pitch winning games without digging his finger nails in the seams of the ball made Danforth one of the biggest factors in the loss of the pennant for the Browns. There is little doubt that Danforth could have won ten or twelve games instead of five, because Fohl insisted that he had plenty to get by well with on "straight stuff."

The players were bitter against Danforth, because they felt sure he could have taken chances, if he felt that it was chance-taking, and that he could have turned in enough games to wipe out the slender margin that the Yanks held over them when the race was closing.

The worst stroke of the bad luck was reserved until the very last.

From the first week of the race, the Browns battled the Yanks toe to toe. They went into the lead the first week of June and remained there until the last week of July, when they dropped to second place for a week. Taking the lead again they led the pack until the third week of August, when the Yanks again rose to the top.

Just before the series in St. Louis in the third week of September, a series that practically decided the championship, George Sisler, the greatest power of the team, pulled his shoulder out going after a low throw. He played gamely through the Yank series, but he was not the real Sisler, and the Browns lost their chance. Sisler then went out for good, and Fohl had to shift "Baby Doll" Jacobson in from centerfield. As a first baseman, he was a most excellent outfielder.

Miller Huggins, the Yank manager terms the Browns a "one pitcher team," and since Urb Shocker, at this time, is the only reliable pitcher on the staff, the team seems to be just that.

Lack of reserve material really cost the Browns their big chance last season, because Fohl had no one to take the place of Elberbe and Sisler. As far as it is definitely known now, the same weakness exists this year, because nothing but actual playing will show what class of young material the Brown leader has been able to pick up since the close of the season.

Sisler, according to late information, will not be able to start the season, and it may be months before he can get into his real game. No one can take the place of Sisler in that lineup because there is only one Sisler.

Some rather competent baseball judges have said that the Browns were not a smart ball club last year, and if the had been materially alert, they might have picked up a couple of games they dropped and that they could have overcome the Yankee lead with those games.

Since nothing is really known about what Fohl has found among his rookies, the Browns do not look as strong as they were last year. If he is not overworker, Shocker may win more games than he did last year, but he is no youngster and he might feel the effects of what he went through last year.

Morally, at least, if not in actual mechanical strength, the Yanks ought to be better this year and they will be harder to beat. The Detroit Tigers are stronger and the Browns perhaps are in such a position that they have to watch the White Sox and the Athletics to keep from being run over in the big push.

GIRLS THREATENED WITH LOCK OUT

Striking Paris Dressmakers Say They Will Wreck Fashionable Trade to Enforce Demands.

PARIS, April 14. — (Canadian Press). — The dressmakers' strike here has reached such proportions that three policemen were assigned yesterday to guard the front doors of each fashionable shop in the centre of the city, while numerous other officers were assigned to the work of keeping the young women and girl strikers moving.

The clients of the shops are becoming impatient at the delay in the deliveries of spring dresses ordered weeks ago, and this fact has led to several attempts by the shop-owners to persuade the workers to return, with the threat of a lockout if they failed to resume work. The workers are meeting this threat with a declaration that they are prepared to stay on strike long enough to wreck the tourist trade upon which the shopkeepers have been counting.

The Paris dressmakers and shop-owners yesterday issued an ultimatum to the striking "midinettes" that unless they return to work on Monday they will be locked out for an indefinite period.

Seventy-Eight Held For Selling Drugs.

PARIS, April 14 (Canadian Press) —Seventy-eight men and women, among whom were nine doctors and six druggists, appeared in the Paris Police Courts yesterday on charges of selling, procuring, or using cocaine.

The roundup was the largest Paris ever has seen in connection with the narcotic crusade.

The doctors were accused of issuing countless prescriptions for cocaine and the druggists with filling them. The remainder of those on trial were alleged to be common drug fiends.

BIG LOCOMOTIVE ORDERS TO HELP BIG BUSINESS

Railroads this year are expected to buy 6000 new locomotives, which would be more than in any year since 1905. Important news for business men directly, and all of us indirectly, for shortage of locomotives is a main cause of car shortage.

Worse than the two combined is the increasing shortage of adequate terminals in cities. In other words, congestion of population is the basic problem in transporation the same as in nearly everything else.

ANNUAL MEETING OSHAWA CURLERS

Club Has Largest Balance on Hand in its History.

OSHAWA, April 14.—(Special.)—Over sixty curlers turned out to the annual meeting of the Oshawa Curling Club last night, when the presentation of prizes took place. President A. M. Germond occupied the chair, and after giving a review of the season, which was the most successful, both financially and in enthusiasm, he introduced Mr. Irwin, donor of the Mutual Life trophy, who presented the same with individual prizes to the winning rink, composed of Ed. Hare, W. Clarke, H. Ross and H. Mayhem, while the runners up were C. Peacock, H. Smith, S. Young and Don Bailes. The Hatch trophy, with individual prizes, was presented to C. M. Anderson, W. H. Ross, A Pipser and A. Shierholtz.

The treasurer's report showed a balance on hand of approximately $500, which was the largest in the club's history. F. J. Bailes, chairman of the Finance committee, for the new curling arena, gave a report which showed that local curlers were behind the movement and that sixty-five members had pledged themselves for nearly $9,000 of the $20,000 required to finance the building operations. After a short discussion a unanimous vote was given the committee for the work they had done and power to carry on, and Oshawa is assured of one of the finest curling arenas in the province of Ontario for 1923-4 with eight sheets of ice. The election of officers was deferred until the Oshawa Curlers Limited was properly organized, which will be in the near future.

Storm May Prevent Election Campaign.

ST. JOHN'S, N.F., April 14 (Canadian Press). — Candidates for election to the Newfoundland Legislature find themselves seriously handicapped by the ice blockade along the coast which may prevent many from reaching outlying districts in time to conduct speaking campaigns.

The election date is 3rd May.

Both the Government and Opposition candidates for the districts of Burgeo and Fortune are marooned on the steamer Kyle, which left here last week with supplies for starving settlements along the south coast, and as caught in the ice field at Lamaline Harbour.

400 MISSING

TOKIO, Japan, April 14. Canadian Press. — Four hundred persons, including a large number of fishermen, are missing as the result of a tidal wave and a storm on the east coast of Korea, according to advices received in Tokio by the Japanese Navy Department. The total number of lives lost is uncertain but it is believed to be large.

A GENUINE DESIRE TO PLEASE OTHERS

Such Constitutes the Character of True Courtesy Aimed at by Kiwanians.

"Life is not so short but that there is always time for courtesy."
—EMERSON.

It may be said that Emerson lived in a different and slower age, but shrewd business men in our day have come to appreciate courtesy for its true value as a business asset. They know that a smile, a "Thank you," and a heartily expressed "Come again" bring back more customers than a page advertisement.

Many employees are courteous for the same reason they wear clean linen—it's one of the rules. True courtesy, however, cannot be instilled by hanging a neatly framed sign in your place of business. True courtesy—the genuine desire to be pleasant to others, to help smooth the pathway of those with whom you come in contact—cannot be applied like a poultice or injected like a serum. It can only come from within—from taking thought. Carelessness and thoughtlessness are the great foes of courtesy.

True courtesy cannot be confounded with obsequiousness. The sycophant with his polished manners is often less courteous than the awkward bumpkin. All depends on the motive.

A few days ago The Examiner asked you what you would do if you had a million dollars a month. The desire is to be extravagant is inherent in nearly everyone. Here's a chance to be extravagant in a form that will not get you into trouble—be extravagant in dispensing courtesy.

Thousands Die in India From Plague.

SIMLA, India, April 14.—(Canadian Press).—The public health commissioner states that there has been a rise in the mortality from the plague, which began in December last, and which caused 36,900 deaths up to the end of March. In the previous four years the mean average of deaths from plague had been 14,000.

This rise in the number of deaths is serious, as it shows the plague is ready to assume epidemic proportions when the conditions therefor are favorable and public health measures are neglected to any extent.

ROSS HAMILTON,

"Dumbells," at the Grand To-night.

IS LOCAL EXAMINER OF MOTOR DRIVERS

Robert Reid Appointed For Peterboro by Highways Department.

Robert Reid has been notified by the Motor Vehicles Branch of the Ontario Department of Public Highways of his appointment as examiner of applicants for drivers' licenses at Peterborough.

All persons who drive a motor vehicle for "hire, pay or gain" are required by Section 4 of the Motor Vehicles Act of Ontario to pass an examination before an authorized examiner, and obtain a license to drive. This license must be renewed annually. The fee for examination is $1; for registration and license, $2; after September 1st, $1; for annual renewal, $1.

Persons driving for "hire, pay or gain" within the meaning of the Act are: (1) Chauffeurs as commonly understood by the term; (2) any employee whose ordinary duties involve the driving of a motor vehicle on the public highways; (3) the driver of a commercial vehicle licensed as such, unless it is the driver's own car, carrying his own goods; (4) the driver of a motor vehicle used as a taxi-cab, jitney, sight-seeing car, 'bus or otherwise used for the conveyance of passengers who have directly or indirectly paid for the service; (5) the driver of a motor vehicle used for the conveyance of articles, baggage, goods or merchandise, which articles, baggage, goods or merchandise are not the property of the driver.

Commercial travellers or sales managers may drive a car for convenience rather than part of their regular duties.

Non-professional certificates are issued by the Department to any person who does not come within the meaning of Section 4 of the Motor Vehicles Act and who pass the required examination. The fee for registration and certificate is $1. The examination is practical and relates to the driver's ability to operate and manipulate a car, to his knowledge of road laws and rules of the road. The certificate indicates the type of vehicle operated, whether planetary transmission, sliding transmission or heavy type of car or truck.

Certificates of examination are advantageous to drivers, for example, as protection in case of accident. The license would no doubt be regarded by the Court as certificate of competency and might save the driver from a term in prison or other punishment.

Under no circumstances is a person under the age of 16 years permitted to drive a motor vehicle, nor may any person between the ages of 16 and 18 years, until he has passed an examination and obtained a license as provided for a person who drives for hire, pay or gain.

CANADA'S PARKS ARE GREAT ASSET

Bring to Canada Annually Twenty Million Dollars of Tourist Traffic.

OTTAWA, April 14. — (Canadian Press).—Canada's national parks may constitute the Dominion's get-rich-quick scheme is properly appreciated and maintained, according to J. B. Harkin, Dominion Parks Commissioner, who addressed the Kiwanis Club here yesterday.

Mr. Harkin said that it was conservatively estimated that Canada's national parks attracted to the Dominion about twenty million dollars in tourist traffic, etc., in 1922, and as the Dominion only spent about one million dollars in maintaining the parks, it represented a return at the rate of 2,000 per cent. on the outlay.

Furthermore, there "was no Fordney bill that could prevent the export of scenery and destroy the trade as it had done in the case of western cattle," said the speaker. He suggested that in addition to the Rockies as a national park, other areas in different provinces should be set aside as parks in the interests of the present and future people of Canada.

LIBERALS OPPOSED TO FUSION PROPAGANDA

TORONTO, April 14.—(Canadian Press)—At a meeting of the Central Liberal Association of Toronto last night a resolution was adopted declaring strong opposition to "Insidious propaganda now being carried on by alleged federated Liberal Clubs, tending to bring about a coalition of the Liberal party with the U.F.O." The resolution also denounced "the action of Senator Hardy in communicating with J. W. Curry, M.L.A., suggesting defeat of Liberal party in coming Provincial Campaign."

FITZMAURICE'S FEAT.

Brings Egypt to Hollywood in Making Pola Negri's "Bella Donna."

The man who brought Egypt to Hollywood! That is the title George Fitzmaurice has been awarded because of his feat in the production of Pola Negri's first American Paramount picture, "Bella Donna", which will be on view at the Capitol Theater next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

As every reader of Robert Hichens' novel knows, much of the action of this story takes place in Egypt. In fact, it happens all over Egypt—in a Nile houseboat, beside the pyramids, in a villa at Luxor, Shepherd's Hotel, the camp of an Egyptian millionaire, the streets and cafes of Cairo and the wastes of the desert.

All this and more was filmed in "Bella Donna." And with the exception of the desert scenes, all Egypt came to Hollywood.

The reproductions of the famous ruins, buildings and scenery of Egypt for this Paramount picture have won high praise from the critics and technical experts of the film center who were privileged to see them.

In this, her first screen venture in the United States, Pola Negri is supported by one of the most notable casts ever assembled, including Conway Tearle, Conrad Nagle, Lois Wilson, Claude King, Macey Harlam and Robert Schable. Ouida Bergere adapted the Hitchens novel for the screen.

"CARRY ON" PUTS OVER BARRAGE OF STAR ACTS

Capt. Plunkett's Dumbells Reach Every Objective in Going Over the Top in New Revue

BETTER THAN EVER

Bringing back some of the favourite entertainers of earlier productions and introducing many new soldier artists who will be favourites in Peterborough from now on, Capt. M. W. Plunkett's Dumbells scored the biggest kind of a triumph in their new musical revue, "Carry on," which opened a short engagement at the Grand last night. A huge audience welcomed the clever organization and each number of the long programme was enthusiastically received.

"Carry On" is a typical Plunkett production.

That is, it is clean and clever, it offers variety and originality, it moves at top speed, with one star act following another in quick succession and it has just the proper mixture of war "stuff" to accentuate the fact that the cast is composed of artists who played their part in the Empire's war effort.

All in all, it is the best offering Capt. Plunkett has yet given us. He evidently believes that to stand still is to go back and so he keeps on building up productions, each one of which is better than its predecessor.

"Carry on" is as full of good things as politics is of Farmer members.

In fact there are so many excellent features that it is difficult in a newspaper criticism to do justice to everything and everybody.

First there are the old favourites, Ross Hamilton and Al Plunkett. "Marjorie" as comely as ever, has a wardrobe of gowns that makes every woman in the audience envious and every man glad he hasn't to pay the bills for them, and a repertoire of songs, including "Golden Dream Boat" and "Billy" that are cleverly sung. In addition, Marjorie appears to advantage in other numbers.

Al. Plunkett has several new songs, "La, la, la, la," and "Shufflin' Along," which he puts over in his own inimitable way, and by request sings a medley of his old favourites, including "The Wild, Wild Women," "Down Texas Way," "I Know Where Flies Go," "K-K-Kiss Me Again" and "Coal Black Mammy O' Mine." He is at his best in "Shufflin' Along," a plaintive negro number in which is is effectively assisted by a pantomime background supplied by Jack Grace, T. J. Tilly and Ben Allen. There is only one "Al" Plunkett and he is hitting on all eight cylinders in "Carry On."

And then there is Capt. M. W. Plunkett himself, who makes his first appearance before a Peterborough audience and scores a big hit in his own song, "Come Back Old Pal," in which he displays a very pleasing voice. He follows up this success by a very effective rendition with the aid of Brothers Al and Morley of "The Little Red School House."

Another old favourite is Ben Allen, whose black face comedy methods have always been popular here. He is associated with Jack Grace, another most amusing knight of the burnt cork and the two have a line of chatter that is as fresh as the average office boy. The two are responsible for some very merry moments.

Pat Rafferty, the vest pocket comedian who has been seen here with the Maple Leafs is another artist who deserves and receives a hearty welcome, and his work is clean cut and clever.

A newcomer who makes himself solid from his first appearance is Stan Bennett, whose impersonation of an English "knut" is a rich piece of comedy work. Mr. Bennett is a clever comedian and he scores heavily in half-a-dozen pieces in "Carry On."

A feature is the jazz orchestra, under the direction of Fraser Allen. Their work at the beginning of the second act is one of the high lights in a wonderful production and the "Jingle Bell" finale to this number was most effective. Mr. Fraser contributes a piano solo that demonstrates his mastery of technique and his brilliancy.

There are many other numbers that can only be mentioned briefly. A new version of "Gallagher and Shean" by Al and Morley Plunkett is an instantaneous winner, the eccentric dancing of Jimmy Devon is as clever as anything in that line seen here in many moons. "Golfing Illue' 'by Stan Bennett and Pat Rafferty is a laughing success. "Knives to Grind" by Bert Wilkinson is a pleasing novelty, and two sketches, "With the Boys in France" and "Good-night Nurse," supply the military atmosphere necessary, and at the same time furnish many a laugh.

Special mention must be made of the character acting of T. J. Tilly, a new member of the company, so far as their Canadian activities are concerned, but a favourite in France, who does splendid work in both sketches.

There is a quartette that sings most acceptably some clever dance numbers, in fact the whole revue is so replete with enjoyable features that it must be seen to be appreciated.

"Carry On" is at the Grand for matinee and evening performances to-day and Capt. Plunkett and his company are sure to be greeted by a capacity audience to-night.

There will be nothing better than "Carry On" until Capt. Plunkett comes back again.

AT THE REGENT.

"THE FOUR HORSEMEN" SMASHES ALL RECORDS

The long-awaited Rex Ingram production of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" is coming to the Regent Theater beginning Monday. This is the picture that cost Metro $1,000,000 to make, and, from all accounts the $1,000,000 was well spent, as critics agree that all other efforts at production in a grand scale have been surpassed and record runs have been made in New York, Chicago, Boston, Pittsburgh, Detroit, Los Angeles and other cities where the picture has been previously shown. Fifty principals and 2,500 extras were engaged in the filming of the photo drama, an entire French village and an elaborate chauteau were erected to be destroyed under artillery bombardment.

The appeal of the story itself has already been proved through the success of the novel by Vicente Blasco Ibanez, upon which the photodrama is founded.

The cast includes Rodolph Valentino and Alice Terry. The scenario was written by June Mathis, John Seitz was responsible for the photography, and the technical directors were Amos Myers and Joseph Calder. Walter Mayo was assistant to Rex Ingram.

"POLLY" DRAWS LARGE CROWDS

Excellent Program at the Royal Tonight.

Constance Talmadge in "Polly of the Follies" was shown to a crowded house at the Royal again last night. The picture is one of the best the Royal has had in some time and should draw heavily at its last showing to-night'

With the feature is an excellent program of short subjects, including Reginald Denny in Round Ten of the new "Leather Pushers,' the million dollar serial "The Radio-King" and a Univeral comedy.

No Chance to Start Seeding in the West.

JAPANESE MOONSHINERS

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The grip of prohibition is being felt by Japanese residents of Hawaii, who, according to reports to Federal Prohibition headquarters, are being deprived of their national drink of sake through the activity of prohibition enforcement agents.

"Agents are devoting a great deal of their time raiding the manufacturers of the Japanese liquor known as sake," said John F. Colburn, Hawaiian director, reporting recent seizures of sake and utensils used in its manufacture.

A story of searchlight expeditions against moonshiners in Hawaiian sugar plantations also was told by the territorial enforcement agent, who said that sake makers and other moonshiners had been driven from the cities into the cane fields near workmen's camps.

"It takes a lot of work to locate them," the report said, "and sometimes we labor until the early hours of the morning, using spot lights in finding our way out through the cane."

PHILATELISTS CONTEST

LONDON, April 14.—Hundreds of entries have been received from all over the world, especially from America, for the world's stamp collecting championship which will be decided here in May.

Many of the collections of single countries are valued at from 20,000 to 50,000 pounds, while one exhibitor's entries amount to 100,000 pounds.

The exhibition is the first of its kind held since before the war. The "junior" championship for philatelists under 21 will also be contested for the first time since 1912, when Captain Victor Cazalet, then an Eton boy of 15, secured it.

ROTARY-ANNES HAD SPLENDID DANCE

The Rotary-Annes achieved a splendid success with their initial dance last night at the Empress Hotel. One of the biggest and most enjoyable affairs of the kind held in some time, it was attended by over four hundred people, who played cards and danced in the upstairs sitting room, the rotunda and grill room and dining room until nearly three o'clock this morning. The energetic committee of ladies and the men who helped them are doubtless well satisfied with the success of their "Friday the Thirteenth" dance, which was characterized by an atmosphere of bright enjoyment. Everyone had a royal "good time," which is the nicest thing that can be said, probably, about an affair of this sort.

The committee in charge showed excellent judgment when they capitalized the idea of the "thirteenth" in so many ways. The thirteenth dance was a decided novelty, with three separate lucky spots for the dancers; the figure thirteen figured prominently on the programme in divers ways, and the thirteenth chair constituted a special prize at bridge, a box of chocolates awarded to Mrs. George Macdonald. Winners of the regular bridge prizes, a pair of candle sticks and a cigarette holder, were Mrs. F. C. Hungerford and Jno. Comstock. Mrs. C. G. Graham was in charge of the bridge tables, Mrs. N. D. Buchanan in charge of the euchre games, to which were awarded the same prizes, won by Mrs. N. H. Sutton, Dr. D. Carmichael and J. K. Hughes, (lone hands.)

A specially devised programme of novelty dances added much to the varying interest of the evening, and included a leap year number for the young ladies, who were supplied with huge hoops a Ku Klux dance, with lowered lights and ghostly, white-clad figures; a "Dumbell" fox trot; a dance for the bachelors with brooms and dolls' heads; a traffic dance with Traffic Cop Bob Arnott leading, and a number with singing, led by R. A. Brown. The evening opened in the dining room, where timed lights made a charming lighting scheme, with a Grand March, favors for the ladies being dainty butterflies for the gentlemen colored toy balloons.

Excellent music was supplied by Ken Blood's four-piece orchestra from Port Hope. The executive committee of ladies was composed of Mesdames Jno. Crane, F. L. Roy, R. H. Turner, J. H. Seels, C. H. Rogers, H .O. Fisk, C. G. Graham, A. L. Killaly, N. D. Buchanan, with stewards Rotarians R. Dobie, F. Linton, R. Abbott, Ross Dobbin, O. DeGaw, D. Lawrie and L. Potvin.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Morris, Dr. and Mrs. G. R. Scott, Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Graham, Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Welsh of Oshawa, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. SEEKING TO REVISE THE PSALMS OF DAVID

LONDON, April 14. — (Associated Press)—Drastic changes and elisions in the vivid Psalms of David in the Book of Common Prayer are recommended by the special committee of the House of Bishops which has been sitting in solemn conclave on the subject for months. The alterations, if sanctioned by the National Assembly of the Church of England, will constitute an alternative text to the psalms, to be used at the discretion of ministers. The proposed revision of the prayer book includes also the shortening of the ten commandments and the alteration of the marriage service.

The psalmist's vision of unforgetable doom for the ungodly is radically modified. Psalm 58 is to be omitted altogether. It contains such expressions as:

"Break their teeth, O God, in their mouths, let them fall away like water that runneth apace. Let them consume away like a snail. The righteous shall rejoice when he seeth the vengeance; he hall wash his footsteps in the blood of the ungodly."

Verses are to be left out from eight other psalms and in each case the sentiments are for death and condemnation, as for example, in psalm 68, verse 23: "That thy foot may be dipped in the blood of thine enemies, and that the tongue of the dog may be red through the same," and in psalm 109, verses 9 and 10: "Let his children be fatherless and his wife a widow. Let his children be vagabonds and beg their bread."

No fewer than 346 alterations are suggested in the wording of the verses of various psalms. A comparison of the revised version with the old text in a selection of these alterations is given below. In each instance the revised version is given below first:

Psalm 68 Verse 9:

"As for the ungodl, they shall perish and; the enemies of the Lord shall be as the flower of the field; yea, even as the smoke shall they consume away."

"As for the ungodly they shall perish, and the enemies of the Lord shall consume as t' fat of lambs; yea, even as the smoke shall they consume away."

Psalf 62, Verse 9:

"As for e children of men, they are but vanity, the children of men are deceitful: tried in the balance they are altogether lighter than vanity itself."

"As for the children of men, they are but vanity: the children of men are deceitful upon the weights, they are altogether lighter than vanity itself."

Psalm 72, Verse 6:

"He shall come down like the rain upon the tender grass; even as the drops that water the earth."

"He shall come down like the rain into a fleece of wool; even as the drops that water the earth."

Urging that the suggested changes be rejected, the London Daily Express says editorially: "The committee of revision has been trying to modify the immortal songs of David, to suit the less robust constitutions of today. The psalms of David were for a vigorous race, a race of conquerors. In their verses we have found the fundamental passions of a mighty people expressed with inspired genius. When te war and conquest was the theme there was the clash of battle in the very words. Hatred and anguish and sorrow were portrayed with the vividness of a storm among the hills. And when the psalmist sang of beauty it was in such accents as shall survive until the human race no longer responds to the appeal of music. The Book of Common Prayer is one of the twin glories of our literature. It has consoled and inspired the people since the days of Edward VI. Our modern Bolsheviks and Bowdlers have no right to degrade the psalter."

Efficient Housekeeping

The modern idea of economy extends into the household as well as into every branch of business. Most housewives pride themselves upon the fact that their homes are conducted in an efficient, business-like manner.

Every housewife knows, too, that the business of running a house, providing for the wants and needs of the different members of the family and meeting the almost daily emergencies is second to none.

The Want Ads. in the Examiner are a great boon to the efficient housewife. In securing helpers, in purchasing various articles of household equipment, disposing of discarded furniture, in fact in countless ways, the Want Ads. are the housewife's most valuable assistant.

Society

Mrs. C. James of Port Hope, is the guest of Mrs. G. Jobbitt, Boswell avenue.

Mr. Peter Moffat of Smith street, is visiting relatives in Toronto.

The King Edward Home and School Association held a well-attended meeting yesterday afternoon, the president, Mrs. J. J. Pollock, in the chair. Mrs. W. R. Morris was present and gave a splendid outline of the business discussed at the recent Conference on Education in Toronto. Music was contributed by Mrs. Walter Byers, who sang, and May Pollock and Josephine Arthur, who gave instrumental selections.

The young ladies of Section No. 5, the Immaculate Conception parish, had charge of a successful card party in the East City parish hall last evening. The committee in charge was composed of the Misses McCormick, Butler and Grisdale, with Mrs. Butler and Mrs. J. McAuliffe assisting the young ladies. Prizes for cards were won by Miss B. Fallon and Mrs. Jas. Grisadle.

Mr. Melville Hartley of London, Ont., is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Hartley, Charlotte street.

Miss Barabara Massey-Cooke has gone to Whitby, where she will study at the Whitby Ladies' College.

In the account of the tea given under the auspices of All Saints Women's Guild, the name of Mrs. P. Hooper, who gave a violin solo, was inadvertently omitted.

Mr. W. G. Barrie, formerly of Peterboro and latterly of Prince Rupert has so far recovered his health as to be able to be removed from Mayo Brothers' clinic, Rochester, Minn., to the Nicholls Hospital Peteroro. Miss M. Kelehan, registered nurse, accompanied Mrs. Barrie and has since returned to Mayo Brothers. Mrs. Barrie's mother lives on London street.

On last Tuesday evening the Blue Bird Bridge Club entertained at the home of Mrs. J. D. Deyell, 265 Park street. The room was charmingly decorated with carnations and pink tulips. After some strenuously contested games, dainty refreshments were served, bringing to a close a pleasant evening.

Miss Mary McClelian, of Bowmanville, is the guest of Mrs. M. L. McNaught, Dublin street.

Mrs. S. C. Warne has returned home, after spending the past two months in California.

Mrs. A. McGregor left to-day for Campbellford to join Mr. McGregor, where they will reside.

Rev. Dr. C. W. Rose, the new pastor of the Murray street Baptist Church, came to the city to commence his duties on the 5.20 train from Port Hope yesterday. He was welcomed to the city by Dr. W. D. Scott, and Messrs. L. J. Pettet, A. J. Madill, A. T. Raddon, R. S. Merrell, A. S. Zavitz, and Joseph Wearing, representing Murray Street Church, and Rev. W. E. Morrow, pastor of the Park street church. Dr. Rose will preach both morning and evening at the Murray street church to-morrow, and it is expected that the congregations will turn out in full force to greet him. He leaves a large and important church at Amherst, N.S. and is president of the Maritime Baptist Convention.

MANY NEWSPAPERS PRINT BIBLE VERSE

CINCINNATI, April 14.—More than 2,000 newspapers published in America are using passages from the bible in their editions, according to a report compiled by the Back to the Bible Society, which has headquarters here.

The number of newspapers serve with these verses from the bible by the bureau has increased from 671 in 1922, to 2,038 in 1923. The report continues:

"The papers which the bureau is serving have a combined circulation of 14,233,254, and reliable authorities on newspapers state that if the matter is well displayed and occupies a preferred position in the paper it will be read by at least two persons for each copy in circulation."

The newspapers now being furnished these verses without cost include 1946 in the United States and its territories; 87 in the Dominion of Canada; 2 in Newfoundland; two in the West Indie and one in Korea.

The report points out that the Church Year Book shows approximately 26,000,000 Protestants and 18,000,000 Roman Catholics in this country, making a total of 44,000,000 church members, or 40 per cent of the total approximate population of 110,000,000. Thus, the report shows 60 per cent are without any kind of church membership.

"On the other hand," the report continues, "nearly every American citizen reads some newspaper and the only immediate and available means of giving the Word of God to the masses is through the press."

THE WEATHER.

Several inches of snow in the morning, followed at night by heavy rain for a time, had a tendency to cause further pessimism as regards our already late spring. However, those who have abiding faith in the moon, point to the fact that there is a new moon to-night, and that a change to better weather will likely follow. Fair Luna has now a first class opportunityp to uphold her reputation as a weather stabilizer. I for one hopes she succeeds.—W. P.

LABOR UNREST STILL GROWING IN GT. BRITAIN

Hundreds of Thousands of Men Are Idle, and Lock-outs or Strikes Threatened.

WILL LAW RESIGN?

LONDON, April 16.—(Canadian Press.) —Unrest among the workers of England was manifest in increasing proportions to-day as the all-important budget was placed before Parliament.

Conferences between employers and employees were scheduled for this week in the builders, railway shipment, pottery workers, cotton millers, chemical workers, shipyard and coal trimmers trades.

There has been a strike or lock-out threatened in each of these industries and hundreds of thousands of men are involved.

As the momentous monetary problem was placed before the legislators rumors persisted that the resignation of the Bonar Law Cabinet was at hand.

This was officially denied at 10 Downing street. The Government is having a hard time killing the widespread rumor of Ministry resignation. The Morning Post to-day jeered the rumor.

The Times submitted the official announcement as proof that there was no foundation to the story, but some other sections of the British press refused to be convinced.

Rumors Denied.

Staunch supporters of Prime Minister Bonar Law among the morning papers are indignant at what they call "conspiracy to weaken the ministry," launched in the Sunday press, which reported that the Premier was about to resign because of ill health.

The Morning Post, leading Conservative paper, asserts with the greatest emphasis that there is no truth whatever in Sunday's stories and there is nothing in the condition of Mr. Bonar Law's Health to compel his retirement. The Post and other papers which share its views, attributes the "conspiracy" to Lord Birkenhead and other Conservatives, who refuse to participate in Government. They also implicate Lloyd George and his supporters whom they say, desire the restoration of coalition.

Lower Taxation

Lower taxation was proposed to the House of Commons to-day by Stanley Baldwin, Chancellor of the Exchequer, in submitting the new government budget. Baldwin proposed (1) Reduction of fifty per cent in the corporation's profits tax after June 30. (2) Six pence reduction in the income tax; (3) Reduction of the beer tax of a penny a pint.

Liquidate Debt

In the course of his budget speech this afternoon the Chancellor of the exchequer announced that Britain has paid Canada sixty two million dollar, during the past year, thereby practically liquidating her debt to the Dominion.

He added that the past year's surplus of 101,000,000 pounds had gone to reduction of the national debt. The financial year just closed had become steadily better as it proceeded trade at home and abroad had improved and unemployment had diminished considerably.

FLIES ABOVE CLOUDS ACROSS CHANNEL

A Handley-page plane of the type in which William Philip Simms crossed the English Channel. Below, interior of one of these giant passenger planes.

By William Philip Simms.
(Special Cable to the Examiner).

ABOARD AN AIRPLANE OVER THE ENGLISH CHANNEL, April 16.—Sitting in a comfortable armchair, I am pounding out this story on a typewriter perched on my knees.

Three-quarters of a mile below me I can see the English Channel. Rather rough, for quite a gale is blowing. To right and left, the great silvery-blue wings of the Handley-Page.

And on either side a roaring Rolls-Royce twin-six, throttled down to carry us on schedule time, about 80 miles an hour, according to the speedometer in front of me.

Cotton-wool is in my ears to drown the noise. Yet that is not disagreeable, for we are inside a sort of "parlor car" with seven chairs on either side of an aisle, and there are glass windows.

Schedule Is Exact.

Overhead, on the ceiling, is a map of our route—London to Paris, via Ashford, Hythe, Boulogne, Montreuil (Sir Douglas Haig's old headquarters), Amiens and Beauvais. The time of our arrival at each of these places is printed opposite the name.

For, you see, this is just the new way to travel. I have only two large suitcases with me, but in the baggage compartment to the rear there are several trunks belonging to another passenger.

Over the window at my elbow is a notice. It says:

1. Smoking strictly prohibited.
2. It is prohibited to throw objects from the window.
3. Pure water is carried on board the plane.
4. In case of emergency put on the lifebelt like a waistcoat and fasten buckles. A sharp blow on the lever will inflate the lifebelt.
5. There is a lavatory at the back of the saloon.
6. Passengers may move about freely as the slight shift in weight has no effect on the stability of the machine.

There are but five of us on board. The pilot, G. P. Olley, one of the best in the business; two mechanicians, a boyish Englishman and myself.

One of the mechanics has just come in from outside. He has taken the chair in front of mine and is reading—from the rack overhead—a copy of "John O'London."

A column called "Nibbles From Pied Piper's Street" catches his eye. Now the sporting page. Now "Casanova, the supreme Adventurer"—Don Juan, Cagliostro and Wandering Jew all in one.

That seems to please him. He unfastens his flying garments, and settles down. "Casanova, the supreme adventurer," probably in all his life never experienced the equal of this now commonplace adventure of flying.

Far down a big liner is heading toward Boulogne.

The young Englishman takes his pasteboard lunch box from the rack and begins to eat. His drink is whisky and soda. Cheese, tongue and ham sandwiches, fruit, cake and chocolate for dessert, compose his victuals.

We are skirting the shore line now, a bit out to sea. Far below I can plainly make out the beach at Etaples and the hotel where, when things were quiet on the British front, I used to go for a fancy feed.

The young English lad has finished his meal.

I'm hungry. . . . The dots represent the interval of my lunch. We're now past Abbeville. My "stout" tasted pretty good. Certainly beats home brew.

Young English lad is asleep! What's the use? No more thrill in this flying thing. No more novelty. Just a business now. Just a quick way to travel—quick and comfortable. Folks—even young boys—go to sleep travelling a mile up in the clouds. I remember when it was an event to ride on an electric car.

Twelve years ago, Blériot broke his monoplane's back crossing this same English Channel. Gallant Hubert Latham—later trampled to death by a buffalo in Africa—fell into the sea trying it, just from shore to shore. I covered that story.

And Count De Lambert's feat, flying around Eiffel Tower in a Wright machine, breaking the record for both height and distance in that one flight. I covered that, too. And now look!

International Race On.

Here comes the tag. Britain is leaving America 'way behind in this flying game—a game which America began.

Britain cut down her navy estimates, thanks to the Washington conference. But she boosted her air force estimates by more than $5,000,000, and I have reason to believe still more will be spent to keep France from leaving her in the shade.

For Britain knows and France knows that in the future nations will win or lose their wars—in the air.

It was to put this tag on paper that I took my typewriter from the rack—not to write a novel story while flying above the clouds. No novelty in that.

America's very existence may some day depend on her strength in the clouds. She'd better get busy.

The City's Income Tax Regulations Are Almost Identical With the Dominion's

A by-law recently passed by the city council sets out the regulations respecting the municipal income tax.

All persons who are liable for income are required to file with City Assessor W. J. Henry, before the 30th of April, a statement of their earnings and receipts. There are certain exemptions, somewhat similar to those of the Dominion income tax and the forms appear to be nearly identical with those issued from the Federal offices. Householders whose personal earnings or salaries do not exceed $2,000 are exempt from this tax, and those who have dependent children are allowed an additional exemption of $200 for each child.

Persons who are not householders are exempted up to $1,000.

Another clause provides that a widow or any person over 60 years of age is exempted to the amount of $2,000 when their incomes do not exceed $2,000. And incomes from investments are exempted to the amount of $800 when the total income from all sources does not exceed $1500. These are the main provision of the law which is now in effect.

NEW OFFICERS OF ROTARY ARE DULY INSTALLED

Committees for the Next Twelve Months Are Named by the New President, V. J. McElderry.

TODAY'S CEREMONY

President, V. J. McElderry, and the other new officers of the Peterboro Rotary Club, were duly installed into office at to-day's luncheon by Rotarian H. R. H. Kenner, who performed his important duties with his customary eloquence and wit.

The officers for the next twelve months will be:

President—V. J. McElderry.
Vice-Pres.—Reid Wrenn.
Secretary—Jack McHardy.
Treasurer—Douglas Laurie.
Sergeant-at-arms—Chris. Graham.

In his charge to the new officers, Rotarian Kenner laid some injunctions upon them that were responsible for much amusement. Rotarian McHardy, for example, was instructed that his first duty would be to give the corect tinie to every member of the club who asked him for it.

But the witty instructions were only a foil for the serious side of the installing officer's charge for the eloquently emphasized the responsibilities assumed by the officers in guiding the activities of the Peterboro Rotary Club during the year, and in conclusion drew the picture of an ideal Rotarian for the benefit of the members of the Club, and as an inspiration to them to be worthy of the organization.

The newly installed president on behalf of himself and his fellow officers briefly thanked the members for the trust imposed in them and then named the committees for the year as follows:

Classification Committee — Chairman J. H. Seels.

Attendance Committee—Jas. Hamilton, chairman; Harry Thompson, F. A. Hungerford.

On-to-St.-Louis Committee—Hugh Bertram; Gerald Wood, Reg. H. Turner.

Entertainment Committee — J. W. McDermid, chairman; A. Mowat, H. O. Fiske, Jack Primeau, Rev. Harold Young.

Boys' Camp Committee — Claude H. Rogers, chairman; L. Potvin, Reg Turner, Fred L. Roy, R. A. Browne.

Get-the-Goods Comittee — E. B. Fowler, chairman; Frank Linton, Noble Kelly, Jack Primeau.

Get-the-Boy Committee — George A. Macdonald, chairman; H. R. H. Kenner.

Inter-City Relations Committee — Reg. H. Turner, chairman, Alpine MacNab, Homer Myers.

Fellowship Committee — Chris G. Graham, chairman.

Educational Committee—A. Mowat, chairman, W. R. Morris, W. H. Thompson.

Business Methods Committee — A. L. Killaly, chairman; Andrew Brown E. B. Fowler.

Baseball Committee — Jack Primeau, chairman; Ross Dobbin, Walter Belleghem.

The attendance records for the year read by Secretary Douglas Lawrie, showed that President John Crane had an attendance of 100 per cent for the 12 months, while Chris. Graham, Tom Ephgrave and J. M. McHardy had missed but two meetings. Of those who had not been members for a full year four had attended every meeting since they joined.

Rotarian Claude Rogers called attention to the great success of the Rotary Anne's dance which had resulted in a net profit of over $300, and had had a paid attendance of about 400 people. The Rotary Anne's he said wished to thank Rotarian Chris Graham for placing the Empress Hotel at their service, and Rotarian Walter Belleghem for loaning the chairs and tables.

A class of young girls from the Y. W. C. A., gave a very enjoyable sailor hornpipe, demonstrating the splendid instruction that they have received. The number called attention to the gymnastic exhibition which is to be given by the Y girls under the direction of Miss Caroline Littlefield on April 26th and 27th, in the Grand Opera House, and was much appreciated by the Rotarians.

A Toronto Pastor After Amusements

NEW YORK, April 16. — (Canadian Press) — Over thousand New Yorkers to-day stand pledged to remain away from theatre and similar forms of amusement. Pledge was given yesterday afternoon, when in waste of religious fervor capacity congregation at Calvary Baptist Church at behest of Canadian pastor rose and solemnly agreed to forswear form of so-called "worldly amusements" these included theatres motion picture card playing and dancing. Only ten persons kept their seats. Pledge was culminating point in sermon preached by Rev. T. T. Shields of Toronto, who flayed the theatre as "hopelessly and incurably immoral."

OCCUPY RUHR TO WIN PEACE

Germany Will Wait in Vain for a Moment of French Weakness, Says Poincare.

DUNKIRK, France, April 16. — (Special).—"France is in the Ruhr to win peace," Premier Poincare declared yesterday in dedicating a monument to Dunkirk's fifteen hundred dead in the war.

"Germany will wait in vain for a single moment of weakness on our part," he said. "France will finish what she has begun, finish it patiently. France will stand firm until the end.

"For if France had not gone into the Ruhr and given Germany a moratorium without exacting guarantees, then at the end of that delay Germany would have met the demand for payment with refusal and defiance. That is where weakness would inevitably have led us."

Premier Poincare's remarks at Dunkirk were intended primarily for British consumption, Berlin papers declare, yet they cannot understand why such a new stimulant was regarded as necessary in view of the fact that Louis Loucheur was reported to have found the British sentiment swinging toward France.

Chemistry is a Great Field For the Young.

Nearly 40 years ago Comte de Chardonnet, Frenchman, discovered how to make artificial silk from nitric acid and cellulose.

Today a textile man claims that a third of the "silk" we wear is synthetic, the artificial kind. One's as good as the other, on the average depending on the purpose.

What's happening in the silk industry will happen in other industries. The chemist will rule the future, producing even synthetic foods. If your boy wants to study chemistry, encourage him. There's no greater field.

DISAGREEMENT IN INTERALLIED PARLEY, PARIS

Conference on the Costs of Rhineland Armies of Occupation Struck a Snag Today.

U. S. NOT SATISFIED

(By John De Gandt, United Press Staff Correspondent).

PARIS, April 16.—The interallied conference regarding costs of the Rhineland armies of occupation, which was attended by Elliott Wadsworth, for the United States, struck a snag to-day and adjourned sine die.

Proposals submitted by Wadsworth on behalf of the American Government differed so radically from those put forward by the Allies at previous sessions that the French, Belgian and British representatives asked time to consult their Governments. The difficulties were technicalities, the official announcement stated.

Wadsworth has cabled to Washington for further instructions. It is reported disagreement arises on the subject of priority; the Allies' original plan was not satisfactory to the United States.

SATURDAY'S GAME WAS COSTLY C.N.R. VICTORY

The C.N.R. softball team paid dearly for their victory over Utilities on Saturday afternoon. They sent their opponents down to defeat to the score of 9-7, thereby winning the first game this season, but in doing so they lost one of their best players. Osborne Smith, which making a run across the home plate collided with another of the players and hurt his leg. The injury was not considered serious, and Smith was walking yesterday, at night, however, the pain was so great that he was removed to hospital, where his condition is reported a being very bad.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT WILL MAKE OR BREAK THE LAW GOVERNMENT

Stanley Baldwin Will Present the National Budget in the House of Commons To-Day.

SURPLUS EXPECTED.

LONDON, April 16. — Canadian Press. — Never was deeper interest concentrated on any nation budget than on the finacial programme for the fiscal year 1923-4, which Chancellor of the Exchequer Baldwin will present to the House of Commons to-morrow. This is because a great majority of the citzens are feeling the burden of taxation as they never felt it before and realize more keenly how the government's financial operations react on private enterprises and the everyday life of the people. Reduction of taxation is the one point the public discusses.

British Cabinets are supposed to keep their budgets profoundly secret until the curtain rises on them in Parliament, but financial experts in recent years have been able to make forecasts on important points with an assurance which would have shocked old fashioned statesmen in the days before the war.

A striking example was given last year when it seemed to be a matter of common knowledge that the income tax would be reduced a shilling in the pound. A further reduction in the new budget, financial writers are confidently predicting, is another cut, from five shillings to 4½ shillings.

This will be a boon to the great middle classes and incidentally to the highest stratum of the very wealthy, although there appears to be little popular sympathy with the sorrows of the laborers in these days of struggle to make both ends meet, which has caused the middle classes to call themselves poor.

Another economy which will be received with joy by the masses if it materializes, is a penny a pint in what the politicians call "the workingmans' beer." This will not mean a reduction of a penny a pint in taxation but an arrangement by the government with the brewers whereby they share the sacrifice which will strike a penny off the cost to consumers of every honest pint.

The expenditure by the people on the year's output of beer will then be roughly 22,000,000 pounds less than now, of which the government will remit approximately 14,000,000 pounds of taxation and the brewers cut the price of beer per barrel by a figure totalling 8,000,000 pounds.

Nor will the brewers be driven to the wall, because notwithstanding the bitter complaints from them over high taxation, the fact stands out in the annual reports of the brewing companies that with weaker beer and higher taxation they are making far greater profits than before the war.

This compact is discussed by the papers as an accomplished fact but if it fails to come off better disappointment will ensue. A similar arrangement with the tobacco interests for bringing down prices a penny per pound, is expected.

A tax on betting is a novel project which is rapidly gaining popularity. Vastly more money is wagered on race tracks in Great Britain than in any other country. The amount of money which changes hands, the degree of taxation, it would stand, and practical devices for the collection of the tax are all matters of guesswork. It would be impossible to include such a scheme in this budget. But there is a prospect that a separate bill may be drawn later, launching a betting tax.

In the meantime the newspapers are filled with letters and interviews dealing mostly with the moral aspect of the proposal. Even the Bishops of the Church of England are divided on the question. One of the most prominent, the right Rev. Jas. Edward Welldon, Dean of Durham, advocates the tax.

Child Was Shot By His Playmate

ST. CATHARINES, April 16 —(Canadian Press) — William Hilton, 8 year-old-son of John Hilton was instantly killed in a rear room of the fruit store of his grandfather, Louis Ross, James street, Saturday evening by a revolver in the hands of a 7 year old playmate, Albert Morton who found the gun in the place and playfully pointed it at his chum. The bullet entered the boys abdomen. No inquest will be held.

J. C. GRANT, MONTREAL, HONORABLY ACQUITTED

NEW YORK, April 16.—(Canadian Press). — Charges which were brought against Joseph Charles Grant, of Montreal, by the Belleclaire Hotel, in connection with a sum of money which the hotel claimed from Mr. Grant, have been dismissed. Mr. Grant was able to explain the apparent financial discrepancies to the management of the hotel, with the result that the charge was withdrawn and he was honorably discharged by the court.

Statements which were made by Mrs. Sarah Grace Cassidy, of 146 Oxford Court, Manhattan Beach, who had entered a claim for rent of a cottage, were disproved by Mr. Grant. Mrs. Cassidy had asserted Mr. Grant had left the cottage last summer owing $500. Mr. Grant had leased the cottage last autumn and had lived in it for one month, but finding conditions unsatisfactory he had notified Mrs. Cassidy that he would not remain. He declared he paid Mrs. Cassidy the full rental for the time of occupancy. Mrs. Cassidy had also claimed that Mr. Grant, during his occupancy of the cottage had "given numerous large parties," and had also asserted that he owed bills to several tradesmen in the neighborhood when he left. This was also disproved by Mr. Grant, who asserted he had been in poor health and was living very quietly during his sojourn at Manhattan Beach.

FIRE BUG SUSPECTED IN A BIG LONDON FIRE

LONDON, Ont., April 16.—(Canadian Press.)—Fire discovered about six o'clock Saturday evening caused a loss of $200,000 to the plant of H. J. Jones and Sons, Limited, lithographers ,Dundas street. Only the walls remain to-day.

President Jones said yesterday that he suspected incendiarism and referred to an explosion as evidence that a bomb had been placed in the building. Assistant Fire Chief Scott scouts the fire-bug theory and believes that the explosion was due to accumulated gasses which gathered before the fire was discovered. About sixty persons are thrown out of work. This is the third fire at the Jones plant since last fall.

DRURY DENIES THAT HE EVER LOOKED FOR ANY SUPPORT FROM GRITS

Halton People's Political Association Expresses Confidence in Premier at Annual Meeting.

DEEP LAID PLOT.

MILTON, Ont., April 16.—The Halton People's Political Association held the annual meeting in the Princess theatre here Saturday afternoon with a record attendance of about 500.

The meeting was presided over by Norman Wrigglesworth, president of the association. During the business session which preceded the general meeting the following officers were elected:

Hon. presidents, — Hon. E. C. Drury and J. T. Ford; president, —N. Wrigglesworth; vice-president M. A. Campbell; secretary-treasurer, —Al. MacNabb.

When called upon by President Wrigglesworth, Mr. Drury arose to speak amidst rounds of applause.

"It is a great pleasure to come up to-day and meet my friends of Halton, in view of the things that have passed during the last week. I am glad to have this opportunity of explaining the matters of government policy and issues before us that have come up. During the last week I have gone through a painful experience. A man whom I had previously trusted made charges on the floor of the House, which, if true, would not have involved my business management of the affairs of this province but would have involved my personal honor.

"There was no more than the assertion of one man, which I could unequivocally deny. While I have alway received support across the House and could not have carried on the government without it, I have never dickered for the support of either party.

"Mr. Curry, it seems, had met Senator Hardy and had discussed with him, unknown to me, plans for getting together. Mr. Curry had no authority to speak for me.

Senator Hardy wrote a letter, but addressed it to the wrong man, who used it wrongfully, a disgraceful thing that leads us to one conclusion that it was the result of a deeply laid plot. The mine was well laid, and, apparently, there was plenty of powder in it. The only trouble was it didn't go off, or perhaps I should say it went off and shot the wrong man. The result has been that instead of weakening the government, it has made it strong. We face the country to-day more united than we ever have been. When I was chosen to carry on the government I did so under certain clear lines of policy I want you to determine if I have adhered to these policies."

Mr. Drury then read the policies which he determined to carry out when he was appointed leader of the U.F.O. pasty and he gave a straight answer to the Farmers' Sun demand that he give a pre-election pledge against any fusion or combination with other parties in order to carry on the government.

"Principles and policy are more important than party names," was the axiom of the premier—the motif of his speech.

Still for Broadening Out.

It was a momentous declaration. It defined his stand in the campaign. It indicated that he still stands strong an steadfast to his broadening out policy. He will not refuse the support of thousands of country town and city people simply because they do not or cannot call themselves by the U.F.O. name. If they stand for his principle, and those of the Progressive movement he will accept their support.

These were his own words:

"In the event of being returned after the election with a party not sufficiently strong in itself to carry on the government, I have been asked to pledge myself not to accept support from any members of the legislature who are not called by our party name.

"Believing that principles and policy are much more important than party names, I cannot pledge myself to this course of action.

Broad Principles

"The U. F. O. movement has always asserted that the principles for which it has stood are broad enough to commend themselves to all sections of the community as being in the best interests of the whole community. These policies and principles have been accepted by thousands of people who are not farmers, and they are the foundation of the great Progressive movement in Ontario and throughout Canada. These principles I accept and believe in. I will not sacrifice them in the slightest degree.

"If, as a result of the election, I find myself leading a party not sufficently strong to carry on the government, and if elected members of the legislature from either of the other parties, believing in our record and our policies, are willing to support me, I will not hesitate to accept their support and to carry on the government."

His Words of 1919.

Premier Drury quotes his speech of acceptance of leadership of the Farmer-Labor alliance, in October of 1919. This is what he said at that time:

"In accepting the position to which you have elected me, I feel keenly sensible of the honor which you have conferred upon me, and also of the great responsibilities which accompany that honor. The position is unique in the political history of the province, and, so far as I am personally concerned, is not one which I should have chosen, as I realize that the bed upon which you have placed me is likely to have more thorns than feathers in it.

"I do not, however, entertain any fears regarding the situation. It is true we may be lacking in experience, but the situation is not one which calls for the fine arts of the politician.

Represents the Common People.

"It is true that in a sense we represent the farming community; and, in all truth, that section of the people has been in great need for many years of a greater voice in the legislatures of the province and of the country, a voice which it is our duty to adequately supply. But in a very real sense we represent not alone the forty per cent. of the people who are on the farms, but also the great bulk of the common people of all classes, the people who are desirous of good government, of stability, efficiency and economy, and of the fair and equal enforcement of law. Our success, therefore, depends not on political manoeuvering, but on the breadth and fairness of our policy, and on our adherence to the high ideals of democracy and public service which have made this movement a vital thing in the life of the nation. May we not hope that before long this movement, which has had its birth in one particular class, may expand and broaden till it shall become not merely a Farmers' party, but in a very real sense a People's party?

No Class Legislation.

"It is too early to speak of our legislative programme. We have not yet been called on to form a government, and it would be unwise to anticipate. We can, however, lay down certain broad principles which must and should govern us in the matter. Our war, in the past, has been waged on special privilege. We are not at this time going to abandon the principles of justice and fair play which have actuated us in the past. If we are called to power we must stand for no class legislation of whatever kind.

"Our legislative programme must be framed for the benefit of every just and honest and legitimtae interest in the province. If in the carrying out of such a programme the unjust and dishonest interests get in the way, so much the worse for the latter."

Adhered to Principles.

Having finished reading this utterance of almost four years ago, he went on to defend his record.

"This policy has been faithfully adhered to," he said. "We have not endeavored to legislate or administer for any one class or section of the community, but have kept before us the interests of the province. Let me say that in so doing agriculture and the interests of the rural people have been given a service and attention such as they had never before received.

"We appeal to the province on our record and our policy. It is my firm conviction that principles and policy are and must be more important than party names or party fortunes."

Expects Greater Majority.

"I believe we will come back with a majority stronger than we are now." (Applause.) "But if we come back in a minority group and if we find a group in the House that will support us I will carry on with per-

QUEBEC MUST HAVE HELP TO HOLD PEOPLE

Premier Taschereau Expresses Grave Concern at the Large Number of French-Canadians Who Are Leaving.

REMEDY NEEDED.

MONTREAL April 16 (Canadian Press). — Grave concern was expressed by Premier Taschereau at what he termed "the heart-rending" problem of the rural population in parts of the Province of Quebec leaving their homes to settle elsewhere, principally in the United States, when he addressed the members of the St. Denis Club here on Saturday night.

"No matter what party be in power politically, it must concentrate on the development of our rural centres; it is no merely a political question," declared Mr. Taschereau.

Outlining the queston, Hon. Mr. Taschereau spoke of the two millions of French-Canadians who are now in the United States, gave his reasons for their leaving, and offered certain remedies for stopping the exodus The Premier took occasion to address some mild reproaches to a part of the French local press for painting too rosy pictures of conditions in the United States, and thereby inducing many to emigrate, in most cases never to return.

"I would ask," he said, "our French newspapers not to continue this propaganda; but rather to publish the fact that very often those who go away must eat the black bread of disappointment and misery. In the United States, the new settlers are not asked where they come from, as long as they have money and position they are extremely welcome," he added, with some show of bitterness.

Coming to the remedy for this state of affairs, the Premier said that agricultural credits had been tried before and had failed. It would be preferable to give money instead of lending. The banks, he thought, should lend money to the farmers at 5 per cent. interest, as they do in Australia and New Zealand. He emphatically urged the doing away of debenture sales, as it had proved ruinous to farmers.

"We want help from Ottawa," declared Mr. Taschereau, "to bring back our own people. We are quite prepared even to pay their moving expenses back to the Province of Quebec. It is more important for us to have our old Canadians back again than to have European immigrants. We must create industrial centres so that those who dislike staying on the farms will be able to make a livelihood like they do in the United States."

IMMIGRANTS HAVE FINANCIAL BACKING

Band of 85 Highly Desirable Colonists Have Arrived at St. John, N.B.

ST. JOHN,S, N.B., April 16. Canadian Press. — Among the arrivals on the Canadian Pacific Steamship Montclare, on Saturday, were two parties, one consisting of 164 from an international tourist agency, and 85 colonists, who came to Canada under the direction of C. E. Williams, of Calgary. The parties were made up mostly of Britishers, and were the finest looking lot of immigrants of the winter season. With a very few exceptions they will go to the Canadian west to work on farms.

Many of them are sons of wealthy landowners and farmers in the Old Country, and will likely purchase farms of their own. Some of the young men were reputed to have with them from two to three thousand pounds, and in addition have good financial backing at home.

Plans for the erection of $2,000,000,000 worth of dwellings in this country were made at a recent convention of brick manufacturers in Cleveland, Ohio. Other kinds of buildings to the value of $3,000,000,000 are also to be erected.

THREE FLYERS START OFF FOR WORLD FLIGHT

Two Wrecked When Forced By Engine Trouble to Return to Paris.

THE ROUTE.

NICE, France, April 16.—(Canadian Press).—Three pilots, Captain Madon, M. De Gaillard, and M. Picard took off yesterday in their machines for Milan, the first jump in the round-the-world flight of the "Flying Circus" organized by Captain Bapt.

Madon and De Gaillard, however, soon developed engine trouble and had to turn back. They made bad landings and their airplanes were wrecked. Picard, who was accompanied by three Italian machines, continued the flight to Milan.

The intention was for Captain Bapt and Captain L'Homme, the other two flyers in the contest, to fly from Paris direct later and meet those leaving yesterday at Milan.

The "Bapt Flying Circus" originally intended to start from Nice on the round-the-world trip Easter Sunday. The five planes were to fly eastward, crossing Asia by way of India to Japan, and thence to Nome, Alaska; then down the Pacific Coast of North America to Argentina. The schedule called for the jump across the Atlantic to be started from Pernambuco, Brazil, and end at Dakar, French West Africa, whence the flyers were to proceed northward to the starting point at Nice.

Motion Introduced to Cut Indemnity.

EDMONTON, Alta., April 16. — (Canadian Press.)—W. M. Davidson, Independent, Calgary, created some consternation at Saturday morning's session of the Alberta Legislature, when he introduced an act to reduce the sessional indemnities from $2,000 as agreed upon Friday night, to $1,500. First reading was given to the Act which Mr. Davidson says, if passed, is to apply immediately.

WEAK GOVERNMENT.

LONDON, April 16. — (Canadian Press).—"The Prime Minister has no intentions whatever of resigning," said a statement issued last night from No. 10 Downing Street, the official residence of Andrew Bonar Law.

This constituted the Government's reply to statements in several of the Sunday morning newspapers, which the Government could not allow to pass unchallenged. This official denial, however, it is generally agreed in political circles, does not affect the situation as indicated in despatches last week—that Mr. Bonar Law's retention of office depends upon his health.

Undoubtedly the Premier has no intention of relinquishing hold if his health will stand up under the continuous heavy strain of office. When he assumed the Premiership, Mr. Bonar Law frankly said his retention of the post would depend entirely on his health, and official denials such as that issued yesterday, it is believed, will not influence public opinion, which has been almost universal since last week's happenings in Parliament, that if the Government is to survive it must be greatly strengthened, and that unless the Premier's physical condition rapidly improves, he cannot yield the necessary driving power to carry on the administration in the face of the canghie and alert Opposition.

The Premier still has three months before him in which he may reconstruct his Ministry without the necessity of new Ministers having to run the gauntlet by elections, and this is an important factor, considering the general dissatisfaction caused by the Government's complete inertia in connection with the Ruhr trouble, and home problems, like unemployment, housing and the labor disputes.

The fate of the Ministry probably largely depends on the nature of the budget statement Stanley Baldwin, Chancellor of the Exchequer, will be able to present. A popular budget would be a great asset to the Government. Failing that, the Government's chance of survival is considered to be small, unless a reconstruction would bring back Austen Chamberlain, Lord Birkenhead, Sir Robert S. Horne, and others of the late Coalition Government. The die-hard section of the Conservatives which engineered the revolt in the Coalition against David Lloyd George still is strongly opposed to this solution, and should it succeed

Women Planning National Federation

OTTAWA, April 16.—(Canadian Press)—There is a plan afoot at the present time, say the Ottawa Citizen to form a national federation of Women's Liberal Clubs with headquarters in Ottawa. The plan being discussed is that the Ottawa Women's Liberal Club should endeavor to arrange for the calling of a meeting of the wives and daughters of the cabinet ministers and members of the House of Commons and Senate, to discuss the best methods of holding a national federation of women's clubs to meet near the close of the session of 1924 or 1925.

97 men die poor!

Out of every 100 men, only 3 lay up during their productive years sufficient money to enable them to retire to a comfortable, independent old age.

It should not be so when one considers how small a sum invested annually for a few years in an Imperial Endowment Policy will ensure a competence for a man's declining years. Yet we continually see and hear of old folks slaving for a meagre living or depending upon the charity of friends or children for support.

You don't want to come to that do you?

Then write to-day for our interesting booklet "Penniless Old Men." You will be astonished to learn from it how easily you can provide now for your comfort and independence in your later years.

A COMPLICATED CAMPAIGN.

The coming Provincial election promises to be the most involved and complicated campaign in the history of politics in Ontario—even if proportional representation and the single transferable vote are not thrown in to add to the confusion.

In the "good old days" election fights were a simple affair, just a straight toe to toe engagement between representatives of the two old parties.

Once in a long while there was an independent candidate who almost always lost his deposit.

ut conditions are vastly different to-day.

In the campaign just opening, three-cornered fights will be the usual thing and in many ridings there will be more than three candidates.

There will be two varieties of Farmer candidates—those who support Mr. Drury and their fellow-Farmers who worship at the feet of J. J. Morrison.

There will be Labour candidates most of whom support the Government.

There will also be Labour candidates who will be independent in their attitude

There will be Liberals and Conservatives.

There will be a few Independents.

All of which is likely to give the political sharks who delight in predicting election results a sharp attack of brain fever if they persist in attempting to forecast the verdict that will follow an appeal to the people.

TIME TO WAKE UP.

The Examiner called attention last week to the fact that out of ninety-six babies born in Peterborough since 1st January twenty-four have died.

ow many of those deaths were due to ignorance or criminal negligence?

What must be done to ensure that babies born in this city shall have better than a 3 to 1 chance to live?

Those are questions that seem to require an answer from someone who knows.

Information as to the number of women who died from childbirth in the same period is lacking.

There is reason to fear that the total is high.

The maternal death-rate and child mortality record are such as to demand an investigation and to arrest the attention of the agencies dealing with the health of the community.

It should be a civic axiom that every woman shall have pre-natal care and proper attendance during and after confinement.

It is estimated that 20,000 mothers die needlessly each year in the United States, a criminal sacrifice of mother-lives.

Twenty thousand women die every year simply because of lack of pre-natal care and because when their hour comes they are in careless or incompetent hands.

So far as Peterborough is concerned, surely it is time that such conditions were realised and an effort made to save the mother and child life.

A child death-rate of 2 per cent. is a ghastly

A child death-rate of 25 per cent. is a ghastly indictment of the whole community.

THE COUNTRY POSTMAN.

"The policeman's life is not a happy one," chanted the inimitable Gilbert. Had he known the lot of the rural postman of Canada he would not have exhausted all his sympathy on the guardian of the law, says the Montreal Star. For while none will deny that the policeman faces many dangers in the course of his work, that he suffers hardships by exposure in all sorts of weather, and that his work for many days on end is often enervating and tiresome, yet compared with that of the rural postman it is both pleasurable and stimulating. To drive mile after mile over the same route day after day, in all kinds of weather, is enough to disturb the mental balance of the most robust. His Majesty's Mail is like the "Message of Garcia"; there must be no questioning whether it shall or shall not be delivered. Snow drifts eight and ten feet high must not be regarded as obstacles to bar progress; but a stimuli to the ingenuity of the postman as to how they can be circumvented. A blizzard that blows sixty miles an hour must never be an excuse for non-delivery of letters, it must be only another foe to be battled with in the appointed task. Icy winds with a temperature of forty below on the open prairie may numb fingers, freeze ears and toes, but there must be no shirking from the daily round.

All this must be endured for a paltry salary of $750 a year, as compared with a minimum salary of $1,335 for his city brother. Seven hundred and fifty dollars a year, and feed to find for the horse and food for the family. There is warm clothing to be bought and doctor's bills to be paid. A salary of two dollars a day doesn't leave much surplus for the purchase of books, for the enjoyment of holidays, for the provision for old age.

These rural mail carriers are conscientious in their work and loyal to the State. They should receive at least a living wage.

THE PREMIER'S THEORY.

Premier Drury's theory that the larger cities do not require as many members in proportion to population as the rural districts will not be popular in the urban constituencies.

He suggests that Toronto, for example, could do without any members at all, because the Legislature meets there, and there would be no danger of the city's needs being overlooked.

The Premier apparently overlooks the fact that the bigger centres have problems peculiar to themselves, difficulties arising out of conditions that are perhaps not understood in the rural districts.

It is absolutely necessary then that the people of such cities should have adequate representation in the Legislature in order that their cause shall be pleaded by men who know the needs and have sufficient knowledge of the facts to be able to effectively present their claims to consideration.

Under the present alignment of constituencies the urban communities are not fairly represented, having regard to their population.

Mr. Drury's plan would discriminate still further in favour of the rural ridings, a development to be welcomed by U.F.O. politicians, but getting a long distance away from representation by population.

Municipal rights have been so frequently invaded by the Legislature that any suggestion of a condition that would increase the rural representation at the expense of the cities will be greeted with opposition in the larger centres of the Province.

The work of the special committee on redistribution will be watched with unusual interest

JOBS BY TENDER.

The fact that Windsor has decided to motorise its garbage collection department indicates that the Border City is now two stages in front of Peterborough in this regard.

The local Council, The Examiner believes, would do well to investigate the advisability of the city taking over the garbage collection instead of depending upon the present tender system.

There is every reason to believe that the work could be done by the Corporation more economically than at present, and at the same time there would be better control over the collection and a more complete and better service.

Cities which have embarked upn a municipally-owned garbage collection system have had good satisfaction, and their experience shoul dbe of service to Peterborough in considering the advantages of a change.

Too much dependence is placed upon the tender system in Peterborough.

We get our market clerk in that way, the caretaken of the city's parks is selected in the same manner, while snow ploughing and garbage collection are both handled under the contract plan.

The lsat two departments could be more cheaply operated by the city, while it is rather a senseless proceeding to run the chances of a new caretaker who happens to bid a few dollars lower than the previous official is appointed.

ceeding to run the chances of a new caretaker for the parks every year.

What chance is there for any systematic or intelligent development of the most beautiful features of the parks if every summer a new caretaker who happens to bid a few dollars lower than the previous official is appointed?

It would be just as logical to appoint the policemen or firemen under a system which required them to tender each year for their positions.

ROWDYISM IN THE COMMONS.

There was some truth, if not much tact, in the remark by the leader of the Labor Party, after the riotous breaking up of the session of the House of Commons on Tuesday, that his rough-and-ready followers had been merely adopting "precedents set by the other side." There have been such scenes before. In 1905, shortly before Mr. Balfour fell from power, the Liberals objected so furiously to listening to a Conservative member of the Government, and kept up their noisy row so long, that the Speaker had to adjourn the House. In Gladstone's Irish Home Rule days he was more than once left unable to speak in the presence of a jeering mob of Conservative members of Parliament. He stood before them pale with indignation, a very monument of outraged parliamentary propriety. Mr. Balfour was more philosophic when his turn came, and looked out with an amiable smile upon the raging heathen of the Opposition party. The present Prime Minister bore himself neither as a defender of ancient institutions nor as a calm observer of uproarious behavior, but as a business man who could not bear the idea of having his time wasted, and so quietly quit the House altogether.

What took place was a fresh illustration of an old English habit in public life. The greatest freedom is allowed to the individual even if he abuses it to the point of license to prevent the peaceful conduct of a public meeting or the orderly dispatch of public business. In the House of Commons no efficient means are placed in the Speaker's hands to compel ebullient members to take their seats and permit orderly procedure. He can call for order, but he cannot enforce the mob spirit has gone on longenough, is to do what it. All that he can do, after the disorder which rouses Speaker Whiteley did in the face of demonstrations by the Labor members—declare the House incapable of transacting business and suspend the session. It is not a pretty spectacle; to American eyes it seems an outrageous impairment of the dignity of a public assembly, yet it is not out of line with practices and privileges long dear to the hearts of Englishmen.

It remains true that the outbreak was tactically most ill-advised for the Labor Party. Its leader, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, was plainly chagrined at the display of bad manners. He and the more experienced members of the Labor Party have been endeavoring to restrain the exuberant Jack Joneses, new to the floor of the House. The obvious cue of the Labor Party, now raised to the dignity of his Majesty's Opposition, is to exhibit such moderation and steadiness and ability to dispatch public business that the country may become accustomed to the thought of a possible Labor Government in whose hands great national interests would be safe. Tuesday's riot in the House goes dead against such a wise policy, and is by so much a blow to the hopes of the Labor Party. It will doubtless be on its good behavior for a time at least, and try to undo the mischief wrought by yielding to violent and unseemly passion.—New York Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The first bout in the campaign seems to be between Premier Drury and the Farmers' Sun.

Farmer candidates will no longer simply be known as U.F.O. nominees. The people will want to know whether they fly the Drury flag or fight under the banner of J. J. Morrison.

The fuss Toronto people will make over Rudolph Valentino tonight will furnish another proof that Barnum was right.

Judging by the patronage invariably extended to the Dumbells, there is one lot of returned men who are not worrying very much over the bonus question.

Yesterday's snow must have made a lot of people wonder if after all Kipling might not have been right.

The members of the British Labour Party who caused a riot in the House were merely demonstrating their unfitness to form a Government.

LAW DRAGS MAN FROM DEATHBED BABE TO CELLS

Father Love Brings Accused Slayer to Shadow of Gibbet—Eludes Cops Five Years.

A TRAGIC GAME

CHICAGO, April 16.—Father love proved too strong.

Ralph Galiucci couldn't overcome it. That's why he's in jail here facing possible death on the scaffold.

A babys cry, the fast fading light in the dying eyes of his first born, a two-year-old son whom he had never seen before—surrendered him to the low which for more than five years had unsuccessfully hunted him all over the world.

An irresistible desire to see the child and press its limp hands to his breast just once before the baby died brought Galiucci out of his hiding place in Canada to his sons bedside in a hospital here.

As the man knelt by the sick cot and begged forgiveness from his wife, whom he had deserted in Canada, a squad of detectives closed in on the death chamber and Galiucci was taken to cell.

Charged With Killing

He must stand trial for shooting down his cousin, Genoro Ariano, Mrs. Galiucci's suitor before her marriage.

Galiuci came back to Chicago in response to a telegram sent by his wife, who in some manner had obtained his secret address in Canada.

He stoutly protests his innocence.

"The jury will acquit me," he says. "I am not a murderer. That will be shown at the trial."

The five years he spent playing a tragic game of hide-and-seek with international police dragnets constitute a memory of constant terror, he relates.

"I ran from town to town," he says. "At every shadow I started in fear.

Glad It's Over

"Just one step behind me, I imagined, were police. Now I'm glad it's over.

"And, come what may, nothing matters. I have seen my baby. Oh, my poor little bambino. What a fool I have been "Tell me, is he dead Please don't say yes.

"Ah! He is getting a little better. It is good. I pray he won't die. God have mercy! Spare my poor little bambino."

Bambino Will Die

But the bambino probably will die doctors say. Double pneumonia has set in.

The father returned just in time, they think.

If Galiucci is guilty the tiny tot will have proved its father nemesis.

Mr. Homuth was given a great ovation, before nominations opened Mr. Homuth gave an account of his stewardship, giving details as to treatment received from the Provincial Government in the past four years. For the first time in the history of the United States Post Office Department a woman has been appointed to a postmastership at a salary of $6,000 a year. She is Elizabeth D. Bernard, named by President Harding as the next postmaster at Tampa, Fla.

Who is he?

Who is this man in the private office?

He is—the man your salesmen are afraid to stop on the street;

—the man who is always "out" or "busy" when they call;

—the man who never replies to your letters making special offers;

—the man who ignores your telegrams.

Somebody has called him on Long Distance. He does not know yet who it is, but he is as polite as if he anticipated favors!

Long Distance gets in where salesmen fear to tread. Planned Long Distance campaigns get past every barrier.

HON. G. H. FERGUSON ADDRESSED THE ELECTORS

TORONTO, April 16.—(Canadian Press.)—Ontario needs a change of government and application of those principles of economy which the United Farmers preached and then forgot, said Hon. Geo. Howard Ferguson, leader of the Ontario Conservatives, when addressing the electors of West York Saturday.

Mr. Ferguson devoted much of his time to the financial situation, for that alone, he believed, should be enough to warrant the people casting aside "spenders and looking for a type of leadership in Ontario which can practice economy as well as talk it."

Dr. Forges Godfrey, who represents the riding in the Legislature, intimated to the audience that because of ill health, he was not anxious to again receive the nomination.

Summonses Against Striking Farm Help.

LONDON, April 16 (Canadian Press Cable). — Every bench magistrate in Norfolk this week will be hearing summonses against striking farm hands for intimidation and hindrance.

The strikers, including several women, are alleged to have inflicted bodily chastisement on non-union workers.

After the abortive conferences of last week, a feeling is growing that the strike may fizzle out, for between the strikers and the farmers in certain districts there is a tendency to make individual agreements.

LIQUOR PRICES WILL BE REDUCED MONTREAL

MONTREAL, April 16.—(Special)—The Quebec Liquor Commission will likely reduce the prices of liquor on May the first. There will also be some changes in the personnel of the Commission.

CANADA WEATHERS ECONOMIC GALE.

Such is Cheering Assurance of Hon. H. H. Stevens of Vancouver.

OTTAWA, April 16 (Canadian Press). — "Progress with sanity" is the motto which Hon. H. H. Stevens, M.P. for Vancouver Centre, thinks should be applied to the Conservative Party, according to his speech to the Conservative Businessmen's Club here on Saturday.

The speaker first traced world conditions. He reviewed the disrupted state of Europe, and said that the virility and mental stability of the Canadian people had enabled Canada to weather the economic gale.

LOOKS LIKE FIGHT WITH RUM-RUNNER

Coast Guard Cutter Finds Schooner Patricia Abandoned With Sail Set.

NEW YORK, April 16—(Canadian Press).—A mystery of the sea involving a possible battle between rum-runners and pirates, developed yesterday when the coastguard cutter Manhattan found the abandoned two-masted rum schooner Patricia, with sail set and her anchor dragging at the entrance to the great south bay.

The deck was strewn with empty cartridge shells and there were signs of a struggle. The schooner probably carried a crew of 10 men and sufficient food for 10 days was in the hold, while no liquor was found. Entries on the log and a leaf torn from a note-book evidently owned by the unknown captain indicated that the craft had been engaged in the rum-running business. Lashed to the deck of the schooner was a staunch 25-foot motor boat with the name "Maid of Canada," La Havre, N.S., painted on the stern.

Spring will be here in a few weeks if some reformer doesn't object.

The Grave.

There passed away in Stirling early Friday morning one of its most honoured and highly respected citizens in the person of Mr. John Craighead at the age of 76 years. The late Mr. Craighead was ill but a week, having suffered a slight stroke, from which he never rallied. He was the eldest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Craighead, of Seymour East and was born on the family homestead near Burnbrae, and was engaged in farming in Percy township, residing for a time in Campbellford before going to reside at Stirling about fifteen years ago. The deceased was a man of noble Christian example, of bright and happy disposition, who had a host of friends who regret his demise. He was a faithful and zealous member of the Presbyterian church and leaves an example of a life well lived that will serve not only to inspire those of his immediate family ties, but all with whom he came in contact. He is survived by his wife, formerly Miss Leticia Cochrane, and four sons, Percy, John and William at home, and Charles of Seymour West, also by two sisters, Mrs. John M. Arnold of town and Miss Mary, of Burnbrae, also one brother, William, near Burnbrae.

The funeral, which was very largely attended, took place on Saturday and was conducted at the home by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Simpson, who paid a glowing tribute to the exemplary life of the deceased. The choir rendered very sweetly, 'Some Day the Silver Cord Will Break,' a favourite hymn of the deceased. The remains were then laid to rest in the family plot, Stirling cemetery.

The late Mr. Craighead has many friends in town and country who unite in extending sympathy to the family in their irreparable loss.

FOUR DEAD IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Car Plunged Through Bridge Railing to Icy Creek Below—One Survivor Only.

DETROIT, April 16. — (Canadian Press).—Four persons met slow deaths and only one of a party of five persons survived to tell of the tragedy when an automobile crashed through the bridge railing at Dearborne Road and Pere Marquette railroad crossing, plunged 10 feet into an icy creek and settled on the bottom, securely imprisoning its occupants, last night. Mrs. Dorothy Gordon, 23 years old, alone survived. She is in Delray Hospital in a critical condition.

The victims were Lester Cherry, 25 years old; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Shields, and an unidentified woman. The occupants were trapped under the machine in six feet of water for five minutes before rescuers released them.

PREMIER LAW

in preventing it, and Mr. Bonar Law should find himself, owing to bad health, compelled to retire, two names are being prominently mentioned as his successor — Lord Curzon and Mr. Baldwin.

Lord Curzon's aloofness and imperious manner are considered as not being calculated to make him a success as a Prime Minister, and therefore the chances are supposed to favor Mr. Baldwin. Moreover, although there is nothing to prevent a member of the Upper House becoming Premier, the general preference is for a Premier who belongs to the Commons. The essence of the situation is the administration notably weak in debating strength, already is suffering from the inheritance of troubles which were predicted for it by Mr. Lloyd George when he left office and that it must find some means to reinforce its personnel.

LONDON, April 15. — Canadian Press. — The London Observer is one of the prominent papers that dealt in to-day's issue with the premier's difficulties. Concerning Bonar Law's prospective retirement the Observer says that when Law warned the Carlton Club at the time of the withdrawal from the coalition, that his strength was limited, and plainly intimated that his role as premier could only be temporary, he meant exactly what he said and implied.

Neither his own followers nor the unionist ministers in the late coalition understood him. Lloyd George and these ex-unionist ministers alike were prepared to allow the government two years on the principle of "rope enough," the idea being to give them an easy start and a hard end. But the premier, adds the Observer, is the last bird to see the net spread, and yet to fall into it.

Continuing the Observer says: — "The premier has no far-reaching ambitions. He has played the transitional part he said that he would play. He has discharged his obligations. The solitary burden of parliamentary debate and foreign responsibility is intolerable. * Though a majority of his colleagues especially of the diehards are incredibly self-deceived, Bonar Law is not. He knows that the only hope for unionism in parliament and still more in the country lies in the return to his leadership of the unionists who served in the coalition. From the first Bonar Law has desired that Austen Chamberlain should succeed him as prime minister at the head of a strong cabinet, including Earl Balfour, Lord Birkenhead, Sir Robert Home, Sir Laming Worthington-Evans, etc., and perhaps including the brilliant addition of Churchill, who knows. If so this would be an administration big enough to transform the national and international situation. It would be the base of that real national party of the future which is the only real alternative to the Socialist party. But there are real lions on both sides of the path as always when something is proposed that is great and sound. The diehards hate the whole plan. They especially loathe Birkenhead. They have their grip on the machine, and have hopeless schemes of their own. Austen Chamberlain will not rejoin the government on half terms. Neither he nor his colleagues will separate themselves from Birkenhead. The ex-unionist ministers will stand together. * * * Since Bonar Law will not continue in the Premiership on such terms, the diehards, and others are casting about for an alternative premier who might be required at any moment. They have decided on Stanley Baldwin, Chancellor of the exchequer. But under the present circumstances the thing would merely be the Bonar Law government without Bonar Law. For Baldwin to lend himself to this plan would argue him a man of less judgment than had been supposed."

The Observer adds that a couple of months ago when an inkling of the present extraordinary situation was abroad, the idea then was of complete re-construction of the cabinet under the Duke of Devonshire or the Earl of Derby, but neither of these men could now do what was then just possible.

The Observer concludes: "The choice is between a still weaker government and a great and even brilliant administration. The fortunes of Unionism for a generation, perhaps of much more than unionism, are at stake. In any case present conditions are impossible for Premier Bonar Law means to go."

The article is unsigned but it is almost certain that it was written by J. L. Garvin, the editor.

DRURY DENIES

mission of the lieutenant-governor as leader of that group.

Mr. Drury then took up the matters of expenditures in the House for which he said severe criticisms had come. Out of the ordinary expenditure of the government much of it goes directly back to the people in hospitals and welfare work and education. Every school trustee knows that he is getting far more than he was before we came into power. We spent for things which went directly back into the pockets of the people, $14,483,000 and on other things $11,239,000.

Speaking of the lack of definite Conservative temperance policy, Mr. Drury said: "It is not the Conservative party but the dregs, the leavings of the Conservative party, a party whose leader is afraid to assume the responsibility for a policy, but connects that policy with his lieutenants.

"I cannot give him my support if I come back with a minority and he comes back with a majority, for that would be the greatest calamity which could befall the House"

Dealing with education the Premier said: "All along the line there has been a general increase, school attendance has increased by leaps and bounds, I don't know how I can put it better than this. The schools are full because the factories aren't.

"If we can gain taxes which are properly due to the Province and can use them on education, I think that it is good business. We are getting more succession duties. The succession duty can be defended better than any other It is not good that any man should accumulate great wealth

The Only Fault

"About this teachers' superannuation fund, for that's very interesting, all the fault which the Kingston member found was that we had placed certain amounts in the current account which should have gone into the capital account.

"In 1921 the Government spent on the mental hospitals $1,422000, and on salaries $1,466,000. The increase in salaries was offset by a decrease of $200,000 in the cost of supplies. This was because they did away with perquisites and purchased supplies in large quantities."

In the matter of the teachers' superannuation fund the speaker criticised the old Government for their manner of keeping their accounts. The receipts were placed in capital accounts and money paid out from capital accounts. Since the Farmer Government came in they were forced to make up deficits which had accrued before they had come into power.

Defending the amount spent on pensions for 3,560 widows with 11,640 children, Mr. Drury painted a pitiful picture of the homes from which the husband and father had been removed before he had had time to provide for his family.

"Mr. Chairman," said Mr. Drury, "I think it is quite right that we should spend a million and a half in order that that great procession may have what is every child's right, a home and a mother."

Mr. Drury pointed out that, while Mr. Ferguson claimed to know more about the north than any man on the Government side, he had not known the kind of men who should be sent up there to be pioneers, sending men who did not know how to swing an axe.

This remark appealed to the Premier's audience, and produced a tremendous burst of applause, led by one bearded grandfather in the front row, who undoubtedly had done pioneering himself.

"Tribute" to Ferguson.

In referring to Mr Ferguson's mismanagement of the Crown timber lands, the Premier said, "Mr. Ferguson carries his nerve with him on all occasions. I'll grant him that."

Mr. Drury spoke of Mr. Mathieu, "who sat behind Mr. Ferguson, who still sits behind him, and who is one of the gang."

Mr. Drury quoted Carlyle as saying that there were three ways of getting a thing—earning it, having it given to you, and stealing it.

"Here there was a little of all three," said Mr. Drury. "That is the man who has the effrontery to hold himself forth as the next Premier of Ontario. That is his mismanagement in one department. What would he do if he had control of all departments?"

"The best kind of economy in my mind is to watch carefully every item of expenditure and to watch every cent of money that is due to us. We have been charged with spending money on two or three commissions. One was to clean up this inquiry on timber limits, is it justified?"

"Yes," yelled someone, and the house burst into applause.

"The second was the inquiry into the advisability of duplicating Government-owned lines with public-owned radial lines. The third was the inquiry into Hydro development.

"If we are to go into Hydro development, we must be told from time to time what it will cost," said the Premier.

Confidence in Drury.

In conclusion, Mr. Drury said: "Remember that we have a Government worthy of the support of the people, one that hasn't hesitated to deal with things in a courageous way, nor to make a stand on what I consider the greatest question of the coming election, the prohibitory laws of this Province."

At the close of the Premier's address, H. A. Pettit moved the following resolution, which was seconded by J. F. Ford: "That we, the Halton People's Political Association, express our unbounded confidence in our Provincial member and Premier, Hon. E. C. Drury. We believe he is doing his utmost in carrying on the affairs of the Province for the benefit of the masses of the people and upholding the principles which fully justified the forming of the third party in this Province. Further, be it resolved, that we express our utmost confidence in the leader of the Progressive Party in the House of Commons, and believe that it is only through a party free from the clutch of the moneyed interests that freedom and liberty will come to the masses of the people and Canada will be made a truly democratic country."

This resolution was carried by the enthusiastic crowd rising to their feet and cheering the Premier to the echo.

WE NEED MASTERY MORE THAN WE NEED LIBERTY

MONTREAL, April 16.—(Canadian Press.)—"I never speak of the selfless life. There is a personality, a self to be developed that cannot help but make some assertion of itself, but over every assertion of self in a man there is a rule of renunciation just as true and as necessary. You need your master as much as your liberty and in these days we are more in need of mastery than we are of liberty."

SEEKS RETRIAL OF TWO ALLEGED SLAYERS

MONTREAL, April 16.— (Canadian Press.)—J. McKinley Cameron, K.C., of Calgary, advocate for the defence in the murder case of Emil Picarrillo and Mrs. Florence Lassandra of Coleman, Alta., in which a member of the Provincial Police force was shot, was in Montreal over the week-end. Although the appeal against the conviction was dismissed by the Supreme Court of Canada at Ottawa, last week, Mr. Cameron informed the Secretary of the Canadian Prisoners' Welfare Association that he was still making efforts to obtain permission of the Minister of Justice to grant another trial. This he is urging on the ground that the venue of the previous trial was full of bias and that newspaper comment was exceedingly prejudicial and that the testimony heard left it very open to the jury to bring in a manslaughter verdict.

Cleaner teeth for men

Ask the Way

To those prettier teeth which millions now enjoy

You see prettier teeth now wherever you look. A few years ago they were seen less often than now.

You cannot but realize that a change has come in methods of teeth cleaning. Won't you ask for a test and learn what brings those whiter, cleaner, safer teeth?

They fight film

Your teeth are coated with a viscous film. It clings to teeth, gets between the teeth and stays.

Film absorbs stains, then forms dingy coats. Tartar is based on film. That's why teeth lose luster.

Avoid Harmful Grit

Pepsodent combines the film and removes it without harmful scouring. Its polishing agent is far softer than enamel. Never use a film-combatant which contains harsh grit.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acids. It holds the acids in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

That's why tooth troubles are so common—why so few escape.

Two new ways now

No old-time tooth paste could effectively fight film. So dental science sought new methods, and two ways were found. One acts to curdle film, one to remove it, and without any harmful scouring.

Able authorities proved these methods by many careful tests. Then a new-type tooth paste was created, based on modern research, and these two methods were embodied in it.

That tooth paste is called Pepsodent. It has come into world-wide use. Dentists of some 50 nations urge their people to adopt it.

Powerful aids

Pepsodent also gives manifold power to Nature's tooth-protecting agents. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize mouth acids, the cause of tooth decay.

It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva, to digest starch deposits which may otherwise ferment and form acids. Old methods brought just opposite effects.

Watch the change

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear.

Watch the results for a few days. Then decide what this new method means to you and yours. Cut out the coupon now.

COURTESY AND RELIGION WALK HAND IN HAND

Kiwanis Courtesy Week Opened by Rev. James Rollins in an Able Address.

BE COURTEOUS

"Courtesy is a virtue that fits in well with every ideal that the christian religion owes before the children of men", said Rev. James Rollins in St. Andrew's Presbyterian church last night in his sermon on "Courtesy".

There is a tendency, Mr. Rollins said, in the age in which we live to compare the rude little children of to-day with the angelic boys and girls who inhabited the world when we were young. The speaker believes, however, that this is wrong—that children are quite as polite now as they were in the Victorian age. And if they are not, whose fault is it? Children absorb the lessons they learn from their elders as a sponge absorbs water—and they give them back as a sponge does when squeezed—life does the squeezing for them Whatever the children do is a reflection of what their elders are.

"I believe," said the reverend speaker, "the courtesy of the average child is, if anything, in advance of the courtesy of the average grown up. If we went the standard of courtesy among children to go up we must raise the standard among older people and the children will follow."

People who habitually lose their tempers because they have found that by so doing they get what they want have not placed courtesy among the great graces. Courtesy orders temper back to its lair. Courtesy is gentle. Courtesy never travels alone, thoughtfulness, understanding, gentleness, appreciation are constantly found in the royal retinue that attend courtesy.

Deference not Everything

Courtesy does not always come to us in one guise. Deference is a good note to sound in the relations of one human being with another, but deference is not everything. Good will, good hope, and good cheer are greater things than deference.

Speaking of the value of courtesy, Mr. Rollins said courtesy is valuable whether you place the main emphasis on the social amenities of life or on material well doing. Even if the emphasis is placed on acquiring the almighty dollar, courtesy is valuable.

Nothing can shut us out from fellowship in social life like rudeness. We must pay for our privileges as well as for our mistakes, and courtesy is the coin that pays our admission into the very best that fellowship has to offer.

Referring to the value of courtesy in material well doing, the speaker remarked that this age has discovered nothing pays like service, and courteous service is the most acceptable form of service. The note of servility must be kept out of life. We want to encourage men and women everywhere who come in contact with other men and women to be courteous, but we want them to retain their self-respect.

A Debt to Oneself

"If life has handled you roughly concluded the speaker, "and you find your hand is apparently against everyone, still be courteous even if you are not convinced that you owe it to the other fellow. Be courteous because you owe it to yourself. Courtesy is not a distinctive Christian virtue—it is possible that there are some heathen more courteous than some christians—but it is a virtue that fits in well with every ideal that the christian religions owes before the children of men. Be courteous—it is easier said than done."

The anthems, under the direction of Mr. John Crane, were "Great is the Lord" (Lohr) and unaccompanied, "Heart be Still". Miss Kathleen Gorrie sang, "If we but knew", (Clarry.)

INTERESTING SERVICES IN ST. JAMES' CHURCH

The Sunday services in St. James' Church were especially interesting.

In the evening, Rev. J. F. Chapman gave a very interesting and eloquent sermon to a large congregation on "Courtesy," or "The Grace of Kindliness."

The music under the direction of Mr. Leslie Unitt was of a high order, Miss Ruby Young and Mr. Walter Farr taking the solos, Mr. Hartshorn accompanying with the violin.

It was announced that the anniversary of the church will be Sunday, May 6, when Dr. Crews, of Toronto, will be the speaker.

Orders For Freighters Go to British Yards.

LONDON, April 16 (Canadian Press Cable). — Arthur Gillham, managing director of Vickers Company, Montreal, when leaving for Canada on Saturday remarked that British yards could build ships at 40 per cent lower cost than Canadian yards, due entirely to the difference in labour costs

More orders for lake freighters, he said, were likely to come to British yards.

COALITION TO BE FORMED

BERLIN, April 16. — (United Press)—A huge coalition of major German industries, to be the largest in European economic history, is being organized here to-day, by Hugo Stinnes and his Associates. Arrangements already have been made by Stinnes and the Berlinger Handelsgesellschaft, for the merger of the Stinnes-Furstenburg-Otto Wolff and Jakob Goldschmidt interests.

The new trust will undertake further efficiency in the development of the upper Silesian coal, iron and steel regions and other groups are expected to be drawn in as soon as the plan is further developed.

COBOURG AND DISTRICT

COBOURG, April 16.—One of the most important questions brought up at the annual meeting of the Cobourg Board of Trade which was held on Thursday evening was the matter of an auto ferry service between Cobourg and Genessee Dock, New York State. A letter was ordered to be sent to the managers of the Ontario Car Ferry Company asking if such a service cannot be supplied on this route. If this cannot be done an endeavor will be made to secure some means of conveying autos across Lake Ontario besides loading them upon flat cars. It was pointed out that an auto service of this kind would not only serve Cobourg and the lakefront but Peterboro' and the Kawartha Lakes district.

The president of the Cobourg Board of Trade, the late John Henderson, having passed away during the year, a letter of sympathy will be sent to Mrs. Henderson.

A resolution of appreciation of services of the retiring secretary, Mr. J. W. Spragge, was also passed. The following officers were elected: President, Harry Field; vice-president, Harry A. Black; secretary-treasurer, R. T. B. Bonnegen; manufacturing and advisory committee, Wm. Fox, A. L. Jex, W. J. Maher, A. R. Saners, A. J. Hewson and J. D. Hayden; advertising committee, R. T. Mahon, W. W. Hooey, J. D. Barnet, M. E. Hall, A. R. Dundas, L. H. Wilson; council, R. T. Mahon, M. C. Nichols, J. E. Skidmore, W. H. Dundas, E. W. Hargraft, H. C. Higginbotham, J. D. Spragge, Fred Field, M. E. Hall, Geo. P. Strong, Dr. P. McNaughton, J. D. Barnet, W. L. Allen, A. J. Plimkett, D. C. Dick, E. W. Bickle, A. J. Kimmel, O. F. Allison.

Laid at Rest.

After a private funeral service at his late residence here the remains of the late John R. Herdman were taken to St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, where they laid in state from 10.30 until 1.00 p.m., after which a public funeral service was held by his pastor, Rev. W. A. Bremner. The cortege left later for Belleville where interment took place. Mr. Herdman was a graduate of Springfield, Mass., Training School in Y. M. C. A. matters and was later general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. at Belleville and at Galt. His health failing, he afterwards engaged in business in Cobourg. He married Miss Eliza Bonar, daughter of the late Capt. Bonar, of Belleville, and Mrs. Bonar, Cobourg. They have no family.

Mr. Herdman was a son of the late Rev. A. W. Herdman, and was born at Pictou, Nova Scotia. He had three brothers who devoted their lives to the work of the Presbyterian ministry, the late Dr. James Herdman, who succeeded Dr. Robertson as superintendent of Presbyterian missions in British Columbia; Rev. Wm. Herdman, Halifax, now retired, and Rev. A. W. Herdman, of Calgary. A sister, Miss Mary Herdman, now residing in Toronto, was for twenty years a missionary of the Presbyterian Church in India. Another brother, Mr. Edward Herdman, is a merchant in Boston, and another sister, Mrs. Demming, resides at Cornish, New Hampshire.

Mr. Herdman was an elder of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church here, clerk of the sessions, and for many years superintendent of the Sunday school, resigning the latter position 18 months ago because of ill health.

Wedding Bells

A wedding took place at St. Michael's Church here on Wednesday morning when Mrs. Amy Read Thomas was united to Mr. Vincent James Butler. Rev. Father Corkery conducted the ceremony. Mrs. Crowe played the wedding music and Mrs. (Dr.) Keanedy and Miss Julia Bulger sang during the ceremony. The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. John Kelly, of Toronto, as groomsman, and matron of honor. The wedding breakfast was served at the residence of the bride's sister, Mrs. R. J. Hallo, after which Mr. and Mrs. Butler left for a western trip before taking up residence in Cobourg.

M. Chas. Gummer. The D. D. G. M. was introduced by W. B. Bros. Bickle and Wormington. He later complimented the Cobourg Lodge upon their good work. The business session was followed by an enjoyable banquet and brief, interesting addresses.

Church Federation to Evade Church Union.

MONTREAL, April 16.—(Canadian Press)—"The scheme is ably wrought out, but it is simply a desperate effort to evade an issue; it is born of fear, and no child of that parentage can live," says Rev. Dr. George C. Pidgeon, convenor of the Presbyterian church union committee, in a statement dealing with the plan for a federation of the churches in place of church union, suggested by Rev. Dr. D. R. Drummond, of Hamilton.

Dr. Pidgeon says that the proposed scheme is "nothing more than co-operation with a more elaborate machine and new name." That it does not recognize the fact that co-operation has reached its limit. He says there is no ground for the fears that thousands of Presbyterians will leave the church of their fathers if union goes through, but believe that they will respond to the great and noble ideal that is behind the union movement. "There is no difficulty in the way of this enterprise which courage and faith cannot cast into the sea," says Dr. Pidgeon, in conclusion.

INTERESTING DEBATE

North Monaghan, April 16. — An interesting debate was held recently between the A.Y.P.A's of St. John's church, and St. George's church. The subject was: "Resolved that the growth of the small towns is more beneficial to character than the growth of large cities," received much discussion. Both sides handled their arguments in a capable manner but after much thought the judges awarded the victory to St. John's debaters.

Miss Renie Howarth and Mr. Breadman were the debaters for St. George's A.Y.P.A.

Dr. Munro Gave Timely Talk on Health — Fire Damages Roof of Blacksmith's Shop—Personals

WARSAW, April 16.—Miss Calvert, Peterboro', is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Clarence Watts.

Mrs. Nathan Payne, Lakefield, is visiting her son, Mr. Rufus Payne.

Messrs. Doughty and Robb, of Norwood, were in the village on Thursday.

Miss Myra Thompson is assisting in Charlie Caldee's store.

Mrs. George Taylor is visiting her brother, Mr. Allan E. Payne.

Mr. Lees, public school inspector, was in Warshaw school Thurdsay forenoon and Friday afternoon.

Mr. Charles Calder is getting Warminster factory ready for cheese making. He will likely start operations before May 1.

No. 5 Douro school is closed, the teacher being ill.

Fire Damages Building.

Thursday noon the roof of Henry Clements' blacksmith shop was badly burned. It is supposed that a spark from the shop fire had dropped from the chimney onto the dry roof, igniting the shingles. Miss Elsie Tucker, seeing the blaze as she was passing, ran into the shop and gave the alarm. Help was at once phoned for. A nearby sawing party quickly responded, and with the aid of a village fire-bucket brigade and chemicals, extinguished the flames.

Talk on Health.

The institute room was filled almost to capacity on Thursday to hear Dr. Munro's talk on "Health." The doctor spoke of the faith all must use in conjunction with medical aid. Mental attitude, he said, has much to do with health, and the person who is content is less apt to have physical disorders than the discontented. He emphasized cleanliness of the body, within and without, and referring to legislation against the use of alcohol, because of its various injurious effects, he thought that some time it might be necessary to introduce legislation against intemperance in other directions. He denounced the use of too much fancy cooking, which disturbs the whole system, and warned his hearers against resorting to hotch-potch remedies to cure themselves, often suffering thereby much more harm than good.

Nature heals, he continued; give nature a chance and she makes a brave attempt at healing and the medical man knows how to give nature the opportunity of asserting herself. The doctor spoke of the wonderful construction of the human body—the Temple of God, he called it, which should not be subjected to intemperance—and he referred very briefly to the question of sex education. The mooted question is, he said, whether it is better to have a doctor instruct a child on sex matters, or have the child learn from some dangerous source. He rather feared that were a medical man to undertake the duty, a half-told truth might do harm to a childish mind.

Dr. Munro's helpful address was very much appreciated, and a hearty vote of thanks was extended him.

The institute's motto is: "For Home and Country," and it hopes that, by providing interesting, helpful lectures, addresses and talks, to reach the homes and all persons in them. As regard sex education, the institute, as a whole, practically endorsed Mrs. Sylvia Pankhurst's teaching, that the parents should be confidants of their children, & when questions are asked, as they surely will be, the child should be neither lied to, nor put off, but naturally and sacredly told enough to answer his or her question and others as they arise.

A committee was appointed to procure more material for the library.

Following is a copy of the resolution of absolute confidence in Premier Drury of Ontario, passed by a caucus of Government supporters held immediately following the charge made in the Legislature against the Premier by former Government Whip Hicks.

The resolution carried unanimously:

"Whereas certain statements have been made on the floor of the House to the effect that the Premier of this Province, Hon. Ernest C. Drury, has violated the confidence vested in him by the members of the U.F.O. and Labor groups.

"And whereas, the Premier has on previous occasions denied the correctness of these statements;

"Therefore be is resolved that this caucus desires to go on record as accepting without doubt the truthfulness of the Premier's expression of denial with regard to the statements referred to, and this caucus desires to express its implicit confidence in his integrity and honor.

"Having found in Premier E. C. Drury all the essential attributes, qualities and ability that are necessary for a great leader, and also having confidence in his uprightness and stability of character,

"We unhesitatingly pledge our support and take this means of showing our unbounded confidence in him.

"We fully realize that the Premier has always measured up to more than we looked forward for, thus proving himself worthy of our confidence.

INDUCTION OF REV. C. W. ROSE

Large Congregations Welcome New Pastor to Murray Street Baptist Church—Eloquent Sermons.

Yesterday saw the induction of the new pastor, Rev. C. W. Rose, B.A., B.D., D.D., formerly of Amherst, N. S., at Murray street Baptist church, which was filled at both morning and evening services.

Rev. Dr. Rose made a splendid impression on his congregation yesterday. If his later career here fulfills the promise of his opening addresses, he will be an undeniable acquistion to the church and community life of the city. A man of attractive presence, his impressive, eloquent utterances were delivered in a very pleasing manner, with an absence of platform frills and a musical, well-modulated voice that created an impression of harmony with the thoughtful, smoothly-flowing sentences. An eloquent sincerity and a broad viewpoint were perhaps the outstanding characteristics of Dr. Rose's sermons yesterday.

Prefacing his morning address on "The Heart of Christianity" with an allusion to the difficult role of a minister on his first appearance in a strange pulpit, in a strange community, Dr. Rose expressed his appreciation of the kindness shown in letters from Rev. J. R. Webb, of Kitchener, and from Rev. Dr. D. A. Steel of the First Baptist church of Amherst, N.S. These were read by A. J. Raddon, the letter from Mr. Webb expressing his "abiding affection' for Dr. Rose, and his sincere wishes for success in his new pastorate, the letter from Dr. Steel, who was for twenty-nine years pastor of the Amherst church, and for twenty-five years its pastor emeritus, being an eloquent tribute to the good qualities of his coadjutor for nearly nine years, Rev. Dr. Rose. The formal reception of Dr. and Mrs. Rose and Miss Evelyn Rose, into membership in Murray street church, was also carried through at the morning service, and the new pastor duly welcomed by Dr. W. D. Scott, in the name of the congregation.

At Morning Service.

The address at the morning service was brief but impressive, its subject, "The Heart of Christianity," or "The death of Christ in the Room of Many," being one of which the speaker said:

"In the coming year this will be constantly in my mind. The Gospel is an instrument of ten thousand tones and a few of them should not be played on all the time, but there are some things which are given more prominence in the Bible and are more frequently spoken of. A subject which has fascinated men and angels alike, a subject which Christ had in mind during those last days of His life, when His disciples marvelled at the intensity of His spirit, a subject which served through the centuries as the theme of songs and sermons, the fibre and the fruit of the Christian religion, is the death of Christ in the room of many."

In regard to diverse, complicated speculations on the meaning of the death of Jesus, Dr. Rose said; "There is nothing occult nor difficult in connection with it. God has not His precious things only within the reach of men of analytical mind, but practically everything of value in his teachings is within the range of a child's understanding. If we would recognize this fact, it would do away with a great deal of our endless argument and confusion over details that amount to nothing in the great business of the salvation of souls. To try to analyze the meaning of the death of Christ in the room of many is like pulling a beautiful flower to pieces. The moment you start to intellectualize the death of Christ you start to crowd and multiply doubts and infidelity."

Quoted Great Divines.

Regarding the importance of the death of Christ, the speaker quoted the sayings on this subject of many of the greatest divines of various denominations, from the Presbyterian authority who declared that "the death of Christ is the central thing in the New Testament and the Christian religion," to Cardinal Gibbons, who said; "The cross is the abridgment of the Christian religion. It is the Gospel in a nutshell, the beginning and the end of the Bible, the Christian's guide book to salvation, which he may open and read and draw from its pages the hidden manna of spiritual diet. The most illiterate woman can kneel at the foot of th cross, and there study the mystery of the incarnation. Every consolation that the world can give you is cold and cheerless in comparison with the ever-flowing consolation of the cross."

"Some people," said Dr. Rose, "wear about their necks a cross, and there are others who are so prejudicial for fear that some may worship it that they would not wear it at all. We should get over our own prejudices and appreciate everything that is good. Nothing will remind us better of the death of Christ in the room of many."

Principle of Revelation.

"The death of Christ in the room of many is the Christian's principal revelation to the world, it is one of the subjects in our religion which grips and holds the minds and the hearts of men, in the thought, 'Christ loved me so much that He died for me.' And it is also the world's supreme need. It is claimed that education will cause people to cease from sinning, but history reveals nothing of the kind."

The speaker declared that from the days of ancient Greece to the present day, it had been proven that something stronger than a mental panacea or mental training was necessary to change the life and heart and mind of the unvirtuous being. "God, the spiritual Physician, has prescribed this great remedy for the ills of the flesh and the world. It is his principal method, epitomised in the never-to-be-forgotten words, "And I, if I be lifted up, will draw all men unto Me."

But the work of speaking of, and following out, the lesson of the death of Christ, is not confined alone to the ministry. It should be the task of all the faithful to remember the lesson of the hymn:

"In the cross of Christ I glory,
* * * * * * * * * *
Never shall the cross forsake me."

At the evening service the subject was "The Greatness of God," a moving, poetically-worded exposition of the power and majesty and love of the Heavenly Father, as exemplified in the work of His hands in human and inanimate nature.

The new pastor asserted his wish and determination to work in harmony with the entire community and with every Christian church contained within it. To him, he said, individual play did not appeal. He knew the value of team work, which was necessary in material endeavours, and equally necessary in spiritual strivings, for "we are all striving for the same heaven. We have the same aim, the salvation of souls, and I feel that I wish to be of service to the community, to the people of my own church, and to be a help to all other churches."

REPEAT PERFORMANCE LITTLE THEATRE CLUB

The Little Theatre Club, under the auspices of the Women's Art Association, repeated at a special matinee on Saturday afternoon in the Conservatory of Music Hall, their very attractive production of the previous night, in the Belmont scenes from "The Merchant of Venice" and the balcony scenes from "Romeo and Juliet." The performance went through with the acceleration of movement in scene-shifting which usually characterizes a second amateur showing, and was met with much applause from an appreciative audience. Mrs. Bingham was presented with a handsome bouquet of flowers by the executive of the Women's Art Association.

The Conservatory orchestra and the troubadours, Miss Edwina Palmer, K. Picard and Earl Spellman, repeated their pretty musical interludes and the Misses Martha Kirn and Teddy Connor, gave their graceful, lithe Egyptian dance, Miss Agnes Sowdon, as on the previous night, acting as accompanist.

The dramatic labors of the Little Theatre Club, which provided two pleasant evenings for its patrons this winter, will be suspended until next season, when they will be resumed with a probable initial staging by the director, Mrs. W. McKee Bingham, of a brief play whose theme centres about the French Revolution, written by Booth Tarkington and entitled "Beauty and the Jacobin."

Mrs. Bingham, who has been invited to go to Norwood to superintend a dramatic production there, has also received an invitation from Dresden ladies who are interested in amateur theatricals, and will go to Dresden about the 10th of May, for a preparatory coaching of the cast in a dual offering which will probably include the "Maker of Dreams," the dainty playlet given here some time ago, and either the Irish comedy, "Spreading the News," or a comedy with an English atmosphere, entitled "Dr. Wake's Patients."

A SUNDAY SCHOOL JUBILEE IN KNOX

The First School South of Simcoe Fifty Years Ago

A half century of existence and progress from a stable to the present building at the corner of Dalhousie and Wolfe streets was reviewed by J. F. Morrison in his historical sketch of Knox church Sunday school yesterday afternoon.

In 1872 there were 9 scholars in connection with the school—yesterday 400 scholars listened to the story of the growth of their school and church.

The anniversary week started with a special service in the morning, when a specially trained choir of the Sunday school children led the singing. Sheriff James A. Hall addressed the congregation, telling of how he and his wife, with Miss Charlotte Dickson, were instrumental in starting the first Sunday school in the city south of Simcoe street.

At the afternoon session Mr. J. F. Morrison's sketch, besides covering the history of the Sunday school, cast many interesting side-lights on the development of Peterborough.

The lecture was illustrated by many lantern slides, showing the several buildings occupied at different times by the Sunday school, and the officers who from time to time had the work of the school in hand.

Sheriff Hall and his wife, Miss Charlotte Dickson and Mr. G. W. Nisbet were the first workers. Mr. Nisbet, who was a clerk in the Bank of Commerce, was the first superintendent, and the school had nine scholars. The first meeting was in a building where the Free Methodist church now stands. This building was offered by Dr. Harvey, who had been using it as a stable. The ladies of St. Paul's church took the building, had it papered and renovated and there the first year's classes were held. During the cleaning up process it was discovered that this was the building erected for the first missionary in Peterborough.

In 1873 a one-story building was erected on Dalhousie street by St. Paul's church and here, between 1873 and 1892 the attendance grew to 100. Mr. W. W. Johnston who now resides on Gilmour street, was superintendent during this period.

The third and present home of the Sunday school was built by St. Paul's church in 1902. The Sunday school of St. Paul's gave $432.88 towards the new building. Sheriff Hall was superintendent at this time.

On June 6, 1905, the institution which had hitherto gone under the name of "St. Paul's Mission School," received its autonomy and assumed the name "Knox Church Sunday School." This event took place on the 400th anniversary of the birth of John Knox.

When the first minister, Henry J. Keith, came on March 3, 1907, there were 107 scholars, 15 teachers and 4 officers, in the Sunday school.

In 1910 the corner stone of Knox church was laid on April 16. In this year also Roy Laing was elected secretary of the school, and after over 12 years' unselfish devotion to his work, he is still carrying on his work in that capacity.

On January 21, 1915, Rev. James A. MacKenzie took the pastorate of the church and found 456 children on the roll, an increase of over 300 during Mr. Keith's ministry.

During the war years many young men of the congregation went overseas and the speaker made touching reference to those who did not return, and remarked on the debt of gratitude due to all who participated in the war.

In 1922 the attendance in the Sunday school had dropped to 420, and in March this year the average attendance was 376 scholars, 23 teachers and 8 officers.

Following Sheriff Hall the superintendents were: R. G. Clifford, R. F. McWilliams, Malcolm Clarke, Mr. Carson; and the present superintendent Herbert J. McCannon, who is assisted by Harry M. Hobson.

In concluding his interesting talk, Mr. Morrison said he hoped for a still brighter and a more successful future.

The singing at this special service was led by the Sunday school orchestra of eight, under the direction of Mr. J. A. Jeffries.

Nature Works Around Us in Endless Circles.

The new vaccine for flu, "seems effective." Preliminary results look good, though it's too early in the game to warrant any enthusiasm.

However, a serum or some other cure and preventive for flu eventually will be discovered by scientists.

Then nature will send a new disease. Always she keeps a certain amount of competition that we must fight. It's part of the survival of the fittest, also building up our strength by making us struggle for existence.

BUSINESS OF BEGGING IS HIGHLY ORGANIZED

CHICAGO, April 16.—(Canadian Press)—"Moochers" and "Pan-handlers" who prefer to beg rather than work, collect more than a million dollars annually from citizens of Chicago, who by this misguided "charity" encourage laziness and create shortage in the labor market. Many of these "Moochers" who have an appearance of abject humility in daytime do not hesitate to swing a black jack as soon as darkness falls.

The business of begging is highly organized industry not developed to degree that prevails in New York, Rome and London and other cities, but it is a paying industry. Regular establishment provide the equipment for begging. These include colored rubber, "blisters'. That are held on hand or arm by elastic and, and are carefully unwrapped to excite pity of the onlooker. There are crushed fingers, bandages colored with aniline dye that are slipped over perfectly good fingers, rubber "cancers', broken arms that hangs outside the coats while the good arm is concealed inside and other properties, for the profession.

GAVE HIM NEW LEASE OF LIFE

Toronto Citizen Declares Tanlac Ended Stomach Trouble and Prolonged His Years.

"Of all the medicines I ever saw, Tanlac is the best. It has given me a new lease on life, I do believe." When a pioneer citizen like Edward Cairns, 17 Sumach Street, Toronto, Ont., speaks in the above manner of the benefits he received from Tanlac, no better proof of the medicine's merit could be offered. Mr. Cairns holds the distinction of having driven one of the first horse cars in the old days.

"I suffered from stomach trouble six or eight years," continued Mr. Cairns. "After eating, gas bloated me and pressed on my chest so tight my heart palpitated something awful, and I had to scramble to the window for air. My nerves were so unstrung I was afraid to cross a street in the traffic, was terribly weak and run-down, and seldom got a good night's sleep.

"The Tanlac treatment reversed all this, and I never have a trace of my old troubles. It is certainly wonderful medicine."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 35 million bottles sold.

Liver Trouble

Pains in Stomach

Most of the misery and ill-health that humanity is burdened with arise from disorders of the liver, stomach or bowels.

If you are feeling out of sorts, have pains in the stomach, especially after eating, sour stomach, bilious spells, sick or bilious headaches, heartburn, water brash, etc., you should take a few doses of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills. They will liven up the liver, regulate the bowels, and tone up the stomach.

Mr. T. C. Hallman, Highgate, Ont., writes:—"I have had liver trouble and pains in the stomach for a long time. I started to use your Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, and in short time I noticed they were helping me. Now I woul not be without them and cannot recommend them too highly."

Million Dollar Fire at Rancocas Stables.

JOBSTOWN, N.J., April 16 (Canadian Press). — Inchcape, noted racer and prize stallion in the Harry F. Sinclair racing stable, was burned to death, along with 29 brood mares and 11 suckling colts, in a fire that swept a stable on the Rancocas Stock Farm on Saturday night.

The animals destroyed were all of thoroughbred stock, and were valued at $1,000,000, according to Henry W. Tresh, manager of the farm.

Inchcape alone was valued at $400,000, he said. Included among the 42 horses burned were several promising colts.

The cause of the firse was not determined.

Cerrus, another stallion, also perished in the fire.

Later.—Only one animal, the stallion Purchase, was saved from the burning building by attendants, who were prevented in further rescue work by the rapid spread of the flames.

The fire was not discovered until it had gained great headway, and the lack of fire fighting facilities mde attempts to combat the flames frutless.

The Sinclair Racing Stable was untouched.

WHAT ADAM MISSED.

Adam had an awful time,
His life was far from sunny—
Could buy no second-handed leaves,
And on his clothes save money,
Want Ads weren't invented then—
That was tough on Adam!
Think of what he might have saved,
If he had only had 'em.

The PRIDE of PALOMAR

By Peter B. Kyne

For about ten minutes Parker remained in his room, thinking. His wife and Kay had started, afoot, to visit the mission shortly after Don Mike and Pablo had left the ranch that morning, and for this Parker was duly grateful to Providence. He shuddered to think what the effect upon them would have been had they been present when Pablo made his spectacular entrance; he rejoiced at an opportunity to get himself in hand against the return of Kay and her mother to the ranch house.

"That wretched Okada!" he groaned. "He concluded that the simplest and easiest way to an immediate consummation of our interrupted deal would be the removal of young Farrel. So he hired one of his countrymen to do the job, believing or at least hoping, that suspicion would naturally be aroused against that Basque, Loustalot, who is known to have an old feud with the Farrels. Kay is right. I've trained with white men all my life; the moment I started to train with pigmented mongrels and Orientals I had to do with a new psychology, with mongrelized moral codes—ah, God, that splendid manly fellow killed by the insatiable lust of an alien race for this land of his they covet! God forgive me! And poor Kay—"

He was near to tears now; fearful that he might be caught in a moment of weakness, he fled to the barn and helped Pablo hitch a team of draft horses to an old spring wagon. Pablo's customary taciturnity and primitive stoicism had again descended upon him like a protecting garment; his madness had passed and he moved around the team briskly and efficiently. Parker climbed to the seat beside him as Pablo gathered up the reins and started out of the farmyard at a fast trot.

Ten minutes later they paused at the mouth of the draw down which Farrel had been riding when fired upon. Pablo turned the team, tied them to an oak tree and started up the draw at a swift dog trot, with Parker at his heels.

Jammed rather tightly in a narrow little dry water-course that ran through the center of the draw they found the body of Don Mike. He was lying face downward; Parker saw that flies already rosetted a wound thick with blood clots on top of his head.

"Poor, poor boy," Parker cried agonizedly.

Pablo straddled the little water-course, got a grip around his master's body and lifted it out to Parker, who received it and laid the limp form out on the grass. While he stood looking down at Don Mike's white, relaxed face, Pablo knelt, made the sign of the cross and commenced to pray for the peaceful repose of his master's soul. It was a long prayer; Parker, waiting patiently for him to finish, did not know that Pablo recited the litany for the dying.

"Come, Pablo, my good fellow, you've prayed enough," he suggested presently. "Help me carry Don Miguel down to the wagon—Pablo, he's alive!"

"Hah!" Pablo's exclamation was a sort of surprised bleat. "Madre de Cristo! Look to me, Don Miguel. Ah, little dam' fool, you make believe to die, no?" he charged hysterically.

Don Mike's black eyes opened slightly and his slack lower jaw tightened in a ghastly little grimace. The transported Pablo seized him and shook him furiously, meanwhile deluging Don Mike with a stream of affectionate profanity that fell from his lips like a benediction.

"Listen," Don Mike murmured presently. "Pablo's new litany."

"Hijacal! Little, wicked heretic! Blood of the devil! Speak, Don Miguel."

"Shut up! Took your—time—getting me—out—confounded ditch—damned—lazy—beggar——"

Pablo leaped to his feet, his dusky face radiant. "You hear!" he yelled. "Senor Parker, you hear those boy give to me hell like old times, no?"

"You ran—you colorado maduro good-for-nothing—left me stuck in—ditch—let bushwhacker—get away—fix you for this, Pablo."

Pablo's eyes popped in ecstasy. He grinned like a gargoyle. "You hear those boy, senor?" he reiterated happily. "I tell you those boy he like ol' Pablo. The night he come back he rub my head; yesterday he poke the rib of me with the thumb—now pretty soon he say sometheeng, I bet you."

"Shut up, I tell you." Don Mike's voice, though very faint, was petulant. "You're a total idiot. Find my horse—get rifle—trail that man—who shot me—get him—damn your prayers—get him——"

"Ah, Don Miguel," Pablo assured him in Spanish, in tones that were prideful beyond measure, "that unfortunate fellow has been shaking hands with the devil for the last forty-five minutes."

Don Mike opened his eyes widely. He was rapidly regaining his full consciousness. "Your work, Pablo?"

"Mine—with the help of God, as your illustrious grandfather, the first Don Miguel, would have said. But you are pleased to doubt me so I shall show you the carcass of the animal. I roped him and dragged him for two miles behind the black mare."

Don Mike smiled and closed his eyes. "I will go home," he said presently, and Pablo and Parker lifted him between them and carried him down to the waiting wagon. Half an hour later he was stretched on his bed at the hacienda, while Carolina washed his head with a solution of warm water and lysol. John Parker, rejoiced beyond measure, stood beside him and watched this operation with an alert and sympathetic eye.

Want Ad Tips

by John T. Bartlett

A HOMEY PLACE TO STAY.

(By John T. Bartlett).

A lady who, for many years, has found roomers with Want Ads, tells how important she considers little touches she applies to the room she is about to show inquirers. The draperies are fresh and dainty—just laundered. If any of the furniture has become marred, she goes over it with varnish. She never lets the walls get dingy—the cost of papering or calcimining is such that she says she can always afford it when needed.

Then, finally, comes a little touch which particularly pleases inquirers. On the window sill o a stand is a potted plant in blossom, or, if it is the summer season, a bowl of freshly cut flowers.

This lady "displays" to advantage. She helps the room she shows to suggest strongly the true fact—that as a landlady she does a lot of the "homey" little things which roomers appreciate. Naturally, of the inquirers whom her want advertising draws, one quickly is found who takes the room.

In this experience there is a valuable hint for all room advertisers. Before showing the room to inquirers, make it just as attractive, "homey," as you can. Also, when writing your Want Ad, emphasize the "home" idea.

Various things may influence inquirers strongly in selecting a room. One thing is convenience as regards place of employment. Another is the neighborhood—the part of the town—determined to an extent by nature of employment of business. Whatever other considerations enter, though, all persons like a room with a "homey" atmosphere.

Somewhere, undoubtedly, there is a place which is really home to them. Away from it now, looking for a room, they hunger for something as close to home as one's lodging place can be.

So, such words and phrases as these in Want Ads help to let rooms quickly: "Homey atmosphere," "cozy," "cheerful room," "daintily furnished," "unusually nice home," "real home for group of men," "cheery and comfortable home," "home-like surroundings," "congenial people," "lovely porch for summer evenings," "billiard room," "where you will be one of the family."

All people like a "homey" place to stay. Let your Want Ad offer just that kind.

ELEVEN SENTENCED TO DEATH FOR BRIBERY

(By John Graudenz, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

MOSCOW, April 16.—Eleven persons were sentenced to death here to-day for bribery in connection with the distribution of dwellings.

All were employees in the Moscow Housing Department and were members of a band of sixty placed on trial for a monster bribe plot.

The charge was that these employers furnished dwelling to the applicant who could supply them with the most funds.

Later, it is said, the same methods were employed in the distribution of stores and foodstuffs.

If you feel "out of sorts," sluggish and weary

If you feel "out of sorts," sluggish, weary and irritable; if you lack the spirit and sparkle and the ability to do your work with the same briskness and cheerfulness that you see in others, it is probably because your organs are not generating enough vital energy.

If your blood lacks the normal amount of the elements that are necessary in the production of vital energy, it is not possible for you to feel strong, industrious and sprightly; you are bound to tire quickly, feel downcast and find it difficult to take proper interest in your work or your favorite recreations.

If you are not feeling as "fit" as you would like to; if you are in need of reinvigoration, you should take Wincarnis for a week or so. You will probably be surprised and delighted at the promptness with which this general tonic and restorative will enrich your blood, strengthen your nervous system and relieve your feeling of general debility and exhaustion. Physicians are prescribing Wincarnis because of its great virtue as a tonic and reconstructive.

RECIPES

HOLLANDAISE SAUCE.

(By Bertha E. Shapleigh)

The real French method of making a Hollandaise sauce is to make an emulsion of egg yolks, acid and butter, cooking it over water. To this thick sauce, which is quite the finest of all sauces, some American cooks add boiling water, thinning the sauce and making it good for baked or boiled fish where a thinner sauce is more desirable. Because the sauce cannot be kept hot without danger of separation, many cooks add a small amount of thick white sauce.

A good recipe consists of one-half cup butter, two egg yolks, one tablespoon lemon juice or vinegar, nequarter teaspoon salt and a little cayenne.

Work the butter until creamy, but not soft, and divide it into three portions. Place one portion with egg yolks and acid in a sauce pan. Hold the sauce pan over hot water, and stir constantly until the egg yolks have begun to thicken the butter; add a second portion of butter, and then the remaining piece. When butter is melted and the mixture is as smooth as mayonnaise, remove from the fire. Season and serve at once.

If a separation does take place add a tablespoon of boiling water or cream, and stir vigorously.

Hollandaise may be used with a tenderloin or beef, veal cutlet, fried or broiled fish, artichokes, asparagus and many egg dishes. There are many variations, such as the addition of tarragon, anchovy sauce, cream of tomato purie.

MAJOR TEAMS ARE ALL PREPARED FOR THE OPENING GAME

Season is Expected to Be One of the Biggest and Best For Both Fans and Players.

ALL ENTHUSIASTIC.

NEW YORK, April 16.— (Canadian Press.)— With the opening of the 1923 baseball season but a few days off the regular pre-season forecasts in the major leagues are being given out by the magnates. All are of the opinion that the coming season will be a record one in the matter of close pennant races and public interest.

Five clubs in the American League have pennant possibilities, according to President Ban Johnson. Detroit, Cleveland and Chicago will enter the race better equipped than last year, while New York, because of its pitching staff, must be regarded as a dangerous contender. The illness of George Sisler may keep the Browns out of the race at the start, President Johnson figures. Connie Mack's Athletics may furnish some surprises and Washington's corps of young pitchers, may prove sensational.

John A. Haydler, President of the National League, says the teams in this circuit never were in better condition to start the diamond race than they are at the present time. He refused to predict possible pennant contenders but referred to the return of "Matty" to the baseball game at the head of the Boston Club as the most "welcome" news of the winter.

Kenesha M. Landis, Baseball Commissioner ,apparently has no favorites in the 1923 baseball race, but in a statement yesterday he said he looked for "a great year for the fans." The training season has produced highly satisfactory results, in his opinion ,and the race in either league should be interesting. Without exception the managers of the various clubs in the major leagues issued their annual hopeful forecasts. All indications are that the public is going to welcome the opening of the season with enthusiasm.

QUAKERS NOSED OUT BY DE LAVALS

Second Defeat For the Quakers Robs Them of Any Chance to Take First Place in Industrial Section.

The DeLaval Greys upset the Quakers' last chance to capture the first place in the industrial section of the Soft Ball League by winning out with a score of 11 to 10 in the only game played on Saturday evening. When the DeLavals came to bat in the last half of the eighth inning the score stood 10 to 7 against them. They managed to squeeze the necessary four runs across before they were retired, and held the Quakers scoreless in the ninth, taking the victory by the narrow margin of one run.

Both sides were strong on the hits and walloped the ball freely to all corners of the armoury. Both also made numerous errors and the fielding on the whole was rather weak.

Carruthers and Murray were the moundsmen for the occasion. Carruthers, for the Quakers has the better record in the matter of strikeouts, with 8 to his credit; Murray had 9. Both turned in good games, but got indifferent support.

The players were:

Quaker Oats: Kearns, ss; M. Guerin, 1b; F. Guerin lf, Gandy 3b; Mayette 2b; Graham ss; Ferguson rf; Carruthers p; Foster c.

WOOLLENS ADDED ANOTHER VICTORY

Victorious Over the Tool-Room in One of the Best Games Played This Year.

The Woollens and the Toolroom nines clashed in a battle royal in the first game of softball Saturday afternoon. The Woollens emerged victorious with the big end of a 5 to 2 score. The benches were crowded with fans to see this game.

McLean and Rose were the opposing twirlers. McLean turned in a steady game for the Woollens, his offering being always difficult for the C.G.E. batters to connect with. Rose struck out seven but he seemed to find the plate soo small at times.

Neither team could score more than one run an innings. Russell got on first on an error and scored on McLean's hit. Bith teams scored in the fourth. An error coupled with a hit and two walks gave the Woollen lads theirs. Dugan got to first on a walk, stole second and advanced the rest of the way home on sacrifices, scoring the C.G.E. lads first one. The Woollens got one more in each frame up to the seventh. The C.G.E. got one in the seventh also but failed to score in the preceding frames. Both teams were retired in quick order in the last three frames without scoring.

TWO NEW RECORDS SET BY WOOLLENS IN THE FINAL GAME

Game Played in Thirty-Eight Minutes Was Third Victory in Twenty-Four Hours.

WITH LOCK CO.

The Woollens hung up a softball record Saturday afternoon of three wins in twenty-four hours. Their final victory of 6-1 was over the Lock Works crew. The men of the lock and key gave the Woollens a harder argument than was expected and played good ball with snappy fielding.

The game was played in the shortest period of time of any played this season. The time elapsing between when the first man grabbed his bat in the first innings and the third man threw down his in the ninth was thirty-eight minutes.

The Lock Works were repeatedly retired with men on the sacks. Taylor reached third four times, but the breaks were against him and he failed to reach home safely.

"Benny" McLean pitched a splendid game, although it was his second game of the afternoon, retiring nine and allowing but five hits. The Woollens' battery is the power behind that has so far pushed them through the schedule undefeated. They are now champions of the Mercantile section without necessarily playing the remaining game.

Mason pitched a heady game for the Lock Company and received staunch support.

The players were:

Russell, 3b; Hopkins, c; McLean, p; Legros, 1b; Anthony, ss; Stiles, ss; Clarke, 2b; Hillier, rf; Lang, lf.

BATTLE DECIDES CELLAR POSITION

C.N.R. Placed Utilities at the Bottom of the List.

The C.N.R. pulled themselves out of the cellar position when they defeated the Utilities by a score of 9 to 7. The Utilities now are the only occupants of the lowest bunk having as yet no wins, being twins in this respect with the Bowlers of the Club section.

The game proved for most part to be a comedy of errors, the members of each team, with a few exceptions, seemingly striving to see who could ring up the most errors.

Each team secured or was given three runs in the first innings. Neither team scored in the second, flashes of good fielding keeping any from crossing the counting station. The Utility men sent across a brace of three more runs in the third innings and the C.N.R. by a miracle were kept from scoring. Two flies caught by Corneill playing short for the C.N.R. aided much in retiring the Utility sluggers before any damage was done in the fourth. The C.N.R. crew added another to their triplets in their half of the fourth.

The C.N.R. lads won the game in the last two innings, a total of five runs in those two innings doing the trick.

Corneil was worth a gold mine to the C.N.R. doing much to give them victory by grabbing off all that came his way on short.

The lineups:

Utilities—Hines, 1b; Kernegan, 2b; Dobson, c; Nichols, p; Clegg, 3b; McKinnon, ss; Platt, ss; Sharpe, lf; Reid, rf.

C.N.R.—Morden, 3b; H. Delahaye, 2b; Rundle, ss; R. Delahaye, c; Smith, 1b; MacMillan, p; Corneil, ss; Howard, lf; Hill, rf.

WOOLLENS WON FIRST SOCCER GAME OF YEAR SATUTDAY AFTERNOON

Comrades Lost By a Score of 2 to 0—Game Played at King Edward Park.

EXHIBITION GAME.

The Canadian Woollens opened the 1923 football season with a 2 to 0 victory over the Comrades in a great game played at the King Edward Park on Saturday afternoon. The game was an Exhibition battle, the proceeds of which are to be devoted to settling the account of the O.F.A. against the local association. There was an excellent crowd on hand who evidenced a spirit of support which augurs well for the season's prospects.

A keen wind blew along the ground, which favored the Comrades who won the toss. and by the aid of Richmond, who s had the ball in the vicinity of Williams, who was called upon to save a daisy cutter, which he dealt with like an artist. The Woollens now began to feel their feet, and by nice passing between Jimmy Shaw and Roberts on the left Jackson, the Comrades' goal keeper, was called upon, and saved admirably. A ding dong battle ensued first at one goal and then the other until within a few minutes of half time J. Chambers went down the field in full control and sent in a terrific shot which Jackson saved, but the ever watchful shuttle met the return and scored the first goal of the season. Half time was called with the score standing 1 to 0 in favour of the Woollens.

Playing with the wind in their favour te Woollens pressed Shaw and Roberts playing very well together made headway on the lift and Jackson was kept busy saving repeatedly. On a nice pass from Williams, the right back of the Woollens Jimmy Shaw beat Jackson and registered goal number two. The Comrades now took up the running and Warman became very prominent, giving Williams a hard shot to save. But Chambers, and the half backs, who where an excellent trio, and Williams' good goal keeping, kept the snappy forwards of the Comrades at bay; the players seemed now to tire and time was called, leaving the Woollens winners of the first game by two goals to none.

The following where the teams:

Goal, Williams; backs, J. Chambers, Leach; halves, Hotson, Monkman, Williams; forwards, Kitchen, Gaskell, Roberts, Shaw, Shuttle.

Comrades — Goal Jackson: backs Anderson, Ray; halves, Richard, Warman. McMillan; forwards, Shuan, Brown, Burgess, Craig, Richmond; referee J. Clarke.

IRISH RUGBY TEAM DOWNED BY FRANCE

Frenchmen Won By Score of 14 to 8 in Final Game of International Series.

PARIS, April 16. — (Canadian Press Cable.)—Bright sunshine, with a cool breeze were the weather conditions for the last international rugby game of the season played here Saturday afternoon when France defeated Irelnad by 14 points to 8. The game was witnessed by a crowd of 20,000 spectators.

The Frenchmen began promisingly when their forwards heeled well in the scrums and their backs handled finely. After twelve minutes' play, Cassayet raged away in loose play and Beguet scored a try which Crabos failed to convert. The Irish forwards started slackly but improved and made some good rushes. After two fine attacks by the Irish back had failed, Douglas scored a try which Crawford converted. Immediately afterwards Jaurreguy scored a try for France. At the interval the score stood; France 6, Ireland 5.

Twelve minutes after the resumption of play McClelland scored a lucky try which Crawford failed to convert. A splendid three-quarters movement by the French ended in Jaurreguy scoring a try which Crabos could not convert. Nearing the end of the game another fine movement by the French backs resulted in Mourea scoring a try which Beguet converted.

There were some alterations in the French line-up and Bordes, Lalande, Lacazdieu, Dupont and Fargues replaced Behsteguy, Lousteau, Billac, Pilleu and Lasserre. There was no change in the Irish team.

WALES BLANKED BY THE IRISH TEAM

International Soccer Game Went to Ireland By a Score of 3 to 0.

WREXHAM, Wales, April 16. — Canadian Press. — Fine weather and a large attendance were in evidence here on Saturday afternoon for the Wales-Ireland international soccer match, which the latter won by 3-0. The ground was in capital condition. Lyner of Glentoran, replaced Laday on the Irish team, while Vizard of Bolton, came in for Nicholas on the Welsh eleven.

Ireland won the toss and took advantage of the strong wind. Wales immediately took the offensive, but Kennedy relieved. Ireland forced a corner from which Gillespie put over the bar with a wild kick. The Irish forwards attacked, Irvine scoring with a perfect drive. The Welshmen tested Farquharson, who cleared. Ireland then once more attacked and Gillespie headed a centre from Toner into the net. Just before half time Irving scored a third goal for Ireland from a drive from 25 yards out. At the interval the score stood; Ireland 3, Wales 0.

On the resumption of play the Welshmen played up strongly, and were frequently attacking. Evans just missed with a hot shot and Len Davies sent the ball right across the Irish goal mouth. The Welshmen forced a couple of corners near the end of the game but without result.

OTTAWA, April 16.— (Canadian Press.)—The fourth annual banquet of the Acadia University alumni, Ottawa branch, was held here Saturday. A number a members of Mac-Master alumni were guests. Rev. P. W. Patterson D.D., LL.D., responding to the toast to the "University of Acadia," of which he is president, referred to the convention held at Moncton on April 11, when it was decided to reject the proposal that Acadia university amalgamate with Colleges in Canada. He pointed out that the institution had its own individualism and did not need to amalgamate. The institution had a brilliant future and he was pleased to know that it would continue to carry on without any affiliation with other colleges. Rev. Dr. Patterson's remarks were warmly received.

Professor Clancy's Liniment of Life.

Drives out rheumatism, stiffness, injects pep, one bottle will make you as supple as a jelly fish. Read what Owner Guff of the world famous Germs baseball team has to say of this youth-giving embrocation.

Dear Professor Clancy: Early this Spring our ball team, was looking like a lot of candidates for the museum, they moved like Capablanca, when they moved—watching them make an ultra rapid picture look like the Indianapolis Speedway—I was in despair till I heard of your Liniment—We tried it—and NOW if we don't have that pennant cinched by August the first, we'll hang crepe on the Clubhouse door. After using your Liniment our team looks like the greatest collection of wonders since Barnum—I said wonders, not freaks—They are so full of fight now that they quarrel with themselves in their sleep. Our infield is as smooth as a troupe of Trained Seals. Our outfield covers more ground than the grand stand. Every fly that goes out there has three of them quarreling over it. Our center fielder treated his right arm with your Liniment and now when pegging them in from the fence he has to throw underhand to keep the ball in the park. But the pitchers are so good now our outfield has nothing much to do, but the hitting. Oh! Boy! When this gang get hitting right the opposing outfielders wear deckers and the infield lay flat on their faces and pray for the old trench warfare. Any guy on our team that is only getting one hit a day gets an awful razzing from the others until he comes out of his slump. And are they fast on the bases, when they start stealing second the other team throws the ball to third to head them off. When we played the White Sox they stole Catcher Schalk's belt. All this came from using your Liniment. Send me two mores cases (and the cheque you promised me for this advertisement.)

Your truly,
Owner Guff of the Germ.

CRITICAL SITUATION.

LONDON, April 16. Canadian Press. — Sixty thousand operatives in the potteries of Staffordshire have been notified of a proposal to reduce general wages by 10 per cent. Conferences have been held between the employers and representatives of the men, and adjourned, without resulting in an agreement. The outlook is not regarded as critical.

How Ed. Jones Got Stung

ED JONES saw a bicycle bargain advertised. The low price was a bait he couldn't resist. When the wheel arrived he was tickled pink. It looked pretty good. It rode fairly well.

Things Began to Happen

But—after a few weeks, things began to happen. The enamel started to chip, the nickeling to rust, and the machine began to run hard. A lot of pressure was needed on the pedals to hit up any speed. The chain didn't seem to run true around the sprockets. There was a grinding and clicking noise.

Then worse happened. Something broke! The bargain bicycle wouldn't go. He had to push it home.

Left to Shift for Himself

Ed wanted to send the wheel back to be repaired. But he found it needed some new parts. And the store was out of those particular parts. They would have to send away for them. There would be a delay of at least three weeks, and perhaps longer.

To save time, Ed was told he would be wiser to have the special parts he needed made to order—a costly job. No, the store didn't take orders of that kind. Nor could they advise definitely where to go to get the job done. Ed was left to shift for himself.

You could hardly blame him for saying, "I thought I was getting a bargain, but I got stung instead."

Take heed of Ed Jones' experience and avoid "cheap" bargain bicycles, if you don't want to get "stung."

Choose a wheel that the manufacturers and the dealers all stand behind—the C.C.M. Bicycle.

Over 1,000 Service Stations

If any repairs are ever required on a C.C.M. Bicycle, there is always a C.C.M. Service Station within easy reach—over 1,000 of them in Canada, where repair parts are obtainable at reasonable cost, and intelligent repair service given.

But a C.C.M. Bicycle hardly ever requires repairs. It is built of the most lasting steel and other materials. The parts are made as accurately as those used in the finest motor cars.

A C.C.M. Bicycle runs with watch-like smoothness and it continues to run easily for years and years.

10 to 15 Years in Use

There are C.C.M. Bicycles in use today that are running smoothly and easily after 10 to 15 years of service.

And the 1923 C.C.M. Bicycles are the best we have ever turned out.

Even the famous C.C.M. Triplex Hanger has been improved, making the C.C.M. a still more "peppy" bicycle. The Triplex turns with wonderful ease and smoothness—gives you power to burn.

The New Pedal

There's the new Gibson Pedal, too—with its silvery, rust-proof aluminum frame and its generous-size rubbers that grip the foot perfectly. A wonderfully light, yet very strong, pedal.

And there's the New Hercules Brake—the soft, velvety brake that coasts farther, and has no clumsy side-arm.

English Seamless Tubing, too—the kind that makes a powerful, rigid frame.

And don't forget, each C.C.M. Bicycle is coated with a brilliant, durable enamel and has its bright parts nickeled over copper so they won't rust.

It may cost you a few dollars more for a real, honest-to-goodness bicycle than for a bargain, but it won't take long for the repair bills to eat up the difference. And just think, too, of the extra long years of service the staunch, faithful C.C.M. Bicycle will give you.

$15 to $20 Less

Step into the C.C.M. dealer's and glimpse the new 1923 models for men, women, boys and girls. They are $15 to $20 less than the "peak" war prices. Right down to the bottom for a quality bicycle.

HASTINGS LOSES ONE STAR LACROSSE PLAYER

HASTINGS, April 16.— Hastings lost one of its lacrosse players on Monday when Stan. Stevenson left for Leaside. Stan was a favourite on and off the field, and was a star on the lacrosse field and the baseball diamond, and in winter was one of the fastest hockey players that Hastings has turned out.

Hastings has added another real lacrosse player to its ranks, in the person of Billy Clapper Billy has been in the game for many seasons, as in 1921 he played with Oshawa O.A.L.A. team when they went into the finals against St. Mary's. He is the real finished product, and will help nicely on the defence with Charlie Montgomery. This should be a hard pair to beat.

LONDON WORRIED BY AIR STRENGTH SHOWN IN FRANCE.

Britain's Weakness in Air Defence Again Occupies Public Attention — Interesting Figures.

LONDON, April 16.—Britain's weakness in air defence again occupies public attention, and the government is being urged to give serious and immediate attention to the strengthening of that arm of England's fighting forces. In an article in the Daily Telegraph Major C. C. Turner, a well known air expert, compares Britain's air equipment with that of France and declares that the British "are incredibly weak in this respect, considering their geographical situation and their responsibilities."

Major Turner proceeds to give some interesting figures respecting France's growing airplane resources, and says France easily is mistress of the air of the world. "That country," he says, "according to authoritative information available in Paris, will have a total of 220 air squadrons by the end of the present year. This means 2,200 airplanes in the first line, with proportionate reserves and with the necessary transport, medical and other auxiliary services. The French government is actuated by the consideration that the strategic situation of France makes her more open to attack by land and sea than any other western power, and it feels, therefore, that as her military power diminishes it is necessary that her air power be increased."

France's war reserve in the air service, Major Turner continues, is about 4,800 airplanes of various types, with the necessary means of supply and maintenance. "In the eleven months ended November 30, 1922," he writes, "French airplane manufacturers turned out 3,500 machines, including a few required for export.

"The total number of British active air squadrons is thirty-two, of which the greater number are abroad. This makes a deplorable showing as against France's more than 200 squadrons."

The British expert then says that serial warfare as conducted in 1914-1918 was child's play compared with what it will be in the future. "We know," he remarks gravely, "that the British fleet, no matter how preponderant on the sea, cannot save our homes from the power that strikes swiftly from the sky. We ought to ask ourselves whether we can be defended against this new power, as formerly we kept our shores inviolable. Could the people endure the strain of bombardment from the air, and the constant fear of it? Here may lie our most vulnerable point; and at it an enemy would strike first, hoping at small cost to himself to weaken our resolve and paralyze our mind and arm.

"There is no imminent danger of war, but no man can be sure of peace even five years ahead. Before 1914 we were content with our small army, knowing that, at the worst, we should have time to create new armies. That assurance has gone forever. We shall not have time, for within a few hours of the rupture of peace our homes, workshops, transport and munition factories would be attacked.

"True, at the moment, there is only one power that could strike at us through the air, and that power is France, happily our ally. But who can say what changes in the distribution of air power and in friendships may not occur within the next few years?"

A million pounds sterling in subsidies for commercial air service will be paid to an air transport company if parliament accepts the recommendations of the air ministry.

The government has already given large subsidies to various companies operating air passenger lines to the continent under plans that have proved unsuccessful, as they allowed competition among the companies at the expense of the government.

The new plan provides that the government will undertake to furnish a million pounds, to be allotted over a space of ten years, to any firm with a capital of a million pounds and which is capable of developing commercial aviation.

The government will allow the company complete control of its own development, requiring only that all profits over ten per cent be equally divided between the government and the shareholders. When the million pounds has been repaid, the government will drop all connection with the company.

Several companies are understood to be preparing to bid for the subsidy monopoly if the plan is passed by parliament.

Air liners, able to carry from eight to a hundred passengers across the Atlantic in less than 24 hours, will, it is claimed, become practicable with the use of two 1600-horsepower aeroplane engines being built for the air ministry. These engines will be the most powerful in the world, and will burn crude oil instead of petrol.

VOCATIONAL STUDENTS INCREASE 300 PER CENT.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—A large increase in attendance at agricultural vocational schools, set up under provisions of the Federal Vocational Education Act of 1917, is recorded in statistics covering the first five-year period of the act.

At the close of the fiscal year 1922, the agricultural enrollment totalled 59,276, while at the end of the first year under the act, 1918, the enrollment was only 15,453. This is an increase of nearly 300 per cent for the period. The number of agricultural vocational schools has increased from 609 in 1918 to 2,175; the number of teachers increased from 895 to 2,290.

Under the act states receive an annual grant of Federal funds for vocational schools on conditions that they match the Federal appropriation dollar for dollar with state or local funds. Last year the 48 states expended a total of more than $4,000,000 on such schools, of which amount about $1,400,000 was from Federal funds. Only public schools giving practical instruction designed to prepare the pupil to enter the vocation of farming may receive the aid under the act.

The 1921 census showed 1,202,135 farm boys between the ages of 14 and 20 who are out of school. In addition there are approximately 8,000,000 men above the age of 20 who would be benefited by part-time or evening classes.

TAKE BRIGHT RED WALL-PAPER FOR MELANCHOLIA

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 16 If your're troubled by a secret longing to do something exciting—

If your life seems like a dreary waste of nothing but housework—

Then it isnt' the help of a psychoanaletical expert that you need, but some screaming red or blazing yellow wall paper in your home.

The prescription's that of Miss Lucy Taylor—Dr. Taylor, let's call her, since it's a remedy for human ills that she's promoting—who lectures under the National Wall Paper Manufacturers' Association's auspices.

Be Very Hetic!

"Buy just as gorgeous and hectic wall paper as your hearts desire," she advises housewives.

For instance, she says, if you're going to purchase wall paper, never, never say to the dealer: "I want something very plain, simple and inconspicuous," because if you do he'll know you for the hyprocite and poser you are, and also for a 1902 model.

"It's just plain scare" says Miss Taylor, "that's kept us from decorating our homes in bright colors. True, color can be used unwisely, but at that, isn't it better to have a rip-roaring good time in an emerald green gown, even if it is a little out of taste, than to be perfectly proper in black—and miserable?

Don't Overdo Matters.

"Of course there are some rooms, perhaps, that ought to be decorated restfully, but who want a whole house to be subdued and somnolent!

"Suppose you suffer, or your husband does, from an inferiority complex. The remedy's red and yellow colors that stir people to action, that give them pep and courage.

"Or suppose you incline to be careless in dress. Then you need bright chintz wall paper, spotted with gay birds and bright flowers, in your bedroom. It will make you If you're troubled by a secret longlook at it.

"Wall paper ought to have a pattern. Plain paper says nothing, means nothing.

"The happiness of your whole family may depend on your wall paper."

THEATRES

AT THE ROYAL.

Goldwyn's great production "The Christian" which has created a screen sensation in Toronto, where it played several weeks at high admission prices, and "Me and My Gal", the English-made picture which is making a Canadian record for itself have both been booked to be shown at the Royal in the near future.

The management of the Royal states that it cannot expect to make a profit on the showing of these films, because of their high price, but is booking them merely to satisfy its patrons in accordance with the theatre's policy of trying to give the best film programmes at low prices.

To-night the Royal is presenting "Broken Chains", made from the $10,000 prize in the Chicago Daily News Scenario Contest, in which 30,000 manuscripts were submitted.

AT THE REGENT.

"THE FOUR HORSEMEN" COMING; FIRST $1,000,000 PHOTOPLAY.

Rex. Ingram's $1,000,000 production of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," made for Metro, is announced by the Regent Theatre beginning to-day. This will be the first showing here of the screen version of Vicente Blasco Ibanez's novel that has been acclaimed in New York, Chicago, Boston, Pittsburgh, Detroit, and Los Angeles as making a new epoch in the development of motion pictures. At its New York opening people paid $10 a seat. Critics said the picture had definitely established the screen not only as capable of rivalling the stage at its best, but of surpassing it in its grip upon the emotions.

Rodolph Valentino, the celebrated young dancer who has the leading male role in "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalyse," a Rex Ingram production for Metro, now being shown at the Regent Theatre, found his way to fame and fortune throug his nimble feet.

When you see Mr. Valentino in this screen adaptation of the world-famous novel of Vicente Blasco Ibanez by June Mathis and notice his finished acting, the sure swagger of the cafe scenes laid in the Argentine, the polish of his manners in interpreting the student and lover in Paris, it will be your unquestionable opinion that here is a man initiated in theatrical ways as a child.

But it was neither as a dancer nor an actor that Mr. Valentino hoped to take fortune by storm. It was in the more humble sphere as a prospective agriculturist that he came to the United States, at the age of eighteen, a graduate from the Royal Military College of Agriculture at Genoa, Italy. As he planned his future he would become one of the great land owners in this country of opportunity.

But things happened swiftly for him in New York. Soon he was busy teaching Broadway's regulars his graceful steps. He appeared at Rector's as a dancing partner of Bonnie Glass, following this engagement with one in the Winter Garden and a long term contract in vaudeville.

From danciung to motion pictures was an easy step. His first picture with Mae Murray in "The Big Little Person." When Rex Ingram, in his painstaking search for the type to portray the pleasure-loving South American hero of "The Four Horsemen" saw Valentino, he chose him for the part.

Having a beautiful complexion doesn't leave much time for cleaning up the house.

MAKING THINGS HUM.
On Friday night, April 6th, in the Reid street hall, a great number of people had such an enjoyable time witnessing the popular comedy, "Patty Makes Things Hum," that the question has been asked by many Is it going to be put on ..ain? The answer is "Yes;" the young people have decided to present it again, on Tuesday, April 17, in the same hall.
It is very evident that a great many who were not able to be present would like to see it, and many who were there have signified their intention of going again.
From the writer's standp.. t, the comedy was exceptionally fine as an amateur production.
A capacity house is expected next Tuesday and as it will n.. t be possible to put it on again it is advisable to procure tickets as soon as possible. Be on hand early to obtain a good seat.—Contributed.

BESEECH CITY JAILER TO GIVE BED AND BOARD

VIENNA, April 16.—It is hard luck to be out of work these days in Vienna, but to be out of work and out of jail at the same time is a sign that your hoodoo is working overtime. For Vienna jails are not unduly uncomfortable, and once within their gates the prisoner must be fed until the happy day of his release rolls around.

The city courts sometimes sentence men to jail terms, leaving open for future determination the date upon which the sentence is to begin. Hence there are always a number of prospective prisoners about. Recently several hundred of these men appeared before the central jail one morning, and demanded of the governor that he let them in to begin serving their terms. They were out of work and assured beds and meals, and some warmth, looked mighty good. The governor stood on the jail steps, argued that the jail was crowded to overflowing, and requested the petitioners to exercise some little patience.

"You will all get your turn," he pleaded, "and if perchance you are pardoned altogether, surely you'd like that."

"Indeed we will not stand being put off: we are out of work, and we want to be fed until there are jobs again for us," they shouted back.

The governor finally had to create room for a few dozen, and he promised to take the rest in as soon as he had room.

THE QUEEN PROMOTES JUVENILE BOXING BOUT

LONDON, April 16.—The Queen of England believes that boys should learn to use their fists. There is nothing of the namby pamby about her. Good old Queen Victoria would have regarded her conduct the other afternoon as scandalous. She encouraged a couple of sturdy youngsters to exchange black eyes and bloody noses in the most approved pugilistic fashion. That the knock-out blow was not actually administered was no fault of either of the boys.

The Queen visited the headquarters of the Kensington Council for social service to see for herself what was being done to provide healthy exercise and recreation among the poor children of the borough.

"Would you like to see some of the boys box?" a member of the council asked her.

"Certainly," she replied, and followed by the shrill cries of hundreds of poor children, made her way to an upstairs room where a ring had been roped off. In the centre of it stood a couple of juvenile pugilists anxious to start fighting. They put up a good bout which the queen watched with lively interest. Chancing to glance aside she espied a couple of diminutive youngsters who with bared chests and clenched fists looked on with a world of envy in their excited eyes.

"Do you want to box?" she asked, beckoning them to her. "Yes'm" one of them summoned up courage enough to gasp—forgetting all that he had been taught about how he should speak to the queen.

"Then you shall box for me," she said, and waved them into the ring when the two bigger boys had finished their exhibition. They fought with grim determination, and at the conclusion of their bout stood before the queen hot and panting like young knights awaiting royal commendation. And they got it too.

"Bravo!" exclaimed the Queen, "you both fought first rate." And she clapped her hands. The boys were only sorry they could not fight longer, one of them remarking that it was not every day that "boys like us get a chance to fight for the queen."

MOVIE MEN LOST IN JUNGLES OF KIA KIAS

LOS ANGELES, April 16 (United Press).—Friends of William F. Alder, Los Angeles explorer and motion picture man, believe him to be lost in the land of Kia Kias on the southern coast New Guinea, where he went a year ago to study one of the world's last tribes of cannibals.

Fears were expressed that he may have gone the route of previous explorers and adventurers who have visited in the primitive wilderuesses of Kias—a land where it is still customary to eat one's enemies.

The last word received from Alder and his cameraman, John W. Boyle, was dated Christmas Day. The pair announced their intention of going into "cannibal land" on the following day and expected to be occupied about a month. Since then no word has been received, although both men, in the message, promised to inform friends and relatives of their activities and action.

Before leaving, Alder and Boyle were forced to sign absolvement papers with the Dutch government, which controls the territory, relieving the government of any responsibility in case the two lost their lives. Alder left his wife in Garoet, Java, and according to a letter from her, she is distracted, knowing her husband would not allow much time to go by without communicating with her if he were still alive and at liberty.

Alder who intended writing a book of his observations, wrote many interesting letters containing glimpses on life in Kias. He spoke of the monsoon winds. These winds, he said, tear out great masses of jungle growth and groves of yam-yam and palm trees along the shoreline.

The trait of modesty is absent in Kias. The men wear nothing and the women of the land adorn their charms with sea-shells and jungle grass. The blacks, Alder reported, are a wonderful race, physically. Most of the men stand over six feet.

Canadian Stock Exchange — And Mines — and New York Stock Exchange — And Cash Prices.

To-Day's Quotations and Opinions and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, April 16.— (Special.)—Led by C.P.R., which reached a new 1923 high at 152, Rails continued Saturday's upward movement on the stock exchange to-day. Oils, however, showed an easier tendency again, Saturday's clearing house statements showed a loan shrinkage of $26,394,000, demonstrating that no excessive use of funds was taking place in the speculative community and no indications of higher bank rates were in sight, new developments over the week end left the economic situation unchanged and the market went ahead in the early dealings with bullish demonstrations in progress among the Rails at last week's close. Besides Can. Pac., other representative rails like Norfolk and Western, Chesapeake and Ohio, New York Central and Union Pacific scored advances over the previous close.

Rails continued especially active in the first hour and special strength was in evidence in several industrials specially like Crucible and Sloss Sheffield ,but selling broke out again among the Oils, where Marland declined to a new low at 48 7-8, while Phillips Petroleum included most of the recovery scored toward the end of last week. Pacific Oil, however, held well at above last week's low. Business on the books of the Loco companies, Baldwin, American and Lima, represents 100 per cent. operations for the remainder of 1923. The strong feature of the locomotive industry is that shipments are making no inroads on unfilled business. As an example, American Loco gained 12,000,000 in unfilled orders in the first quarter, notwithstanding that shipments exceeded $30,000,000. Certain officials have gone on record as stating that equipment companies will operate full for the next two or three weeks. Continuation of the strength shown by rails in Saturday's session was the most satisfactory feature of the forenoon, despite the heaviness of the general market last week the average of 20 rails scored a half point gain and at Saturday's close stood at the highest since March 26, Canadian Pacific reached a further new 1923 high at 152 before noon, while standard dividend payers like Reading, Southern Pacific and Atchison, were active at the best levels on the current move. On the lower priced stock Southern Railway, Pere Marquette, Rock Island and Frisco issues made the best performance.

ANOTHER LETTER FROM MR. HAWKES

Chandos, April 16, 1923.
Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Editor:—You will remember publishing in March a letter signed by Reeve Scott, of Chandos, in which he makes statement of the Council's reasons for Mr. Hawkes' dismissal from office as treasurer of the municipality. We note Mr. Scott's charge "talked too much." We might say, that among the people most affected there is a diversity of opinion on that score. Two schools of thought, as it were. One with Mr. Scott as leader (with perhaps some following) of the opinion that he "talked too much" and the other scattered about like sheep having no shepherd, contending that he said too little and that little not sufficiently broadcasted, which all goes to prove that you cannot please everybody.

We have concluded that Mr. Scott's letter calls for explanations. He has been pleased to start off with what politicians call "flag-waving." I confess I do not quite see its relation to the matter in hand, unless he meant it as a suitable introduction to his stunning question, "I should like to ask our ex-treasurer what he did in the great war?" It sounds very suggestive. Does he mean to infer that Mr. Hawkes' citizenship will not stand minster in comparison with the man he has eulogized? Will he take issue on this, and attack Mr. Hawkes through the press? I am afraid he does Mr. Hawkes too much honor, quite unintentionally, of course, not to mention his own merits as a critic. A criticism, at this late date, of Mr. Hawkes' operations during the war, would rank him in that respect with the generals, admirals, ministers and statesmen of all lands, who are being so fiercely criticized for their conduct during the great war.

Another Letter—C Contd. Zehr Daily

He would seem also infer that the gift of the treasurership was a mark of the council's esteem for this veteran, who is now treasurer. If so, Mr. Hawkes has also enjoyed the esteem of the governing body of this municipality, having received the appointment of treasurer in January, 1915. This was, I believe during a most anxious if not the most anxious period of the war, at a time when Chandos was not bestowing her public honors upon citizens of questionable patriotism. Has Mr. Scott any remarks to make.

We would also wish to state our most serious objections to Mr. Scott's bringing the ex-treasurer's wife into public notice in a most offensive manner.....

What offence has she committed? Mr. Hawkes thought that he had suffered some indignities at the hands of the council in general and Mr. Scott in particular, that were quite uncalled for, had been subjected to not a little annoyance considering the notoriety in the neighborhood, hence his letter to The Examiner. Mr. Scott admits in his reply that perhaps the council did not think it necessary to make any explanations to Mr. Hawkes. One would have thought that in dismissing an official who was there before they were, they would not have dispensed with the little formalities so necessary to the dignity of a corporation, in performing an unpleasant duty. They save time to say the least. Mr. Scott found it necessary to explain, eventually. But to go back, what had Mrs. Hawkes done, except to keep the municipal accounts in the manner in which they should be kept, the fruit of an expensive education, handling the thousands of dollars of the public's money each year, and distributing it in hundreds of different directions, and never lost the price of a one-cent postage stamp, and accounted with the proper vouchers for every cent of expenditure, who had worked harmoniously with the council throughout the whole term of office, was not conscious of any improper conduct in her official capacity, serving the present council as faithfully and competently as their predecessors in office, and then to be thrust into public notice in this boorish fashion under an offensive imputation. It would seem as if Mr. Scott was guilty of committing a social error, to say the least.

Well-bred men, that is men who have been well brought up, and wish to reflect credit on having enjoyed the advantages of a nice, refined home, do not take such liberties. It simply isn't done.

I notice that Mr. Scott claims that he told Mr. Hawkes that he and his wife "talked too much." This is an erroneous statement. Mr. Scott never used those words in speaking to Mr. Hawkes, unless he did it at long distance. Strange that he should boast of committing an ill-bred act, most people wait to be accused of it.

If a municipal council dismisses an official, no one questions their right or power to do so, but when they make charges as reasons for such dismissal that is another matter.

Now the purpose of this letter is to state that we do most seriously object to Mr. Scott's imputations in his letter and to his bringing the ex-treasurer's wife into public notice under these imputations.

Mrs. Hawkes is well-fitted by education and other personal qualities to do the work of an accountant or other clerical work, and these imputations would seriously interfere with any future proposals to employ Mrs. Hawkes' talents and training for the benefit of an insolated district like this where persons possessing these abilities, are none too plentiful.

The imputations, quoting from Mr. Scott's letter, "talking too much," "telling things untrue," "dismissed from office" coming from the source that they do, might leave the impression that she was a loose-tongued, lying babbler, unfitted for a position of trust.

So we are in the market for explanations. Will Mr. Scott, Reeve of Chandos, kindly state his authority for making these imputations, which were serious enough to cause the dismissal of a com. petent official against whom he had no personal feeling, as he states in his letter. As to Mr. Scott's avowal, that personal feelings had no part in the matter, a question suggested itself, perhaps not a "poser" like Mr. Scott's stunning query, but one worthy of consideration. Was Mr. Scott worried about the harm this overflow of talk of which he complains was going to do the ratepayers of the municipality or was he thinking of the injury it might do himself personally in his contest for the Reeveship if the ratepayers came to hear it?

Mr. Scott says in his letter that it was not a personal matter. That makes the accusation all the more serious. I think explanations are due from Mr. Scott to give Mrs. Hawkes a chance to vindicate her good name. We have it on recognized authority that "good name in man or woman is the immediate jewel of their souls," and we know how men regards a thief. Yet this same authority gives us that "he who steals our purse is a pretty decent chap compared with him who robs us of our good name, and I think it is still true even if it turns out to be only "attempted robbery." Mr. Scott couldn't afford to shield a robber.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your valuable space. We are, yours very sincerely,

Charles and Agnes Hawkes.
Ex-Treasurer of Chandos and Wife.

(Editor.—This is the third letter that has been published in connection with the above and so far as The Examiner is concerned the controversy is closed.)

NEW CHANCELLOR HAILED BY EDINBURGH STUDENTS

CAMBRIDGE, Eng., April 12.—College students in Britain probably carry the sport of "ragging" to further extremes than in any other country. The installation of a former prime minister of the kingdom as chancellor of one of its oldest universities might seem to be a ceremony that would command the respect even of undergraduates. But when David Lloyd George was made chancellor of Edinburgh University a few days ago the whole proceeding was a joyous riot, which the faculty of the institution took as a matter of course.

Another former prime minister, Herbert H. Asquith, made a speech here recently, and the students of this ancient seat of learning "framed" a plot to kidnap him on his way. The plot miscarried, but if Mr. Asquith had been ten times a prime minister the students would not have hesitated to drag him off his train.

Apparently the scheme was to kidnap Mr. Asquith on his way from London. He was to have been motored to Royston and there given a dinner. Referring to this plot in the course of his speech, Mr. Asquith said:

"It is only owing to the grace of Providence or the accident of fortune that I am here tonight. There are tales of false brethren who, unknown to and unsuspected by me, appear to have endangered my journey. Through your vigilence and excellent staff work I escaped these, and am able to be here with you now."

Entirely too many people go to the movies without cough drops.

BALDWIN MAY BE ENGLAND'S NEXT PREMIER

Chancellor's Political Growth Brings the Day of Bonar Law's Release So Much Nearer.

BUDGET APPROVED

LONDON, April 17.—(Special to the Examiner) — Stanley Baldwin took a long step towards the premier ship of Britain when he made his budget speech, which is generally greeted by the press and in financial circles as sound and reasonable.

Even the Liberal papers approve of the whole budget although the Daily Chronicle, the organ of Lloyd George, criticizes it on the grounds that the reductions are not large enough, and that it contains no mentions of social reforms.

Labour wants the tax removed from both tea and sugar, the industrialists ask for a still further reduction of the income tax and a lower rate of reduction of the National debt.

Nevertheless, the general verdict is that the budget is satisfactory if not sensational.

Loss to Treasury

The details differ little from the forecast made on Saturday. The reduction of the income tax will cost the treasury twenty-six million pounds every year and will save the individuals earning a thousand pounds per annum about sixteen pounds each year. In spite of reductions totalling fifty-seven million pounds for the full year, the budget provides a debt payment of forty millions. The reductions in postage and telephone charges are slight but acceptable, and indicate the turning of the tide in the high cost of business.

A Concise Spech

The speech occupied on hour and twenty minutes and was both concise and comprehensive. It received the warmest praise in the House itself, and it raised the index of the chancellor's barometer by many points.

The news of the Bonor Law's impending retirement, which was announced in these cables last week was published in the Sunday Papers and caused an immense sensation in London.

It naturally drew forth an official denial that the Premier has no pres ent intention of giving up his post, which is perfectly true, but it is also true that the Prime Minster intends ti retire as soon as party conditions permit, and Baldwin's political growth brings the day of his release so much the nearer.

Ontario Govt. Will Distribute Tomorrow Coal From Alberta

TORONTO, April 17.—(Canadian Press.)—The Ontario government will begin to-morrow the distribution of sixty tons of Alberta coal in half ton lots to citizens of Toronto at $4.00 per half ton.

There will be a refund of $2 to each purchaser making a report to the Government respecting the burning qualities of the fuel.

COST OF ROAD OIL IS HIGHER

An increase of about one cent a gallon in the price the city will pay for road oil this year, was shown in the tenders received by the Board of Works last night. The Imperial Oil Company quoted 11c; the Dominion Tar and Chemical Company, 16.47c to 16.72c, and the Crescent Oil Company 12.60 and 12.35; Tarvia B., City Engineer Parsons said, was 17c f.o.b. Peterboro.

After considering the prices briefly the board referred them to the chairman, Ald. Stocker, and Mr. Parsons, with the likelihood that the lowest price, that offered by the Imperial Oil Company, would be accepted.

The Board recommended the purchase of 300 feet of hose for slushing the sewers. City Engineer Parsons said the price was about 65c a foot. He contended that the worn hose usually obtained from the fire department was unsatisfactory, that it developed small holes which were just as objectionable when used on the street by the Board of Works Department as by the firemen.

Mr. Parsons was asked to report on a sheaf of requests for improvements of various kinds all over the city, including the Weller street drain, a sidewalk on the north side of Wolfe street, from Park street, filling in the east side of Aylmer street, between Rink and Perry streets, and also the ditch from R. C. Braund's store, south to Lake street, with a sidewalk built over it.

T. E. Gilchrist's suggestion that the houses on Lock and Crescent streets should be renumbered, was referred to the city engineer, with power to act. Crescent street extends north to Perry street, but there has been confusion as to where it and Lock street begin. Mr. Parsons said that Lock street could be renumbered somewhat similarly to George St. and the Board gave him power to act.

THE WEATHER.

During the last two or three days warm spring-like conditions have developed in the far western prairies and are now travelling eastward. A change is due, and our turn will soon be here. One man informs me that there are two full moons in this month, that it has not occurred before for one hundred years, and that year was a year without a summer. The year without a summer was 1816, so he is mistaken about the summer, and possibly also about the moons. I had an interesting little article prepared about the "year without a summer," but have withheld it on account of the general depression lately about the weather. However good weather will soon be here. The sun will once again shine, and all nature smile.—W. P.

NO REDUCED CAR FARES.

TORONTO, April 17.—(Canadian Press.)—The Transportation Commission's report issued to-day holds out no present hope for reduced car fares for citizens of Toronto. Receipts for sixteen months which the commission has been operating, approach $16,000,000, but the surplus is only $109,000.

GOOD PROGRAM KIWANIS CLUB COURTESY DAY

Nine Little Girls Danced a Highland Reel—Three New Members Receive Kiwanis Order.

2 MINUTE SPEECHES

Courtesy featured the proceedings at to-day's Kiwanis Club luncheon. Two-minute addresses dealing with the Golden Rule of business were given by a number of the Kiwanians.

Rotarian J. M. McHardy, who was numbered among the guests, was induced to take the chair.

Rotarian McHardy conveyed the good wishes of the Rotary Club, and commented upon the good work performed by Rotary and Kiwanis. There is room for both, said the speaker.

A pleasing feature of the programme was a Highland reel, carried out by nine little girls under the direction of Miss Caroline Littlefield of the Y.W.C.A. It was an item from the programme that will be given in the Grand Opera House on 26th and 27th April by the girls' gymnasium classes of the Y.W.C.A.

Jack Gordon, Harry Huffman, and Dr. J. C. Green were initiated as new members by Kiwanian Jack Marshall. The guests included Wilfrid Huycke, Thomas Sproat, A. Smith, all of Peterborough, and Sam Weaver, of the West Toronto Kiwanis Club.

The booster for the day was Hugh Niven, of the Peterborough Paper Box Company.

The prize-winners were Harry Boyle, Dr. Gray Macdougall, and H. R. Parsons. Considerable amusement was caused by the manner in which one box was fitted into the other so that by the time the prize-winners got down to the last box containing the prize, they each had enough boxes to stock a store.

The attendance was 73 per cent., divided among the three teams as follows: Team No. 1, 64 per cent.; Team No. 2, 82 per cent.; Team No. 3, 73 per cent.

A letter from Kiwanian Lloyd Hamilton, expressing regret at his inability to be present at to-day's meeting, was read by George Henderson. Lloyd also made ample provision for the safe conduct of Charlie Cook by naming two fellow-Kiwanians to assume responsibility for his behaviour.

A letter from Jack Jarry who is now "down on the farm" was of interest to the members. Prior to leaving Peterborough Jarry was a member of the Peterborough Club.

TOMB OF KING TUT AT ROYAL THEATRE

Interesting News Strip in the Fox Film Showing Tonight and Tomorrow —Don't Miss It.

The first showing in Canada of pictures of the tomb of King Tutankh-amen is one of the features of the present programme at the Royal theatre. Views of the vicinity of Luxor in Northern Africa, of the immediate vicinity of the tomb, also of the late Lord Carnarvon and of his assistant, Howard Carter, and other members of their party, present an exceedingly interesting reel of the events that have been on the lips of the world for months, culminating in the death of Carnarvan.

These pictures are included in the Fox News, which were sent directly to Mr Pappas upon their arrival in Canada. A last opportunity of seeing the tomb of King "Tut" will be afforded the public to-night and on Wednesday.

HE HAD A SWEET TRIP FROM SPAIN TO U. S.

PHILADELPHIA, April 14.—(United Press). — Juan Hernadez, stowaway and modern Christopher Columbus, was taken from the Swedish steamer Graecia when it docked with a cargo of sugar from Neuvitas, Spain. "What could be sweeter," immigration officials asked when Hernadez was discovered deep in the hole of the ship, where he said he had existed mainly on sugar since he wandered aboard the vessel at Neuvitas.

Hernadez explained he had mistaken the Swedish steamer for his own, a French vessel, and when he discovered his mistake he hid. When informed he was in America his only remark was:

"Cristobal Columbus bump into America just like me."

IMPERIAL OIL CO. WILL BUILD BIG STORAGE PLANT

Are Buying South End Property for New Offices, Warehouse, Garage and Tanks.

START AT ONCE

With a deposit already paid on the O'Brien property at the southwest corner of Romaine and Park streets, the Imperial Oil Company intend to conclude the deal at once, and to proceed as soon as possible with the construction of buildings, including warehouse, office, garage and storage tanks.

This was the announcement of Mr. A. W. Blade, district representative of the company, last night to the Board of Works, who formally approved the project, although the sanction of the Council was unnecessary.

"It is a policy of our company to secure the permission of the municipal authorities in every city where we build," said Mr. Blade.

gave us permission two years ago to go ahead with the work, but conditions arose which required its postponement."

Ald. Morrison moved, seconded by Ald. Crowe, that permission be given the company to build on this property, and the resolution was adopted.

Plans Are Ready.

Plans have already been prepared Mr Blade said, and the contract will be let locally. The buildings include a brick warehouse and office, 40 feet by 60 feet, on a concrete foundation which will allow for a storey and a half structure; also a fireproof garage to accommodate at least five trucks; a fireproof boiler and engine-house for heating, and also for pumping in unloading gasoline and oil; four storage tanks, 21½ feet by 30 feet in height; and also stables.

These buildings will be erected toward the west end of the property, all of which is being bought from Park street back to the G.T.R. and fronting on Romaine street. The first work will likely be the laying of a siding from the railway. The storage tanks will have a capacity of approximately 80,000 gallons, of which 50,000 gallons will be for gasoline and 20,000 for coal-oil.

Fireproof Plant.

The plant will be steam heated and will be fireproof. Mr. Blade emphasized the fact that the Imperial Oil tanks survived the Haileybury fire, although the stables with their horses and other property were destroyed. Each tank is equipped with safety valves, furnishing an outlet for fumes from the oil and gasoline in the event of fire. At Haileybury the surrounding heat created fumes within the tanks and the resulting pressure opened the safety valves so that for several hours during and immediately after the fire the gas emitted from the tanks burned like big torches.

Mr. Blade said he wished to stress these precautions the company was providing in the construction of their new plant here, which will be the concentration and supply depot for the district, in order to allay any doubts the people of that immediate neighborhood might entertain.

NEW ANGLE ON SCHOOL ISSUE IN PETERBORO

Fewer White Collars and More Practical Experience—Halls of Learning Overcrowded.

MORE HARD WORK

To the Editor of The Examiner:

I am a business man having to do with a large number of persons. I feel that our boys and girls are not as well equipped with the ground work of an education, at sixteen years of age as our generation was at twelve or fourteen years.

In the usual circle of ones business friends there are several who started working at the ages of eleven to fourteen years of age, they have accumulated sufficient education to express themselves plainly and clearly, to make a success of their several vocations, and to assist in the general welfare of the community.

After working for forty years, and enjoying my work, present age only fifty-one, I firmly believe that our educational system is not improving. I believe that book-learning, plus a great variety of frills that are considered absolute essentials is not the only necessary education. Practical experience is the primary and not the secondary part of a man's education, except in possibly five per cent. of the vocations, such as the so-called learned professions. (Often too learned for practical life.) Our boys should be trained to look away from the so-called white collar jobs. The foot of the ladder of success in these classes of work is congested now.

Our universities are crowded with students who will not utilize the education they are acumulating at the price of their parents' personal sacrifices. The cities are full of so-called financiers (bond and share peddlars), the product of banking and finance courses, while our bankers and actual financiers are largely composed of men who have worked their way up from the junior positions.

The man or women who really wants an education will obtain it not by artificial assistance, but by good hard effort, while the individual not wanting knowledge, no matter how wealthy or how many opportunities they have, will not be better by present methods.

A re-organization of the present day methods will reduce, instead of increase the necessary time that the average individual would require to obtain an average satisfactory education.

We are threatened with all sorts of penalties if we do not proceed to build and equip new buildings. Has the average citizen ever figured what an immense idle overhead he is supporting in our schools, churches, armouries and other public buildings. For example: Schools. Working hours at present 9 a.m. to 12 noon and 1.30 p.m. to 4 p.m. five days per week. Total twenty-seven hours. Holidays approx. thirteen weeks, balance approx. thirty-nine weeks at 27 1-2 hours equals 1,074 hours per annum.

The average professional or business man, clerk, mechanic or laborer works from fifty to sixty hours per week and consider themselves lucky if they are able to obtain two weeks' holidays, while teachers and scholars are allowed twelve to fifteen weeks' holidays that are practically non-productive. I do not think that any vocation will be a success that enjoys such idle time.

We have over a million dollars invested in schools and equipment. This could be utilized one hundred per cent. more by the double platoon system as follows. First platoon 8 a.m. to 12 noon, second platoon 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. six days per week, or 48 instead of 27 1-2 hours. Grant six weeks' holidays to teachers (compared with the average man's two weeks) made up as follows. One week divided between Christmas and Easter, one week to attend conventions, etc., and four weeks for all other purposes. We would then have forty-six weeks at forty-eight hours per week or 2,208 hours, or 1,149 hours per scholar as compared with 1,074 hours as at present.

Results: We would double the use of our present plant and buildings

TRADE IN STATES SHOWS VARIETY OF GRADATIONS

Industry is as Active as Never Before in Most Lines, and Pre-War Records of Iron and Steel Output Are Broken

NEW YORK, April 17. — Trade in the United States is experiencing varying gradations in operations. Industry is active as never before in most lines. March building expenditures 50 per cent. above the best of last year. Wholesale trade quieter for distant positions. Jobbing fairly active. Retail trade retarded by cold or stormy weather. Mail order business more active. Crop work and growth delayed. Collections slower owing to retarded retail sales. Warm weather needed by trade and agriculture. War records of iron and steel output broken. Soft coal trade one of few exceptions to record pace in industry. Winter-wheat crop may be smallest in five years. Big area to be abandoned. Steel buying less exigent, but prices except for scrap, steady. Failures still ebbing. Good index shows slight gain after a month's sagging. Grain prices higher. Cotton irregularly lower.

WAR VETERANS TO MARCH OUT

Will Attend Service in Sacred Heart Church on Sunday Next.

The annual church parade of the Peterborough veterans will be held on Sunday morning to the Sacred Heart Church. Every returned soldier in the city is asked to turn out for this occasion, wearing, if possible, his uniform and decorations. The parade will leave the G.W.V.A. Hall at 10 a.m., with the 57th Rangers' Band in attendance. The service is held at 10.30 o'clock, and veterans who cannot march with their comrades-in-arms are urgently requested to be present at the church.

This parade is held annually on the Sunday falling nearest to April 22. This year it falls on the exact date, the anniversary of the Second Battle of Ypres. This is the battle in which the Canadian troops first made for themselves a name which has rung around the world, for on this day Canadians of the First Division bore the brunt of the first gas attack.

Many boys from this vicinity were present on that heroic occasion, and many of them are not alive to tell the tale to-day. On that spring morning when the troops of the 13th Royal Highlanders of Canada saw creeping toward them the bank of "fog" they and their sister battalions of the C.E.F. faced and conquered, against overwhelming odds, the most diabolical scheme of warfare that was ever launched. Only those who have known and suffered the agonies and tortures of chlorine gas can know the odds which those men faced, and faced with a heroism and determination that prevented the German hordes from breaking through to Calais, and then and there winning the war.

Added to the horror of the biting, choking gas the little band of survivors saw the Singalese troops on the right break and run, pursued and smitten by the ever searching vaporous death which the slow wind carried forward, but did not dissipate.

With their flank "in the air" and the whole might of the flower of the German Army thrown against them, only that little band, the remnants of the First Canadian Division, stood between Germany and victory. Doggedly and stubbornly they battled, throwing every available reserve into the breach, fighting through day and night, choking, till at count of time was lost, using the bodies of the dead to protect the living from the hail of shrapnel and bullets, the ever thinning ranks stood their ground, and at down, in swathes, the solid banks of grey-coated Huns who were thrown into the battle in such close formation that thousands were doomed to certain death in the desperate attempt to send a few through to victory.

It was an attempt that failed. The little band of Canadians stood in the breach and stopped the surging tide which, if it had broken through, would have decided the outcome of the war and given a German victory.

In spite of the terrific casualties suffered, it stands to the everlasting credit of the 13th, 14th, 15th and 16th Battalions that when the battle finished the Canadian line had not only been held intact, but had been advanced a matter of 200 yards.

HOPING TO AGREE ON REPARATIONS

Thought Germans and Franco-Belgian Allies Reaching Out for Settlement.

PARIS, April 17. — (Canadian Press.)—The official French attitude toward the speech of Baron Von Rosenberg, German Foreign Minister, in the Reichstag yesterday, is that the German position is not sufficiently categorical. This was made plain to-day with an expression of doubt as to whether the Cuno Cabinet was in a position politically at home to obtain the adoption of any plan leading to any settlement that it might put forward. In well-informed circles the view is expressed that the Germans and Franco-Belgian allies seem to be reaching out in connection with practical plans for settlement.

EXTEND GRADE ON WEST SIDE OF THE BRIDGE

Will Be Carried Back to Queen Street in the Plans for the Paving of Hunter Street.

ORIGINAL PLAN

The west approach to the Hunter street bridge will be extended back from Sheridan street to Queen street, following the grade that was contemplated by the council, and recommended by the engineer when the whole project was first discussed and planned.

In arriving at this decision last night the Board of Works, with only two members of the Council absent, had under consideration the preliminaries for the paving of Hunter St. east. They went over the ground, prior to the meeting, with City Engineer Parsons, who indicated the probable effects of the new approach, which will level off the present declivity and ascent, fill up that dip, and practically carry the plane of Hunter street in a streamline to the bridge.

Was only Temporary.

When the temporary grade was assented to it was understood by the council at that time that it should be tolerated only until a permanent paved road was about to be laid to Ashburnham. It was regarded as a dent in the graceful profile of the Barber opus which for its complete effect should reach from Queen St. across to Burnham street. Hence with the budget and the tax rate cleaned off the slate, and the annual appointments and certain other incidental business attended to, the Council found the paving question next in order on the year's agenda. And with the bridge approaches involved they naturally took up the details with the result that they approved the original grade, and recommended that notice be given of the intention to pave George street from C.P.R. to Romaine street, Simcoe street from Water street to Queen street, then Queen street to Hunter street, and likewise Hunter street from Queen street to the Western Clock Company's property, with Olive avenue included in the list.

The East Approach.

City Engineer Parsons was instructed to prepare the specifications for the Hunter street work in accordance with the proposed new grade from Queen street to the bridge, and on the east side of the river to widen the approach so as to curve into Burnham street. The City Engineer is to determine this curve, which shall be somewhat less than the elaborate sweep which was proposed with the general plans of the bridge.

Mayor Taylor, Aldermen Stocker, Fife and Crowe were appointed to interview the owners of the property on the south side of Hunter street, immediately east of Queen street, which will be affected by the longer grade.

It is also the intention, as outlined by Ald. Crowe, to build the side walks on the west approach in straight extensions of the sidewalks on the bridge to secure uniformity and symmetry.

The most slushy thing about snow is the poetry it inspires.

BUDGET SPEECH SHOWS NATION'S FINANCES ARE IN HEALTHY CONDITION

Stanley Baldwin Announced Several Tax Reductions in His First Budget Speech.

WELL RECEIVED.

LONDON, April 17 (Canadian Press). — Stanley Baldwin, Chancellor of the Exchequer, who, according to much political gossip, stands an excellent chance for the Premiership if Mr. Bonar Law retires, delivered his first Budget speech yesterday to a crowded and intensely interested House, which included four former Chancellors of the Exchequer, H. H. Asquith, Austin Chamberlain, Mr. Lloyd-George, and Sir Robert S. Horne, with a crowd of distinguished personages in the galleries.

On the whole, it was a sanguine, almost optimistic diagnosis of the nation's financial and commercial health delivered in a vigorous, concise style, and eliciting congratulations from J. Ramsay MacDonald, leader of the Opposition, for its manner, but not entirely for its substance.

The Chancellor was able to tell of steady improvement in trade and industry and of hope for the future. He believed that the country still was experiencing a series of transition years, but had passed the peak of depression. At the same time he added a warning that its hopes might yet be frustrated by untoward events on the Continent or at home.

In contrast with former times, when Budget plans were kept a strict secret until the speech was delivered, Mr. Baldwin's leading proposals had become public property. The removal of sixpence off the income tax, reduction of the corporation tax, one-half, and reduction of the beer tax of one penny per pint, come very near the forecasts, but the surplus is only £36,000,000, where as a surplus of £50,000,000 had been estimated.

The Budget estimates for the fiscal year 1923-1924 were presented to the House of Commons by the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Stanley Baldwin. While not likely to be called popular, the Budget will probably be welcomed by the country as promising a progressive decrease in the high taxation.

Sixpence comes off the income tax, which is reduced to 4s 6d on the pound sterling; the corporation tax is cut in half, and the beer duty is lowered so as to provide a reduction of a penny a pint in the retail price.

The surplus as shown in the Chancellor's statement is slightly more than £36,000,000, as compared with an expected estimate of £50,000,000. Total expenditures for the year are estimated at £816,616,000, and revenues at £852,650,000.

The last year's surplus of £101,000,000 went toward reduction of the debt, and the Chancellor announced that, when the fiscal year came to an end, on 31st March, trade both at home and abroad had improved and there was considerably less unemployment.

There will be some disappointment that no greater reduction is promised in direct taxation including levies on tea sugar and similar commodities, the Liberal and Labour Parties being very keen for the "free breakfast table."

The Chancellor held out the hope of some reduction in the sugar duty in the near future.

He also announced a number of small reductions in postal charges, telephone rentals and telephone calls, and confirmed that the Government is considering a tax on betting. The latter, however, is mostly regarded as too contentious a matter to be lightly undertaken.

The Chancellor laid marked stress on the importance of the utmost possible debt reduction. There would be, he said, plenty of debt for our grandchildren, "when they come."

He contended further that nothing eased the finding of capital for industry so much as the recognised policy of redeeming the public debt.

Remarking that last year's surplus came from the best of all possible causes, namely, reduced expenditure, Mr. Baldwin declared his determination to bring about further economies in the coming year, and announced that practically the whole estimated yield from death duties in the next three years would be applied to sinking fund purposes.

The Chancellor pointed out that under his revised proposals the country would still be raising the enormous amount of £700,000,000 in taxation yearly. Dealing with the revenue, he doubted whether there had been any rise in the purchasing power of the population. He said the consumption of beer and spirits and, to a less extent, tobacco, had been falling, and there was no certainty that the bottom had yet been touched.

He argued that it was useless further to reduce taxation at the cost of debt redemption, saying:

"To postpone redemption year after year means insolvency."

Alluding to foreign indebtedness, with the exception of the American debt particularly, all others had been extinguished, as they might regard the Canadian debt as virtually settled. With regard to the United

NEW REPARATION PLAN WILL BE DRAWN IN RUHR

Louis Barthou and M. Delacroix Will Decide Minimum Condition to Be Accepted From Germany.

TEXT NEXT WEEK.

PARIS, April 17. Canadian Press. —Louis Barthou, president and French member of the Reparations Commission, and M. Delacroix, Belgian member of the Commission, acting on the plan agreed to by the Belgian and French Premiers at their conference here last week, are expected to draw up the minimum conditions the two allies can accept from Germany in settlement of the reparations question.

A high spokesman for the French Government to-day said these conditions will be communicated to Great Italy and Italy, the other two allied powers, but perhaps not until Germany has made known that she is ready to resume payments, the terms in the meantime being kept secret to prevent the Germans from using them for the basis of manoeuvres.

The plan, which will be based on various reports furnished by technicians of the Foreign office, the Ministry of Finance and the Reparations Commission, will be finally drafted on Thursday at another meeting of Count Peretti De La Rocca, Director of Political Affairs of the Foreign Office, and James Seydoux, Financial Adivser to the Foreign Office, at which M. De Lasteyrie, Minister of inance, who is now in the Ruhr, will also be present. The text of the plan will be communicated to M. Delacroix, Belgian Member of the Reparations Commission, and M. Barthou, next week.

Shipping Men Will Oppose Head-Tax.

QUEBEC, Que., April 17.—(Canadian Press.)—Local shipping men are very much agitated over the proposal of the Quebec Harbor Commission to impose a head-tax of one dollar on each immigrant, adult, and fifty cents on each child entering Canada through the port of Quebec.

Several steamship officials were interviewed yesterday and announced the proposal should not be allowed to go through.

Should Not Talk At Breakfast Time

KINGSTON, Ont., April 17. — Canadian Press. — Speaking on "Courtesy" at the Kiwanis Club luncheon yesterday, Rev. Dr. R. Bruce Taylor, principal of Queen's niversity, said that the most trying time of all was at breakfast, and in the absence of a morning paper behind which a man could hide himself, conversation ought to be entirely omitted. Some people continued the principal, had adopted the plan of "having breakfast individually, just to avoid the clashes that are bound to come from agravater grouches that are so common in the morning." People should not keep all their good humor and polished manners for the outside but should practice these in their homes as well. he added.

Canadians at Funeral of "Klondyke" Boyle.

LONDON, April 17. — (Canadian Press). — Prominent Canadians in London will attend to-day the funeral of Col. ("Klondyke") Boyle, who, having crowned a life of adventure by his exploits in the great war, died at the home of a friend in Middlesex on Saturday.

The Canadian High Commissioner, who is on the Continent, will be represented at the funeral, and a floral wreath will also represent the tribute of the Canadian Government. F. C. Wade, Agent-General for British Columbia, will attend on behalf of his province and will lay a wreath on the coffin.

Boyle's war decorations tell their own story of the Canadian's brilliant record. Among them are the D.S.O., five Roumanian decorations, the French Croix de Guerre with Palms and the Russian St. Valdimir and St. Stanislaus decorations both with swords.

"A strange romantic figure," says last night's Evening News, in referring to Col. Boyle, "with the hard-bitten look of a man who all his life had made his own way. When the Bolshevists refused to hand over 60 Roumanian prisoners, Boyle flew into a Bolshevist camp by French aeroplane, leaped into the boat occupied by the prisoners without cap or baggage and made the Russians take him with the prisoners to Crimea, where he persuaded the Russians to keep their word and release the Roumanians. Boyle returned in triumph to Bucharest."

Bogus Inspector of Cash Registers.

KINGSTON, Ont., April 17. — (Canadian Press.)—Another clever crook is working in this vicinity and the chief of police yesterday warned many of the business men about the scheme that is being used. In Napanee last week this man entered several of the stores, claiming to be a representative of the National Cash Register Company, sent to inspect the registers. After making an examination of the registers he reports everything satisfactory and leaves, but when the cash is made up at night there is a shortage generally running from ten to twenty dollars.

BRITISH WILL HAVE MISSION IN THE SOVIET

An Official Announcement Made Yesterday in Spite of the Recent Actions of the Bolsheviks.

MAKE ALLOWANCES.

LONDON, April 17. Canadian Press. — Great Britain's informal diplomatic contact with Soviet Russia effective for the last two years through the maintenance of trade missions in London and Moscow will be continued, it was stated yesterday in official circles, despite the recent straining of relations due to the Bolshevik war on religion and the insulting Soviet notes in answer to the British protests.

While the present Soviet methods of handling foreign relations are highly unpleasant to the British, generous allowances are being made for the Bolshevists who, officially as well as popularly, are still considered in England as quite "uncivilized" in their regard for recognized diplomatic forms and customs.

It is stated that the chief task of the British Mission in Moscow is that of observation which under the present system it is possible to carry on with accredited officials.

The British believe this method of watching developments in Russia is better than the unofficial, indirect surveillance upon which countries without representatives in Russia must rely.

BANK COMMITTEE WILL HEAR TAYLOR

President of the Canadian Bankers' Association Will Give Evidence Before the Committee on Thursday.

OTTAWA, April 17. — (Canadian Press). — Sir Frederick Williams-Taylor, president of the Canadian Bankers' Association and general manager of the Bank of Montreal, is expected to give evidence at the meeting of the Banking and Commerce Committee on Thursday in connection with the revision of the Bank Act, and it is probable that Sir Edmund Walker will be heard on Friday. The name of Prof. O. M. W. Sprague, of the Department of Economics at Harvard University, was suggested as a witness by W. C. Good, Progressive member for Brant, and may be invited to attend later.

At the sitting of the committee yesterday afternoon non-contentious sections of the bill to the number of sixty were disposed of and some twenty-three contentious clauses were set aside for future discussion. Most of the sections laid over involved large principles underlying the bill, such as the public statements made to the Department of Finance, the issue and circulation of bank notes, the powers of a bank, the bankers' lien and the rate of interest.

Among them, however, were included the sanitary problem of the sterilization of notes and the rate of exchange on bank cheques. The Bank Act gives the Treasury Board authority to make regulations in regard to the sterilization of notes, but the chairman was unable to inform the committee whether any regulations on the subject had ever been issued.

The committee adjourned until Wednesday morning, when George Bevington, of Edmonton, and Neil East, of Vermillion, advocates of a system of Provincial chartered banks, will be present for examination by the members.

RANEY'S ANTI-BETTING BILL PASSED ITS THIRD READING IN THE HOUSE

Amendment Which Was Accepted at Previous Reading Was Thrown Out Yesterday.

RANEY AT OTTAWA.

TORONTO, April 17.— (Canadian Press.)— The bill which will prohibit the publication or sale of racing information passed third reading the Legislature yesterday afternoon. Hon. W. E. Raney, Attorney General, who accepted an amendment from the Conservative leader the last time the bill was before the House, moved the bill back into committee yesterday and was successful in having the amendment thrown out. The amendment accepted last week and rejected yesterday prohibited publication of "entries," names of owners, names of stables and names of jockeys. Mr. Raney contended that by the prohibition of the publication of these names that the sport of racing was being interfered with and that they had nothiung to do with supplying betting information. It would stop all news about racing and he thought that inadvisable.

"It would be an offence under such an amendment to publish the entries for the King's plate," said Raney, who contended that most hand-book making in Ontario was done on the races on foreign race courses.

Hon. Mr. Ferguson declared that Mr. Raney was not sincere in his efforts to wipe out the "curse of gambling." "The stock in trade of the Attorney General has been that he tried to pose as the keeper of the morals of this province, but the province will find out that he has done a lot of tortuous evasion and dodging for political reasons. He is the artful dodger and not even his nimble friend on his right (Hon. Manning Doherty) is as good. If we put the words "entries" into this bill we will really do what the Attorney General pretends he is doing."

Hon. Mr. Doherty thought hundreds who never bet wanted to see what horses were running and winning races. J. A. Currie said he had seen Mr. Raney often in the company of Abe Orpen at Ottawa. "It's false" said Mr. Raney. "It's true," returned Mr. Currie. The incident closed without farther remarks by either member.

J. W. Curry said that the publication was not sufficient to make possible book making on the streets. On a standing vote the amendment was declared lost by 25 to 24. Geo. Halcrow voted with the government and Col. H. S. Cooper (Liberal) voted with the Conservatives.

The bill introduced by Hon. Mr. Doherty providing for loans to consolidated cheese factories was discussed in committee of the whole. It loans certain sums on five per cent. interest to two or more factories which combine and have a milk consumption of over three million pounds of milk a year. Hon. Geo. Henry thought the bill should make provision for private owned factories as well as co-operative factories. R. R. Hall (Parry Sound) said the Minister had no right to take the people's money for the advancement of any one class. The Government he said might immediately disabuse itself of any idea that the Liberals were supporting it.

Mr. Henry contended that co-operation had gone too fast in Ontario, resulting in many costly failures and large losses to individual farmers. John Joynt (North Huron) wanted to know why cheese factories should get their loans at five per cent. while six was charged on ordinary farm loans. When the House rose at 6 o'clock the bill was still being discussed.

High Sugar Price Due to Speculators

BOSTON, April 17 (Canadian Press). — The State Commission on Necessaries of Life, reporting to the Legislature yesterday on a special investigation of the sugar situation, said there was no shortage, present or prospective, and that the recent advances were due largely to speculation, mostly on the New York Sugar Exchange.

The activities of the Exchange were declared to be "purely speculative," and it was asserted that the Exchange "played an important part in the recent thimble-rigging of the sugar prices."

Steel Corporation Earned Over Billion.

HOBOKEN, N.J., April 17.— (Canadian Press)—The barrier to aliens erected by the restrictive immigration law of the United States threatens to create a serious labor shortage and is "one of the worst things this country ever did for itself," E. H. Gary, chairman of the Board of the U.S. Steel Corporation told stockholders at their annual meeting to-day.

Mr. Gary reported that gross earnings of the United States Steel Corporation in 1922 were $1,092,697,000, an increase of $410000,000 over 1921 that the total undivided surplus last December 31, exclusive of profits of subsidiary companies from sales of possession to other subsidiaries, will be $449,000,000, and that at the close of 1923 it had 214,931 employes, who earned an aggregate of $322,678,130 during the year, an average of $1,501 each.

He estimated the total value of the Corporation's holdings exceeded by a billion dollars their value when the organization was formed, 20 years ago, and they are still going strong, he said.

The directors were re-elected for another three years.

SIX POLITICIANS ARE FROZEN UP FOR CAMPAIGN

Are Planning Rescue By Airplane to Enable Them to File For Candidacy By Next Monday.

ELECTION ON MAY 3.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., April 17. — Canadian Press. — Marooned in a field of ice off the Newfoundland coast, where the steamer Kyle is frozen fast, four political candidates for the Spring election are planning for a rescue by airplane so they can file their candidacy by next Monday, the last day for this legal formality. Candidates for both the government party and the opposition from the districts of Burgeo and Fortune, boarded the Kyle more than a week ago intending to file in their own district. The steamer, which carried supplies for the starving settlements along the south coast became stuck in the ice field at Lamaline Harbor. She has not been able to move since.

With election day set for May 3rd, and with six weeks required to carry out a thorough campaign along the sparsely-settled shore, condidates of both parties aboard the ship face the certainty of a light vote.

A COMMUNITY ENTERPRISE.

The backward weather has had its effect in cutting down the number of motor cars actually in commission at the present time, a condition that requires, on behalf of the Motor Show parade tomorrow evening, an even more sympathetic co-operation on the part of the owners of the automobiles in present use, than has been accorded on other previous occasions.

The Automobile parade on Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock will start the big show on its way and it is of the greatest importance that the parade shall be a success.

The responsibility rests upon the car owners and to them this appeal is addressed.

In the interest of the Peterborough Health Association, for whose benefit the show is being held, it is the duty of every citizen who owns an automobile, to have it in the parade tomorrow night.

Decorate your car if possible, but if not, get in line any way, and show your interest in the Motor Show and the Health Association.

The citizens generally are invited to see the parade and then do their part in making the opening a notable one by making a first night record attendance at the armouries.

There will be educational and amusing features in large numbers, much to see and hear, and above all, you will be helping the Peterboro Health Association, and the splendid work it is doing in this city.

The Motor Show is a community enterprise and should receive the whole-hearted support of Peterboro.

IN THE PUBLIC INTEREST.

The Canadian Social Hygiene Council is using the present week to call attention in a widespread campaign to the aims and objects of the organization and to enlist new members in the crusade against venereal diseases.

The local branch of the Council is meeting on Thursday night and the movement should be backed by all citizens who realize the scourge that exists and who appreciate the fact that the general public must be awakened to a realization of the danger and to the necessity of action.

Social hygiene is not merely a problem for the large cities, for the effect of the social diseases has spread into all districts and the peril is widely distributed.

It is imperative, therefore, that this movement to check and control the ravages of this curse shall be supported by every community in Canada, for the question is of national importance.

Supervised recreation for the young people, an educational campaign along sane lines, these are some of the things that must be attempted as preventive measures.

The danger is greater because of the ignorance of such a large percentage of the population on matters of social hygiene.

To remedy that condition of affairs is another of the responsibilities undertaken by the Social Hygiene Council.

In that effort the Council deserves general support.

THE ST. CATHARINES TRAGEDY.

The tragedy at St. Catharines, where a seven-year-old youngster shot and fatally wounded a companion, aged nine years, is blamed by many people as a result of the influence of sensational moving pictures.

In two respects apparently, society is responsible for the sudden taking off of this young life.

In the first place sufficient care is not taken to keep young children from seeing motion pictures that deal with crimes of violence, and that have a sinister influence upon juvenile minds.

While the Ontario censorship has removed many of the objectionable features from the silver screen, it must be admitted that much of what remains is pretty strong diet for youngsters and most parents evidently are not paying sufficient attention to this question.

Possibly the fact that so many woodsheds are being converted into garages is responsible for such a condition.

But at all events sensational pictures continue to be shown and little folks continue to see them.

Judging by the St. Catherines tragedy it is a dangerous policy.

And secondly, the regulations in regard to revolvers and other firearms are not rigid enough.

In this case the deadly weapon was obtained from the trunk of a foreign truck driver.

He had no need of a revolver, yet he left a loaded gun in his room and a fatality resulted.

Sooner or later the authorities will come to the conclusion that the forbidding of the manufacture of these dangerous weapons would be a measure decidedly in the public interest.

BUYING A MORTAGE OR A PARTNERSHIP.

When the investor buys a bond he shares in a mortgage on certain real assets. But when the investor buys stock he becomes a partner in a business. This difference is fundamental and if appreciated would prevent many people from taking unrecognized risks with their money, says the Financial Post.

The more this idea is considered the more the wise stock purchaser will be inclined to consider the people with whom he is going into partnership. Havey they managing and directing ability? Have they a stake in the enterprise which will urge them to make it a success? Or can they make more for themselves by appropriating stock and money for contributed assets of doubtful value or organizing services?

Had the L. R. Steel proposition been considered from this standpoint there would have been fewer millions sunk in it. The great selling argument that it was an opportunity for little fellows to club together was the crux of the weakness of the whole scheme. How could a partnership of thousands of small investors without business experience be expected to succeed when the directing heads themselves had such a small stake in the project that they were more interested in organizing new companies and selling stock than they were in making these companies pay dividends? Now that a crisis has come the hopelessness of trying to work out a constructive policy with thousands of small shareholders trying to speak their minds is seen. Meetings of the shareholders which have been held reveal an absence of intelligent leadership and a disinclination to listen to sound advice.

The difference between buying a mortage and entering a partnership should be understood by all investors—it applies particularly to small investors who can ill afford to speculate with their savings.

THE PREMIER'S POSITION.

Premier Drury's speech at Milton on Saturday leaves no doubt as to his position in regard to broadening out.

Mr. Drury met the challenge of the Farmers' Sun which spoke for J. J. Morrison the U.F.O. secretary, by declaring that if returned to power he would co-operate with any forces that wished to join him in carrying on a government.

The Morrison organ asked him to declare that he would accept only U.F. support.

He has flatly refused to accede to that request.

So that's that.

What will Mr. Morrison do in the face of this rebuff? is the most fascinating question in the present political complications.

The U.F.O. secretary is satisfied to have a U.F.O. group at Toronto strong enough to be able to practically dictates to the government the legislation it desires, without being large enough to necessitate it taking over the reins of government.

The split between the Premier and himself is widened by the Milton speech of Mr. Drury.

The plans of the two leaders are radically different.

Which policy will win out?

There may be developments in a few days that will clear the air, but the present indications are that the breach between the two U.F.O. factions will remain unclosed.

The family row in the Farmer ranks adds to the perplexities of a campaign that is already hopelessly involved.

THE ENEMY WITHIN THE GATES.

There have always been pessimists in Canada. Unfortunately, too, the breed does not die out. The credit of the country has been injured by some of the speeches made during the debate on immigration estimates in Parliament. It is true that there has always been a movement of population from the Dominion to the United States. The Canadian national problem has been made far more difficult by the drawing power along our border of a nation of one hundred millions of people. In all the world there is no other such situation. The closest parallel is that of Scotland and England. Before the union of the two countries in the United Kingdom, Scotland sufferd by emigration of many of its more virile and adventurous spirits to the adjoining country. So thousands of Canadians have answered to the appeal of the great cities, the great industries, and in other days to the offer of cheap lands in the United States.

There is now a movement of Canadian workers to that country because of high wages and a scarcity of labour produced by the American restrictions on immigration. But it is by no means certain that the industrial revival in the United States will be of long duration, nor is the general average of wages over there appreciably higher than in Canada. There will be a movement back again as conditions improve in Canada—and they are fast improving—and when it is again discovered that wages there ensure no better living conditions than prevail in this country. Indeed there is little reason to think that the movement of industrial workers across the boundary has any permanent significance and it is likely that the losses will be more than offset by the continuous investment of American capital in the Dominion and the demand for labor which such investment creates.

Nor will there ever again be any serious exodus of Canadian farmers. The free lands of the American West are exhausted. Land values in those States are too high to attract farmers, even from Western Canada. A few may go, but it is doubtful if they will improve their position and few will ever become farm owners in any desirable State of the Union. Canadian lands are far cheaper and just as productive, as some of the Progressives have admitted in Parliament, and even now there is absolutely no evidence that American farmers are more comfortable or more prosperous that those of Canada. Why do so many Canadian politicians ignore these indisputable facts and constitute themselves immigration agents for a foreign country?

When all the world is in trouble, why should men exaggerate the troubles of their own country and demand conditions and prospects which no other country can afford? For a generation we have been inflicted with this sort of anti-national whining and we have paid a great price for our folly and stupidity. As long ago as May, 1880, The Bystander had a fine specimen of this kind of wailing from that chief of pessimists, Goldwin Smith.

But most of what he said was not true and most of what he predicted did not happen. His picture is grotesque in comparison with the present actual situation in Quebec. Since that time, too, Canada has gone far in increase of wealth, prosperity and confidence and in ability to bear even the immense burden which the war laid upon its people. We have achieved less than we hoped to achieve, but far more than the pessimists admit. It is time to treat the whole crowd as we would treat a group of malefactors who had set out to destroy a banking house or drive a great commercial business into insolvency.—Montreal Star.

HER 10 CHILDREN REARED TAKES UP FARMING AT 83

"I Simply Couldn't Sit and Hold My Hands," Says a Carolina Grandmother.

ROLESVILLE, N.C., April 17.—After you've reared ten children, you've just started on your career.

Don't lose your interest in life at the age of 83 and sit down in the corner by the fireplace to doze and knit.

Mrs. Ann Elizabeth Rodgers didn't. And she's a mother of ten and 83 years old.

She's gone in for farming. And last season on her land near here, unaided, she raised—

A bale of cotton, 50 bushels of potatoes, six barrels of corn, more than 800 pounds of meat and land know, how many eggs or how much butter and milk.

She did all the work herself save the plowing.

"Why, I couldn't sit still and hold my hands," she says.

RE/L ESTATE BOOM IN APSLEY VILLAGE

But Farmers Are Suffering From Shortage of Stock Feed.

APSLEY, April 17.—There has been quite a boom in real estate business in Apsley during the past few days, which has not proved altogether an unmixed blessing, one transaction involving so it is reported the loss of a projected industry which had it materialised would have been a great boon to the district.

The old Presbyterian Hall which has been in disuse for a number of years was lately purchased by Will Staples, and sold by him to George Stephens, who it is rumoured will convert it into a general store.

The old parsonage and parish room has been sold by Harry Tanner to Stanley Windsor, and Norman James has bought a building lot opposite the Anglican church. With the building of two or three houses in the village this spring Apsley will begin to come into its own.

Log Drive Delayed.

The Macdonald estate drive of logs will be taken out this year by William Earnshaw, but with the continued cold weather it is difficult to forecast when Eeels Creek will open up and operations commence. The ice shows no sign of breaking and teams still cross the lakes in perfect safety.

Shortage of Feed.

Stock are suffering from shortage of feed, and the district is being gone over one might say with a fine comb in a vain search for marsh hay to relieve the situation. The carloads of hay that come to Coe Hill are snapped up in a few hours, and farmers who have made the twenty-mile trip for a load have had to return with only a few hundred weight. The situation is decidely serious, with no relief in sight.

FRENCH ACTRESS IN FILMS

LOS ANGELES, April 17—(United Press)—Hollywood had triumphed over Paris, so far as Madamoiselle Liane Salvor is concerned.

Madamoiselle Salvor is a youthful emotional actress of note, well known in Paris, having been the star at the Theatre de Paris and the Theatre Edouard VII. She came to this country to play the lead of "Shades of Paris," in New York. It was there that she heard the siren call of the movies, and abandoned her plan of returning to Paris, and came to Hollywood instead, where she signed a contract to appear in "Bluebeard's Seventh Wife."

"BRONZE AGE" GRAVE.

EDINBURGH (United Press).—A grave, believed to be 2,000 years old has been discovered in Kincardineshire, Scotland. Digging on his farm, a Catterline farmer came upon a peculiarly marked slab about four feet below the surface and under this were four other slabs of larger size. Beneath all was a full-size human skeleton with an ancient urn beside the skull. Antiquarians pronounce the grave to be typical of the Bronze Age, and experts are further investigating the discovery.

PRESENTATION TO STATION OPERATOR

Hartley Stewart of Drancel Gets Pipe and Farewell Address.

CAVAN, April 17.—On Friday evening, April 13, a small gathering was held at the home of Mr. Charles Porteous to bid farewell to Mr. Hartley Stewart, station operator at Dranoel, who is leaving his post and removing to Milton on the C.P.R. His friends made him a small presentation, accompanied by the following address:

Mr. Hartley Stewart:—

When you came to Dranoel a few years ago it was a place scarcely known to the outside world and today through the medium of the press which now records all that happens it is becoming a locality of some importance. The increase in population, although only of recent date, is most encouraging. Mowing with the times a Flag Station at Kelly's crossing with a capacious platform has been opened, where teams can be boarded from early morning until late at night, and on Saturdays big crowds of surrounding farmers and their wives may be seen waiting to take their produce of all kinds to the Peterboro market, for which they always find a ready sale.

We have not asked you to come here this evening to simply tell you these dry facts, but as you are about to leave us shortly, it is worth while to make known to you what a desirable place you are moving from. It is with wet eyes and compulsory dry throats that we part with you, seeing that during the time you have been with us we have found you to be a good friend and neighbor and ready at all times to give a helping hand whenever called upon, and your all-round experience has often helped us out of little difficulties.

To mark our kindly feeling towards you, we would ask you to accept this pipe, hoping that when you enjoy a quiet smoke you may be reminded of the friends you are leaving behind.

We all wish you every success in your new field of labor and hope that you and your family may be blessed with every happiness and the best of health as years roll on. Also that when opportunity arises you will visit us and sometimes send a few lines to show that the existing good feeling is not all on our side.

Lantern Lecture.

The lantern lecture given by Rev. C. Grant King in St. John's school room on Thursday night to the children of the village was a grand success, more than 86 children being present. The subject of the lecture was "Peter Pan"—a child classic, and the youngsters were deeply interested. Too little interest is shown now in children's stories and it is deplorable to see the dear old fairy stories giving up their place to the exceedingly racy modern books which parents allow their children to read and absorb.

A dance will be held in the Lakefield House this evening. The Syncopated Trio will furnish the music. There will be no special invitations but a welcome will be extended to all.

Signs of Spring

There are various signs of spring in spite of the weather which is very far from being suggestive of growth. Little girls with their skipping ropes and boys with marbles have appeared to join the early robin and the ball and bat are appearing also so one can see that juvenile citizens are optimistic. As to the grown-ups, neither men nor women are noticeable as yet for spring attire and a new hat is the exception rather than the rule.

Household Necessity

Make Gillett's Lye your household assistant. Use it for making soap, for washing dishes, for cleaning sinks, for washing greasy pots and pans. It cleans and disinfects.

Simple Way to Get Rid of Blackheads

There is one simple, safe and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads, that is to dissolve them. To do this, get two ounces of peroxine powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear. Blackheads are simply a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions that form in the pores of the skin. The peroxine powder and the water dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition.

BUDGET SPEECH

States debt, he said the sinking fund on this was $23,000,000, and the amount agreed on to repay this year in regard to the United States loan for purchase of silver under the Pittman Act, $30,500,000.

Explaining the decision not to touch the sugar tax, the Chancellor thought it highly improbable that the consumer would be the gainer by any reduction for more than a very short time; a reduction in the tax would lead to an increased demand, which would raise the world price, and the money sacrificed by the Exchequer would go straight into the pockets of producers and dealers.

Relative to the agreement between the Government and trade to bring about a reduction of a penny per pint in the price of beer, he said the trade would contribute 4s per barrel, while the State would contribute 20s to the reduction.

He dilated on the disappointing results of the excess profits announcing that the gross collection for the year was only £57,000,000, instead of the estimated £75,000,000, while the refunding of overpaid duty for the year amounted to £55,000,000.

The Chancellor confessed himself greatly attracted by the suggested tax on betting, but partly owing to his visit to the United States, he had not had sufficient time to consider the matter thoroughly, and therefore proposed the appointment of a committee on this subject. His tactics on this question are generally supposed to be directed at raising public discussion, and thus familiarise opinion with the desirability of the project and possibly thereby bring its opponents to a more favourable attitude.

He also said that in his opinion little further relief for the taxpayer could be hoped for unless some new source of revenue were discovered. His speech was a mass of figures and statistics presented in a highly business-like manner.

J. Ramsay MacDonald, leader of the Opposition, who followed, while congratulating the Chancellor on the manner of his speech, strongly condemned his omission to reduce taxes on sugar, tea and other commodities. He declared that this was much more needed than a reduction in the income tax, which mainly relieved wealthy people. He especially condemned failure to reduce the sugar tax, which bore heavily on the poor.

Mr. MacDonald warned the Chancellor that the Labour Party would offer hostile amendments to his proposals.

On the whole, the reception of the Budget was distinctly favourable. The strongest opposition came from the Labour benches, where two lines of attacks will be made—for further reductions of indirect taxation and in favour of some form of taxation of capital and more effective reduction of the public debt.

The Labourites will also complain of the Chancellor's failure to reduce or remove the tax on entertainments. General comment characterises the statement as being, if not striking or brilliant, at least prudent, and showing strong common sense.

Laxative Syrup Pepsin Helps Nature Give Relief

Try it when a Laxative is needed and see the wonderful results

IT is not necessary to take a violent physic for so simple an ailment as constipation. Yet many thoughtless parents give mercury in the form of calomel, and coal-tar in the form of phenol when a natural vegetable compound like Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin will do the work equally well and without danger. People should realize that mercury may salivate and in certain conditions loosen the teeth; that phenolphthalein, by whatever name known and however disguised in candy, may cause dermatitis and other skin eruptions; that salt waters and powders may concentrate the blood, dry up the skin and cause lassitude.

You can take Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin yourself or give it to a babe in arms, as thousands of mothers do every day, with the confidence that it is the safest and best medicine you can use for constipation and such complaints. A teaspoonful will relieve you over night even if the constipation has been chronic for years. Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin is a compound of Egyptian senna and pepsin with pleasant-tasting aromatics, and does not cramp or gripe. Every druggist handles it, and bottles are so generous that the cost amounts to only a cent a dose. You buy it with the understanding that if it does not do as claimed your money will be refunded. The names of all the ingredients are on the package.

ANY FAMILY MAY TRY IT FREE

Thousands of parents are acting themselves. "Where can I find a truly worthy laxative that everyone in the family can use when constipated?" If you are in the same predicament, we will gladly provide a liberal free sample bottle, sufficient for an extensive test. Write to-day to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 321 Caldwell Building, Toronto, Ont. Do it now!

Mrs. Geo. Reeve, of Galt, Ont., uses Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin with good results and is greatly pleased with it; and Mrs. R. Jennings, of Toronto, Ont., finds it very satisfactory. Bring a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin into your own home and let the family use it for constipation, biliousness, wind, gas, headaches, flatulency, and to break up fevers and colds.

EMPHASIZE VALUE CHRISTIAN VIRTUE

Timely Sermon By Rev. Tucker at Millbrook — Stresses Need of Meekness.

MILLBROOK, April 17.—In view of present world conditions and the need of wise restraint in dealing not only with international problems, but also with those affecting community, social and business relations, Rev. Mr. Tucker in his Sunday morning sermon emphasized the value and importance of the Christian virtue of meekness, instead of continuing his series of discourses on the Book of Acts. The character of Isaac as it is portrayed in Genesis, 26th chapter, was the illustration used, prefaced by the somewhat surprising statement that Isaac is the outstanding example of meekness in the Old Testament, though the general impression given to Moses that credit.

At the very outset it was necessary to explain that meekness does not at all imply softness, or weakness, or weakness of character; on the contrary to possess that genuine meekness which our Saviour had in mind when He said, "Blessed are the meek, for they shall inherit the earth," of necessity means self-control under the most trying circumstances, an unwavering faith, humility which sees oneself as the recipient of God's unmerited goodness, and courage "to do right, in scorn of consequences." The strange picture is drawn for us of Isaac, waxing great and prosperous in the Philistines country until the people grow fiercely angry and envious of him, being bluntly asked by King Abimilech "to go from us, for thou art much mightier than we." The usual thing is to see the weaker moving away from the stronger lest the latter rise in his might and crush him," and this Isaac could readily have done for he had "great store of servants." It requires far more courage to resist the war-cry than to yield to it, and to listen to the inner voice which, having the larger vision, counsels forbearance rather than stirring up needless strife merely for self-justification, is more than taking a city. "And Isaac departed thence." Cannot we see here some analogy between his effacement of self for the greater good of others and Christ's action in Gethsemane when He rebuked Peter for his headstrong haste in cutting off the ear of the high priest's servant: "Put up thy sword into the sheath; the cup which My Father hath given me shall I not drink it?"

A Well Digger.

Besides being a herdsman, Isaac was also a well-digger, the lack of rivers and brooks in the summer season making wells an absolute necessity to a people whose wealth consisted of flocks and herds. Just as wheat is the gold of agriculture, so wells are the gold of shepherd life. Stopping up of wells is an act of hostility in the East, and this is what the Philistines did when Isaac re-opened the well dug by his father, Abraham, the evident intention being to discourage the visit of such a powerful person in their territory. The claim asserted was that the wells belonged to the people in whose country they were rather than to the one who dug them. True meekness is never easy. To give up one's rights, to restrain revengeful thoughts and actions especially when power to punish lies in the hand, to trust God for further provision when present means are withdrawn, to bear annoying and vexatious events patiently and prayerfully, these require a moral nature of a high standard, and this we must admit Isaac possessed.

Springing Water.

Probably the very names by which Isaac called the wells of springing water dug by his herdmen, Esek, "Strife," Sitnah, "Hatred" are typical of the enemy's tactics toward anyone striving to cultivate this Christian virtue of meekness, but finally God sees that Rehoboth, "Enlargement; there is room," is the culminating experience. That which is very bitter to endure may be very sweet to remember. Who wins by force but half overcomes his foes; and Isaac not only had the most satisfying of rewards when the Lord appeared unto him with the reiterated promise, "I am with thee, and bless thee, and multiply thy seed for my servant, Abraham's sake," but he also had Abimelech, accompanied by his chief officers, as a suppliant for his friendship and favorable regard because "we saw certainly that the Lord was with thee." Truly "the meek shall inherit the earth," and after all it is a noble courage to know how to yield.

Isaac Was Meek.

The meekness of which Isaac, and others in Old Testament times are shining examples, finds its culmination in our Saviour's experience in the New Testament. Denounced as an enemy conspiring against the government of Caesar, ridiculed as a wine-bibber and friend of publicans and sinners, charged with being a madman and possessed of the devil, seized by hand of violence, convicted by perjured witnesses, scoffed at, spit upon, buffeted, scourged and nailed to the bloody tree, Christ betrayed not one complaining or angry thought. That was His vision? "And I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto Me," and no resort to arms or other force can in the faintest degree equal this drawing power of Christ, the outcome of the love which made Him as a lamb dumb before its shearers. Our Saviour's glory previous to His incarnation in no wise approaches the wonder of His presence since His crucification, resurrection and ascension. To those honestly trying to follow their Master's example there is urgent necessity to remember that meekness is no sign of weakness but tests the very fibre of the soul. To have the fear of the Lord in the heart will promote meekness in the life, and the result? "That I may cause them that love Me to inherit substance." Search the Scriptures for examples of the truth of this promise—of our Saviour's faithfulness to His later word, "Blessed are the meek, for they shall inherit the earth."

RELIGION FITS NATIONS' NEEDS

Rev. A. H. McConnachie Makes Eloquent Appeal for Militant Missionary Church.

Taking as his subject "Christianity, a World Religion," Rev. A. H. McConnachie delivered a powerful attack on apathy in relation to mission work in George Street Methodist Church on Sunday morning. Basing his sermon on John 12:32 the preacher remarked that although at this time Jesus was despised and rejected by his chosen people yet He made this wonderful declaration, "I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto Me." Jesus was a great optimist; He always looked for the best; He saw the bright future, even with the darkest outlook that any man ever had. Jesus never had the sense or feeling of defeat. The condition on which His world power rested was that He be lifted up, and men were not to be forced to come to Him, but were to be drawn by the magnetism of His love. Christ did not say he would draw men into the Church, but unto Himself. There are men today who are estranged from the organized church who are nevertheless one with Christ.

"We believe," the speaker continued, "that the religion we preach is a world religion, and the only world religion. There have been many other great religions in the world's history, but in the course of the ages they became corrupt, although they may have been pure in their inception. But no other religion has the essentials for world conquest that the religion of Jesus Christ has."

Remarking that while Confucian and Mohammedan religions contained beautiful moral teachings, the speaker pointed out that they were really codes of morals and did not attempt to reveal God. There are many beautiful teachings in the religion of Budda, and Budda himself undoubtedly was an honorable and saintly man, but his teachings end with personal purity.

In all of these faiths and in the Hindoo faith there are good elements, but there is no one of these faiths of the nature of a world religion. The only faith we know that is of universal application, that all men may hear and receive, is the faith of our Lord Jesus Christ. "There is that in Christ which answers to a universal need, and therefore His gospel can be preached to the ends of the earth. We are trustees of the greatest religion in the world, and we must pass it on to others. The primary duty of the Christian church is the evangelization of the world. Let us not so magnify the home church that it becomes an end in itself—it is not. The only Christian church is the missionary church."

In his closing remarks Mr. McConnachie made an eloquent appeal to the church to put aside pettifogging methods of missionary enterprise and set their minds on the ideal of the evangelization of the world in this generation.

The anthems at yesterday's services were "The Home Light," unaccompanied; and "Lift up your Heads, oh, ye gates" (John Hopkins). A quartet consisting of Miss Hilda Oldham, Mrs. A. Barton, Mr. A. V. Lillow, and Mr. A. Barton rendered very acceptably "O Golden Day," and Mrs. Dorothy Allen Park was heard in "The Old Sacred Lullaby" (Samuel Liddle).

COURTESY GREAT BUSINESS ASSET

In Kiwanis Campaign the Need For Courtesy Development is Stressed

In their compaign for courtesy the Kiwanis have pointed out the need for development of one of the greatest business assets possible to have. A large store whose customers had been falling off recently followed up personally 198 people and interviewed them, asking for a definite reason why they had stopped trading with the store. Out of the 198 reasons, 47 were founded on indifference of salespeople, and 1 on poor quality of goods. This clearly indicates the importance of having the right kind of salespeople.

Carelessness, indifference and discourtesy are wasters of time and money; destroyers of confidence and good will; they limit the growth of the individual and of the organization.

In a fine analysis every man who earns his living is a salesman—he is selling his ability, his personality and his time. No salesman can put over a deal satisfactory or profitably by discourteous methods, and certainly no man can sell his services to the best advantage unless he is courteous when applying for a position. If this principle is carried throughout their business life it will be found that the road will be smoother and that courtesy pays in dollars and cents.

PROBLEMS FACING THE PROGRESSIVE ENGINEER

What are the problems facing the automobile engineer?

This question sounds superfluous, with the highly developed cars seen on the streets. But, take it from C. C. Hanch, Vice-President of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, there are still some radical developments to be considered in automobile research and design, before the motor vehicle can be declared perfect. These he enumerates as follows:

Development of strong, light metals; also steels and alloys with high tensile strength.

Designing of carburetors which will reduce fuel consumption and also successfully utilize low-grade fuels.

Improvement of braking and spring devices.

Building of more easily manipulated transmission.

Advance in headlighting system which will minimize glare.

Simplification of construction in general.

Development of equivalents or substitutes for existing materials.

THE MARK STREET CHURCH SERVICES

The Power That Conquers Fear—Good Music by the Choir.

Notwithstanding the snow storm in the morning, and the rain at night, the congregations were most gratifying, and the work of the choir excellent. The solos by Miss Suscee in the morning, and Mr. Nellist at night, were much enjoyed.

"The Power that conquers fear" was the subject of the morning sermon and was based on Ps. cxii, 8: "His heart is established, he shall not be afraid." The following is an outline of the address.

The cause of our neighbor's affliction and suffering is often lightly esteemed by us. "Nerve trouble," is meaningless to the man who is robust in health, while it is a withering scourge and a living death to the sufferer himself. Nervousness is a disease, and often takes the form of fear, but the nature of such fear, none can understand, nor can it be defined. The sufferer himself cannot analyse his feelings or his fears. He is afraid, but cannot tell you why. Advising him not to cross the bridge until he reaches it, is utter folly. "Look on the bright side," has no meaning for him, for there is no bright side. The peculiar nature of his disease renders him blind to any aspect of a bright and cheerful character, and you may drive him mad by unwise or misdirected consolation. You must remember that his peculiar affliction postulates all kinds of difficulties in his way, and there is no way of escape for him. Now, his disease is psychological, and must be treated as such.

Consider the Cause of Fear

Fear is a painful emotion excited by the apprehension of impending danger. It is a state of alarm or dread. That sin is the cause of fear, there is no room for doubt. It was only after sin had entered God's garden, and marred its peace and purity, that man became afraid, and hid himself from the presence of his Maker. Fear was unknown to any living creature, until sin entered the world. Truly fear is an impetus to self-preservation, but had it not been for sin, self-preservation would have been unnecessary. Before the fall, in the paradise of God, the lower orders of animals did not live by devouring each other, as they do now. The whole creation groans and trabils" now, but this is so because of sin. Without fear, the animals came at the call of Adam in the garden, to receive their names, but now they speed away at the first approach of man. Sin is the father of fear.

Of What Are We Afraid?

To begin with, we are afraid of Nature, and this should not be. Nature is the medium through which we may feel that the touch of God's hand, or hear the sound of His voice. The crash of thunder, the gleam of the lightning, or the rush of the storm, terrify us. The sun may blast us, the comet may wreck our little world, the mountains may belch forth floods of fire and molten metal, the sea is vast, mysterious, and full of unknown terrors. We are afraid of darkness, disease, and death. What invisible terrors haunt the deep shadows of the night, and what phantoms of horror dwell in the fierce disease of today. Who does not shudder at the very thought of dissolution and death?

We are also afraid of people. Every man is afraid of some other human being. The rich fear the poor, the good the wicked. Labor fears capital, capital dreads labor. Social or business rivals fill us with apprehension, and we look with suspicion on the greater influence of others. The teacher fears the student, the landlord fears the tenant, the merchant fears the customer, and the pulpit fears the pew. Yes, and we are all afraid of God, which is all wrong. If we are afraid of God, there is something wrong with us. What a blighting curse fear has ever been in the world.

How Shall we Overcome Fear?

In looking through nature we are convinced that there is nothing so mighty and abundant as life. Every living creature may enjoy life to the full. From the humming bird among the flowers of your garden, to the mighty eagle cutting the air or breasting the storm, all have abundant life. In the sea, from the minnow to the leviathan, every creature has its chance to live, and feed, and frolic in its own native element. And on the earth, from the field mouse to the lion of the jungle, and from the moss and lichen at your feet, to the mighty monarch of the mountain, clutching the everlasting rocks, and defying the storm; God delights in the life of all. But man is the prince of God's creation, and the flower of his handiwork; then what has man to fear? If his heart be established he shall not be afraid. He is kept in perfect peace whose mind is stayed upon God.

God Plans Every Human Life

It is a beautiful thought that God has a plan for every human life. A pure and holy God could never plan other than a pure and beautiful life for us. Sin can never be in such a plan. It was not the will of God that Cain, and Pharaoh, and Jezebel, and Judas should be monsters of iniquity, but it was their own choice. God's plan is that you shall be his helper, and you are immortal till your work is done, if you keep on the job.

I am told of a little girl who, when practicing her music lessons on an hotel piano, gave some trouble to the guests. But, having nowhere else to practice, she was compelled to forego her lessons. Then a beautiful thing happened. A musician was boarding at the hotel. When the child was invited by him to resume her practice, he sat down beside her and piled in whole handfuls of beautiful notes around her crude ones. All the guests were charmed. This is what God does for you and me. We work with Him.

SUGGEST SPEEDWAY FOR FAST AUTO TRAVEL

Constructon of a motor speedway, a type of express lane down which traffic could move at comparatively high rates of speed—may be undertaken in the city of Chicago. Such a scheme, it is believed, is the only means by which the present indescribable condition of congestion can be overcome, and unless some further reasons are advanced against the proposal, it is probable that some such action will be taken. If the speed lane is built it will mark the first radical step in the direction of emancipating the downtown districts of large cities from the choking effect of too slow a movement of traffic caused by large volume and small street capacity.

ORGANIST GETS A PURSE OF MONEY

Services of Mrs. W. A. Kidd Tangibly Recognized at Fraserville — News Paragraphs.

FRASERVILLE, April 17.—A very pleasant event took place at the Orange Hall when the members of the congregation of the Methodist Church held a social evening and took advantage of this occasion to present Mrs. W. A. Kidd, their organist with a well filled purse and the following address:

Mrs. W. A. Kidd,

Dear Friend,—We believe that true worth and efficient, faithful service ought not to pass unnoticed. You have for several years placed at the disposal of the people of Fraserville your time and talents as organist and choir leader in our church. This service has been great ly increased in value because it has been so cheerfully given. As we have already said, faithful service ought not to pass unnoticed, but we feel that the time for us to express in some tangible way our deep sense of appreciation has already passed by. And not wishing to add unnecessarily to the very great debt we already owe by an further delay, we now has ten to express by deed what we have so often had in mind hoping that our delay will in some way or measure increase rather than decrease the value of our gift. What we have to offer you is in no sense an attempt to pay you in full for what you have done; in fact, such service as you have rendered cannot be measured materially but only in the coin of the Kingdom of our Lord and Master Jesus Christ. To Him our prayers ascend for you and yours that the material blessings of health and prosperity may long be yours even to a hundred-fold in this life and in the world to come.

Will you accept from the congregation this expression of their appreciation, good will and prayers.

(Signed on behalf of Fraserville Church.)

R. M. PATTERSON,
JAMES E. CLARKE.

Mrs. Kidd made a suitable acknowledgement, after which dainty refreshments were served.

MOTOR ENGINES SUPPLY POWER USED IN FACTORY

Coal being scarce in Italy, electricity is made use of on a much larger scale than is common in other European countries. Nature, fortunately has lavishly bestowed the whole of the northern portion of the peninsula with water power, which is used to generate electricity at low cost, and has thus made manufacturers almost entirely independent of coal. As an instance, the Fiat Motor Works, at Turin, use electricity exclusively for driving machinery, and are also equipped with electric furnaces of a most up-to-date type. The Fiat company has its own generating stations in the Alps, and at normal times the supply of current is so great that in addition to meeting its own requirements, the company is able to supply electricity to other manufacturers, and to the city of Turin.

The drought which has affected the whole of Europe has been particularly severe in the Alpine regions. As a result, mountain passes which usually are snowed up early in November were likely to remain open all winter, mountain streams are dried up and lakes are very low. As a consequence of this there is such a shortage of electric current that some factories on both the French and Italian sides of the Alps have had to close or reduce their working hours. At the Fiat works this temporary difficulty has been met by the installation of 25-35 h.p. agricultural tractors for driving machinery. More than 150 of these tractors are at present being used, the power developed by, then totaling more than 500 h.p.

The use of agricultural tractors for driving machinery is not new, but this appears to be the first time theyc have been employed on such an extensive scale. No special installation is necessary for the use of tractors.

MAKE THE BACKYARD PAY

Bulbs Planted in Fall to Bloom in Spring.

By W. R. Beattie.

A bed of hyacinths, tulips or narcissus planted during the early fall will come into bloom during the early spring and make a striking showing. There is such a variety of type and color in each of the groups of bulbs that the home gardener may be somewhat confused in making a selection.

The safe plan is to begin with comparatively few of the older or standard sorts and later try out the newer ones. As a rule, the best effects are produced by mass planting, or at least by having one or two types and varieties predominate.

The soil on which bulbs are planted in the open should be especially well drained and spaded 8 to 10 inches deep. The soil should also be reasonably rich but fresh manure should not be applied when fitting it for planting the bulbs. If manure was applied the previous spring and mixed with the soil no harm will result.

Most of our bulbs of hyacinth, tulip and narcissus are imported and the bulbs arrive in this country late in the summer or early in the fall. Bulbs are usually planted where summer flowering plants have grown and so planting must be deferred until frost has killed, or partly killed, the summer plants.

Early Fall Planting.

This will bring the planting of the bulbs a little after the first killing frost. The plan should be, however, to plant the bulbs just as soon as possible, after the removal of the summer blooming plants.

In fitting the beds for the bulbs the ground should be carefully turned over and any roots of the summer plants removed. After spading, the beds should be raked smooth and marked off in squares, about eight by eight inches for hyacinths, the same distances for tulips and six by six or six by eight inches for narcissus. Hyacinth and tulips bulbs should be planted about four inches deep while narcissus bulbs do best when covered as much as six inches. A mulch consisting of about two inches of fine manure or of the sweepings from the poultry house may be put on later for winter protection.

For mass planting there is perhaps nothing more pleasing than old-fashioned jonquils, as they are hardy and extremely effective. The narcissi are among the oldest of cultivated plants and are deserving of more attention than has been given them.

Iris and Gladiolus.

Iris, especially the Japanese sorts, have attracted a great amount of attention recently and are among the most showy of our hardy plants. The iris, or blue flag of our grandmothers' gardens, is adapted to border planting. A bed of iris is especially effective when used as a dividing line between the lawn and the garden proper.

From the standpoint of profit and real satisfaction there is perhaps no bulbous flowering plant that will equal the gladiolus. Gladioli require a deep, rich, well drained soil; are planted in the spring of the year and cultivated like any regular garden crop. There are a large number of varieties and the showy spikes of flowers are greatly in demand for house decorations.

The flowers of the gladiolus keep well and the individual flowers continue to open after the spikes are cut. Late in the season the gladiolus bulbs are dug, dried and stored very much the same as onions.

Medical examinations by physicians all over the country show that an amazing number of people lack 100% iron in their blood. At a recent conference, Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician at Bellevue Hospital (Out Door Department), New York, and the Westchester County Hospital, said, "Without iron, the blood becomes weak, thin, pale and watery. In many people this so seriously weakens their vital organs as to lead them to believe that they have heart or stomach trouble, kidney disease, nerve force exhaustion or some other serious ailment. I have had people come to me thinking they had heart trouble, because they often had pains and palpitation of the heart, sudden dizziness, faintness or spots before the eyes. In a great many of these cases, the moment iron was supplied, all of these symptoms disappeared." We make this offer because Genuine Nuxated Iron contains true organic iron like the iron in your blood. BALL BEARINGS

In case one of the ball bearings is lost provide a new one as soon as possible. If you have a supply of old ones that look to be about the same size, measure them with a micrometer. A ball one or two thousandths smaller can be used, but never one the least bit larger. As it stands up above the others it will carry the load too long and so be in danger of breaking.

A MINSTREL SHOW AT KNOX CHURCH

"Just Keep on Smiling" was sung by Ed. Rowe in the minstrel show at Knox Church last night but his advice was not needed in that rollicking entertainment. The show consists mainly of smiles with, of course, its fair share of musical items by well known singers of the city. Local skits, jokes which the makers frankly admit were resurrected from Tut's tomb, and jokes that were never heard before, combine to keep the audience in perpetual good humour. Some young ladies were led to the verge of hysterics by Vern Morphet's "Loving Sam, Shiek of Alabam" and Bill McKim's "Kiss Mama, Kiss Papa was put over so well that he was recalled five times by enthusiastic applause.

In the second part of the programme, "A Wee Bit O' Scotch" by The Twa Scots was a big hit, and stands out as one of the big items on the programme.

There are over twenty items on the programme, all good, and Vernon Morphet has reason to be proud of his offering. The interlocutor is Hugh Lush, and the end men are non Morphet; Jim Turnbull; Wally McWilliams, Sherman Rowe, Bill McKim, Terry Hughes Charles, Al Whyte and Al. Trussler. Messrs. Percy Harrison, Bill Turnbull, Allan McNeil, Jim Gaul, Jack Primeau, and Ed. Leonard of the chorus contribute in song, dance and music to the success of the show.

This Minstrel Show which is being put on under the auspices of the A.S.K. Bible Class will be repeated to-night, and is assured of a repetition of the large audience which was entertained last night.

What They Say

"I hear they are going to vaccinate the Peterborough police force," said Sambo.

"They don't need too," answered Jumbo, "they won't catch anything."

Another one: "I got off the train behind Tommy Tooms in Toronto last night, and the taxi drivers were calling out the names of their hotels One man called out "King George" and another one shouted "Prince Edward." Tommy Tooms said "No, just plain Tommy Tooms from Peterborough."

Canada's Standard Six

As in past year, this famous model of a famous car sets the standard of automobile values for the Dominion. It is the motor car by which others are judged.

It represents the best of each year's development in mechanical improvements, in appearance and in riding comfort. It combines the characteristic McLaughlin-Buick performance and dependability, with a distinctive beauty and a completeness of appointments not to be found elsewhere.

Standard equipment includes English Burbank top, cowl ventilator, drum type head and parking lamps, bumper, rear vision mirror, scuff plates, combination tail and stop lights, transmission lock, locked tool case in fore door, etc.

For SERVICE

Canada's Standard Four

In beauty of appearance, dependability and economy of operation, this "Master Four" has established an entirely new standard for four-cylinder cars. Sturdy, dependable, always ready to go—it is perfectly suited to the needs of the average family.

The seats are deep and low, with plenty of room in both compartments. The steering column is in exactly the right position for driving comfort and the gear shift lever is high enough to prevent bending and reaching.

Some of the many unusual refinements on a car of this class are transmission lock, windshield adjustable from the inside, nickelled bumper, walnut dash, rear vision mirror, combination tail and stop light, drum type head and parking lamps, crown fenders and scuff plates.

MATERIAL DEVELOPMENT MADE IN PROGRESS OF CAR DESIGN IS REFLECTED IN NEW MODELS

In Both Body and Chassis Construction Improvements Have Been Effected Which Mark Progress in Evolution.

CLOSED CARS FAVORED.

Reviewers of automobile development during the past year give 1922 the credit of having recorded substantial progress. To the average motorist driving his car for the second, or third, or even fourth and fifth seasons, outward changes are not apparent, because the newer "jobs" are naturally very much in the minority among all the cars. Developments which promise gradual evolution are not so apparent on the street. But it is a fact that from the laboratories, from the engineering departments, and from body designers, new ideas have come which reflect progress, and which ultimately will work their unassuming way into the chassis of future years. Many might be inclined to dispute the fact that there have been material changes effected in body designs; that the average characteristics of engines used on this continent have changed, or that other mechanical and metallurgical processes have exerted their influence It is true that the automobile of a year ago is, in its minor details, just as modern as when it was produced. But it is also a fact that refinements and changes have been introduced in numbers of cars that, in the aggregate, mark another step in the progress of automobile design.

Many Changes Apparent

In the one detail of body design alone there is evidence of a new trend. A year ago the now popular "sport" or "semi-sport" type of coachwork was peculiar to a very few chassis and most of these were built on cars the prices of which are beyond the reach of the average motorist. The predominance of sport models, or in other words, of cars completely equipped with details which a year ago were considered solely in the light of accessories, is a development which has assumed almost as great proportions as the sudden leap into very general favor of closed coachwork. Mechanically, engines have been improved in response to the ever-insistent demand for silence, a fast evidenced by the increased adoption of silent-chain auxiliary drives. In at least two cases mechanisms designed to materially improve the cleanliness of gas vapor entering the engines have been developed and adopted. A totally new type of direct air-cooled engine has been announced, and the industry's major exponent of this form of cooling has introduced an entirely new form of design. Then, too, an examination of the whole field discloses the fact that the six-cylinder engine has scored a gain in point of numbers and that the light six particularly has gained ground.

The outstanding feature, in so far as bodies are concerned, is the steady growth in favor of the closed car. Closed cars, which cost from 50 to 75 per cent. more than open types of coachwork built on the same chassis were necessarily limited in their appeal, and it was not until one enterprising manufacturer announced a closed car built to a cost of within a few dollars of his open car price that the closed car came to be taken seriously as a rival of the open type. It is very generally claimed now that closed cars will gradually displace the open type and certain hardy prophets have even been bold enough to make the statement that the open touring type will be built only in limited numbers within the next decade.

Closed Types Become Cheaper

There is some reason for the contention. The preference of the motorist for the closed car is not denied by anyone. Granted this fact, it is pointed out that the continuation of the production of comparatively cheap closed cars and the consequent greater popularity of the type will gradually tend to place the closed car in the position now occupied by the open models so far as production is concerned. Greater production means lessened cost per unit. Therefore, it is argued, the cost of closed car production should logically be expected to come down, while the open car prices should exhibit a reverse trend. How far this claim may be expected to be immediately fulfilled it is hard to say. But it is not probable that tire closed car will become cheaper than the open type for many a year.

The closed car has been given its impetus toward popularity by the general introduction by a large number of makers of the quantity produced type which is less pretentious in its finishings than the standard form of sedan and coupe. One or two of these forms made their appearance in 1921, but the greater number have been on the market less than a year. Some, indeed, have only been available for a few months, having been brought out to meet a popular and entirely uninfluenced demand.

Complete Equipment

Allied with this development is the manufacture of the "completely equipped car." There are available today a respectable number of touring and roadster types with such fittings as bumpers, nickelled radiators, windshield wipers, visors and wings, cowl, parking and signalling lamps, and even dashboard clocks and cigar lighters. Almost without exception these "specials," as they are generally termed, have been the development of the past year. Special models began to be a feature a little over a year ago, but there prevailed a certain timidity about loading up a car with items of equipment that the original purchaser might have been inclined to pass by as being features adding unnecessarily to the first cost. Good demand for these specials has made it apparent that certain accessories are regarded more as essentials to comfort and convenience, and it has been as a result of this that the development has reached its present stage.

Such accessories are gradually being absorbed into the makeup of a chassis, and even on the most completely equipped car now the "extras" do not seem to be in the way. Their inclusion by the manufacturer has resulted in types and styles being adopted which blend into the chassis lines.

Mechanical Betterments

Turning to the mechanical end of the average car of the year it is apparent that many betterments have been effected. Mechanical improvements have been mainly in frames, crankshafts and other parts which affect problems of silence and smoothness of operation. Clutches, transmissions and axles have had little, if any, attention, while, on the other hand, the smaller details, lubrication as an instance, have been given considerable attention. Brakes have not actually been the subject of improvement, but it is believed that development of four-wheel forms is imminent. A story in another column, dealing with this phase of design, points out the several reasons why many cars may be expected to incorporate this interesting advancement in the next year.

So far as the cars sold locally are concerned there is very little difference in the relative positions of fours, sixes, eights and twelves in point of numbers. In the entire field of engines, however, a gain of approximately six per cent. has been effected by six-cylinder engines, and most of these have been designed with a comparatively small cubic capacity. That trend has been evident for the past year or two, and it has caused considerable speculation on the ultimate destiny of the four. But it must be remembered that while the greater number of different makes are six-cylinder products, on a production basis the four is far ahead, and is likely to remain so so long as economy is a dominant factor in the small car field: not that the six is essentially a more expensive vehicle to operate, but because it cannot be produced as cheaply in the first place. The fact that the six is, in most cases, smoother, easier and faster has brought the prediction that in a few years the four-cylinder car will be made solely in the lowest price classifications.

Search for Silence

The everlasting search for silence has been responsible for a considerably greater amount of care being taken in cylinder construction and finish. Absolute exactness of cylinder bore is one of the prime essentials of silent operation, and in several cases of engines which have been re-designed this year this feature has received attention. Oil pumping in engines has been due to somewhat poor cylinder construction methods, and new designs make it apparent that this and kindred troubles are being eliminated by the exercise of greater care in getting the bores true with the line of the main bearings.

Forms of engines have not changed very much. The L-head type remains supreme, and will probably occupy its position for some years to come. The overhead valved engine is more in evidence by reason of the introduction of two or three new models having this form of valve gear, but engineers are not of the opinion that present positions will be reversed. While certain advantages are inherent in the overhead valve type, it is claimed that there are compensating advantages in the other type.

Important Cooling Advances

In engine cooling very important advances have been scored. Franklin came out with an entirely new principle of cooling. The Chevrolet division of General Motors followed this with another form of direct air cooling, though this latter product, it is understood, is not scheduled for the Canadian market yet. At least one other manufacturer fitted thermostatic water control to the water-cooling system, while the number of engines using forced water circulation showed an increase over the thermo-syphon systems.

The two new forms of direct air cooling are interesting. Franklin, it will be remembered, formerly used a suction fan incorporated in the fly wheel with the hood, forming a sort of upper-air duct. In the new motor pressure cooling has been substituted, so that a stronger current of cooling air is obtained. A sirocco fan has been placed on the front end of the crankshaft, and an air duct has been formed up and over the top of the cylinders. On the air-cooled Chevrolet engine, on the other hand, a reverse procedure is adopted, and the air is drawn from the base of the cylinders by means of an exhaust fan.

The feature of the engine, however, is not so much in its use of an exhaust fan to create a current of air past the cylinders, as in the use of copper fins. A metallurgical development has made it possible to effect what engineers claim to be a permanent bond between copper and steel, and by the use of this process crimped copper fins have been bonded to individual steel cylinders. The engine itself departs again from standard practice in the bore and stroke. The cylinders are practically "square," having a bore and stroke of 3½ inches. From information at present available it appears that the new engine is not scheduled for Canadian marketing. Only a limited quantity are to be produced at first.

How Many Bearings?

To the matter of engine bearings much thought has been given. The question should have in a n open one. One four-cylinder engine this year has five main bearings.

Another—in fact, several others—have only two, while three remains the most general number. A light six has been produced which has only two main bearings, but this is considered an exception. The general argument in favor of more than two bearings is that even a stiff and heavy shaft tends to bend if two great a distance is placed between bearings, and if too many crank throws intervene between the points of support. Three-bearing sixes are fairly common, but in six-cylinder engine the four-bearing type is favored. In redesigned or new engines more attention has been paid to the weight of the crankshafts, and as a result heavier shafts are the rule.

No marked changes are apparent in methods of carburetion. Air cleaners have been adopted by two manufacturers, one Franklin and the other Rickenbacker, though the latter car is not marketed here; while clutches and other transmission units remain unaltered in respect to design. The cone has still further lost ground, and it is not unreasonable to assume that it will ultimately follow rear-axle transmission mounting into the discard.

New Vacuum Source

Fuel feeds have not altered, though a new form of vacuum feed has been developed. In the past one form of tank has enjoyed a monopoly owing to patent conditions. The new form disregards the intake manifold as a source of suction and uses the oil pump for the purpose of creating vacuum. So far it is not used on any of the cars sold in Canada, but it has possibilities. One advantage claimed for it is that it is a check on the oil supply. Stoppage of the oil flow, it is stated, will almost immediately stop the supply of gas, and thus, automatically, the engine so equipped will stop.

Lastly, there are the details of frames and wheels. For a few years past there has been an evidence of a tendency to make frames stiffer and body mountings of such a nature as to preclude squeaks. The trend has continued true to form. On the other hand, the trend toward the replacement of the artillery type of wood wheel by wire and disc wheels seems suddenly to have come to a halt. Taken as a unit, however, the motor car has materially improved from all points of view as a result of the developments of the year, and these developments, which have taken place in several chassis this year, will probably find their way into general use in years to come.

AUTO INDUSTRIES USED 600,000 TONS OF STEEL

The automobile industry on the American continent used 600,000 tons alloy steel in 1922, according to unofficial estimates.

This is based on the well-founded assumption that 25 per cent. of the steel in the average car is alloy steel, and again on the reliable estimate that automobile makers consumed a total of 2,500,000 tons of finished steel in 1922. This last figure represents 10 per cent. of the total finished steel made during the year past.

MOTOR TRUCK USE EXPANDS GREATLY

Several New Fields of Service Have Been Opened Up.

(By WINDSOR T. WHITE)

The past year will go down in motor-truck transportation as an epochal one in many respects.

The significance of this movement can be better understood when one realizes that it means assistance to rail as well as motor-truck shipments.

In Cincinnati trucks made possible in a year the release for the main line movements of the railroads of 66,000 cars, the elimination of 300,000 switching cuts, and advanced the average freight movement 52 hours.

The reason for this widespread success in the development of supplemental facilities to the railroads by the trucks is that the shippers are beginning to appreciate generally the fact that in proportion as they relieve the railroads of less-than-carload shipments will the railroads be able to render them more efficient and cheaper service on their long-haul consignments.

There has come about pretty general agreement among railroad officials that motor truck operation can be substituted for railroad operation in short-branch line service, in trap car work, and in terminal and suburban distribution. In fact, over forty railroads in Canada and the United States, including the New York, New Haven & Hartford, Great Northern, Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake & Western, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis, Canadian National Railways, and Philadelphia & Reading, are using motor equipment with flanged wheels in branch line service.

The tonnage involved in this interchange movement between railroads and trucks originates in widely scattered sections of the country, a greater portion of which is now being moved in trucks than ever before.

Trucks Haul Oil

Today, approximately, 75 per cent. of the work in the Texas and Oklahoma oil fields is carried on by means of specially designed truck and trailer combinations. It is estimated that $948,000,000 will have to be spent on new productive oil acreage and new well operations, which will obviously entail large-scale motor truck operations within the current year.

Approximately 75 per cent. of the copper, lead and zinc mining operators are under the necessity at the present time of transporting both their products and supplies to and from their local supply stores in trucks, inasmuch as the tonnage shipped from any one mine is not great enough any one season of the year to make it profitable for the railroad to establish direct connection in most cases. In the mining of coal, also, there has been a pronounced tendency of late to motorize all the processes of extraction and conveyance, evidenced by the fact that products from, approximately, 3,300 mines are being hauled now in commercial vehicles.

Fully 10,000 trucks are expected to be involved in milk shipments when the movement becomes full-fledged. Involved in this movement is a shipping victory not yet appreciated very widely; I refer to the extensive introduction this past year of glass-lined thermos tanks on trucks to insure for the consuming public a lower acidity test for their milk, as well as the elimination of churning en route.

Farm Truck Market

There is every reason to believe that the other products that find their way to market and railroad siding from agricultural areas will be carried in trucks on a larger scale during the current year. The farmer today is in a much stronger position to purchase farm equipment than in recent months.

Just reflect that the motor truck makes it possible for the farmer to travel 25% longer distance; make 183% more round trips; carry 43% more corn, 50% more wheat and 83% more cotton than horse-drawn vehicles; at 45%, 50% and 37% of the ton-mile cost of wagon-hauled corn, wheat and cotton, respectively.

Coincident with this important change toward extensive motorized service in local and suburban freight service, there has come about an equally striking realignment in urban passenger transportation. The necessity for some such change as this will be appreciated, when it is recalled that there has been an increase in urban population far greater in the last ten years than rural population.

This great increase in urban population has made necessary the extension of existing street car lines and the servicing of congested areas. Into this gap has come the motor bus, of which there are over 40,000 today in operation.

MRS. COFFMAN ILL SEVEN YEARS

Saved from an Operation by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Sidell, Ill.—"I was a nervous wreck. I was suffering from a pain in my left side, which was almost unbearable, and I could not even let the bed clothing rest on my body at night. I had been sick for seven years, but not so bad until the last eighteen months, and had become so run-down that I cared for nobody, and would rather have died than live. I couldn't do my work without help, and the doctors told me that an operation was all there was left. I would not consent to that, so my husband brought me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and begged me to take it. I have taken fourteen bottles of it and I feel ten years younger. Life is full of hope. I do all my housework and had a large garden this year. I never will be without the Vegetable Compound in the house, and when my two little girls reach womanhood I intend to teach them to take it. I am never too busy to tell some suffering sister of my help, and you can use my name and letter to spread the good news of Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine."—Mrs. IDA M. COFFMAN, R. R. 2, Sidell, Ill.

WHOLE HASTINGS TOWN HONORS PRIEST ON HIS FORTIETH ANNIVERSARY

Heartiest of Hearty Congratulations Extended to Rev. C. S. Bretherton at a Public Function Attended by All Classes and Creeds.

HASTINGS, April 17. — On Monday evening a very enjoyable time was spent in the Opera House, where a social evening was held by the Catholic Women's League in honour of their pastor, Rev. C. S. Bretherton, who has laboured in their midst for eighteen years. The guests numbered 300.

The hall was beautifully decorated with red, white, pink and yellow bunting, and the tables looked quite charming, embellished with flowers, one vase holding forty carnations.

The evening opened with cards, followed by refreshments, and after all had done justice to the sumptuous repast, Mr. John Coughlan, who made a very acceptable chairman, in a few chosen words congratulated Father Bretherton on his forty years of priesthood and he hoped he would live to celebrate his golden jubilee. He had made many friends since coming here 18 years ago.

The chairman also thanked the ladies of the Women's Catholic League for bestowing such honour on their pastor.

Miss Kathleen Barry read the address, and Miss Mary Jones made the presentation.

Rev. Father Bretherton thanked the ladies of the League in a few words. He said he was often placed in an embarrassing position, but not such as this; and the kindness not only of the ladies, but of everybody present, had touched his heart. He liked to see everybody enjoying themselves, and felt that he was standing in a bower of flowers. The Women's League, he said, was instituted to help the Church look after the poor and needy, which work the members were doing in an admirable and efficient manner.

Four Decades.

Rev. Mr. Thompson was the next speaker called upon. He wished to congratulate Father Brethrton on his forty years of priesthood, and said that many a time he had stood on this same platform together with the guest of the evening. They had always been neighbours; forty years was a long time to look back, and he was glad to see Father Bretherton looking so hale and hearty. He had spent all his time in Hastings, and only yesterday he preaihed a sermon the same as he delivered the first Sunday he arrived here; and there was only one person present on Sunday who was a member of the church forty years ago. The speaker closed by offering congratulations from himself and family.

Rev. Father O'Brien of Peterboro followed and expressed his pleasure at being present at such a gathering for 34 years ago Father Bretherton officiated as his godfather.

He wished to congratulate Father Bretherton also the Catholic Woman's League and everybody who had helped to make this evening such an ungralified success.

Reeve W. M. Fowlds was the next speaker. He also offered his congratulations and eulogized Father Bretherton as an exemplary citizen, always ready to help in any good cause, and he often went to him for counsel.

Kindy Help

Rev. Mr. Hinton spoke in a similar vein and pointed out that when he came to Hastings a few years ago he was a total stranger, but throuhh the kindness of Father Bretherton he was not long in feeling quite at home. He only wished that Father Bretherton would be spared to see his Golden Jubilee.

Rev. Mr. Pippen was the next speaker who declared it quite an ordeal to address the present audience, he having only been here a short time. He also on coming to Hastings was tendered a kindly welcome by Father Bretherton, who he hoped would live to see his golden jubilee.

Mr. Alex. Wilson, clerk of the town, was then called on, and he expressed his pleasure in the occasion. He went on to say that Father Bretherton deserved a full measure of credit, as he is a public spirited man and had done much to form Hastings.

Floral Presentations.

The Hastings Chapter, I.O.D.E. presented Father Bretherton with 40 carnations and the Horticultural Society with a beautiful bouquet of roses.

Father Bretherton brought the evening to a close by extending his heartfelt thanks to the Horticultural Society, the I.O.D.E., the Catholic Women's League, Messrs. F. Whitehouse and Fr. Clarke, of Peterborough also to J. Mulholland for their musical numbers.

Mrs. J. A. McGrail, president of the Catholic Womens' League, thanked everybody for their attendance and wished to offer her congratulation from the league to Father Bretherton.

The wee small hours were spent in dancing and music.

Ordained in 1883.

Rev. C. S. Bretherton was ordained on April 14, 1883, at St. Peter's Cathedral, Peterborough, with the late Rev .T. O'Connel, of Warkworth, by Bishop Jamot.

In the same year he left to take up his duties in the then wilds of Muskoka, being located at Bracebridge. After leaving there he spent some time in Lindsay, Victoria Road and Downeyville, and for the last eighteen years has been parish priest of Our Lady of Mount Carmel, Hastings.

Proposed Appropriation of $50,000 for That Purpose is Withdrawn—Remainder of Grant for Immigration Purposes Passes Commons.

OTTAWA, April 17. — (Canadian Press).—The much contested vote of $1,850,000 for immigration went through the House last night, but with a reduction of fifty thousand dollars. The vote covers grants to immigration associations and colonization societies, and was reduced on a motion from the Government itself. In expectation of the reduction, Hon. Mr. Stewart, Acting Minister of Immigration, said a sum had been voted in the past to send lecturers to Great Britain and the United States, but under present conditions there was difficulty in making the appointments. Hence the money for this purpose would not be needed and the vote could be reduced. The vote, as passed, includes the grant to the Canada Colonization Association.

During the debate, the House heard more of conditions on the prairie. E. J. McMurray, Liberal member for North Winnipeg, protested against the "continual wail" from the West. Pictures had been drawn which were unfair. Complaining had begun as a political cry in the West, now it had become an absolute obsession. Robert Gardiner, Progressive, of Medicine Hat, however, declared that Western farmers were producing at a loss. During the debate also, W. G. McQuarrie, Conservative member for New Westminster, objected to the propaganda work which, he said, was being carried on in Canada by the Consul-General of Japan and China in favor of Oriental immigration.

THEY CALLED HIM AN "OLD PILL"

THAT was years ago when he packed a terrible grouch, a mighty irritable stomach and a liver that refused to do the things that all good livers should. No wonder his friends called him an "old pill" and stayed away.

But that was years ago—long before he discovered Beecham's Pills and learned that two at bedtime can bring sunshine into a man's life. Today, he's an optimist, a hero to his wife, and a staunch believer in Beecham's Pills.

The cheer that Beecham's Pills bring into a man's disposition, is the incomparable cheer of sound digestion, active liver, and the regular habits that make good health.

Farmers Must Accept Challenge of Drury

TORONTO, April 17.—(Canadian Press)—Concluding its leading editorial in to-day's issue the Farmers' Sun official organ of United Farmers of Ontario says, "Mr. Drury naturally does not look with equanimity upon the possibility of relinquishment office. It is just possible, however, that he places too much emphasis upon office as a means of advancing principles, particularly office retained by coming to terms with those who in many cases will step into the legislature over the prostrate hopes of candidates who carried his colors and fought for the very principles he cherishes. Right or wrong, however, he has declared himself, and United Farmers with one who would have avoided an issue with one who has held so high a place in their regard have been left with no alternative but to accept his challenge."

FUEL CONTROLLER HAS REMOVED RESTRICTIONS

TORONTO, April 17.—(Canadian Press.)— Fuel Controller Ellis has lifted all fuel distribution and price restrictions imposed in Ontario during the winter season.

CAMPBELLFORD TOWN COUNCIL

Four New Services Will Be Constructed This Year —A Meeting Last Night

CAMPBELLFORD, April 17. — There will be four sewers constructed in Campbellford this year, one on Garry street, on Inkerman, Rear and Second street. Work on the two first mentioned will be started at once, and that on the others as soon as some details are attended to in the way of estimates and engineering service.

Resolutions providing for the above improvements were unanimously adopted at a special meeting of the town council last night at which Mayor Meyers presided, and all the members were present. Residents on Sebastopol street were present to urge the construction of a sewer on that street but the other streets were given the preference as their petitions have all been in for so time. It was decided that if the Sebastopol St. sewer is not built this year that the work will be undertaken not later than next summer. When it is in Sebastopol street will have a trunk line from Corporation limits connecting with the Garry street sewer by way of Canrobert. Inkerman and Sebastopol streets are close together and this was cited as one reason why work on the latter should be delayed for the present. Of the four sewers to be constructed two are in the east and two on the west side of the river.

New Water Main.

Town Solicitor Humphries was instructed to draw up a bylaw providing for the construction under the local improvement act, of a water main to serve St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, and the residents of that neighborhood, all of whom joined in a petition which was presented at the last regular meeting of the council.

Another special meeting of the council will be held on Friday night to make final arrangements for beginning work on the Rear and Second street sewers.

Permission was given Captain Ding of the Salvation Army to hold a tag day in the near future.

Appeal for Help.

An appeal was received from the secretary of the New Ontario Fire Relief Committee asking the council for a grant as funds are still badly needed to assist the settlers who have lost their effects in the fire last fall.

Clerk McGregor was instructed to acknowledge the receipt of the letter and in reply to state that the council of Campbellford and the township of Seymour had already made contributions amounting to $2100. As this donation was regarded as equal proportionately to any made by any municipality in Ontario the Campbellford council cannot see its way have a trunk sewer from the corporclear to extending any further aid.

FIGHT REDISTRIBUTION SAYS HOWARD FERGUSON

TORONTO, April 17. —(Canadian Press.)— If Government of Ontario persists that redistribution is to be carried out along the lines laid down by Premier Drury last Friday then it will be fought at every ditch. This assurance was given by Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Conservative eader and put in milder form by W. E. N. Sinclair, Liberal, when they spoke on the second reading of redistribution bill late last night

Mr. Ferguson contended that Premier in submitting four separate units of representation as a basis for redistribution was far away from what had always been accepted in Canada by both old parties as the proper basis of representation by population.

JOHN JARVIS INJURED IN A STABBING AFFRAY

COBALT, April 17 (Canadian Press). — With four knife wounds in his body John Jarvis, a Finn, lies in the Mines Hospital in such a serious condition that Magistrate Atkinson yesterday afternoon visited his bedside to secure his version of the midnight fracas in which he is alleged to have been stabbed.

His alleged assailant, John Helstrom, a Swede, is in jail at Long with several other men detained by the police.

Helstrom has a badly discoloured eye, and another man had a finger nearly severed in the row, which commenced in the boarding-house last night, and was continued as a free-for-all on the main highway.

Knives were used freely in the disturbance, according to the police.

Jarvis suffered a punctured lung, and he identified Helstrom as his assailant.

BOBBY WOLGAST WON IN FAST ENCOUNTER

PHILADELPHIA, April 17—(Canadian Press).—Bobby Wolgast, of Philadelphia, last night outpointed Frank E. Genaro, flyweight champion, in a fast eight-round bout. Midget Smith, New York, defeated Patsy Wallace, Philadelphia.

Rural Dean Clarke Gave An Interesting Paper— Band Went to Marmora

CAMPBELLFORD, April 17. — The regular monthly meeting of the Ministerial Association was held yesterday afternoon in the Public Library those present being Rev. C. F. McIntosh, J. E. Glover, M. L. Hunton of Hastings, Rural Dean Clarke, H. S. Bennett T. J. O'Connor Fenton of Norwood and Lieut. H. Hawkins of the Salvation Army. Mr. McIntosh presided in the absence of the president, Rev. H. B. Kenny, who was attending the funeral of the late Mrs. L. F. Gould.

An interesting paper on the "Inspiration of Scripture," was read by Rural Dean Clarke. A long discussion followed in which a variety of opinions on this subject were expressed. A vote of thanks to Rural Dean Clarke was passed on motion of Messrs Hinton and Glover.

Band at Marmora

Twenty members of the Regimental Band in spite of the snow storm motored to Marmora on Sunday to furnish music at the funeral of a comrade, Private Jonas W. Burns, who died in a Toronto hospital, as the result of wounds received in the late war. The late Private Burns went overseas with the 155th Regiment and was wounded in one of the battles in 1917 having been an invalid ever since. The members of the Campbellford Band donated their services for the interment. The deceased was buried with full military honors, there being over 100 returned men in line, Sergt. George T. Salter acted as leader of the Band in place of R. T. Cowell, who was detained here by his duties as organist in the Methodist Church Sert. Salter also sounded the last post.

St. Andrew's Young People

The young people's Society of St. Andrew's Church held their regular weekly meeting in the school room last night, with President John Storie in the chair. There was a good attendance. The topic of the evening was taken by Mrs. William Hume who gave an interesting address on mission work the slogan of whi ahcwis of which was the word "Courage".

Solos were rendered by Mrs. Edison Wynn and Miss Lila Ballantyne Miss Emma Meiklejohn playing the accompanimets.

At the meeting next week the Club Speaker will be Mrs. T. E. Moffatt who will select her own subject and who can be depended upon to provide something both interesting and profitable.

WILL OPPOSE DRURY'S REDISTRIBUTION PLANS.

TORONTO, April 17. Canadian Press. — Yesterday in the Legislature, Attorney General Raney's bill to prevent publication of betting information, passed its third reading, after he had permitted entries and stable data to be published.

Hon. G. Howard Ferguson told the House Conservatives will fight to the last ditch any redistribution along the lines of Premier Drury's proposals, which he characterized as "vicious and erroneous."

The House sat until 4 o'clock, this morning.

After 13 hours of continuous session, the Ontario Legislature rose this morning shortly after 4 o'clock.

Conservative speakers were still offering strenuous opposition to the Redistribution scheme of the Drury government. Adjournment was finally moved by George S. Hendry the Conservative member for East York.

DAREDEVIL CANADIAN YOUTH IS BACK AGAIN

DETROIT, April 17.—(Canadian Press).—Leo Castle, the daredevil Canadian boy who startled the immigration authorities at Niagara Falls as he tip-toed his way across the steel girders of the railroad bridge above the whirlpool which roars hundreds of feet below, marched back to Canada yesterday, accompanied by United States immigration authorities.

"But I am coming back," he told friends who gathered at the ferry dock to bid him farewell.

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

Entertainment Committee of the Old Boys' Reunion Held a Meeting—Personal Mention

CAMPBELLFORD, April 17. — The entertainment committee for the Old Boys' Re-union, of which Dr. Watson is chairman, met last night in the office of Diamond and Riendeau, all of the members being present. At the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce to-night the committee will submit an estimate of the amount of money likely to be required to provide a programme. R. H. Cole's decoration committee will also have figures from J. J. Turner and Sons, of Peterborough as to the probable cost of dressing the town with flags and banners for the re-union.

Annual Meeting To-night.

The annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce will be held this evening for the election of officers and the transaction of other business. Rev. Father Phelan has announced that he is desirous of giving up the presidency as he believes the position should go to a business man, but it is likely that he will be urged to continue in the office in which he has given such satisfactory and efficient service during the past year.

Mrs. L. F. Gould.

The funeral of the late Mrs. L. F. Gould was held yesterday afternoon from her late residence and was very largely attended, being conducted at the home by the pastor, Rev. H. B. Kenny, who paid glowing tribute to the noble Christian spirit and exemplary example lived by the deceased. She was one whom to know was to deeply respect and love. In all the activities of the Methodist church, W.M.S., Ladies' Aid, etc., she was a faithful worker and in her passing the church and town has lost one of its most devoted and Christian citizens.

The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful, speaking a silent sympathy and showing the high regard in which the late Mrs. Gould was held. Some of those were: Official Board of the Methodist church, wreath; Ladies' Aid and W.M.S., wreath; Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Kingston, wreath; Mr R. C. Johnston, Montreal, wreath; Messrs. J. P. Archer and J. M. Ferris, wreath; Miss Johnston and Messrs Max Oddie and Knight, wreath; neighbours, "gates ajar"; Miss K. Ketcheson, Toronto, sheaf; Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Palliser, spray; Mr. and Mrs. John Glassford, spray; Miss Turner, Peterborough, spray; Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Fisher, Belleville, sheaf; Miss McPhail, Keene, spray. The W.C.T.U., of which the deceased was a life member, kindly remembered her with flowers during her short illness

Many of the friends accompanied the funeral cortege to Wooler, where interment was made, and where the pastor, Rev. Mr. Kenny, was assisted by Rev. Mr. Bick of Wooler and Rev. Mr. Woodger of Trenton.

The pallbearers were Messrs: A. I. Bonney, A. J. Beavis, G. F. Phillips, John W. Taylor, William Runnells, W. H. Green.

Some of those who attended the funeral from a distance were: Mr. and Mrs. Casement, Mr. and Mrs. Terrill, Mr. and Mrs. Richardson, Mr. Scott, Jr. and Mr. Scott, Sr., all of Wooler, Miss MacPhail, of Keene, Miss K. Hutchison, Toronto, Miss McGuire, Peterborough, Mrs Johnston, Markham, Miss Turner, Peterborough, Mrs. Sharp and Mrs. Dafoe, Belleville, R. C. Johnston, Montreal.

A particularly sad feature of the occasion was the fact that Mr. Gould is confined to his room through illness and was not able to accompany the remains to their final resting place. Mr. Gould was, however, in receipt of numerous letters and telegrams from friends who were prevented by distance from being present.

To Mr. Gould and to Mrs. Casement and Mr. Scott, both of Wooler, brother and sister of the deceased, universal sympathy is extended in their sad bereavement.

Personals.

Miss Ruth Dunk has resigned her place in the telephone office to accept a position in the store of J. A. Burke. Miss Buller, of Wooler, will join the telephone staff this week.

R. C. Johnston, formerly station agent here, but now travelling auditor for the National Railways, came from Montreal yesterday to attend the funeral of the late Mrs. L. F. Gould.

L. F. Gould is so seriously ill that he was unable to leave his bed to attend the funeral of his wife yesterday.

John Diamond is seriously ill at his home here.

Ray Dunk has gone to Toronto, where he has secured a position.

Rev. Rural Dean Clarke will preach next Sunday in St. George's church, Peterborough, Rev. W. R. Courage taking Mr. Clarke's place here.

Friends of Mr. John Diamond, Mill street, will regret to learn of his serious illness with the 'flu.

Mrs. W. H. Ashton left to-day for Toronto, where she will attend an executive meeting of the Board of Managers of the Women's Missionary Society which will be held in the Methodist Deaconess Training school this week.

INDUSTRIAL MAGNATES ARE VERY OPTIMISTIC

CHICAGO, April 17. Canadian Press. — Four well known "captains of industry" yesterday analyzed conditions in the United States business and industry. All were frankly optimistic as to the immediate future and not at all fearful of untoward events further ahead. They found expansion without inflation.

John J. Mitchell, president of the Illinois Merchants Banking Group, and Robert S. Lovett, chairman of the Union Pacific Railway, spoke for the west; Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, and Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, spoke for the East.

THE LEAGUE NATIONS HAS BEEN OF SERVICE

CHICAGO. April 17.—(Canadian Press).—Forces more serious than those which caused war and other European conflicts have been quietly settled, and the possibility of the return of a general armed conflict have been removed by the League of Nations since the League began mediation among world affairs, Lord Robert Cecil declared here yesterday before a crowd which filled the Orchestra Hall, and applauded repeatedly the speaker's reference to the League and the work it had accomplished.

A SCRATCH THAT COST HIM 6 MONTHS PAY

—Also a Heavy Doctor's Bill.

"Four years back," writes Mr. R. Howard, of Bracebridge, Ont., "a scratch on my leg turned to an awful ulcer. It took six months of doctor's treatment to cure me, and all the while I was laid up never earning a cent.

"Recently, a similar injury started inflammation and ulceration on the other leg. Knowing about Zam-Buk, however, this time I acted very differently and without delay. I used Zam-Buk alone, and not only was the ulcer speedily and thoroughly healed, but I didn't lose a day's work while the treatment was in progress."

EXCHANGE TO ADMIT FARMER ASSOCIATIONS

New Ruling Affecting All the Grain Exchanges Throughout the United States.

LAW CHALLENGED.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—(Canadian Press)—The Grain Futures Act, placing all grain exchanges in the United States under Federal control and compelling them to admit to membership representatives of farmers' cooperative associations, was declared constitutional by the Supreme Court yesterday, the Court dividing, seven to two.

The law was challenged by the Chicago Board of Trade, acting also in behalf of other grain exchanges on the ground that trading in grain futures was a matter strictly within the police power of the States and outside the jurisdiction of the Federal Government.

When Congress, seeking to accomplish the result aimed at, in the present law, imposed a prohibitive tax on all future trading not conducted on "contract" markets, and required all exchanges to place themselves under Government control as a condition precedent to becoming such markets, the Supreme Court declared the law invalid and an unconstitutional exercise of authority.

Promptly Congress met the issue by re-enacting substantially all the regulatory features of the law, but based its new exercise of authority on its control over interstate commerce declaring that trading in grain futures, unless properly regulated by the Federal Government, could be made a restraint upon interstate shipments of grain.

Grain Exchanges interposed uncompromising objections. The Government supervision was declared by them irksome and impracticable, as well as unnecessary, but their principal attack was made on that part of the law which gave farmers' cooperative associations a right to membership on the grain exchanges. This constituted confiscation of property, the Grain Exchanges contended, because it admitted to membership in the corporations men who would not be governed by the rebating rules which all exchanges had found imperative, and would give them an interest in the buildings and property of the Exchange.

Counsel for the Exchanges pointed out that their members were required to charge uniform commissions on trades made by them, whereas Congress proposed to force them into competition with new members representing the farmers' cooperative associations organized on the basis of returning to the owner of the grain the full price for which it was sold, deducting only the cost of administration, which it was calculated would be considerably less than the standard commission.

Attorneys for the Chicago Board of Trade relief on decisions made recently by the Supreme Court particularly in the stockyards and packers and the original grain futures trading acts case, as establishing precedents for holding the present law invalid. Chief Justice Taft, who delivered the majority opinion, to which Justices McReynolds and Sutherland announced dissent without delivering a minority opinion, stated that the decisions referred to, established, in the judgment of the Court, clear grounds for holding the new law valid.

Under the showing made by the evidence and argument presented in the case he said, the Court would not question the accuracy of the decision of Congress that transactions on grain exchanges were susceptible of being made a restraint on inter state commerce.

Grain moving to market through grain exchanges become as much part of interstate commerce, the Chief Justice declared, as cattle, hogs and sheep passing through the stockyards and packing houses. The Court had decided that the latter did constitute interstate commerce, Justice Taft, and the Court found no difficulty in reaching opinion that the Government could easily regulate the movement of grain.

So impressed with public opinion are grain exchanges, he added, that exchanges on which trades are made become subjects for Federal supervision. It was properly within the functions of Congress the Court held not only to impose supervision over the transactions, but to define who should be permitted to engage in interstate commerce.

STOLEN MONEY NOT USED IN CAMPAIGN

Walter Mitchell, M.P., Denies That F. H. Dunn Was Told to Hold Back Racing Tax For Him.

MONTREAL, April 17. Canadian Press. — The trial of Frank H. Dunn, resumed here yesterday, in which the accused is charged with stealing $39,000 odd and with falsifying reports in connection with the Connaught Park Jockey Club, brought out some interesting evidence.

Statements declared by Hon. Jacob Nicol, Provincial Treasurer, to have been made to him by Dunn to explain why certain moneys had not been turned into the government, were not allowed as evidence by Mr. Justice Wilson it being held that anything like admission or confession would not be permitted. The Provincial Treasurer told of an interview with Dunn when the latter was placed in a position where there was no doubt that his position as collector of licenses for the government was at stake. N. K. Laflamme, K.C., M.P., who with W. K. McKeown, K.C., is conducting Dunn's defence, claimed that this constituted both an inducement and a threat.

Walter Mitchell, M. P., former Provincial Treasurer, went into the box, and categorically denied ever having instructed Dunn in any shape or form whatsoever regarding the statement made by T. P. Gorman, secretary of the Connaught Park Jockey Club, that Dunn was withholding thousands of dollars from the racing club for Mr. Mitchell's campaign funds.

"If Dunn made that statement he lied," asked Mr. Laflamme, "and if Dunn did not make that statement Gorman lied?"

"That is correct," replied Mr. Mitchell.

Senator Belcourt, president of the Connaught Park Jockey Club, in evidence stated that Mr. Gorman had reported he has received $19,000 from Dunn and that he had instructed Mr. Gorman to deposit this sum in his (Gorman's) name. The Senator had understood that the government was well aware of the $19,000. He denied however that there had been any agreemnt, as stated by Mr Gorman had been arrived at at an informal meeting, not to speak of this sum. Pressed upon this question, Senator Belcourt replied: "I have no recollection."

The last witness of the Crown, Henri Girard, verifier of accounts for the provincial treasury department occupied the box all afternoon and will complete his evidence today. It consisted largely of identification of documents, production of figures and statements, and specifications of dates and sums. On April 20, 1922 he was instructed to take over Dunn's office and seize his papers.

Examinations of the documents showed that Dunn, according to the cash book of the Connaught Park Jockey Club, received $92,801.08 in respect of pari-mutuel returns at the Spring and Fall meetings at Connaught Park in 1921, and also for the tax returns of 30c pro persona. Of this sum Dunn has turned in to the Provincial Government the sum of $53,128.18. The difference is therefore $39,672.90 and it is this amount that Dunn is charged with stealing.

If Your Gas is High You May Burn Water.

BERKEEY, Calif., April 17. — Rachele Jacuzzi, inventor and nationally noted maker of airplane propellers, has just presented to University of California scientifists a device by which, he declares, water may be burned in much the same manner as household gas!

"There is no doubt we are burning water," Jacuzzi declares, as he invites the university savants to his laboratory. "We have developed a flame with a temprature higher than an average welder's torch.

"Water is fed into a small coil and heated by a gas flame. This flame at first converts the water into a steam. But toward the end of the coil the temperature has reached such a point that the water is converted into gas and, when augmented by a small flame of acetylene or other inflammable as, burns with an intense heat."

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Toronto, April 7th, 1923.

To the Farmers of Ontario:

Dear Sirs,—In view of the fact that I spent four years in the development of co-operative marketing of live stock in Ontario, it is natural that the question should be raised as to why I resigned from the Live Stock Department of the United Farmers' Co-operative Co. to accept a position with H. P. Kennedy Co., Limited. Briefly, I wish to outline the reason for taking this action.

On learning that the firm of H P. Kennedy, Limited, had been appointed as distributing agent for the live stock handled by the United Grain Growers, Limited, I realized that there was a splendid opportunity to develop a further service for the farmers of Eastern Canada—that is, in the "feeder or store cattle" trade, and also in the matter of exporting to both British and American markets. It its a well-known fact that H. P. Kennedy, Limited, have long established connections on all markets in both Great Britain and United States. With this advantage they are in a position to give the best possible service to the live stock producers of Canada.

The selling of live stock is entirely a matter of service, and in this business it is the producer of live stock that is the greatest factor and must be considered as such at all times. Considering these facts it was natural that I should desire a connection with a firm of this kind. At an interview with its President a proposition was made and accepted whereby I was to engage in the new work. It is my aim to give the interests of the producers the same individual attention as obtained in my former work, and also to assist in developing the most profitable outlets for live stock.

As can be well understood, it was with genuine regret that I resigned from the Live Stock Department. Four years' close association with a very large number of farmers in helping to develop one of the largest concerns of its kind naturally created a strong sentiment of friendship for those who placed their confidence in the co-operative method of selling.

In my new position it is my sincere wish that the farmers of Ontario will have the most prosperous year in 1923 they have had in their history, and to any business they consign to the company with whom I am connected, viz., H. P. Kennedy, Limited, my best effort will be given to secure the best return possible.

Very truly yours,
F. S. FULTHORP.

Regular April Meeting Havelock Town Council.

HAVELOCK, April 17. — The regular April meeting of the town council was held recently when all the members were present.

A communication was received from Mr. Alport of Hartsmen, requesting the position of constable, but no action was taken.

A communication from Mrs. Wright of Port McNicholl, complained of water running from the street into the cellar of her house on George street, and on motion of Couns. Matheson and Sanderson, Couns. Hooper and Campney were appointed to look into the complaint with power to act.

Mr. D. Butters requested the lease of the town lot on the west end of King street, and was rented the same for the sum of $2 per annum, at the pleasure of the council.

The clerk was instructed to return the back taxes on the old grist mill property against the land and forward the same to the County Treasurer.

On motion of Couns. Hooper and Sanderson, Couns. Campney was authorized to arrange for an appliance on the pole of the fire engines so that the same could be quickly attached to the axle of an automobile; and also to have the engines repainted as soon as possible.

On motion of Couns. Sanderson and Hooper a reward of $5 will be paid to the first auto taking the fire engines to a fire and returning them to the hall. If one auto draws them to the fire and another back to the hall, the sum of $2.50 will be paid each of the owners.

STOMACH TROUBLE

"INDIGESTION"

Relieved By Burdock Blood Bitters

The sufferers from dyspepsia, indigestion or other stomach troubles who has to pick and choose his food is the most miserable of al mankind.

Even the little that is eaten causes much torture and is digested so imperfectly it does but little good.

Mr. Wm. Kruschel, Morden, Man. writes:—"Some time ago I had quite a serious case of stomach trouble, indigestion. I could scarcely eat anything, outside of some light food, and even then I generally had pains after each meal. I tried many different medicines, but without any improvement, and had almost given up hope of ever being well. A neighbor recommended Burdock Blood Bitters, and after using it a short time I felt much better, so I continued to use it until I was completely relieved. I can honestly say that B.B.B. has done wonders for me after all other medicines failed."

B.B.B. is put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

INDICTMENT OF FRANCE BY GERMAN PRESIDENT

LONDON, April 17.— (Canadian Press.) — The Yorkshire Evening News publishes an interview with President Ebert of Germany, who is quoted as saying:

"At any moment we are ready for a solution which guarantees the unity of the land of our fathers and freedom of German labor under a just peace reached by an honest and free understanding between nation and nation. The unfettered German worker is willig to bear any burden compatible with his capacity, but under the threatening muzzle of loaded murder weapons he cannot now and never will be able to produce.

"Is there a crazier example of the destructive senselessness of Franco-Belgian violence on the Ruhr than bloody Easter Saturday at Essen? They demand German reparations and deliveries and shoot the workers who are bearers of fulfillment of production toward reconstruction, they paralyze production and destroy natural resrces in the most productive and most willing German territory."

UNITED STATES WOULD SEARCH BRITISH SHIPS

LONDON, April 17. — (Canadian Press)—Great Britain has assured the United States Government that she "has every desire to meet where ever possible," the representations from Washington regarding the prevention of liquor smuggling into the United States, Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs Ronald McNeill, told a questioner in the House of Commons this evening.

Mr. McNeill said he could not give the exact terms of the representations from the United States, which were received recently, but that it was proposed that restrictions be placed upon the transfer of United States vessels to British registry and that a treaty be concluded containing reciprocal provisions authorizing the right of search beyond the three-mile limit.

Colonel Martin Archer-Shee, Conservative, asked Mr. McNeill to give the House assurance that, under no circumstances would the government agree that British ships could be searched outside the three-mile limit.

The best way to feel at home is to stay there.

Want Ad Tips by John T. Bartlett

YOUR ADVERTISED FARM'S LOCATION.

In cases without number a Want advertiser, by playing up location, has quickly found a buyer for his farm. Of the several important things a prospective buyer of a farm considers, location is always one, and sometimes it is the foremost. This is so because location contributes in many ways to the farmer's prosperity and to the general happiness and welfare of his family.

There are children in many farm families. This means that an important consideration is school. Is your farm near a school? If it is, you should state the fact, and if the school is an unusually good one, say so. On the other hand, the drawback of distance from school is not nearl yso serious as otherwise if the school district provides transportation. "School bus passes gate," will favorably interest parents, just as "Half mile from fine school," will.

Proximity to town is also an important fact, in two respects. First, the farm family is thereby close to church, stores, movies, the town's social life. Second, the farm is likely to be in an unusually good position to make money for the owner. There is the short haul to market—a mighty favorable thing in these high-pressure days when transportation costs of all kinds are high.

Is your farm on a good highway, maybe a paved road? Readers will be interested to learn it, if such is the case.

One Want advertiser led off with, "Future club site or rich man's estate, but today a practical, highly improved farm, at farmer's price." Where location may promise enchantment of value, that is a big to put in the Want Ad.

In short, put into your Want Ad anything respecting the location of your farm which markedly increased value and attractiveness. You know these things thoroughly. It will take few words to state them, with certain increase in the effectiveness of your Want Ad.

MOTORCYCLE INCREASE IN QUEBEC PROVINCE

It has been evident for some years that the motorcycle has been losing ground in the Province of Ontario and in most of the other sections of the country. The annual registrations have steadily decreased. Quebec, however, shows a decided increase this year. Though Quebec's motorcycles are greatly in the minority in comparison with the number in Ontario, the registration figures indicate the growth of that form of vehicle in favor there, while it is little more than holding its own in this Province. It is possible that the economy of operation of this form of machine may yet result in its return to popular favor, though it is certain that it will never be as popular, relatively, as it is in England.

Statistics just released show that Quebec has 1,892 motorcycles in use, as compared with 1,709 one year ago. This is a net gain of 183 motorcycles, but, considering machines replaced, scrapped and transferred, it is believed that about 400 new motorcycles were sold, at least, in Montreal, Three Rivers, Quebec, Hull, Sherbrooke and other centres.

The fact is pointed out that a larger net gain was made in the Province of Quebec than in any other Province in the Dominion during 1922. It is also interesting to note the progress that has been made in nine years. In 1914 there were only 205 motorcycles in use in Quebec. This grew to 296 in 1915, 460 in 1916, 644 in 1917 and 940 in 1918. In 1919 a big jump occurred, when the total registrations reached 1,504. In 1920 it was 1,528, while in 1921 it reached 1,709.

HIGHWAY GREAT AID TO FARMERS AND CITY PEOPLE

But Construction Should Not Be All Charged Against Builders of Roads.

SERVE THE FUTURE.

A few years ago the sight of a man in overalls and a straw hat, hard at work with the hoe, was convincing evidence that he was a farmer. Store clothes bespoke the city dweller.

Times and the road have changed. Highway transport is sending the city man out to the country at the close of his day's work and bringing the farmer and his family into town. The old distinctions are passing and the cartoonist of the future will have to look to a new type for his characters.

Social Influence Recognized

Public recognition of the social influence of highway transport has been perhaps the outstanding development of the past year. The second national conference held by the highway education board served to crystallize opinion which has been growing steadily and many are studying the influence of the motor vehicle on the sociological as well as the economic problems of the day.

It is no longer necessary to talk in general terms. We are beginning to obtain specific evidence of the influence of highway transport upon life in this country. Definite traffic studies show the flow of commodities from farm to market and from market to market.

Surburban Home Developments

Economic studies by the U. S. National automobile chamber of commerce disclose a growing use of the vehicle by the laboring class and a consequent decrease in their overhead costs of living through homes taken farther out in the country.

Intimations of unprecedented suburban developments are seen in the inclination of the man who lives in the city to get out far enough to have a home of his own and a plot of grass for his children.

The construction of highways is of benefit not alone to those of us who are paying the taxes today, but to those who will follow. If we are to have the roads in our lifetime, we must predicate our initial outlay in many instances upon serial bond issues which will give us and our children the road at a reasonable rental for its use.

Property Values Affected

Property values, whether in the city or country, are definitely affected by highway improvement.

The road user should be willing to pay all of the costs of maintaining the highway, not so much as a matter of principle, as because his operating costs will be directly influenced by the quality of the highway on which he is driving, and when all is said and done the motor vehicle fee offers the most direct protection to the investment in the highway, because it is an annual revenue and can be directed against an annual charge.

Maintenance Fund Essential

Any use of motor fees which deflects funds from this fundamental use is vicious and should not be countenanced. It is scarcely overstating the case to say that construction of a road, save in emergency purposes, without an assured maintenance fund is criminal misuse of public funds and should be punished as such.

It is also important that county systems bear some relation to state improvement, as otherwise the less important highway might be improved at the expense of the more important—as stated in terms of traffic, the only fair measure.

The programme is so large and such large funds are at issue that we must weigh all of the factors carefully when planning any construction. Varying conditions and varying stages of development, render impossible any definite, detailed statement of policy applicable to all alike.

But the important thing is that we must not ostrich-like bury ourselves in the detail and so lose sight of the objective. Either the highway makes for social and economic betterment, or it is not worth while. If it stands either test, then it should be financed, constructed, maintained and operated in a manner destined to give the utmost service to the public which sooner or later must pay the bill, as it has to pay the bill for any other transportation service.

DREAM WAS UNLUCKY.

Her Heart Skipped Every Third Beat

Mrs. James Burleigh, 248 King St. E., Chatham Ont., writes:—"I think it my duty to let you know what Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have done for me.

I suffered for years with palpitation of the heart, my nerves were very bad, and I could not be left alone at any time. I doctored for over a year, and the doctor said my heart was very bad as it skipped every third beat.

I gave up, just at this time, and then my mother advised me to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, saying my eldest brother had been relieved by using them when he was very bad with his heart and nerves. I got a box and started to take them, and when I had used it I felt a lot better; could sleep a little and felt stronger. I continued taking them for about three months, and felt better than I had for years.

When I think of the misery and suffering I went through before I started Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, I feel like letting everyone know what they did for me."

MILLING COMPANY MADE BIG PROFITS

J. F. Reid Says Dividend of Over 35 Per Cent. Could Have Been Paid By Ogilvie.

OTTAWA, April 17.—(Canadian Press).—That the Ogilvie Milling Company could have paid its shareholders at the rate of 36.62 per cent. dividend for the past ten-year period after paying the 7 per cent. preferred dividend as well as taxes, was claimed by John F. Reid, of Arcadia, Sask., ex-M.P. for MacKenzie, representing the Canadian Council of Agriculture, resuming his evidence yesterday afternoon before the House Committee on Agricultural Conditions. Mr. Reid said the common stock dividend paid by the Ogilvie Company had ranged from 22 to 27 per cent. since 1917 and that a much higher rate could have been paid had the company wished to distribute all their profits instead of devoting a certain proportion to improvement and other funds.

Flour, said Mr. Reid, cost $7.10 at Montreal, but was sold at $5.79 once it reached the United Kingdom. Bran in Calgary last January sold at $24 in Calgary, and was exported to the United States for $23.90 a ton.

Mr. Reid gave particulars as to the sale of a last season's crop of 1,800 bushels of wheat grown on 100 acres of summer fallow. His conclusion was that if it sold last fall at 85 cents a bushel there would have been a loss of some $500. If held for six months and sold last week after the various charges, including those for the elevator and interest at the bank were paid, the price received would have been $1.15 a bushel, with a net loss on the operation of $168. Mr. Reid thought this was a very good argument for a Wheat Board, since the farmer would be assured of the average price of his grain for the season.

Mr. Reid agreed with the statement of a former witness that it would cost $1.40 to produce a bushel of wheat on the Portage plains.

He pointed to the enormously decreased value of livestock in 1922 as compared with 1918 in Saskatchewan and Alberta. He asserted that in Alberta in 1918 livestock was valued at $125,971,000, and in 1922 at $40,448,000. He held that deflation in price would not account for such a decrease.

In conclusion, said Mr. Reid, was it any wonder that the farmer on the Western plains looked longingly across the American boundary? He didn't know if he wished the boundary to extend further north or not, but was it any wonder, he asked, if he envied the American farmer who paid so much less for what he bought and received a better price for what he sold. Something must be done in the West, and done quickly.

Chairman McMaster said he had recently read an article painting an equally doleful picture of the condition of the farmers in the United States.

Speaking of his own experiences, Mr. Reid admitted he had two sovereigns only in his pocket when he arrived in the West, and to-day his family owned 1,100 acres of land.

He valued this land at $20 an acre in making an estimate of the cost of production.

RUCKSTEEL 2 SPEED AXLE

In those parts of Canada where poor road conditions have hampered the use of motor trucks, a new development of the Ford truck called the "Rucksteel 2 speed axle" is making available this economical method of transportation. This device adds two more speeds to the standard Ford low and high gears, an emergency low which enables full engine power to be applied at the rear wheels with 50% less car speed, and an intermediate high, half way between the Ford low and high gears.

The Rucksteel 2 speed axle is especially useful in hilly districts. All parts working in oil, the intermediate gear permits noiseless climbing of long grades without undue wear. The added flexibility in heavy traffic is a decided advantage to truck owners, so much of this work being done in congested factory, wholesale and retail districts.

A striking illustration of the hill climbing ability of the Ford car equipped with the Ruckstell axle was afforded by a test climb of Mount Wilson, California, in 38 minutes, the fastest official trip ever made by any stock car. The trip was made under observation of local automobile experts and newspaper men.

The car was locked in the Ruckstell high gear and sealed before the start.

A Ford car equipped with a Ruckstell axle has four forward speeds, sufficient to cope with any possible conditions of load, traffic or grades, and is the only light car so equipped. Some of the highest priced American and European automobiles have four speeds forward, but no low or medium priced car offers such an advantage.

Use of the Ruckstell gear shift eliminates the necessity of constant holding down of the foot pedal in low or reverse, making the driver's job that much easier. In these days of increasing traffic congestion with consequent nervous strain on truck or car drivers, anything that tends to make operation easier is a desirable feature.

Distribution and installation of the Rucksteel 2 speed axle, which by the way adds only 17 pounds to the weight, has been arranged through authorized Ford dealers throughout the United States. Distribution arrangements in Canada are now being completed, and in a short time this unit will be available throughout the Dominion. It is expected that it will be as quickly adopted in Canada, or even more quickly due to the greater necessity of adequately coping with unimproved road conditions, than it has in the United States.

A MINIATURE FOUR-CYLINDER ENGINE IS BEING DEVELOPED BY EUROPE'S MANUFACTURERS

Extremely Small Engine is Being Used, for Which the Claim is Made That It is as Efficient as Some Larger Types.

A NATURAL MOVE.

In England, increasing attention is being paid to the design and construction of small, four-cylinder, water-cooled engines, having cubic capacities of less than 100 inches—actually only slightly more than half the cubic capacity of the average four-cylinder engine built or marketed in Canada. A recent summarization of really light cars with engines of this type revealed the fact that in the two European countries having the largest production of motor vehicles (England and France) ten light cars were actually being manufactured with engines rating from as low as 6.8 horsepower to 9 horsepower. The conditions under which the industries of these countries flourish are greatly different to those which foster and direct the growth and nature of the cars on this side of the Atlantic, and the much greater interest taken in the possibilities of well-designed small engines, both from the points of view of economy and service, have resulted in years of experimentation in that line. Two-cylinder, opposed, air-cooled types have been used to a great extent there. Here they are never used. The building of light fours is no doubt the natural development of the idea.

It is partly owing to the nature of taxation on motor vehicles and partly to a desire to market a small car which can be run at very little expense, that the light engines have been developed. These engines have, as it were, on probation, because motorists appear to be divided into two camps—he ever growing number who claim that the small four-cylinder engine is quite a successful proposition; and a second section, generally without experience of the type, who maintain that so small an engine cannot "stay put" since it is working, most of the time, at its full load.

Historical Arguments

The Autocar, discussing the trend, says: "Exactly the same arguments have occurred, time after time, in the history of motoring, and there will be many drivers who will remember that the advent of the four-cylinder engine of about 12 horsepower was opposed on the ground that so many cylinders made more complication and so much horsepower would be difficult to deal with. A year or two later cars of 60 horsepower were on the road, and six-cylinder engines even had been made. Progressing still further forward, the advent of the 120 cubic inch engine met with considerable criticism on the ground that such an engine would not be reliable for exactly the same reasons that now are urged against the still smaller unit.

"The history of motoring has in every case proved that the criticism was unwarranted, but that there was something to be said on each of the heads of the argument. Naturally, there must be a limit, for cylinders with a ridiculously small bore might give great power, but the difficulty of manufacturing the parts satisfactorily, or of keeping the engine in tune, would be obvious. The question is to determine exactly where is the line dividing the possible from the impossible—the point at which an engine becomes so small as to be troublesome for this reason only.

"This year should go a long way to prove the ability of the engine of 90 cubic inches or less, more especially as, little by little, the size of racing engines is decreasing, though the power is relatively increasing.

Small Engine Argument

"It is generally believed that the problem is greatly affected by taxation, though it is probable that taxation has not as much to do with the size of engine, beyond certain limits, as is imagined. The smaller engine is a much more manageable proposition for the motorist who looks after his own car, and, even if a paid driver is considered necessary, the amount of time and money spent in dismantling, adjusting, or repairing these engines is generally less than with a large one. Decarbonization and its difficulties have been met principally by the introduction of detachable heads, while experience with racing engines tends to produce reliability even in small mechanism."

It is difficult for the Canadian motorist, accustomed to engine blocks of minimum size dictated by the cubic inch displacement minimum, to picture one of these small motors. Imagine a complete engine measuring from ten to twelve inches over all and a fair picture is obtained. What is more, every variation in design adopted by the larger engines, has been adapted by the developers of these small motors. Of the ten types so far manufactured some follow the valve in head principle; one, at least, carried it to the point of using an overhead camshaft, while others have the more usual side arrangement of the valves. A curious feature about them is that standard size spark plugs are used because of the difficulty of building an efficiently insulated plug of smaller dimensions. These, instead of forming insignificant adjuncts from the point of view of appearance, stick out almost ludicrously, their comparatively great size being in marked contrast to the very small engine blocks.

USE A PARKING LIGHT AT NIGHT FOR SAFETY

A parking light with a c. p. bulb will comply with the requirements of the police, says the Sunday World, and not use more electricity if left on all night than a single engine start when the engine is cold. The parking light mounted on top of the left rear fender shows a light fore and aft, thus complying with the intent of the law. Those who park their cars on a public street at night with all lights out merely get what is coming to them when summoned to the police court. True, a few of our streets are sufficiently well illuminated to make a car visible at all times—except when the power goes off, as it does occasionally. Then the unilluminated car becomes a very real menace, as it does also when parked between other cars on indifferently illuminated streets—and but short stretches of a few main thoroughfares "downtown" are well illuminated—and the car in front or behind or both of them are driven away. Use a parking light when parked at night on a public street or highway anywhere.

DOLLAR-A-GALLON GASOLINE

American senate committee investigating oil prices finds that if "a few great companies are permitted to manipulate prices for the next few years as they have done since 1920, the people of the country must be prepared to pay at least $1 a gallon for gasoline."

In queer contrast to this report is the published statement of Henry Ford that he is optimistic because his company has had orders for 206,000 Ford cars for March while they can only manufacture 156,000.

That means money for Ford. His theory of profits is to set his price below the apparent cost price of say 100,000 cars. Then when this attractive figure runs the sales up to 200,000 instead of 100,000, he takes his profit from the difference in the cost of manufacturing 100,000 cars and the much lower cost of making 200,000 cars.

But if gasoline goes to $1 a gallon, Ford sales will drop no matter how much the price of the car is reduced. The natural assumption is that Ford and other big auto manufacturers will do their level best to see that gasoline does not go to $1.

A war between Henry Ford and the Standard Oil would be at least interesting and probably instructive.

With oil coming more and more into use as a propulsive force on land and sea some system of dealing with the public, like Henry Ford's system would provide cheaper transportation and therefore more prosperity to this continent and incidentally more profits to oil companies themselves than have been enjoyed for some time.

If the senate committee's gloomy forecast should come true, put your money on Henry Ford. And if Ford should succeed in introducing his system of sales into the oil industry, buy all the oil stock you can get your hands on.

CAR VALUE GREATEST IN THE HISTORY OF THE INDUSTRY

Despite Production that Eclipses the Peak of the Past, Spring Demand Will Exceed It.

Than car value no feature of the new season models displayed in the dealers "showroom show" is at once as salient and amazing. To those who are not familiar with the phenomenal development and expansion of the automotive industry it must seem little short of miraculous. Indeed, as mundane things go, it, with its cause, approximates the miraculous more closely, possibly, than anything else in the industrial scheme of things, past or present.

The evolution of the automotive industry out-romances an Alladdin's Lamp dream. In less than two decades it has grown from a babe in swaddling clothes—a far from robust infant—into the giant of the manufacturing world. Last year it caught up to and passed the steel industry and is now undisputed leader of 'em all. In black and white it seems simple as "rolling off a log" and yet you will scratch your head and flagellate your brains in vain to duplicate that simple statement of fact without tampering with veracity. The feat was a prodigious one without precedent or parallel. Only once in a while do even those who have helped to bring it about glimpse in part its immensity or see in perspective the titanic transition it has caused, by itself and more especially through its products, in the very warp and woof of our civilization.

"Time," some epigrammatist has said, "is life." So much time saved, then, is so much life saved—and what time and labor-saving device, by and large, is comparable with the motor vehicle? Kipling pungently condensed one of Macaulay's grandiloquent truisms when he declared "Transportation is Civilization." The motor vehicles of Canada today transport several times the number of people carried on all the steam and electric railroads of the Dominion combined. Their passenger mileage is much greater. The motor vehicles in the metropolitan district of Toronto alone do a total annual passenger mileage of one billion three hundred million miles! Visualize that and all it implies and you will glimpse as fraction, a very minute fraction, of the transition. Because the figures are so staggering that they undoubtedly will be challenged by the mind of almost every reader perhaps it would be well here to state that they are based on the Government's figures in so far as motor vehicles are concerned—65,000 in the metropolitan district of Toronto (more, by the way, than in any province in the Dominion, excepting, of course, Ontario, which, with approximately a quarter of a million motor vehicles, has roughly as many as all the other provinces combined) multiplied by an average annual mileage of 3,000 and an average passenger capacity of four.

Supreme Value

But this is digressive; to revert to the theme of car value, consider that there is more machine work on a motor car than on a railroad locomotive; contrast the cost of the cheaper cars with phonographs, pianos, furniture—what you will; examine the work and material on them and in them. The word contrast is used advisedly, for car value is incomparably greater than the value in any other manufactured article that the writer can call to mind. It has been made possible by mammoth production. Last year a little over two and a half million motor vehicles were manufactured on this continent. That was nearly a quarter of a million more than in the former peak year, 1920. And yet many manufacturers were considerably behind orders at the close of last year. Many new plants and plant extensions have been and are being constructed. The output schedule for the continent this year is four million motor vehicles—a million and a half more than last year. It would be superfluous to here discuss what economics in overhead and material costs per unit result from such an enormous output, as the reader is familiar with them generally, if not specifically. Suffice it to say that the car makers, to regain the market a year ago, cut prices below costs. Their specific, coupled with the general business trend, had the desired effect. Demand outreached their most roseate predictions and made possible further reductions which in turn—and there you have the circle that was and is anything but vicious in effect—that equated values that alone are greater than in pre-war days. Farm produce is often cited as being lower in price proportionately than manufactured articles. If this is so generally then motor cars are a very great exception to the rule.

Prices Increases Coming

To help "start the business ball rolling" the automobile material and parts makers cut prices to cost or below. As no business organization can long carry on on this basis practically all have advanced prices and already these advances have been reflected in several makes of cars. Those who predicted the advance in the price of tires that became effective a month or so ago are equally emphatic in predicting a general upward revision in the price of cars. The mortality rate among motor car manufacturers was high last year. Several companies are in the hands of receivers, and others, though doing a record business, variously did it at a loss, at cost, or a small profit. Few showed a good profit. Needless to say this condition of affairs cannot continue indefinitely. The prediction of upward revisions in prices will be redeemed in fact, it seems likely, unless a war breaks out between the big interests. That, in the face of the present record-breaking demand and a potential car shortage, appears to be too remote a possibility to be seriously considered at this time.

Anyway the cars in the "dealers' showroom show" are well worth seeing. As the saying goes—"Let's go!"

REPAIRLESS MOTORDOM.

A. P. Brush, one of the foremost designing engineers associated with the automotive industry, recently made the statement that the money paid out in one year by the motorists of this continent for repairs, supplies and service, excluding tires, gasoline and oil, amounted to 70 per cent. of the annual expenditure on new cars. His figures were based on known costs gathered from data covering the United States, but it is reasonably safe to presume that the approximation is equally applicable to Canada. He followed the statement of fact with the declaration that it would be an unprogressive engineering mind that would conclude that no design changes could be made in chassis construction that would reduce this heavy maintenance cost.

Though the major principles of automobile practice have been established on a practically standardized basis, it is admitted that there is room for improvement. Recently Motor gathered together the opinions of a number of engineers connected with the automotive industry's various branches, and the consensus was that there were many tendencies in design that pointed the way to future betterment, mechanically, of automobiles.

Reduce Service Costs

Future changes in design will probably be aimed at in the problem of reducing service costs and ensuring greater longevity. It has been cynically hinted that it would be more to the manufacturers' interests to disregard the latter feature, but such insinuations are based only on superficial consideration of the subject. Lower service costs and longer life logically mean a wider market for cars. Hence the developments may be expected to lead in the direction of better automobiles.

"It is a fact that practically every automobile manufacturer has tightened up on the tolerances of his manufacture and the all-round quality of his product," writes W. D. Appel, designing engineer. "As to detail changes which might be required to bring about lower maintenance cost, I believe that the improvement of the quality of the car has done a great deal to obtain this end." A. P. Brush states practically the same thing. "I personally," he says, "have come to divide all motorcar progress into two classes: (a) Giving the ultimate user more of what he does not want and (b) giving the ultimate user less of what he does not want. It is my belief that the motor car industry has reached a point in development where the "b" class of progress is, and will continue to be, of major importance.

A "Repairless" Ideal

A "repairless" motordom would be the Utopia of the motorist. Probably that condition will never be reached, but it is certain that future changes of design and improvements in details of construction will bring about a condition of even greater sturdiness than is possessed by the car of today. In another story of this issue reference has been made to the trends which have been reflected in the designs brought out in recent months. All of these, it will be noticed, have been made to improve the serviceability and comfort. Incidentally they tend to increase car life, which today is lamentably short. As an aside at this point it may be remarked that the average estimated life of an automobile is from five to six seasons. If, for the sake of argument, it is assumed that the average car travels 10,000 miles per annum, the estimated life would not be much greater than from 50,000 to 60,000 miles. In the light of present-day knowledge of construction such a limit can scarcely be regarded as a desirable one.

It is generally admitted that the earlier days of car design and quantity production resulted in greater attention being paid to giving better initial finishes to cars. The factor of long service was either disregarded or made a bad second in consideration. That phase, it is considered, has reached its end, and the present tendency is toward longevity. One of the suggestions that have been made is that thorough and comprehensive service audits should be obtained to guide the designer in his work. A lamentably weak part of many cars of a few years ago was the transmission and rear axle. Designers appreciated the fact and attacked the problem, with the result that many modern axles are capable of outwearing every other part of a chassis. If every factor contributing to the enormous repair bills today were known and assimilated, it is reasonable to suppose that the weakness could be more easily ferreted out and remedied. That, at least, is the basic reason of the suggestion.

One Source of Loss

An instance of designing weakness is pointed out by Mr. Brush. "It is my opinion," he writes, "that the average passenger automobile uses considerably over a gallon of lubricating oil for every 500 miles. I know some users are advised to make winter-time changes of lubricant every 300 or 500 miles of driving and I know the oil tanks of these engines normally carries from one to two gallons of oil. I know also that it is possible to construct motors which will give upward of 1,000 m.p.g. I am confident that the user can be saved millions yearly in oil alone." In addition, he points out, there are the factors of needless carbon cleaning, valve grinding, spark plug cleaning and replacement that total up tremendous annual bills and which are due to the inefficient use of lubricant.

Gas and oil are not very big factors in cost of operation when tires, repairs and depreciation are taken into consideration, but it is estimated that a material saving could and probably will be effected in these items. In England and other European countries other factors, chiefly heavy taxation on the basis of horsepower, have resulted in the development of extremely light engines, some of them having a cubic piston displacement of less than 100 inches. This year's Indianapolis race is to be run by cars powered by two-litre engines (120 cubic inches), and it is expected that the injection engines will show almost as great a speed and just as great stamina as their heavier forebears. These facts all indicate the possibilities of light, small-bore engines capable of giving greater mileage per gallon. Some of the very light English machines, though incapable of carrying heavy touring bodies, effectively carry light two-seaters for m per gallon of upward of 50.

Improve Accessibility

Another matter which future developments will improve is that of accessibility. Accessibility has been an aim of builders for some years, but the ideal is far from being attained in the average cars. There are still some cars with engines that cannot be removed until half of the chassis and body units have been disturbed. Extremely accessible clutch parts are not frequently found, and to remove the transmission from quite a number of present day chassis calls for the prior removal of other units which, with a variation in design, could be left in place. It is regarded as perfectly possible to design a strong and serviceable chassis from which every unit can be removed without disturbing other units, and this solely through the removing of a few bolts, while improved accessibility of points requiring more frequent adjustment can be obtained with design variation.

Such matters as carburetion, valve and manifold design, lubrication and braking are all open to improvement. In any case it is certain that as the years roll by new ideas will be incorporated which will promote longer life and user service more free from trouble.

DRAMATIC POINTS IN AUTO'S CAREER

Present Position Due to Contribution of Car to World Standards.

The automobile industry has no parallel in business annals. No other industry hash ad such a dramatic career—none has grown so great in such a short span of years. The explanation is simple enough. It is to be found in the automobile itself—in the contribution which the motor car has brought to the world in improved standards of living, increased happiness and health, greater personal and business efficiency.

The automobile industry has leaped to the fore and assumed its present commanding proportions, and the industry will keep on growing, because there is no substitute for the automobile as a means of individual transportation.

One cannot discuss the automobile and the automobile industry without becoming reminiscent. It seems but a few short years ago that the first horseless carriages were in our midst—crude, erratic and generally unreliable vehicles that enlisted laughter for themselves and ridicule for their creators. These vehicles lacked everything the present-day motor car has—beauty, quietness ,comfort, speed, flexibility, power and dependability—but they would travel, and that was sufficient consolation for their inventors.

Growth is Tremendous

A little over 25 years ago there were but two automobiles in the country, and one of them was a curiosity in a circus sideshow. Today there are over 12,000,000 motor vehicles in Canada and the United States. When one compares the first horseless carriages with the marvelous mechanism known as the motor car of today, or the mobile "industry" of that day with the automobile industry of today the contrast is striking, but even more amazing is the fact that so great a transformation could have been wrought in a little over two decades.

From virtually nothing 25 years ago the automotive industry has become the second largest industry in the world. The motor car industry, furthermore, has had a powerful and stimulating effect upon the steel, copper, aluminum, leather, petroleum, rubber and wood industries and has been practically the making of others. With such close coordination and inter-relation with so many industries, we can easily appreciate why the motor car industry has assumed so important a place commercially.

A Good Habit

Owning an automobile is second nature with the people today. It is a habit, and a good one. The benefits which the automobile has brought to the world are incalculable. The motor car, a creation of men with vision, increases the vision of everybody owning one. No single article or product has been instrumental in doing so much or anywhere near so much in aiding the good roads movement and forever banishing the isolation of farm life. The automobile has annihilated distance, bringing the farmer to the city and taking the city man out into the country.

The automobile has been the greatest quickener of business the world has ever known. Business and professional men cover ground more quickly with the motor car, widen their radius of activity and make themselves more valuable alike to themselves and their communities. And, it may be added, the industry itself, by reason of its progressiveness along lines of design, production and manufacturing efficiencies, has set the pace for other industries in which manufacturing operations play a part.

Nations and individuals are incomparably better off because of the motor car and the industry which produces it—that's why practically everybody either owns an automobile or hopes and expects some day to own one.

MYSTERIOUS BLACK BOX IS STORAGE BATTERY TO MANY

Battery Explained for the Benefit of the Uninitiated—How Capacity is Governed.

Battery manufacturers spend thousands of dollars yearly for upkeeP literature and offer it to car owners free, but many people ask the same questions to-day that were asked 10 years ago, when the starting motor and battery were in their infancy.

Through his ignorance of the principle of operation the average car owner does things unconsciously every day that are hastening the death of his storage battery. A storage battery is constructed to live a certain life on a car and the length of it depends entirely upon the conditions under which it operates and the care given to it.

Irrespective of what some enterprising salesman may have told you, or the make of your particular battery, the chemical changes taking place in all storage batteries are the same, and the same rules for care apply to all wet batteries.

Can you conceive of a wooden water tank with a column of figures painted on the outside as follows: 1.100, 1.125, 1.152, 1.175, 1.200, 1.225, 1.250, 1.275, 1.300, the lowest number being at the bottom? This tank has three or four small outlets valves, one very large outlet valve near the floor, and one medium size intake valve at the top.

The manufacturer of the tank advises you that its efficiency is greatest when the water level is between 1.275 and 1.300, because it has more combined pressure and volume at the outlet valves. He also advises that it is injurious to it to permit the source of supply to replace the water faster than the outlet valves take it from the tank, and it is likewise injurious to permit the water level to get below 1.250.

It being impossible for the manufacturer to determine exact y how much water will be used every day, he equips it with a gauge at the intake valve, which allows, say, 10 cubic feet per second to flow into it: this represents the nearest correct figure, considering the possible danger of overfeeding and the owner's daily use of the water.

So, if this tank happened to be essential to the convenient operation of an automobile, and if it cost the car owner the price of two, three or four tires, he certainly should preserve it.

A starting battery is analogous to this tank. A pump feeding this tank is comparable, in principle, to the generator on an automobile, and the inlet valve represents the lead-in terminal of the generator. The small outlet valves represent the feed wires from battery to lights, horn, ignition, heater, or other electrical equipment that draws current from the battery. The large outlet valve represents the feed wire to your starting motor.

Opening the large valve once will draw more water from the tank than all the small valves combined. By the same token one start of your car will draw more energy from your battery than lights, horn and ignition, in the same length of time.

It is therefore apparent that the more the battery is discharged the more current it is necessary for your generator to supply and boost the charge back to normal. It is equally important that the battery be discharged a little, if the generator is supplying the current faster than it is used. Burning the lights during the day will take care of some of this overcharge.

In the first part of this article it was mentioned that permitting the water level to get below 1.250 would injure the tank. For the sake of a simple comparison let us say the lack of water at the top would shrink the wooden staves, causing the tank to leak. It follows that it would be impossible to get the water back to the proper level until the staves swelled again, which is a slow process.

Allowing a battery to remain below 1.250 will cause the plates to sulphate and the only way to remove this sulphation is to have the battery recharged by some reliable dealer. In other words, he must "feed it" slowly, and the rapidity is governed only by the state of the previous discharge. If the battery is in a severely discharged condition it is often impossible to get it to take a charge. At this point it is also well to mention the danger of permitting the electrolyte to get below the top of the plates, a condition caused by the water in the electrolyte evaporating.

Chemical action will take place only on that part of the plates submerged in the solution, and the danger of letting it go too long without water lies in the fact that it reduces the capabity necessary for a quick start, overtaxing the working part of the plates. Another danger can be realized in that the charge from the generator is figured as normal for all of the plates and is bound to be too high a rate for only that part of the plates submerged in the solution. Plates also sulphate more quickly when exposed to the air than when submerged.

Solution lost by evaporation is replaced by distilled water, because it is only the water that evaporates. Distilled water is always recommended because it minimizes the danger of iron or other minerals found in ordinary water lodging between the positive and negative plates or being absorbed by the separators and causing an internal short-circuit.

When sulphuric acid comes in contact with metal it forms sulphate. A sulphated (corroded) terminal may sometimes cause you much inconvenience if not prevented, as this sulphate is a non-conductor, as was pointed out before. Vaseline or cup grease applied to the corrosive parts of your battery will keep the acid off and prevent sulphation.

Here are a few things it is well to remember:

There are, approximately, two volts to a cell, regardless of its size; the number of cells multiplied by two will give you the total voltage of your battery.

The capacity of a battery is governed by the total plate area, not by the number of cells.

Positive plates, on discharge, change chemically from peroxide of lead to lead sulphate. Negative plates, on discharge, change chemically from pure sponge lead to lead sulphate.

The electrolyte changes, on discharge, from sulphuric acid of 1.275 to 1.300 S.G. (specific gravity) to a lower S.G. or closer to water.

The acid goes into the plates on discharge and returns to the solution on charge. The figures 1.275 or 1.300 means that the solution is 1.275 or 1.3 heavier than water.

SO ILL HE COULD NOT LEAVE HOUSE

Mrs. W. Arnold, of Mt. Hamilton, Ont., tells of the wonderful results obtained through two bottles of Dreco—Her Husband had been ill for years.

Stomach trouble, indigestion, gastritis and the resulting constipation and sluggish liver, persisting throughout several years had brought W. Arnold, of 68 East 33rd Street, Mt. Hamilton, Ont., to such a condition that he had not been able to leave the house for some time. He had dizzy spells and all those other warning symptons and they responded to no treatment administered.

"We had almost given up hope of finding anything to restore his health," says his wife, "and then came Dreco. Two bottles and he is like a new man." Mr. and Mrs. Arnold are enthusiastic over the results, but theirs is the same story that is told by every user of Dreco.

"We think Dreco a wonderful preparation," says Mrs. Arnold. It can't be beaten. My husband has been sick for several years and hadn't been able to leave the house for a long time until he started taking Dreco. His trouble was stomach and liver complaint. Everything he ate would sour and cause indigestion, gas and heartburn. He had dizzy spells and spots floated before his eyes. He always had to take medicine to keep his bowels open. His nerves were in bad shape and his system was weak and run down. We heard about Dreco and decided to try it. After two bottles he is much stronger and goes for daily walks. We are pleased to recommend this wonderful medicine."

There are many men well on the road to such a condition as Mr. Arnold found himself in—fast approaching the day when ill-health will confine them of their power to earn a living for themselves and their families. Dreco will prevent this condition. Dreco tones up the system and helps the organs, the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels to function correctly. Try Dreco today.

Dreco is being specially introduced in Peterboro by Bond's Drug Store, and is sold by a good druggist everywhere.

Give Valera Chance To Save His Face

LONDON, April 17. — (Canadian Press).—Improved prospects of an early peace in Ireland as the result of utter disorganization of the Republican movement through recent Government successes are leading many people throughout the country to question the wisdom of pressing the fight to a finish, says a Dublin despatch to the Times.

The Free State has some twelve or fifteen thousand prisoners in its jails, the correspondent writes, and the problem of their future is becoming acute. If the Government insists upon a Carthaginian peace, these men will come out of prison cowed for the moment but sullen and resentful at what they consider a peace of vengeance. "There is a growing feeling that De Valera should, if possible, be given a chance to save his face."

WHERE WE GET OUR AUTOMOBILE NAMES

Limousine Takes Its Name From a Peasant's Headdress.

It is hard to realize that the name "limousine" comes from the head covering of a French peasant woman, yet this is the case.

It appears that the limousine was the headdress of the women folk of the region about Limoges, France, which was the capital of the old Province of Limousine. The peasant women wore a sort of coif, or hood, with a cape attached. This became known as a limousine, because the women themselves were called limousines, and when the French brought out a sort of campaign wagon for their armies, much like the prairie schooners, this was named a limousine because, like the women of Limousine, it was covered with a hood.

When the French began to build automobiles covered with a hood they were quikly named "limousines" after the peasant woman's coif.

Other names in the vocabulary o an automobile have equally interesting antecedents. Sedan is named after the village in northeast France of the same name where occurred the Napoleonic debacle in 1870.

The factories in this town were famous for the chairs they turned out. The chairs of those days were the ancestor of the modern taxicab. Chairs were necessary because in the ancient parts of London and Paris the streets were narrow and the twistings and turnings many. A horse and carriage simply could not get through. Instead of calling a taxi, you called a chair, which, with its helpers, soon came along, and you were quickly whisked away to wherever you wanted to go.

The chairs built at Sedan were so luxurious and comfortable that they became the favorites of royalty, and soon the name "sedan" was used to denote all high-class chairs.

More than 60 types of passenger automobiles manufactured in the United States have four-cylinder engines.

Three automobiles are all there are in Monravia.

California, Oregon and Washington have one motor car to every nine inhabitants.

There are more than 20,000 motor buses in the United States.

MOTOR CONVOY TO MAKE TOUR FRANCE

Canadian Goods Are To Be Exhibited in Automobiles.

Some sunny day this summer you may picture in Marseilles, in Lyons or Lille, a little street of Canadian shops and display windows full of Canadian products of almost every conceivable type. This little street will be located by the Grande place or close to the Hotel de Ville, or in some shaded public grounds with, perhaps, the graceful outline of one of France's historic statutes in the background. This little picture will be duplicated in a list of at least thirty towns throughout the length andbreadth of France during the period from June 15 until well on in the autumn.

It will be remembered that last year France sent an exhibition train through Canada in which was displayed many of her products. It is now Canada's turn to reciprocate. The French government has decided, however, that France's railway stations are too gloomy to be used for this purpose; consequently, it has been decided that the traveling exhibit of Canadian products shall be housed in a motor convoy of thirty motor trucks with of course additional motor vehicles to contain the necessary moving picture apparatus, extra supplies, advertising literature and personal effects of those who accompany the demonstration. The exhibition trucks, it is proposed, will be drawn up in two lines in the most attractive spot in each city on the itinerary. These trucks will have three sides solid. The fourth, however, will open up. One leaf will project outward from the roof, the other will drop down so as to cover the wheels; the extended portions of these sides are to be covered over with velum and extended from truck to truck, so that the whole arrangement will give the appearance of a model street. In the exhibition trucks will be large showcases with plate-glass windows behind which most attractively displayed, will be the products of Canada's farms, forests, fisheries, mines and factories.

Tour Ends at Paris

This Canadian traveling exhibit will complete its tour in Paris, where it will be housed in, or alongside of L'Orangerie by the Place De La Concorde. Here it is proposed that a two months' stand shall be made and plans of considerable magnitude are in course of preparation to make this demonstration one of the strongest and most spectacular propagandist movements that Canada has ever attempted in a foreign land. It is proposed that a large and beautiful diorama be erected in this building capable of giving at one glance a bird's-eye view of a zone carved out from the very soil of the Dominion, from ocean to ocean. The effect produced should be striking and lasting, and will be doubtless in true consonance with the impression created in Canada upon incoming strangers.

Investment in the automobile industry in 1899 amounted to nearly $6,000,000.

DEVELOP SEMI-DIESELS FOR AUTOMOBILE WORK

Will the Diesel engine finally be adapted to replace the spark ignition engine now used to propel automobiles?

This question, recurrent almost annually since the invention of the automobile, faces its last repetition with the announcement from Paris of the invention of a semi-Diesel type of engine for motor cars.

At the very beginning of the automobile industry, use of a Diesel engine was attempted on automobiles. But, although used for stationary purposes and in submarines, the engine would not work so well in a moving, vibrating machine.

The engine, with spark ignition, that has replaced the Diesel, however, uses up costly gasoline, while the air-compression engine feeds on a cheap, low grade of oil. A combination of the good in both of these engines, therefore, would make an ideal power plant for automobiles.

This ideal—or the nearest to it—French automotive engineers believe is finally attained in the semi-Diesel automobile engine tested recently on a trip between Paris and Bordeaux. The engine, according to reports, burns low-grade oil, which costs 12 cents a gallon in France, as compared with 36 cents for gasoline. At the same time it retains the advantages of the spark-ignition engine now in use.

Besides, its inventors say, the semi-Diesel costs less for upkeep and is simpler and therefore cheaper to make than the present type. Experiments are still going on, with the idea of installing the engine on Paris busses.

LEAN MIXTURE DANGER CAUSE

Watch for Popping in Carburetor and Save Trouble.

The most frequent cause of fire in an automobile is a lean mixture. This means more air in the mixture than usual. The carburetor gets out of adjustment in some way and the mischief is done. A lean mixture is slow burning. It burns all during the power stroke, all during the exhaust stroke, and if is still burning when the inlet valve opens, admitting the fresh mixture. This takes flame and the flame runs back to the carburetor.

If there is any gasoline dripping from the carburetor a heavy vapor is formed, extending under the engine, where it is held by the mud pan. The flame spreads under the engine and soon reaches the tank, melting the connections and releasing a flood of gasoline.

Lean mixture may be due to derangement of the carburetor or a leaky inlet manifold. Spray nozzle too far closed, auxiliary air valve spring too weak or valve stuck open, or clogged fuel line are a few carburetor derangement causes. A leaky manifold may be detected by running the engine and injecting oil around the joints. Oil will be sucked in at the leak, where the bolts must be tightened or a new gasket installed in place of the leaky one.

We now come to troubles of the inlet valve, which indeed are very rare. The valve lifter may be out of adjustment, leaving no clearance, or actually pushing the valve off its seat. If there is little or no clearance the valve will hold compression when the engine is cold, but will leak when engine warms up, due to lengthening of valve stem, and of course popping in the carburetor occurs immediately.

Set the clearance at about two thicknesses of newspaper. Occasionally this valve may become stuck so that it cannot close. This may be seen from the outside as there will be an unusually large space between the valve stem and lifter.

Electrical troubles now engage our attention. With a single coil and distributor system, such as used on the majority of cars, there would be some distributor trouble or a short-circuit of the distributor wires.

See that all wires are properly insulated and wipe all dust from distributor head. If you know how to open the distributor you should wipe out the inside occasionally, using a cloth dipped in gasoline. This will remove all accumulations of dust, which will cause short-circuit if allowed to remain.

On a Ford car we find the trouble caused by short-circuits on the timer wires. These chafe against each other and sometimes against the sides of the engine, wearing away the insulation and so causing trouble.

Close switch using a battery, or run engine on magneto, and advance and retard the spark, watching the commutator and wires. If sparks are seen a short circuit is indicated, which may easily be stopped with tire tape.

Fortunately cars do not burn frequently now as they used to, probably because the flame is led away from the carburetor by the hot air pipe leading from the hot air stove on the exhaust manifold.

But don't think your car is safe on that account. So watch out for popping in the carburetor and determine its cause immediately. Here, as elsewhere, "eternal vigilance is the price of safety."

PREMIER DRURY EXPLAINS SPEECH

Says His Address at Milton Was Generally Misunderstood.

TORONTO, April 17.—(Canadian Press.)—Claiming a misunderstanding of his Milton speech, Premier Drury early this afternoon issued a statement as to what he would do in certain circumstances after election.

"If after the election I find myself in command of a clear majority of the House, I will of course, continue to carry on government," he said. "If I find that either of the other parties has a clear majority of the House, I will at once advise His Honor to call on a leader of that party to form a government. If on the other hand I find myself leader of a party, which, while in the minority, is stil lthe largest party in the House, I will carry on government, relying on and accepting such support as the merits of my record and policies may bring me."

GOOD PROGRAM

Courtesy Day.

The subjects of the courtesy day addresses and a summary of the remarks of the various speakers follow:

The most courteous person I know, by Ald. J. W. Meyers. "In my travels extending over many years from one end of the country to the other I have come to the conclusion that I do not have to go outside of Peterborough to find the most courteous person I have ever met. I refer to City Clerk S. R. Armstrong. Mr. Armstrong also possesses a thorough and valuable insight into civic affairs."

Courtesy at the table, by Kiwanian J. Johns. In reply to this Mr. Johns recited a poem entitled "A bunch of keys"; each key being designated as a "thank you" key, an "excuse me" key and other expressions of courtesy.

Does courtesy promote good health, by Dr. Gray Macdougall. It has long been regarded that mental and emotional qualities have much to do with the physical being. Laugh and grow fat is an old saying and a true one. A genial, cheery man has a much better chance of good health than a cantankerous disposition. If we are courteous we must also be cheery and happy.

Courtesy in the home, by Alec Dick. "You cannot separate courtesy in the home frmo your own evesy in the home from your own evin the home means an appreciation of your wife and family and their daily tasks. We might readily and effectively transcribe the word courtesy into duty."

How courtesy buildings employees morale, by Charlie Cook. "As business men we all realize what morale means to employees. There is no longer such a thing as a one-man business. Successful business today depends largely upon the morale of the employee. You can buy business efficiency and brains but you cannot buy morale. One of the best means of building up the morale of a business is by courtesy and kindness. Courtesy is something that make the men take off their coats and forget the time clock. If we have that morale in our organization you have something money cannot buy."

Courtesy in retail business, by Carl Webber. "Courtesy in retail business is an absolute necessity. The contagion of courtesy may surprise you. Let us try it out."

What courtesy will do to quieten kickers, by Jack Marshall. "You cannot handle kickers by retaliation. You must pour oil on the troubled waters and the kick will soon lose its power .Life is sweetened because of the friends you make. The joy of the world when you sum it all up is found in the making of friends."

Does the Kiwanis Club build on Courtesy, by Hugh Nevin. "In building and living up to the Club motto, "We Build," no element is so much required as courtesy."

What is courtesy, by Rotarian J. M. McHardly. "Telephone courtesy has real commercial value. It is the lubricting oil of business machinery. It pays. It wins friends for you. Every time you answer a telephone call, or start one during business hours, you become the sole representative of your company to the person at the other end of the wire. What you say and how you say it makes all the difference in the world in the impression you make upon the person with whom you talk. He forms his opinion of you and your business organization from your telephone courtesy or lack of it.

Courtesy is the golden rule in practice. Habits are being formed every day. There are good habits and bad habits. Courtesy is one oi the best habits. It costs you nothing but it pays unlimited dividends. It is not new. Practised daily it will very quickly become second nature and require no effort, and then we can say with Emerson: "Life is not so short but that there is always time for courtesy."

In conclusion, Kiwanian Sam Weaver of the West Toronto Club, said that the Queen City Kiwanians are sponsoring a "more courtesy" campaign. He recommended courtesy in the relations between parents and the children.

ATTEMPTED TO WRECK TRAINS IN THE RUHR

PARIS, April 17.—(United Press.)—Attempts were made to-day to wreck trains carrying French and Belgian Cabinet members into the Ruhr district to supervise the enforcement of more drastic methods by the armies of occupation.

A train supposed to have been carrying French officials into the occupied area was bombed, and the tender derailed. No one was injured.

COL. CURRIE SPOKE FOR FOUR HOURS

Premier Drury Insinuated That He Was Pursuing a Policy of Obstruction

TORONTO, April 17.—(Canadian Press). — Col. J. A. Currie, Conservative, who was the final speaker in the Legislature this morning, started about midnight and spoke for four hours. He threatened at one time to talk until nine o'clock, apparently pursuing a policy of obstruction. Premier Drury exclaimed, "If these are the tactics to be followed, we can only meet force with force."

Later, Hon. J. Howard Ferguson denied that there was any intention on his part to obstruct, but stated that if the members desired to speak of matters affecting their constituencies they had a perfect right to do so.

Col. Currie's speech was a strong criticism of the Government's electorate reform programme, particularly proportional representation and the proposal to give to the Redistribution Committee a decision as to where proportional representation would be tried out.

The Premier took the position that Col. Currie should have reserved his remarks regarding proportional redistribution until that particular bill was before the House, but the speaker ruled that Col. Currie was in order.

PRIZES FOR REUNION.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., April 17.—(United Press).—A prize of one quart of the "real goods," bottled in bond and aged in the wood, awaits the handsomest male graduate of the class of 1913 who attends the class reunion at Colorado College, here, in June.

This prize is held out by T. L. Lynch, of Pottsburgh, Pa., president of the class, who believes the offer should result in the largest reunion the class has ever seen. Lynch recently notified his class-mates of the exceptional trophy and this city is preparing for an overflow meeting.

There's a $100 Liberty bond, also offered by Lynch, to go to the member of the 1913 class who has the largest family of any of the alumni who attend. In case of a tie, the prize will be split between the high men.

Lynch is offering the $100 "as an ardent supporter of the institution of marriage," he explains in his letter.

Among other inducements to bring the alumni from all parts of the country to the class reunion, is a mammoth cake, to be given the most corpulent old grad attending.

Plans are under way by other '13 men to add to the list of prizes, believing this the most effective way to bring out a record attendance.

SMALLER WHEELS AND LARGER TIRES APPEAR

Smaller wheels fitted with correspondingly larger cross-sectioned tires, appear to be a very definite possibility of the near future. During the last week or two at least two tire manufacturers have announced the development of 4½-inch tires on rims of a 20-inch diameter, and of correspondingly increased sectional sizes on 30, 32 and 34-inch tire diameters, in fulfilment of the claim that such a tire is more satisfactory both in service and economy, and experimental work in the form of the use of these tires on taxi fleets has been carried out.

The trend toward a smaller diameter and a larger tire has been steadily pursued for a number of years, and this latest development is merely a logical succeeding step. The old 36 and 38inch diameter rims long ago gave place to the present 30 to 35-inch forms generally used, and in the last two years a number of manufacturers of comparatively heavy cars have "stepped down" the overall diameter in order that the larger oversize tire could be used. Quite weighty vehicles now operate on 32x5-inch tires, where a few years ago the size used was 34x5 or 35x5.

Can't Charge Property For Cost of Regrading

Who will pay for the regrading of Hunter Street between Sheridan and Queen Streets? City Clerk Armstrong told the Board of Works last night that if the Council went ahead with the building of a new approach to the bridge someone would have to pay for it, and apparently the new pavement in that stretch could not be charged against the property for the reason that the present pavement is not worn out or in disrepair.

The property bears charges for the pavement as it is now laid to Sheridan Street, and could not be assessed for new pavement as well as the old. It would probably have to be built as a local improvement, and the cost be levied against the community.

FIVE GRAND TRUNK CARS ARE DERAILED

But Equipment Remained Upright and No Passengers Seriously Injured.

MONTREAL, April 17.—(Canadian Press.)—Official report of the train wreck at Shantz, Ont., issued by Canadian National Railway officials this morning follows: Train number 37, Toronto to Goderich, at 8 p.m. last night, at a point 3 miles east of Breslau, Ont., had the baggage car and four coaches derailed. The equipment remained upright and three passengers who suffered slightly from shock, continued their journey.

The Kitchener Version.

KITCHENER, April 17.—(Canadian Press.)—The Grand Trunk express from Toronto, due in Kitchener at 8.11 p. m., was wrecked at Shantz station, two miles east of Breslau, last night. According to meagre information received here this morning, every car and the tender left the tracks and the wreckage of cars, rails and ties is piled on each side. No one is reported killed, but it is believed that nine or ten have been seriously injured.

CONFERENCE AT PARIS IS STILL DEADLOCKED

PARIS, April 17. — (Canadian Press)—Demand by the United States for absolute priority on German reparations to pay costs of the United States army of occupation on the Rhine was continuous to-day to deadlock conference here over this question, it was stated in well-informed quarters.

Allied delegate assert that if absolute priority were given the United States, the first effect would be to block German shipments of coal to Italy and also to force the British Government to pay costs of its army on the Rhine or else withdraw it.

SPEECH BY GERMAN MINISTER PROMISING

LONDON, April 17, United Press. —On the heels of the announcement of a Franco-Belgian determination to push through to the end the Ruhr venture, German Foreign Minister Rosenberg's speech in the Reichstag revived to-day talk of an impending agreement between the disputants.

Little hope was seen by the press of Europe, however, of immediate settlement of the reparations dispute —too great a divergence remaining between the German offer to pay 30 billion marks and the reiterated French demand for no less than 50 billions.

Canadian Stock Exchange And Mines — New York Stock Exchange And Curb Prices.

To-Day's Quotations and Opinions and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, April 17. — (Special.)—The idea that there might be dividend developments in U. S. Steel was brought to the rescue of the stock market to-day. The dullness of the past few days was relieved when stock generally tending upward. Speculative attention at the opening of the stock market was focused on Judge Gary's statement at the annual meeting of U. S. Steel that the Corporation had added at least a billion dollar issue to its value since its organization. This news was not received until after Monday's close.

Wall Street interpreted Gary's declaration that sooner or later the stockholders would get the benefit of this increased valuation to mean extra dividends before the end of 1923.

Steel with $325,000,000 cash and securities on hand has millions more than it needs even when doing a record business.

To pay $5 extra on common would require about twenty-five millions.

The surplus after dividends in the first half of the year may run close to that figure.

This outlook stimulated that whole industrial list in the early dealings. Steel common moved up 3-4 to 106 7-8 and proportionate gains were secured by other speculative leaders.

Strength in the general list in the first hour brought belief that the market was in splendid technical condition and only needed some fresh news of a constructive character to furnish the incentive for higher prices.

This impulse was afforded in Judge Gary's remarks to steel stock holders and better selling levels resulted all through the market before 11 a.m.

General Motors and Dupont advanced into new high ground for the year and new highs on the recovery were reached by California Petroleum, Cons. Gas, American Can and other active stocks. National Biscuit continued steady at close to the best 1923 price. Biscuit's earning in the first quarter showed a substantial improvement over the same period in 1922 and the second three months should make even a better showing.

HEAVY CURRENT USED WHEN ENGINE IS COLD

Notwithstanding the fact that the motorist is being cautioned constantly concerning the use of his storage battey, there are many who disregard this important part of the car's anatomy. The old measures so constantly harped on, about adding water at regular periods and taking a hydrometer reading before adding water, are familiar to most owners, but here are a few suggestions which, if observed, will increase the life of the battery considerably and give it an added kick when it is called upon some time for strenuous service.

After the engine has been in an idle condition for a long while, make it a policy to turn the engine over by hand with the crank. The ignition need not be turned on, for it is not intended to relieve the starting motor of its work. The purpose of this is to break the engine loose from its bearings and to work a film of oil in between the bearing surfaces, so as to make starting an easier task for the battery.

During the period of starting the battery is called upon to deliver a power output equivalent to that consumed by six electric flatirons, or about 1,110 Mazda lamps of 32 watt size. Expressed in horse power, this means that the battery is doing work at the rate of 4.1 horsepower per hour. This, of course, cannot be continued for any length of time, for the discharge rate is extremely rapid.

Every little aid that one can give the battery, therefore, is rewarded in longer life. Besides breaking the engine loose from the heavy film of oil by hand it is well to depress the clutch pedal while the battery is turning the engine over. This saves it from extra work, imposed by turning the clutch and the neutral shaft in the transmission. It saves quite a little energy, as a test by hand will prove.

STRUCK ON THE HEAD BY PULLEY AND DIES

SARNIA, April 17. — (Canadian Press).—John A. Ford, aged 21, residing on Lot 4, Con. 4, Enniskillen Township, was fatally injured last night when he was struck on the head by a pulley which became detached from a derrick while he was engaged in raising an oil pump. He died within an hour after receiving the injury.

BRAKE OR BREAK QUESTION OF CARE

Pointers for Car Owners to Read and to be Heeded.

Use very little gasoline when pouring the cylinders to assist in starting a balky engine. It cuts the lubricating oil on the cylinder walls, removing it from a place where it is necessary. It takes considerable time to replace this film of oil.

Can you get out of car tracks without skidding? It will be found to be easy enough if you start to turn the other way, until your front wheels are clear, and then turn in the desired direction. This brings your rear wheels across the tracks at the proper angle, so that they will pass safely.

Will your brakes hold?
When the traffic officer suddenly signals you to stop—
When people dart through traffic and suddenly stop in front of you—
When a boy on a bicycle falls off just ahead of you—
When the green driver in the car ahead suddenly makes a left-hand turn—
When the road dips down sharply ahead of you—
When the unexpected car shoots out of a side road just in front of you—
When your steering gear fails—
Will your brakes hold?

THOUSANDS SIGNS ERECTED IN YEAR

Mileage and Name Posts Will be Placed During This Summer.

The fact that Ontario's roads are so well sign-posted is almost solely due to the work of motor organizations. Upwards of ten thousand new signboards were erected by the Ontario Motor League throughout the Province in 1922. The league's road-sign car covered all the main roads of the Province, and a large proportion of the secondary roads. A great deal of similar work was also done by the affiliated clubs.

During the coming season it is the intention of the league to pay special attention to the placing of mileage signs and signs indicating the names of towns and villages, so that authentic information may be obtained by the traveller even in comparatively strange territory. At present the tourist depends to a great extent on large-scale maps and haphazard information proffered by farmers or other road users to locate his approximate distance from a centre. In nine cases out of ten the information is far from being correct, and the intention to proceed with the erection of mileage signs has been decided upon to remedy this condition. The prime reason is that feeling of satisfaction that such knowledge imparts to the motorist on a long journey.

DOUBLED EXPORT PASSENGER AUTOS

Motor Car Industry in Canada Has Wide Market.

Passenger automobiles manufactured in Canada were exported to 39 different countries in February. Of a total of 5,668, valued at $2,964,345, 2,128 went to the United Kingdom, and 1,504 to Australia. New Zealand, British South Africa, British India and the Argentine Republic were the next largest customers. Passenger automobiles exported in February, a year ago, number 2,719, value $1,539,936.

Exports of freight automobiles in February also showed a similar increase over February last year. Of a total of 438, value $152,587, Australia took 270. British India, Ceylon and New Zealand took the majority of the remainder.

Automobile parts exported in February were valued at $196,168, compared with $105,913 in the previous February. In addition to the United Kingdom and the other Dominions, Spain, Brazil, Argentina, Denmark and the Dutch East Indies were the larger customers.

City League will have teams in four series -- Other Sport News

MENNEN SHAVING CREAM
FOR A QUICK PERFECT SHAVE

BIG BASEBALL SEASON IS ASSURED FOR THE PETERBORO PLAYERS

Possible Outside League in the Intermediate Series With Four-Team Leagues in the Juniors, Juveniles and Bantams.

MEETING LAST NIGHT

Peterboro is assured of baseball in the intermediate, junior, juvenile and bantam series as the result of action taken at last night's meeting of the city league. The meeting was the best attended baseball meeting this year with representatives present from practically all teams and leagues in the city.

The strength of the C.G.E. team has proven a stumbling block to the organization of an intermediate series because other organizations in the city have not felt that they could enter a team that would have even a fighting chance against the Ontario champions. The C.G.E. however, must, if they are to defend their title with any hope of success, be entered in a league of sufficient strength to give them some competition, in order that the members of the team may get a chance of playing together for some few days before they are called upon to take on the winners of an outside league. Efforts were made to get three or failing that, two other intermediate teams in the city but only one organization could be found to foster such a team, and that one only to give the C.G.E. a chance to defend the title.

Intermediate League.

Letters to the Trent Valley and East Peterboro Leagues were not even accorded the courtesy of a reply and the next effort made was to form a new intermediate league with teams entered from Cobourg, Port Hope and Millbrook. This plan seemed the most feasable as both geographically and in the matter of the strength of the respective teams. The C.G.E. team would have considerable work cut out to win in such a league as all three of the proposed towns could put a strong intermediate team on the field. It was announced at the meeting last night that no definite reply had been received from any of these teams but word is expected either today or to-morrow. In the event of this league failing to materialize a three-team Intermediate city league will be formed. The entries in this case would probably be C.G.E., Raybestos and an all-star team picked from the players in the Mercantile League. This would give a smooth working league with all the teams inside the city.

Junior League.

In the junior series four teams are assured. The Adanacs and Lakeviews are the only last year's teams represented, the other two places on the league being filled by a team backed by the C.G.E. and Louis Yeote's Thistles. The latter team will be re-organized after having been dormant for a year and with a man behind it who has been willing to do everything to forward the interest of baseball in the city it should prove a strong contender for the city honors. The C.G.E. entry in the junior section is contingent upon the Intermediate team finding a berth but since a place for is is assured the junior entry is also certain.

Juvenile Teams.

Four entries were received for the Juvenile section. These included the Maple Leafs, Lock Works, Sacred Heart and an East City team. The Maple Leaf team won the O.B.A.A. midget championship last season but have had to step up from Midget to Juvenile this year. They played part of the season in the Juvenile series last season and showed that the company was not too fast for them. They are expected to be one of the strongest teams in this class. The Sacred Heart and Lock Works teams will have teams of considerable strength. These teams were entered in the junior race last year in spite of their youth but found that company just a shade to fast for them. Their strength will make this section a well balanced league. The East City team was represented by a promising bunch of youngsters and will be an unknown quality till they have played a few games. So far they have not obtained the services of an older man to coach them but two exceptionally good possibilities were suggested at the meeting and it is expected that one of these men will take hold of the team and give the East City youngsters an opportunity to liven things up in this league.

Midget Series.

No entries were made in the Midget series but Alex Kay in making a very encouraging report on the prospects for the Bantam section stated that he had been approached by numerous boys seeking a place in the bantams who were just over the age and should be placed in a Midget series. There seems to be plenty of material for such a section and an effort will be made to find four organizations ready to back the teams. If such organizations can be found this series will also be included in the city league schedule.

The Bantams.

The Bantam series is a new one in this city, but already has aroused considerable interest. It was stated last evening that already sixty-five boys have been signed for this league and they will be apportioned between four teams. Each team will be fostered by one of the men's clubs of the city. The Rotary, Kiwanis and Curlers have already signified their intentions of backing teams and the numerous applications have been made for permission to father the four team of the league. Mr. Kay said last evening that this teams would probably play under the Caledonians. Fifteen players will be assigned to each team and a fast well balanced league is assured.

This league will be so arranged that it will not in any way interfere with the School League. It is probable that the School League games will be completed before these are started.

Three cups have been awarded for competition in the various sections. The Gordon Cup is for the Junior city champions, the Warne Cup for the Juveniles and the Allen Cup for the Bantams.

Lakefield Curlers Had Excellent Ice

It sounds like a fairy tale but nevertheless it is quite true that on Saturday morning, April 14, two rinks of curlers played a friendly game on as keen ice as they have had this seasson. The result was a tie an an extra end was played which gave the victory to Skip Galvin-by one.

H. Bell	G. Preston
A. Wannamaker	E.A. Tanner
C. S. Tanner	R. J. Jory
E. J. Galvin	H. G. Fitzgerald

Some of the skaters took advantage of the good ice and had a little exercise. Though the ice was keen in the morning in the afternoon it was covered with water. A record, which does not come up to this year's, however, was in 1908 when the rink was re-opened for skating on April 3 and 4.

CLEVELAND, April 17 (Canadian Press). — Benny Leonard, the lightweight champion of the world, will engage in "no-decision" boxing contests in Chicago, Louisville, and Detroit, prior to meeting Mickey Walker, welterweight titleholder, and Lew Tendler, lightweight callenger, at New York, this summer, Leonard announced here yesterday.

WILL SISLER PLAY?

GEORGE SISLER CARRYING INJURED ARM IN SLING.

ST. LOUIS, April 17.—The biggest mystery in baseball to-day surrounds the case of George Sisler, the best first sacker in the universe.

Whether Sisler will start the season with the Browns, whether he will be in shape to return to his position in mid-season or whether he will never again slip on this mitt are questions worrying the St. Louis fans.

Sisler's case is interesting as well as mysterious. It will be remembered that he fell upon his right shoulder in fielding a wild throw at the fag end of last season.

The ligaments were torn and Sis was advised to rest for the remainder of the year. Against the advice of his physicians he played in the series with the Yankees that meant winning or losing the pennant for the Browns.

Took Costly Chance.

Adhering to one of the traditions of the game may cost the Browns the 1923 pennant, even worse, it may terminate the career of one of the greatest players in the history of the sport.

In baseball no other word carries the sting of "quitter." To be branded as yellow is baseball's greatest disgrace.

Unfortunately for George Sisler, he was injured on the very eve almost of the most important series of the year, a three-game session with the Yankees that really decided the pennant.

Sisler was in no shape to play against the Yankees. His physicians forbade his even donning a uniform. But Sisler, game to the core, thought only of what his fellow teammates as well as the other players in the league might say, Played on Nerve Alone.

The word "quitter" kept ringing in Sisler's ears. He played on nerve alone, simply because he didn't want the baseball world to comment on his failure to perform in the big event of the year.

Present indications are that the club and Sisler are to pay a heavy toll.

Several weeks ago rumors were heard that everything was not all right with Sisler. A serious case of influenza, contracted during the winter, developed into serious complications of the nose and sight.

Sisler did not go south. Nor will he join the team before it returns to St. Louis. His physicians admit that he has been having trouble with his eyes, and it is reported that he must undergo an operation on his nose.

But everything is clothed with the deepest secrecy. Aside from his physicians no one really knows his condition.

MOORE MAY MAKE GREAT SOUTHPAW

Connie Mack's Cast-Off May Be the Star of Ty Cobb's Outfit.

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 17. —Roy Moore, Tyger southpaw, has more stuff than any other left hander in the American League.

Moore was secured by Detroit last year from Connie Mack over the waiver route. For three years Mack carried Moore, hoping that some day he would arrive.

Despite his great amount of stuff, a wonderful fast ball and a sharp-breaking curve, Moore has never been able to make any progress because of lack of control.

No batsman in the American League is a better judge of pitching than Cobb. The Tyger leader admits that Moore's stuff always impressed him, that frankly he never cared much about hitting against the former Philadelphian.

Naturally when Mack asked for waivers on Moore there was no chance of getting him out of the league. Cobb claimed Moore for the waiver price.

This year Cobb has one of his assistants Fred Carisch, veteran big league catcher. Always a wise old head, Cobb turned over Moore to Carisch.

The moment Carisch saw Moore in action he changed his pitching style. Moore now looks like a different pitcher. Instead of a jerky delivery with a short stride, Moore is now using a long sweeping motion and a big stride.

In practice the change in style has worked wonders with Moores' control. If it stays with him in the regular games Moore is going to win a lot of ball games for Detroit.

Dame Rumor Says Jimmy Wilde is Done.

NEW YORK, April 17.—Rumors are travelling around Gotham with gale force to the effect that Jimmy Wilde is through as a flyweight, that he won't fight any more, and certainly couldn't make the flyweight limit. As for leaving dear old England, where the world's champion lives—that, say the rumors, is out of the question.

Just how Jimmy will reply to all these gossips remains a matter of speculation. Jack Sharkey, American bantam, gave impetus to the rumors when he returned from England and was quoted as saying that Wilde told his cat, and the cat told the dog next door, and the dog told a canary bird, and the canary bird told Sharkey that Jimmy's family doesn't want him to fight any more.

It's up to Jimmy now. Unless he can hurry up and defend his title, his right to it certainly will be discredited in American sporting circles.

PROPHETS LOOK FOR N.Y. TEAMS IN THE FINALS

Strong Pitching Staffs of Both Giants and Yankees Makes These Teams the Favorites.

START TO-DAY.

NEW YORK, April 17 (Canadian Press).—Baseball prophets, noted for their inability in October to remember what they predict in April, made their 1923 guesses yesterday, the eve of the major league season.

A concensus of the prophecies draws the New York Giants and the Yankees as world series opponents for the third time in as many seasons.

The Giants, opening to-day at Boston against the Braves, are chosen to lead the National League because of their extraordinary hitting power and a first-class pitching staff. Little is said of their defensive ability, although it is rated as the best in the League.

Jack Bentley, purchased from Baltimore, is expected to be a great aid for the mound staff, of which Art Nehf, the Barnes brothers, John Scott, McQuillan and Jonnard are the mainstays.

McGraw has not announced his pitching selection for the opening game, but it may be Nehf or Bentley.

The Cincinnati Reds, the Pittsburgh Pirates, and the St. Louis Cardinals are considered the Giants' most dangerous foes, while the Cubs may make trouble. The Brooklyn Robins, the Phillies, and the Braves are, generally, allotted positions in the wake of the race.

The Phillies will open the season at Brooklyn, the Cards at Cincinnati, and the Pirates at Chicago.

The Yankee pitching staff is regarded as the club's greatest asset. With Hoyt, Bush, Jones, Shawkey, Mays and Pennock, Manager Miller Huggins has the greatest abundance of twirling skill in either League. The leaders of the Yankee shock troop, Ruth, Meusel, Pipp, Diman, and Schang, are capable of carrying on a consistent and effective attack.

The attacking force of the Detroiters, the dope says, will carry them far, but their pitching corps doesn't rank as high as those of the White Sox, the Athletics or the Browns. With a more dependable hurling staff, Cobb would have an even chance the prophets think, of nosing out the Yanks.

Gleason's men, the Athletics and the Browns are given places below the Yanks and Detroit, the Browns mainly because of the absence from the line-up of George Sisler. If Sisler returns to the game during the month of the season, however, St. Louis is conceded a place with the Cobb men as the Yankees' closest rivals.

Cleveland, Washington, and the Red Sox are given second division classifications.

The American League season opens on Wednesday with the Red Sox aiding the Yankees in the opening of the new stadium in the Bronx; Washington at Philadelphia, Detroit at St. Louis, and Chicago at Cleveland.

Chinese firms are finding it cheaper and more efficient to hire trucks than to employ coolies. It is estimated that the cost of operating one truck is $31 a day, whereas it would require 60 coolies to do the same amount of work at a cost of approximately $48.

FARRELL PICKS THE YANKS AND TIGERS

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, April 17.—(United Press)—Picking the pennant winner in the American League pennant race would be difficult this year if the Tigers, Browns and White Sox could be erased with a deft stroke.

Dismissing those three clubs as obstacles in the way of the New York Yankees is a function for baseball, however, and not for experting.

As the pennant race in the National League assumes the advance proportions of a battle royal, so the fight for the championship in the American League offers an opportunity for a lot of prophets to die hard.

Assuming the risk of a hard death next October, the following is submitted for the earnest attention of everyone but the ball players, who have little faith in the opinion of press box managers:

NEW YORK YANKEES
DETROIT TIGERS
ST. LOUIS BROWNS
CHICAGO WHITE SOX
PHILADELPHIA ATHLETICS
CLEVELAND INDIANS
WASHINGTON SENATORS
BOSTON RED SOX

Figuring that Babe Ruth and Bob Meusel will be of vastly more assistance to the New York Yanks and assuming that George Sisler will not be a complete loss to the Browns the placing of the first division clubs is not so difficult with the reservation that they will be first division clubs, although they may not finish in the order named.

Coming to the placing of the second division clubs, it is a good problem for some of those experts who can read the future out of fish bowl.

The inducement of the $10,000 cut of the world's series money that was mentioned as being such a vital factor in the playing of the New York Giants in the other pennant race applies to the Yankees. The lure of the immense purse the athletes would get out of another private New York series ought to give the Yanks the seriousness, ambition and balance that they so sadly lacked in the past. Ruth and Meusel have given indications of a determination to play baseball this year and they are the greatest run-getting combination in baseball. The pitching staff could hadrly be recruited to greater strength and the club seems perfectly sound in everything but the morale and spirit department. If they have been mooned to the ground by the bitter dose of medicine they were forced to swallow last October in the world's series, they ought to win the pennant.

Two of the pitchers that Miller Huggins may have to keep idle on the season, would give the pennant to the Detroit Tigers. They may get in there anyway. The lack of pitching material is the chief difference between the Yanks and the Tigers and when one stops to figure that opposing pitchers will have to pitch daily to nine Tigers who hit .300 or better, it seems that pitching should not be such a vital factor for the Tigers. If it isn't, look out, Yanks!

Figuring that George Sisler will be of some service to the Browns, they are placed in third position. The degree to which he will be of service to the club is of utmost importance in figuring the club. If he plays half of the season, the Browns ought to be a first division club at least. If he plays less they may land in sixth place. Even with Sisler playing real Sisler ball all season, which is improbable, the Browns are no longer as strong as the improved Yanks and Tigers.

With some of the keenest playing brains in either league and with promising young players to work along side of the veterans, the White Sox seem certain of a place no lower than fourth. They may get higher if the Browns do not even. The Sox have a smart ball club and they have a mighty shrewd manager.

The unprofessional method of tossing a coin was used to place the Philadelphia Athletics in fifth place and the Cleveland Indians in sixth. Their positions at the finish of the race may be reversed. It has become a bromide to chronicle annually: "The Athletics have arrived." Old as it is, it may not be amiss to repeat the prediction this year. If the Athletics have not at last arrived, Tris Speaker may be pounding on the door of the first division. The success with new players makes the form of both clubs problematical.

Washington has been held down in the pennant race two years by the lack of a fighting heart and the Boston Red Sox will have that, if nothing else, under Frank Chance. If Clark Griffith let Donie Bush alone, he may put some spunk in the Senators and they may finish higher. If he fails, the Senators may fight if out with the Red Sox for the cellar.

Ruth Denies Charges of Delores Dixon.

NEW YORK, April 17 (Canadian Press). — George Herman (Babe) Ruth, stellar home run hitter of the New York Yankees, filed a formal answer yesterday to the $50,000 damage suit brought against him by Delores Dixon, in which she charged that Ruth was the father of her unborn child.

Ruth entered a general denial to each allegation in her complain.

Mercantile League To Meet To-Morrow.

An important meeting of the Mercantile League will be held in the Chamber of Commerce Rooms tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock.

As the final decision on many questions governing the conduct of the League will have to be made at this meeting, every team entering should have a representative present.

Among the matters to come up will be the question of whether or not players from outside the factories represented by the teams will be allowed to play. Whether or not the League will affiliate with the City League or not. And if it is advisable to allow two factories who have not sufficient men to form a team alone to combine and so place a team in the League.

There are many other questions to come up, all equally important, and all having a definite bearing on the conduct of the League.

The business heads of the factories entering teams are also requested to be present if possible.

NEED SPECIALISTS ROAD ENGINEERING

Comprehensive Training in Construction and Design is Necessary.

By A. W. CAMPBELL, M.E.I.C., Dominion Commissioner of Highways.

In the Dominion of Canada there are open for public travel 447,000 miles of roads. Under the Federal Aid Act, passed in 1919, there was appropriated the sum of $20,000,000 to aid to the extent of 40 per cent. of the cost of building an inter-provincial system of roads, connected so as to form a trunk system from coast to coast, and passing through all the industrial centrs of the country. These roads have been planned by the Provinces, and approved by the Dominion. The Federal aid system comprises 18,000 miles to be constructed at an estimated cost of $150,000,000. Portions of long continuous stretches of these roads cost as high as $72,000 per mile. There is no limit to the Federal contribution, beyond 40 per cent. of the "actual, necessary and reasonable" cost of an approved design.

The type of road to be constructed varies with local conditions, and the present and estimated extent of traffic. Gravel, water-bound macadam, surfaced with the various methods of bituminous treatment, sheet asphalt and cement concrete are the prevalent types in the east.

Small in Relation to Tots

This Federal aid program is looked upon as being quite large; but still it is but a small percentage of the total mileage, which in a very few years will demand similar high-class treatment; but to design a truly economic plan of development of the work now being undertaken in really a big problem. In fact, after a study of this problem for a quarter of a century, it is but common honesty to acknowledge the very great responsibility which is involved in making such huge expenditures, their designs, the selection of proper materials, and their construction, so as to serve economically the best interests of the people.

The question then arises: Have we exhausted the study of the different classes of materials, under varying conditions of climate, traffic and requirements for a reasonable future, so as to see that the gross necessary outlays will give profitable returns, such as would be looked for in the case of any commercial investment. Here, to my mind, is one phase of the problem that I think worthy of the special consideration of the student of highway economics. The great amount of speculation in cities and towns, and the large amount of inferior work, which has lasted only a few years, show that the problem has not been settled even in these centres; and experience of the older cities of Europe, their experiments with all kinds of material and types of construction, and the fabulous sums expended in this direction, together with the fact that they are still looking about for the ideal design, will indicate the magnitude of the subject and the very great importance of the thorough training of men to superintend this work.

Special Study Essential

In order that a trained man may be of the utmost service to his employers it is essential that he know how to do some one thing uncommonly well. I am, therefore, an advocate of a course of study that has been designed to consider and embrace all the functions in actual practice of the highway engineer. There is no doubt that the highway engineer is now expected to consider designs of construction upon suitable locations from broader considerations and aspects that did the railway engineer, for example. Practical economics enters in here.

Again, the highway engineer must be a student of the vehicle of today and its economic operation. He must consider the question of cost from the standpoint of the public that pays for highway construction as well as the public being directly served.

ATTEMPT TO MAKE NUMBERS LEGIBLE

Would Establish Standard of Illumination For Licenses at Night.

In the attempt to make auto licenses tags legible at night the American Bureau of Standards of the Department of Commerce is conducting a series of tests in co-operation with the Society of Illuminating Engineers. It is hoped it will make possible the establishment of a practical standard of illumination so that license tags may be readable at night as well as in the day time at a reasonable distance.

The tests are made by mounting the tag at a known distance, turning on the light, and seeing if the observer can read the number correctly. If he hesitates and corrects himself the tag is taken to be illegible under those conditions, as under normal road conditions there is no time for a close examination. A number of employees of the bureau are used as observers s as to get an approximately average result.

In the first test the tag is illuminated by lamps so arranged as to give the best possible readability. This establishes a standard. It is then possible to compare this ideal condition with the actual illumination given by any tag illuminator now on the market, to see how much they fall short, and to suggest ways in which they might be improved. The illumination given by many of the types now on the market is purely nominal. A spot of light is thrown on one corner of the sign and that is all.

The apparatus also permits of various angles between the surface of the tag and the light and the eye. The best angle at which to mount the tag therefore can be obtained.

A comparison is being made of the relative readability of different color combinations. It is well known that certain combinations are more easily read than others, and it is hoped as a result of these tests to give some definite data on this subject.

One curious result of these tests might be mentioned. As the numbers are raised and cast shadows it was expected that a white number on a dark background would be more readily seen than the opposite combination. Experiment showed, however, that the dark letter on white was much more easily read. This is probably because the larger expanse of light enables the eye to see more distinctly.

In certain special classes of cars letters are used on the tag in addition to the numbers. It has been found that only about four or five letters in the alphabet are suitable for this purpose, the rest all being mistaken for numbers. B, for example, is mistaken for 8; H for 11, C for 0, etc.

TWENTY MURDERS EVERY DAY IN THE STATES.

CHICAGO, April 17. — (United Press).—"Twenty people are murdered every day on an average in the United States and one out of every 12,000 people commits a murder each year."

This was the statement of Prof. A. N. Farmers, noted educator.

"Murder exacts a toll of 7,300 lives a year in this country," said Farmer who based his statement on Government criminal statistics. "Moonshine brawls, holdup shootings, love triangles, poisonings, labor feuds and sex crimes are responsible for most of the murders. While the greatest percentage of murders are committed in the big cities, the rural districts contribute an appalling number of ghastly crimes to the total.

"Ninety per cent. of the murders are committed with revolvers or pistols. The easy purchase of small firearms is responsible for this situation. Eight out of ten murders are committed by men and women who were neglected or exploited in their childhood."

THEATRES

AT THE REGENT. "FOUR HORSEMEN" IS SUPREME AS FILM

An epic tale of surging passion sweeping from the wide plains of the Argentine through the fascinating frivolities of pre-war Paris into the blazing turmoil of the German invasion of Northern France was unfolded last night at the Regent Theatre. It was the first showing of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," the $1,000,000 Rex Ingram production made for Metro, which has been the screen sensation of New York, Chicago, Boston, Pittsburgh, Detroit and Los Angeles. The picture, adapted by June Mathis from the great novel of Vicente Blasco Ibanez, has intensified the dramatic force of the original story and last night it held the spectators breathlessly intent as with swift, sure strokes it hammered home the terror and grandeur of the war—and a great deal of humor and light-hearted gaiety that kept bubbling up through the turgid stream of struggling humanity when the world was in arms.

The director, Rex Ingram, has succeeded in concentrating the great struggle in a series of unforgettable pictures that flash out the quintessence of life at white heat. "The Four Horsemen" is the fulfillment of the promise of a noble art in pictures.

Capitol Entertainment

The advent of Pola Negri in her first American picture, "Bella Donna," brings to Peterboro audiences a new and extremely interesting 'movie' star. It is doubtful if any of the numerous 'vamps shown heretofore in pictures could equal this temperamental lady, with her dramatic ability, her dead black hair and white face, her wonderful, trailing gowns. She is "Bella Donna" indeed, in the dual meaning of the phrase, the "beautiful woman" and also the poisonous plant, the deadly nightshade of the same name. It is a picture that holds the attention with it artistry, both in acting and in amosphere. Venice, with its waterways, its masked carnival, its romantic loveliness, Cairo, with its narrow street its slow, maddening music and its hasheesh dens, the Egyptian desert, with glimpses of the pyramids and of temples of the dead, with palm trees and camel trains, with one scene devoted to the simoon the deadly sand-storm of the desert, and another showing the stately progress of a pleasure-boat down the ancient Nile, all form a background for the love and intrigues of a woman with a beautiful body and a crooked soul, working out her final terrible fate through scenes of evil passion. Her fate "hangs about her neck," and she works out the destiny foretold by the sand diviner, through scenes where she strives to poison her English husband, so that she may turn to the Egyptian prince, Baroudi, through the last mad revelation, to a doom that forms a logical ending to such a career, and points a moral for the reckless soul. From a honeymoon in Venice shattered by a tragedy, the woman progresses, luring a second husband Nigel Armine, whom she forsakes later for the cruel Egyptian who punishes her. There is wonderful acting in the portrayal by this Polish actress of the ineffectual struggle of such a woman against evil impulse which have grown to tyrant proportions through long nourishing. There is nothing pleasing in the actual story of "Bella Donna", but there is interest to a high degree, and romance and passion, against the hot sands of the desert and the moonlit waters of Venetian canals. It is an extraordinary, gripping picture, centering around the evil, passionate woman.

The irrepressible pair of cheerful idiots, Percy and Perdie, have a comedy in their best vein in "Still Going Strong", with plenty of action from the moment they eat the soap sandwich to their capers in entertaining the idle rich.

The Miller trio, a couple of black face artists and a yellow-haired feminine companion, do some harmony singing and eccentric dacning, in which the men have some clever foot work.

New Moon Worse Than Old One

Misplaced Trust in Assurances of the Weather Prophets Depresses Hopes of Spring.

The weather might be less disconiforting if it weren't for the weather prophets. Just as we are becoming resigned to the strong admixture of winter half way through Spring, and had abandoned the hope of ever finding this year a dog's tooth violet or even the hardier hepatica those wiseacres who follow the moon told us a week ago that a change was due on Sunday. The new moon was then due and it was expected to unload a lot of sunshine, cerulean skies, and all the fragrance and music of Spring, with the result that flagging patience found a new stimulation in the predictions that were accepted as promises. But Sunday's snow and Monday's chill, and Tuesday's snow and goodness knows what Wednesday will bring forth, have left the yearning populace deeper in disappointment than before. Willing to trust anybody except W.P., the official weather prophet, who gets the blame for the confusion in the weather, they leaned upon the assurances of the amateurs only to find there was no truth in them. Sunday's chorus of low groans was the dirge of the departing spirit of Spring from the hearts of those who had Easter finery hanging in their ward robe instead of splashing the scenery with bright colors. However, the rumour that the Orangemen were buying snowshoes for the twelfth is officially denied.

The PRIDE of PALOMAR

By Peter B. Kyne

"That doesn't look like a bullet wound," he declared, after an examination of the rent in Don Mike's scalp. "Resembles the wound made by what reporters always refer to as 'some blunt instrument.' The scalp is split but the flesh around the wound is swollen as from a blow. You have a nice lump on your head, Farrel."

"Aches terribly," Don Mike murmured. "I had dismounted to tighten my cinch; going down hill the saddle had slid up on my horse's withers. I was tucking in the latigo. When I woke up I was lying on my face, wedged tightly in that little dry ditch; I was ill and dazed and too weak to pull myself out; I was lying with my head down hill and I suppose I lost consciousness again, after awhile. Pablo!"

"Si, senor."

"You caught the man who shot me. What did you do with him?"

"Oh, those fellow plenty good and dead, Don Miguel."

"He dragged the body home at the end of his rope," Parker explained. "He thought you had been done for and he must have gone war mad. I covered the body of the Jap with straw from that stack out by the barn."

"Jap, eh?" Don Mike smiled. Then, after a long silence, "I suppose, Mr. Parker, you understand now—"

"Yes, yes, Farrel. Please do not rub it in."

"Okada wants the San Gregorio rather badly, doesn't he? Couldn't wait. The enactment of that anti-alien land bill that will come up in the legislature next year—do Mrs. Parker and your daughter know about this attempt to assassinate me?"

"No."

"They must not know. Plant that Jap somewhere and do it quickly. Confound you, Pablo, you should have known better than to drag your kill home, like an old she-cat bringing in a gopher. As for my head—well, I was thrown from my horse and struck on a sharp rock. The ladies would be frightened and worried if they thought somebody was gunning for me. When Bill Conway shows up with your spark plugs I'd be obliged, Mr. Parker, if you'd run me in to El Toro. I'll have to have my head tailored a trifle, I think."

With a weak wave of his hand he dismissed everybody, so. Parker and Pablo adjourned to the stables to talk over the events of the morning. Standing patiently at the corral gate they found the gray horse, waiting to be unsaddled—a favor which Pablo proceeded at once to extend.

"Mira!" he called suddenly and directed Parker's attention to the pommel of Don Mike's fancy saddle. The rawhide covering on the shank of the pommel had been torn and scored and the steel beneath lay exposed. "You see?" Pablo queried. "You understan', senor?"

"No, I must confess I do not, Pablo."

"Don Miguel is standing beside these horse. He makes tighter the saddle; he is tying loose latigo and he have the head bent feetle bit while he pull those latigo through the ring. Bang! Those Jap shoot at Don Miguel. He miss, but the bullet she hit thees pommel, she go flat against the steel, she bounce off and hit Don Miguel on top the head. The force for keel heem is use' up when the bullet hit thees pommel, but sti. those bullet got plenty force for knock Don Miguel seetly, no?"

"Spent ball, eh? I think you're right, Pablo."

Pablo relapsed into one of his infrequent Gringo solecisms. "You bet you my life you know eet," he said.

John Parker took a hundred dollar bil from his pocket. "Pablo," he said with genuine feeling, "you're a splendid fellow. I know you don't like me, but perhaps that is because you do not know me very well. Don Miguel knows I had nothing to do with this attempt to kill him, and if Don Migue, bears me no ill-will, I'm sure you should not. I wish you would accept this hundred dolar bid, Pablo?"

Pablo eyed the bill askance. "What for?" he demanded.

"For the way you handled that murdering Jap. Pablo, that was a bully job of work. Please accept this bil. If I didn't like you I would not offer it to you."

"Well, I guess Carolina mejbeso she can use eet. But first I ask Don Miguel if eet is all right for me take eet." He departed for the house to return presently with an anticipatory smile on his dusky countenance. "Don Miguel say to me, senor: 'Pablo, any people she's stay my house he's do what she please.' Gracias, Senor Parker." And he pouched the bill. "Mille gracias, senor."

"Pray, do not mention it, Pablo."

"All right," Pablo agreed. "Eef you don't like eet, well, I don' tell somebody."

HE CAME OUT AN INVALID

Jerome K. Jerome, in "Three Men in a Boat," tells the experience of a man who went into the British Museum to look up the meaning in an encyclopaedia of some obscure disease. He became interested in diseases, and went through the whole list, with the result, as he said, that he discovered he had been suffering with many things for a long space of time. As he said, "I went in there a well and happy man, I came out an invalid, dragging one foot behind me." The only disease he had escaped was "housemaid's knee." That was the result of imagination.

It is not imagination, however, that chains many of the youth of the country to sick beds, that strikes them down in early manhood and womanhood, and makes them victims of the dread "t. b.", the disease that dries up the life current, saps the strength and de-vitalises the body, dragging along through long years of semi-existence to a final, racked end.

A recent bulletin issued by The Canadian Tuberculosis Association, gives an idea of the fatally short time in which this almost ineradicable disease may be contracted, in some cases, as in children, after a period of only thirteen days. In the year 1921, the Toronto death-rate from tuberculosis per 100,000 inhabitants, was found to be 56.3 in pulmonary cases, and 8.7 in other forms. In comparison with American cities, such as New York, English centres of population, such as London and Birmingham, Scottish, Belgian, German, Swedish, Italian, Austrian, French, and Hungarian, Toronto's death-rate was the lowest, the highest being that of Budapest, 318 pulmonary, and 57 in other forms of tuberculosis. Toronto has a splendidly-organised health association, with 112 public health nurses and doctors. Work among the tubercular is systematised down to the last minute detail.

In Peterborough, also, the work of the Peterborough Health Association includes the employment of a district nurse, much of whose time is given over to tubercular work.

The little lads and lasses who throng each year to the Summer Camp at Jackson Park doubtless number among them many incipient cases of tubercular trouble, in one form or another, checked and possibly absolutely cured by the fresh air and nourishment provided there, and the work carried on by the Crippled Children's Committee, assisted by the Rotary Club, has much to do with tubecular bones and tubercular infections in small bodies and limbs. In one way or another, the work of the Association might be described as centring about a persistent and unremitting fight against the inroads made in the life of the community by the "great white plague." Their skill in combating the disease, and what is probably more important, in preventing the spread of infection, may have been the means of saving from its clutches many a potential victim of tubercular disease.

Help to save other people's children and your own from a disease that strikes where it listeth," and has no guarantee of immunity attached to its advances, by attending the Motor Show this week, the institution that helps to swell the funds of the Peterborough Health Association.

PETERBOROUGH'S BEAUTY IS THE ATTRACTION

The beauty of Peterborough as a city is the attraction that is bringing G. T. R. officials, to the number of nearly a hundred, to the meeting here to-morrow. This is the first occasion on which the regular monthly meeting of the officials of the Eastern lines has been held outside Montreal, and Peterborough was chosen by the general superintendent, W. R. Davidson, because of the impression the city made on him on a previous visit. He was greatly impressed, he said, by the beauty of the place, and considers it the "nicest little spot" he has seen.

The programme consists of a business session in the forenoon, a luncheon in the Empress Hotel at noon, and sight-seeing in the afternoon. It is proposed that representative business men of the city and others with cars arrange to take the officials on a tour of the city. These men come from all over the Province of Ontario and all parts of Eastern Canada and from the United States. Courtesy demands that their visit be made enjoyable and the interests of the manufacturers and merchants will be served by the publicity given by a tour of their plants. Coinciding with the Motor Show, there should be a splendid opportunity to show the beauties of the city and its advantages after the luncheon, which will probably end between 3 and 3 p.m. It is expected that most of the visitors will take in the Motor Show during their stay.

SEVERAL TRESPASSERS ARE FINED IN COURT

In police court this morning several trespassers who made themselves objectionable on the C.P.R. platform on Sunday afternoons were fined $2 and costs amounting in all to $5.70 each. All loiterers will be dealt with similarly in future.

A youth charged with damaging a truck at the C.P.R. paid a fine and costs amounting to $5.70.

A boy of 17 was charged with stealing hat, vest and coat was remanded on consent for two weeks in charge of Rotary, who will see what can be done to help him walk a straight path.

A man who allowed a ferocious dog to run at large was fined $5.70 including costs. This dog bit a little girl, but the animal had been destroyed before its owner appeared in court. Chief Newhall warns all owners of dogs that they must be kept under control.

CHARGED WITH SETTING EAST AGAINST WEST

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., April 17.—(Canadian Press.) — The charge against the Canadian Pacific Railway of fostering sectional feeling, setting the east against the west and undermining the unity of the nation was made here last night by Premier John Oliver of British Columbia, in speaking on equalization of freight rates. He concluded his attack on Hon. Frank Carvell, chairman of the Railway Commission, again calling for his resignation. "The Railway Commission was "the tool of the Railway Corporations," Premier Oliver charged, and had forfeited the confidence of the people.
